18,000 HERE LOSE LIBERTY BONDS BY FAILURE TO PAY

Errand Boy Paid $4, but in Selling Bond Received Only $1 Because of Drop in Price.

$1,000,000 WORTH SOLD TO ONE FIRM

Banks Are Not Affected by Delinquency of St. Louisans Who Purchased Wartime Securities.

Eighteen thousand of the 150,000 persons in St. Louis who subscribed through banks for Liberty Bonds on the weekly payment plan have failed to keep up their payments, and have lost their bonds.

H. E. Wright, president of the Liberty Loan Association, 823 Locust street, which represents all the banks, and is the medium through which they deal with the purchasers in peace time, pointed out yesterday how the banks do not lose anything by the delinquency of purchasers.

Attention had been called to the case of a 15-year-old errand boy, who made an initial payment of $4 on a $50 bond, and was unable to continue the payments. He went to the association office to get his money back, and received only $1. Wright explained that this was because the market price on Fourth Loan bonds was about $47, and the boy had to accept the $3 loss.

The same course is being followed in all instances where subscribers surrender their bonds, Wright said, although, as the daily quotations show, the market has been from 5 to 15 cents above $47 for several months. On Sept. 19, the day the boy surrendered his bond, they were quoted at $47.15. The banks keep this margin.

On Wright's desk was pasted a newspaper clipping quoting the bonds at $47. He admitted that this clipping was several months old. It was somewhat faded with age.

When the number of delinquents was calculated, some time ago, the number was placed at 20,000, and the $1,000,000 of bonds being held for them were sold to Smith, Moore & Co., a stock and bond concern. J. Herndon Smith, president of the company, was president of the Liberty Loan Association, which sold his firm the bonds. They were later sold on the New York market, Wright said.

Subsequent inquiry showed that only 18,000 had given up their bonds, and the banks had to make arrangements for producing their bonds, which they got from sources at their command.

The banks keep the bonds until they are completely paid for, and if a year elapses before payments are complete, the banks clip the interest coupons.

UNDERTAKER SUED BECAUSE MAN FAILED TO SEE FATHER BURIED

Plaintiff Alleges Defendant Contracted to Take Him and Relatives to Cemetery, But Stopped on Way.

A suit was filed yesterday by E. J. Morganthaler of 6700 Glade avenue, against the George Kriegshauser Undertaking & Livery Co. for $5000 damages because of the alleged failure of the defendant to convey him and relatives to the burial of his father, Christ J. Morganthaler, in Calvary Cemetery April 14.

The plaintiff says the defendant contracted to take him and his party to the cemetery in an automobile, but on the way, between McCausland and Forest avenues, on Mitchell street, the chauffeur stopped the machine and refused to continue the trip. No street car line was near and Morganthaler was unable to reach the cemetery in time to see his father buried, thereby causing him anguish of mind, he alleges.

ERASTUS WELLS' 7-CENT BUSSES CAUSED RAILWAY COMPETITION

Today Plans Are Made to Operate Busses to Compete With 7-Cent Fare Granted to Son as Receiver.

How events have worked in circles in the St. Louis street car situation is being commented on by long-time residents of St. Louis, who recall that Erastus Wells gave the city its first transportation facilities by running a line of busses, first on Olive street and then on other streets. His initial fare charge was 7 cents. To compete with him other capitalists built street railway lines and operated them at a 5-cent fare.

Now Rolla Wells, son of Erastus Wells, after a lapse of more than 40 years, is receiver for the United Railways Co., and is charging his father's original 7-cent fare rate while preparations are being made to operate bus lines to compete with him.

Mississippi Valley Will Succeed in Building Great Export Trade by Co-Ordination, University Head Says

Declares Association Must Plan Production and Manufacture to Fit Needs if Aim Is to Be Achieved.

Neither "pep" nor boost, nor 53 per cent of the voting power in Congress will give the Mississipi Valley Association success in its purpose to raise the valley to domination of American commerce.

Yet the Mississippi Valley Association will achieve its purpose, because it has chosen for its cornerstone a more substantial essential of success.

THESE are the views of David Kinley, acting president of the University of Illinois, for 26 years dean of its graduate college and its ranking professor in economics.

The association will succeed, Dean Kinley believes, because its cornerstone is the co-ordination of production, manufacture and the will of the people of the valley.

The association has entrusted to Dean Kinley guidance in that respect. He has been named chairman of a committee to define an economic policy for the valley through the association. He attended the organization meetings in New Orleans and Chicago and last week came to St. Louis for this city's zone meeting. During his stay he expressed to the Post-Dispatch reporter some of the beliefs he has formed in the early stages of his study for an economic platform.

"This Valley movement must not be permitted to be one of sentiment alone," he said. "It must be an economic movement presenting a co-ordinated system of development of agriculture, manufacture, banking, shipping and foreign trade. We cannot build up a great export trade—and that is the pressing, important goal lighted ahead for the Valley at this minute—by the promotion of one line of activity. We cannot center our endeavor on waterways alone, for if we build ships, we must have things to send in the ships. If we are to have the things to send, we must have manufactures with a large population. If we have a large population, we must have production to sustain it. Each stone of this empire we are setting out to build rests squarely on some other stone. For this reason, the association must emphasize its cardinal principal of co-ordination.

"In turn, transportation, manufacturing and the other elements, each represent co-ordination within themselves. We cannot develop waterways alone for transportation. Our railways must develop across country as feeders. Good roads must run to the river bank as other feeders.

No Vital Antagonism.

"There has been no vital antagonism to waterways in the past. Our transportation simply has followed the lines of least resistance. Our waterways movement is not one of 'pep,' it is one of costs. We cannot divert a route of transportation unless the new route is cheaper. That is fundamental. My personal belief is that the waterways offer to the Mississippi Valley dominance of the trade of South America as far down the east coast as Rio and the entire length of the west coast. I look to see the day when barges will start at Minneapolis, sail the river and pass on their way to the Panama Canal. The river leads us to South America. Its opportunity lies in the development of new trade.

"Now as to our procedure to that conquest. We cannot be Yankees. We cannot expect the gain to be all ours. We cannot hope to sell unless we buy. We must expect to bring as much from South America as we send there. We must bring raw products, the minerals of the Andes, the hides of the Argentine. We must bring them to our factories, convert them to the finished thousand and one articles that can be wrought from them and then ship them back. Therein lies our commercial supremacy.

"The Mississippi Valley can become the shop center for virtually the entire continent of South America. This only serves to emphasize the broad principle I lay down for the beginning. We cannot open our water route to South America alone. We must build our manufactures so that we can utilize that route to its full possibilities.

No Need of Foreign Investment.

"There is need of American investment in South America. Unless our banks are willing to give of their money almost unlimitedly, there will be little use for our waterways or the manufactures that are to fill the boats that ply them.

"Let me illustrate. Brazil desires a railroad. She seeks money in foreign markets. The nation that supplies that money is the nation that furnishes the materials that build the road. A foreign loan seldom means the shipment of gold. It seldom means more than the transfering of credits on the bank's books.

"It was only recently that a Government official did come to the United States seeking money. A personal friendship led him to Chicago. He wanted $6,000,000. The head of the Chicago bank to whom he applied threw up his hands. "We will have to go to New York for that," he exclaimed.

"The South American official went to New York and obtained his $6,000,000. The entire amount was spent with New York exporters for the materials the South American Government needed.

"It could as well have been spent in the Mississippi Valley. We need banking organization to give the foreign assistance to our South American territory, which is not financial assistance at all, simply a lining of our pockets with interest and profits on money spent with our own people.

"We cannot spring at this goal of supremacy and seize it simply by our will to do. We must plan. We must determine the needs of production, so that we may have a sufficient surplus of the things demanded of us. I have sought to find a list of manufacturers in the valley and their capacity to produce. Even that prime essential is lacking. One of the first things the Mississippi Valley Association is undertaking is the preparation of such a list, so that we first of all know how much we must grow. Then we may more intelligently proceed to equip ourselves for the production demands upon us.

Careful Planning Necessary.

"Lack of information on what our foreign markets want of us is also a handicap, and is particularly true of farmers. Just now I hear it said that farmers will raise less of wheat in the valley next year. Their reason is that wheat does not profit them as greatly as other products. No reckoning is taken of what demands will be made upon us from beyond our shores.

"The penalty of that lack of knowledge is particularly discernible in the case of cotton. It gives to Liverpool absolute dominance of the price of cotton. Liverpool is a monopoly market. If the export demands for cotton were determined in advance and the planters informed as to just what the consumption likely would be for next year, they could govern their planting accordingly. They would assume some of the control over their products that Liverpool now has. Competitive markets would result and when competitive markets are established the grower has more to say in what the price shall be. We take what Liverpool offers now.

Sad Coment on America.

"It is a sad comment upon us that the only international agricultural institute in the world, organized to determine for the farmer the world demands of a year hence, is operated by an American in Rome. David Lubin could not give America the benefit of his valuable establishment. America would not open its arms to him. Victor Emanuel of Italy did.

"The Mississippi Valley, if it is to be an intelligent bidder for South American trade, must determine how much South America wants of each product in a given year, add to that the domestic demands and then proceed to produce the aggregate.

"The Mississippi Valley can perform another valuable service for her farmer. Lack of markets is a great handicap. That is one very fundamental cause for the high cost of living. Under our present order our markets are few in number and confined to the great cities. The entire product of a locality is dumped onto some market center. There the crop is sorted and distribution begun. This often results in the return of a product to its starting point. Apples produced in the Ozarks may come to St. Louis, and be returned for consumption to the very town that produced them.

Any city of 15,000 is sufficient to take its place as a distributing market.

"The cause of the Mississippi Valley is a profitable one. The support of some organization which will plan, not leap, will be incalculable. For this reason I believe that the purpose of the Mississippi Valley Association should command the co-operation of each of us as individuals to be builded into co-operation of city with city, state with state, industry with industry, until we have set up a force that shall give the Valley its rightful place."

NEGRO FINED TWICE IN 2 WEEKS

Pays $100 on Each Occasion for Speeding.

For the second time in a week James Palmer, of 3122 Pine street, a negro service car driver, was fined $100 in police court yesterday. He was arrested Friday night near Grand and Finney avenues and charged with driving his car 55 miles an hour.

In court he said he thought the law permitted him to go 30 miles an hour and said his speed was not greater than that. Judge Mix required him to read the anti-speeding ordinance and then fined him. He told the judge he had been driving only three weeks. A week ago Palmer was convicted of speeding and was fined $100 by Judge Ittner.

20,000 MOTOR CARS WILL BE PRODUCED BY LOCAL CONCERN

St. Louis Car Company Signs Contract; Order Will Represent Investment of $20,000,000.

800 ADDITIONAL MEN NEEDED FOR WORK

New Offices Will Be Established Here and Sales Campaign Started in All Large Cities.

A contract for the production of 20,000 automobiles in St. Louis was signed Friday by the St. Louis Car Co. with the Skelton Motor Corporation, recently organized by Dr. L. S. Skelton of Kansas City. The order, when completed, will represent an investment of $20,000,000. The car will be the light, four-cylinder type with standard equipment and is designed to meet the competition of moderately-priced makes.

The operation will be part manufacture and part assembly. Those parts which cannot be obtained quickly in the market will be manufactured. The intention is that ultimately the entire car shall be manufactured here, assembly being adopted at the start as a means of reaching the market more rapidly.

The new industry will require the employment of 800 additional men by the St. Louis Car Co., in addition to its present force of 1200, according to Edwin B. Meissner, vice-president and general manager. He said that a large portion of the company's 60-acre plant had been cleared for the operation and that he hoped soon to be producing cars at the rate of 50 a day.

Meissner declared that St. Louis won the contract in competition with other cities and that his plant was equipped to bid because it had acquired facilities during the war for airplane production, and the manufacture of steel freight cars and ammunition cars, which are adaptable to automobile manufacture.

The Skelton Motors Corporation will establish its offices here and begin a sales campaign with the establishment of agencies in all large cities.

Dr. Skelton, president of the company, is interested in oil and gas production in Kansas and Oklahoma, cement, brick and glass manufacture and a foodstuff industry.

His entry to automobile manufacture was Thursday when he purchased a controlling interest in the Premier Motor Car Co. of Indianapolis. He will continue the manufacture of that make of car.

CREW OF DISABLED AIRPLANE LIVED SIX DAYS ON SHELL FISH

Goliath Fliers Return to France and Relate Adventures; Drank Distilled Sea Water.

By the Associated Press.

MARSEILLES, Sept. 20.—Lieut. Bossoutrot, Pilot of the French airplane Goliath, which was forced to descend north of Dakar in August during a flight from Casablanca, Morocco, arrived here this morning with the crew of the airplane. He was in fine health and spirits and said the cause of the accident to the giant machine was that the right propellor became detached when the airplane was about 120 miles from Dakar.

The crew lived for six days on crabs and shell fish, drinking distilled sea water which had been passed through a retort made from pipes taken from the engine of the airplane.

TEMPORARY SUGAR SHORTAGE

Western Shipments Soon Will Relieve Situation Here.

Eighty per cent of St. Louis wholesale dealers were reported out of sugar yesterday, and many retailers had to begin limiting the quantity of sugar sold to individual customers. The shortage, however, will be only temporary, as shipments of beet sugar from Kansas and Colorado soon will arrive on the local market.

Dealers attributed the low supplies to strikes among longshoremen at various ports and to strikes among refinery workers. They also declared that faulty distribution had some effect on the situation.

SUES BALL CLUB FOR $5000

Joseph W. Vogel of 1449 East College avenue, a policeman, yesterday filed suit for $5000 against the St. Louis American League Baseball Co.

The petition alleges that on Aug. 17 he was a spectator at a game at Sportsman's Park and was sitting "at or near" box 83 when a soda water bottle fell from the upper deck of the grandstand and struck his head. This injured him and has made him subject to headaches, he says.

GOVERNMENT BY RUSSIAN SOVIET IS LIKE CZARISM

Leaders Have Developed Proletarian Bureaucracy as Hidebound as That of Any Bourgeois Nation.

ENTIRE SYSTEM IS FULL OF "RED TAPE"

Tchitcherin Was One of First to Fall Before Officialdom Which Some Believe Will Wreck Commune.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 10.—The Soviet Government is only 22 months' old, but it has already developed a proletarian bureaucracy which is almost as hidebound as that of any bourgeois country. New officials have been installed all over Russia, but the methods of administration remind one strangely of the days of czarism. There are men in Soviet Russia who believe that Russia's social revolution, after surviving Kolchak's war and the allied blockade, will die of the same disease that killed czarism—that is, bureaucracy.

There is an atmosphere of officialdom about the Soviet institution. One of the first victims of Soviet bureaucracy was the present Commissioner for Foreign Affairs, Tchitcherin. He had been a prisoner in England and after long negotiations was allowed by the British Government to return home. He arrived in Stockholm, where the first Soviet legation was established in charge of Vorovski.

Tchitcherin could not see Vorovski. The attendant did not know who Tchitcherin was and would not report him to the Soviet representative. Tchitcherin tried to argue. He tried to explain. You see, he was Tchitcherin, one of the veteran Bolsheviki, and it was rather important for him to see Vorovski. The attendant would stand no argument. He seized the prospective Commissioner for Foreign Affairs by the collar and threw him out.

Professor Waited Five Hours.

This happened in a Soviet institution abroad. Similar things occur at home. A professor of the Petrograd university had an appointment with a Soviet official for 12 o'clock. He was in a great hurry to keep the appointment. He arrived at the office on time and was requested to wait a while. He waited. The clock struck 1, 2, 3, 4. The professor still waited. At 5 he was shown in. There were profuse apologies, but five hours had been spent by the professor in the waiting room. Here was the new order, but it was not very new, after all.

There is a law in Moscow that for every newly born child 30 yards of linenare issued free by the Government within a month of its birth. There was a mother, one of thousands, who wanted to get the linen, which in the open market is worth a fortune. She went to the district distribution station to obtain a card for the linen. After waiting for several hours in line, she was informed that "the whole matter has been turned over by the distribution station to the district card bureau."

The following day the mother went to the bureau. Here she was greeted as follows: "We have no time today. We are issuing new cards. Come the day after tomorrow."

"But I can't leave the baby alone," protested the mother.

"I told you to come the day after tomorrow," was the answer.

On the appointed day the mother came to the bureau. Again he asked her to come the day after tomorrow.

"But tomorrow the monthly limit expires and you told me to come today," the mother protested.

Commission Extends Activity.

"I answered you," said the official with finality. After much begging on the part of the mother, he issued her a note to the effect that she should not lose the right to her linen card after the time limit. Again and again the mother called, but all in vain. Finally she fell sick, but recovered sufficiently to make one more attempt to obtain the coveted linen. This time an old communist happened to be present when she applied for her ration. He took a personal interest in the matter and in five minutes she received the card entitling her to draw the linen.

In Saratov a commission was created to register all the unemployed bourgeois residents. In due time all the Saratov bourgeois appeared before the commission and received special passports. But the commission did not disband after finishing this work. The zealous proletarian commissioners looked around for a new field of activity. They found one soon enough. There were many nonproletarian communists in the Soviet ranks. Why not register them? The idea appealed to the commissioners. They

GERMANS WERE INSTRUCTED IN USE OF ARMS FROM CRADLE, SAYS MAXIMILIAN HARDEN

Boys Played With Soldiers and Warships for Toys and Even High School Girls Wrote Essays on Strategy.

By Maximilian Harden.

(Copyright, 1919, by the Press Publishing Co. (The New York World).

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—Willie Krause likes to play best with soldiers. At first they were made of wood and hideously painted. They became tiresome. When little Willie went back to his sister's dolls and had fun dressing and undressing the white, fat frauleins with the red cheeks and sky-blue eyes that opened and shut, father said that was nothing for boys.

And so, on Christmas Eve, there stood under the lighted tree two boxes of tin soldiers. Then followed many made of lead, which looked quite true to nature—blue dragoons, red hussars, white cuirassieurs with gold or black breastplate, infantry, artillery with "real" cannon, a gray warship with torpedo tubes; one box contained a marine brigade.

Splendid! Willie soon knows every uniform, every emblem of rank—tans, stripes, bands, stars, medals. On the floor he holds parade maneuvers, starts naval battles and repulses attempts at coast landings. Little Willie struts around in helmet, guard coat, cavalry boots, with shining sword, and when he grows older wears a sailor suit and sailor cap, with legend, "His Majesty's Ship Worth." He reads, devours books glorifying war and warriors and which describe battles so beautifully that only the glory is visible, never the horror and carnage.

When after school hours the boys play "Robber and Soldier" he doesn't want to be a robber but to fight for order and right. That the soldier alway fights for order and right is never doubtful for him. And since he early notes that among the schoolboys the strong ones, who are good at gymnastics and on top in a roughhouse fight are much more respected than the weaklings, who often, already wearing spectacles, are best in Greek or mathematics, he draws the conclusion that physical force is the measure of all virtues.

He has to learn a lot. Because nobody knows what profession will be selected for him. Little Willie is crammed full of the classics and practical studies. Co-education, which brings girls and boys together, and the common public school, which at least in the lower classes brings together the children of all social classes and castes, do not exist in Germany. Therefore, the boy learns to know neither the feelings of the other sex nor of the great masses of the people. He is forbidden to discuss things with the maid servant because household discipline would suffer thereunder, and when he asks why the janitor's son, though he has a bright mind, was only permitted to go to the "people's school" and must now already go to work in a factory, he is told that he will not alter the divine order of things, and that instead of wasting his time in useless speculations he would do far better to strive to "get ahead," so that he may not be a financial burden to his parents too long.

Week-Day Christians.

To be strong, to have courage, to "get ahead," to earn money, to achieve respect—those are the goals which parents, relatives, teachers set up for his life. What is told him during the hour devoted to the study of religion sounds different. There humility, simplicity, honesty are praised, the nothingness of an heroism, warlike success and earthly goods is preached. This teaching, however, has currency only for the next world; at most for Sundays and holidays. On such days one may be a Christian on week-days, gentle, peaceful, sympathetic, not bent on gain, filled with brotherly love and ready to give the poor who begs for stockings his shoes to boot—such a one would never get ahead and would have to fear that he would end his life in a garret. Between his lessons in religion and his other studies there isn't the slightest connection. And the whole spirit of his school is such, as if the old Teuton gods still reigned in heaven.

History plays a big part in his studies—what one calls history. Is there such a thing? Isn't it rather merely the vision of an individual temperament, or tradition, a confidential fable, passed on from generation to generation? Picture to yourselves how in the various countries the "history" of the years 1914 to 1919 will once look if things go on in the accustomed hackneyed way.

The history which little Willie learns is sucked full of patriotism like a sponge with water. The fatherland was always in the holiest right and has always done much more than any other country. There are colossal quantities of dates and names of rulers to be stored up in memory. Its history of Kings and Generals, wars and battles.

Girls Learn Strategy

And not only for boys. Sister Bertha, going to the "gymnasium," must in the next to the last year draw the strategic plan and preliminary marching movements of the Battle of Dennewitz, where the Prussian General von Buelow is credited with having defeated in 1813 Marshal Ney of France.

Woe to the youth who haven't all the principal battles from Cannae to Sedan at the tip of their tongues! Of the peoples, their culture, psychology, intellectual and economic development, they don't need to know much. All the instruction is throughout "Germanocentric," and on the two national holidays, the Kaiser's birthday and Sedan day—this feature was particularly emphasized and illuminated by the orators of the day.

"Because the German is the most industrious and possesses the greatest ability he is hated," this holiday orator declares. "For centuries the sly enemies have prevented the harmless, good-natured German from attaining the goal of national unity. With the sword the German has had to fight for and achieve it. It became the ladder to a new upward climb. The German having reached the peak of power now became verily hated and any day the hour may strike which will force the German to draw the sword again. The sword must be sharp in order to be able to defend our most sacred possessions.

"Therefore must the will to military preparedness stand in the center of our life. Universal compulsory military service, high-tensioned sense of honor, strong monarchy, rigid discipline, obedience—only in possession of these institutions and qualities are we sure of our national future and protected against treachery. If we maintain these for ourselves then will the poet's words come true: 'The world will some day grow well, thanks to the German nature and character.'

"The republic is a sort of state of wilting, degenerating nations and is inseparable from corruption. The Frenchman i svain, a hot-head or decadent, a comedian or dancing master. The Englishman is a treacherous beast of prey with the long teeth, a world exploiter and globe usurer. The Italian loafs his time away in a gondola, plays the mandolin, eats risotto, lives off the tourist industry in the gigantic museum of his peninsula.

"American's God, the Dollar."

"And every child knows that the American, on every floor of his skyscrapers, prays to the dollar as his god, is separated by oceans from all idealism and that the best in his nature he owes to the German immigrants, from Steuben to Carl Schurz. Is not all that 'History?' Whoever denies it does not think 'nationally' and is unworthy of respect."

The duty of thinking nationalistically is hammered into every boy and girl from the time of playing with lead soldiers, not the duty to rejoice over one particular national character and to strive with all one's strength to improve and render it finer and also to be happy over the fact that in the garden of humanity other flowers bloom and are fragrant. No. The duty to consider one's own nation as the highest purpose and the crown of creation—that is what is hammered in. The word "international," which shines ahead of all history of Christianity, all art and science, passes for a word of abuse as synonymous with 'unpatriotic" or "without a country."

Humanity an Empty Phrase.

Humanity? An empty phrase imported from the West, from nations who befog the German Samson with an intoxication of words and then want to cut off his locks.

"Because we aped foreign ways and were proud of intercourse with a Paris tailor, a London cockney; because we, parrot-like, repeated the phrase about 'liberty, equality, eternity, our country remained divided and impotent. We must and will be Germans. If we are Germans in every fiber, if we are national to the marrow, then will the so-called Humanity best be served."

That tendency pervades one's whole life to the smallest detail. Besides children's books and historiography even the street signs drill the memory constantly to remember the glory of the empire, of its Princes, heroes, institution, Kaiser, King Kurfuerst, Crown Prince, Hohenzollern, Wilhelm, Frederick, Bluecher, Moltke, Koeniggraetz, Sedan—every town has streets, avenues, squares baptized with these names. Schools and universities, academies and laboratories, hotels, beer palaces, drug stores borrow their names from the court and military sphere. In the tiniest hamlet war and battle monuments irritate the wanderer's eye. Their artistic value is equivalent to zero. But they, too "promote patri-

FACTIONAL MOVE AGAINST M'JIMSEY IS STARTED HERE

Koeln-Foristel Wing of Republican Party Dissatisfied With Springfield Man as Candidate for Governor

TRYING TO INDUCE CAULFIELD TO RUN

Kiel-Schmoll Crowd Reported to Be Wavering in Allegiance to Publisher—Another State Man Sought.

Dissatisfaction of the Koeln-Foristel faction of the Republican party in St. Louis with E. E. E. McJimsey, a Springfield newspaper publisher, who is being backed by the Kiel-Schmoll faction for the Republican nomination for Governor, has resulted within the last few days in a movement to induce Henry S. Caulfield, former Judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals and former Excise Commisioner, to become a candidate.

The Koeln-Foristel supporters are giving as a basis for their objections to McJimsey that he is very close to Jesse A. Tolerton, president of a Springfield bank, and say they fear that if McJimsey should become Governor, Tolerton, who became known to the local politicians during the Hadley administration, will dictate St. Louis appointments.

Tolerton Advised Hadley.

When Hadley was Governor and there were vacancies in any State jobs in St. Louis, Tolerton would arrive, look over the situation, and advise the Governor whom to name. The St. Louis politicians had little to say about it. Their position now is that without their organization getting out the big Republican vote in St. Louis, there would be no chance for a Republican to be elected to a State office, and they want no doubt to exist about their control of all politics, State and local, in St. Louis.

There is a report in circulation among Republicans that the Kiel-Schmoll wing of the party, or at least some of its well-up members, are beginning to waver in their allegiance to McJimsey as a candidate, and some of the politicians say they would not be surprised if McJimsey found before the campaign ended that he had been "ditched" by the Republican organization in St. Louis.

It is a generally accepted opinion among politicians that the St. Louis organization last year promised McJimsey its support in consideration of his action in refusing to file as a candidate for United States Senator, when Senator Spencer was picked by Schmoll and Kiel.

Want Strong State Candidate.

While casting about for a man to run against McJimsey, the Koeln-Foristel organization is frankly admitting that it believes McJimsey would run against Caulfield or any other St. Louis candidate, even if Caulfield could command the support of all factions in the city. Their only hope would be in getting another strong candidate in the country who would divide the out-in-the-State vote with McJimsey. By alliances in Kansas City and a few Republican counties they profess to believe that they could nominate Caulfield if there were two or more other candidates.

In line with this situation, politicians recently have learned that Foristel would like to be chairman of the Republican State Committee. W. L. Cole of Union is chairman and has shown no indication of being willing to relinquish the job. There recently has been some talk that he would resign to become attorney for some oil interests in Oklahoma, but his friends say that even if he should accept that employment, he could continue as head of the committee.

Foristel Apparently Gaining.

Foristel is beginning to be looked upon as a coming Republican boss in St. Louis, and in the list of probable candidates for important offices in St. Louis his work is seen. Factional differences are already developing in the preliminary discussion of candidates.

For Circuit Attorney, an office in which politicians have an unusual interest, Howard Sidener, now Prosecuting Attorney, is being backed by the Kiel-Schmoll element in the committee. Foristel is understood to be lining up all the support he can for Blodgett Priest, who has an office in Foristel's suite, and who is a son of Henry S. Priest, former general counsel for the United Railways. Walter J. G. Neun, who was defeated for Judge in the late election, is also considered a candidate with a following with which the regular organization men must reckon.

The prospect of Sidener becoming a candidate for Mayor against Kiel, as he has at times threatened to do, has for some reason always disturbed the Kiel following. If Sidener could be taken care of with the office of Circuit Attorney, which pays a sal-

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

The Soldiers' Bonus.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I see where one American Legion post refused to indorse a motion allowing honorably discharged soldiers a bonus of $30 for each month in the service, similar to one enacted somewhere else, Wisconsin, I believe. The reason given is that they feared this would be "entering politics." Well, if the legion can't do that much for the boys, tell me what's the use of joining such an outfit?

As far as the bonus goes, Canada put us to shame in comparison. Even France, pictured as so utterly destitute and financially ruined and in debt, gave her discharged poilu 200 francs and a certain number of additional francs for every month in service. This makes our measly $60 look like a tip to the waiter.

Another thing, folks. It was widely acclaimed, that sixty. Some people seemed to think a soldier should be able to live luxuriously on it for evermore. Yes they told you all about that 60. Now let me ask if they told you something else. All last winter we were stationed in the Argonne. Month after month we were handed 5.45 francs for each dollar we signed for on the payroll. There was no opportunity up there to exchange it for American money. When we got to a port, they exchanged it for us. Yes, but we had to give then 6-51 to get a Yankee dollar. Think it over. What do you think of the $60 bonus now? Many a boy lost more than that through what I have outlined above. Isn't it funny they didn't tell you that?

OVERSEAS.

Von Tirpitz's Admission.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

We all remember the earlier propaganda work of the Germans in attempting to establish the fact that they were forced into the war, that they expected every moment to be pounced upon by France, etc., etc. In the Von Tirpitz memoir that appeared in the Post-Dispatch Sunday last appears the following in reference to the activities, generally termed, "The First Battle of the Marne":

"Following the stand made by our enemies which defeated our flanking movement and halted our operations, Von Moltke was a doomed man, and the reins of the German army were trailing on the ground. This reverse destroyed the unity in army operations, since our carefully laid plan for the sudden invasion of France was defeated."

From this the author inadvertently admitted what we all knew to be true, that Germany among other things had laid careful plans for the invasion of France through Belgium; and if they lied so erroneously about this particular feature of the war what credence can be placed in any other statement that they have made, or will make in the future? All we have got to do is to give them rope enough and they will hang themselves.

Reactionary Forces at Work.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The influences at work at the present time against the efforts and purposes of the President of the United States to advance the interests of this country and of the world may succinctly be stated to consist in all pro-Germans, a very large element of our Irish population (who wish to have this country correct the grievances of Ireland), a very large element of Republican partisan politicians (who wish to derive party advantage) and a very large increment of the people who are opposed to the policy of the President in considering the demands of labor organizations. With the concurrent agency of so many powerful influences against the policies of the President, Germany may escape the consequences of her conduct in seeking to dominate the world. The opportunity may be afforded her through internal revolutions and dissensions of our people and through foreign embroilment with Great Britain and Japan to make the seeming victory of the allies a delusion.

This is a time for sober reflection on the part of the American people who have at heart the best interests of America and the supreme welfare of humanity the world over. It is a time when the wisdom and the purpose of the best element of our people should stand forth and assert itself. It is a time when the public press should put aside all partisanship and appeal to the highest purposes of American manhood.

PRO-PATRIA.

Organized Business Men.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I am somewhat surprised at your ignorance, when in your editorial on police unions you say that the business men of the country are not organized. What do you call the "St. Louis Chamber of Commerce," "The United States Chamber of Commerce," "The North American Manufacturing Association," etc?

You have the right idea for the prevention of unionism of our police force. The truth is that if all the workers were paid a living wage we would need no unions, but as it is, give us unions and more unions.

TEN REASONS FOR THE LEAGUE.

With the President turning East from his campaign tour across the continent and the beginning of the Senate's action on the reservations and amendments to be added to the peace treaty, the public discussion of the treaty and the peace covenant practically ceases.

The President has clarified the points in the treaty and the covenant to which objections have been made. He has shown that these objections are based upon disconnected articles, sentences and phrases and that taken as a whole the treaty and the covenant make for the peace of the world and for the rights and liberties of the peoples of the world, both small and great.

Mr. Wilson did not justify all the terms of the German treaty. He could not do it. He could not justify the provisions concerning the Saar Basin, nor the indefiniteness of reparations and the postponement of final decisions on reparation questions, nor the maintaining of military forces in Germany when Germany is helpless, nor the refusal to give Austria the right of self-determination, nor the Shantung provision. There are grave mistakes in the treaty and the President frankly acknowledged mistakes. But he did demonstrate conclusively that the treaty is the best that can be made and that the only hope of correcting its mistakes and eliminating the seeds of imperialism and war it contains is the League of Nations. The peace covenant offers the only means of remedying mistakes, righting wrongs and achieving justice peaceably. It is the only available safeguard against the revival of militarism and the perpetuation of wrong and oppression.

The President has given the people a new and better understanding of the peace covenant. He has shown them conclusively that as a whole the covenant is a peace covenant, making so far as it is humanly possible for peace and offering opportunity to establish among nations the stable foundations of peace—the reign of reason and the establishing of justice. Out of the controversy may be gathered 10 convincing reasons for the ratification of the treaty with the covenant:

1. Because only self-governing nations are admitted to the League, and thus autocracy is destroyed with its vicious power to control the destinies and international policies of nations.

2. Because it substitutes reason for willful might through publicity, discussion and arbitration in international disputes, and uses the boycott instead of armies and navies to curb aggressive nations.

3. Because it establishes a guardianship of peace as the vital interest of every people.

4. Because it provides for disarmament in the only way that disarmament can be assured.

5. Because it offers oppressed peoples the right to appeal for freedom to the bar of world opinion, under a solemn covenant of justice and liberty.

6. Because it substitutes responsible trusteeship for conquest, exploitation and annexation of weak races and peoples.

7. Because it prohibits secret diplomacy and invalidates secret treaties and misunderstandings.

8. Because it protects the rights of dependent peoples.

9. Because it provides means to maintain and sanctions high labor standards throughout the world. It is the Magna Charta of the rights of labor.

10. Because it provides an agency to formulate and co-ordinate reforms and regulations for the welfare of mankind.

Never in the history of the world has a document so pregnant with blessings for mankind been formulated or even suggested at a conference of nations. Never has an international conference offered a faint hope of these blessings. It is an application of the principles of justice and liberty which have been worked out successfully in America to the Governments and relations of all nations.

If we are to reap these blessings—the fruits of the war—the treaty with the peace covenant must be ratified substantially as it is. If the treaty and covenant are so amended that they will have to be returned to the peace conference, both will be endangered, if not destroyed.

With careful observance of its motto, "More rides at 5 cents, not fewer rides at higher fares," the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co. succeeded in earning its 5 per cent dividend for the last eight months, despite large increases in wages and no increases in fares. But it was a 5 per cent dividend on $30,000,000, not on $50,000,000.

HOBSON ON ALCOHOL.

Former Congressman Richmond Pearson Hobson, in his book, "Alcohol and the Human Race," asserts that "alcohol is not a product built up of grain, grapes and other food materials, but is the toxin of yeast or ferment germs, which, after devouring the food materials, excrete alcohol as their waste product." And he goes on to frighten his readers by the further assertion that "this toxin causes degeneracy in all living things, disrupts the germ plasms, blights offspring and, in the end, entails sterility and extinction."

No one with the slightest knowledge of chemistry can accept the view that alcohol is a waste product, any more than is sugar or vinegar, which also are produced by fermentation. In making alcoholic drinks the starch is first converted into sugar, then into alcohol. A further fermentation changes the alcohol into vinegar. But none of these can be looked upon as waste products, in the usually accepted sense. If the fermentation is stopped at its first step, after the starch has become sugar, would Mr. Hobson have us believe that the sugar is a waste product?

In chemical action there is no real waste. Sugar and alcohol are composed of the same three elements—carbon, hydrogen and oxygen—but in different proportions.

But if we look upon alcohol as a toxin produced by yeast germs, we have learned that so-called toxins are among the most valuable of modern discoveries in the treatment of some of the most fatal diseases. It goes without saying, however, that no toxin should be used in excess. Sugar or vinegar, or even starch, used in excess, would be harmful. In moderation they are both necessary and beneficial.

THE PACKERS' FRANKENSTEIN.

Is the business of the packers, by the sheer magnitude into which it seems to be sweeping, destined to develop into a Frankenstein that will ultimately annihilate its creators? The protest of the coffee people seems to warrant the question? The coffee industry is no stripling with its career to make. On the contrary, it is thoroughly organized, soundly established and big enough to be classified, in popular estimate at least, as Big Business. Yet the coffee men say that the packers are invading their field and they intimate they are helpless before the Gargantuan assault.

The coffee men say more. They voice the fears of lesser folk. They intimate that the packers may effect such a control of foodstuffs as to constitute a food dictatorship, upon which the people of the world will be dependent. Such a complaint, say, from a remote farm in the Mississippi Valley might pass unheeded, or such a prophecy couched in the eloquence of our national capital might be dismissed. But when Greek turns against Greek, may not hoi polloi be anxious?

To be too big for national comfort is a pretty serious stature. To be too big for the world's safety or tolerance—the packers ought to be able to see that that were fatal.

A WOMAN-SELECTED PRESIDENT IN 1920?

The opening of the war in 1914 affords the Woman Suffrage Association a date from which to reckon progress. The triumphs won in this country have been followed closely, but perhaps all of us were not prepared for the record achieved abroad. During the period mentioned women have been given the vote in Great Britain, Canada, Denmark, Iceland, Holland, Sweden, Hungary, Poland, Russia, Austria, Czecho-Slovakia and Germany—12 countries in all. In this country Nevada, Montana, New York, Oklahoma, Michigan and South Dakota—six states—have granted full suffrage since 1914, and North Dakota, Nebraska, Tennessee, Rhode Island, Indiana, Iowa, Maine, Minnesota, Missouri and Wisconsin—10 states—have granted presidential suffrage.

Sixteen states have ratified the Federal amendment, but assuming that the 20 additional needed fail to act, no less than 15,492,751 women will nevertheless have a vote for President in 1920 and will help to select 306 out of 531 presidential electors. To give all the states the same relative power in that election which some states inevitably will have—to put the same forces behind the choice of 225 electors which may dictate the choice of 301—affords a powerful incentive for prompt ratification to states which have as yet taken no action.

WHY NOT ST. LOUIS?

The letter of a working girl to the Post-Dispatch may recall a bit of testimony at a hearing several years ago conducted by a legislative committee appointed to investigate conditions preparatory to drafting a minimum wage law. The witness, a working girl, was asked how often she had visited Forest Park during the summer. She said she had visited the park only once, explaining she could not afford to pay the 10-cent car fare for the round trip. Under kindly questioning she went into the details of her pitiful budget—details which revealed the tragic truth that Forest Park lay outside the capacity of her purse.

The scale of wages is higher now, of course, than it was then, but the present car fare, nevertheless, levies hard upon many people. Those people cannot be disregarded. Their needs are an imperative challenge to the present management of the United Railways to introduce and establish bedrock economies, to the end that nickel fares may be restored.

Why should not St. Louis have a 5-cent car fare? What other city possesses such topographical advantages for economical traction operation? What other city has such fuel and power advantages? Yet traction companies in other cities are operating on a nickel basis, and operating profitably.

Why not St. Louis?

WE MAY BUY THE BERMUDAS.

Harold S. Harmsworth, younger brother of the London Times owner, and himself proprietor of two newspapers, suggests that a number of British possessions in the Western Hemisphere shall be turned over to us, their value to be credited against the war loans, now approximating $4,000,000,000, made to the London Government by the United States.

He would insist on retaining Jamaica, the Barbadoes and Trinidad, but would permit us to take our pick of any or all of the remainder, including the Bahamas, the Bermudas, British Honduras and even British Guiana, where a boundary dispute with Venezuela almost led once to an Anglo-American war.

The favor with which the plan would be received on this side of the Atlantic would depend a good deal on the price asked for the several islands and two sections of mainland. It is to be feared that the British would be as good bargainers as the Danes, and the Danes got $25,000,000 out of us for a few score of square miles of insular territory, most of it unproductive, with less than 40,000 people. On this basis, allowing for much greater areas and vastly greater productiveness, we could not acquire very many units of British territory before we would be in debt to London, instead of London being in debt to us.

And, remembering the ease with which the Danes got the money, the British might not be satisfied with that basis. They might insist that the high cost of archipelagoes and colonial possessions has gone higher since the record price established in the Virgin Islands transaction.

STANDARDIZED CLOTHING IN ENGLAND.

The plans of the British Government to combat the high price of women's clothing by encouraging the manufacture of standard garments, which were the vogue in war time, are another proof of what a topsy-turvey old world our planet has become. Expensive clothing in England, long famous for its unbelievable bargains in woolens, worsteds and every product of the weaver's art, is something new under the peaceful sun. It was against such deadly competition that Schedule K of unhappy memory was fabricated—Schedule K, the "keystone of the arch of protection," according to the Aldrich metaphor.

Buried deep in the debris of the great eruption are the cheap commodities and the cheap labor of Europe, and they will not be resurrected. But what plea will the proprietors of our infant industries offer for taxing the American consumer now that the old bogey is exploded forever?

THE MAVIS OF MEMORY.

HARK! 'Tis the mavis singing!
Out in the purple twi-hour.
Within a rose wreath swinging,
Out 'neath the wan moon's light,
Where the silver silence lies
Like the frost's kiss on the sod.

Hark! 'Tis the mavis singing!
Pouring forth the music within.
His breast as the flowers spurt
Their sweetness. Hark! 'Tis the Mavis singing! Mourning soothingly,
Making his notes paint fanciful
Recollections while I stand, listening.

Hark! 'Tis the mavis singing!
Oh, I hear him! He is swinging yon
Within the rose wreath. Aye, I see
His tiny shadow like a touch of darkness
'Gainst the rose's cheek. I see
The stirring of the leaves as he
Leans against them in his ecstasy,
Pouring out the music of his song
Unto my thirsted heart!

Hark! 'Tis the mavis singing!
Oh, look, yon! He is there—
Or was it but my memory hung within
The rose wreath? For the garden
Is empty, and there is no music!

ENGLISH AND THE VERNACULAR.

A New Englander says in the current number of the Nonpartisan Review that when New Englanders foregather they "fall into a nearness of speech" that betrays their "nearness to the soil." He says they relish it, and that it gives their indulgence countenance to read that Stevenson and his friend Charles Baxter, among themselves, always talked the broadest kind of Scotch. "My wife does not hold with it," he tells us. "People will think us ignorant," she says. "Sure enough:" "Don't they know any better?" he heard his Philadelphia cousin ask her mother. "Cousin So-and-So just asked Cousin What's-His-Name: 'May I borry the coat (How suggest by spelling the peculiar long o of old New England? he asks) hanging in your cluset? And he said: 'So do.' And Cousin So-and-So said 'Much obleeged.' I don't understand; they seem like educated people," the Philadelphia cousin said. We take it "they seem like" is an example of the Philadelphia vernacular. However that may be, that love of our own tongue is a powerful influence in our lives and is one of the most puzzling of our inheritances from the mother country. It is said that there are eight dialects in England and how many kinds of English there are in this country it would be hard to say. Yet English, strangely enough, is so pure and sweet among the British West Indies that one could almost go there to hear his native tongue. Your Jamaican black does not even slight his g's. Your washwoman in British New Guiana speaks English beautifully and is proud of it. Yet we from the British stock make all manner of play with it, until getting about over the country we are surprised at one another, as was the Philadelphia cousin with the way they talk in New England. There is nothing more beautiful than a language in its perfection. Is it too hard to speak correctly? Do we love the vernacular because of the bond it creates between ourselves and those who share our neighborhood world? There is no saying. All we know is that we like to get together and maltreat the English tongue, exactly as boys like to hide behind the woodshed and smoke cigarettes.

DID THIS EVER HAPPEN TO YOU?

I ONCE wanted something
Very much.
And I strove and strove
For it,
And waited and prayed,
And worried about it
And spent sleepless nights,
And forgot to eat
Sometimes.
In fact, this something
Took up all my waking thoughts
And even haunted me in dreams.
Well, finally I got it,
And I was happy
For about a day;
And then I Discovered that
I didn't want it after all.

This was the first
Real disappointment
And shock to my youthful Idealism,
And my trust in
The innate and ought-to-be
Happiness of life.
Now I wonder
Whether life
Is really so worth while After all.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

CIVIC TREASON.

From the New York World.

WHEN President Wilson declares that "a strike of the policemen of a great city, leaving that city at the mercy of an army of thugs, is a crime against civilization," he states the exact truth.

When Gov. Coolidge of Massachusetts declares that the Boston policemen who have quit their posts and left the city at the mercy of its criminal elements are not strikers but deserters, he states the exact truth. This is an issue itself that must be fought out, cost what it may, unless the Government is to abdicate its sovereignty and make itself the mere tool of any element in the community that is strong enough and daring enough to intimidate and coerce it.

The Boston police did not strike against the Commissioner. They did not strike against the Mayor. They did not strike against the Governor of the state. They struck against the community itself. They struck against the government of which they are a part, and which they had taken a solemn oath to support. Circumstances make this a form of civic reason, no more to be condoned than a mutiny of soliders who had decided that they ought to have more pay and ought also to have the right to join a union in order to bring the power of organization to bear against the Government.

The authorities of Boston and of Massachusetts cannot be too highly commended for the courageous manner in which they faced this issue. Their refusal to surrender to the police has brought about bloodshed, enormous property losses and a harvest time for the criminal elements, all of which is greatly to be deplored, but all of which must be accepted as part of imperative processes of re-establishing public authority and maintaining its sovereignty.

If public employes owe no public obligations, if they owe no regard to the oath they have taken, if they are free to desert and to abandon the community to its fate, then free institutions are a failure and society is driven back to first principles under which every man is his own policeman, his own court and his interpreter of such laws as he choose to recognize.

Boston is performing a service for the whole country in meeting this question without flinching. Either the American people have government or they have no government. If they have government the agencies of that government cannot be permitted to strike against the public. If we have no government the sooner we find it out the better.

So far as any grievances that the Boston police may have had, they become trifling and incidental in comparison with the grievances that they have wantonly created and the challenge that they have issued to the stability of society.

CONFIRMATION FOR LUDENDORFF.

From Harper's Literary Gossip.

SINCE the publication in German newspapers of extracts from Ludendorff's book, to be brought out in this country in October by the Harpers, under the title of "Ludendorff's Own Story," one of the chief indoor sports of the German population seems to be singing hymns of hate against their erstwhile leader. For Ludendorff has built up a more damning case against the German nation and her people than any outsider has yet done, and his cases in point are backed by documentary evidence. One statement to which the German press took exception was that the German offensive of March, 1918, was given away to the British by two German deserters. In a recent letter to the London Times, Capt. Pew Miller of the Fifteenth Royal Irish Rifles confirms Ludendorff's statement. "On the night of March 18, 1918," says Capt. Miller, "two men, Alsatians, came over into my lines opposite Grugies and gave very full information of German preparation for an attack. This was sent to staff headquarters for their use."

Events in the Social World

Music Will Have Larger Share in Social Life of St. Louis This Year Than Ever Before—Women Volunteer for Series of Benefit Concerts.

MUSIC this season will occupy a larger share in the social existence of St. Louis than ever before. As an adjunct to social affairs it has, of course, always been indispensable, although never, in the opinion of music lovers, being allowed its proper sphere in entertainment.

On the fall and winter program, however, are scheduled more musical events of magnitude than for many years, if indeed the number has ever been equaled. Chief among these are Symphony Orchestra concerts, where will appear such artists as Rachmaninoff and Josef Lhevinne, pianists, and Fritz Kreisler, violin. Rachmaninoff made his first St. Louis appearance last year.

Several prominent women, interested in furthering the music interests of St. Louis, have been asked to join the Advisory Committee of the People's Concert Course. The course is the beginning of the popularization of the concert field and opens at the Odeon on Oct. 24 with Frances Alda, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, followed by Fritz Kreisler on Nov. 8, Josef Hofman, Dec. 6, Emmy Destinn, soprano and Salvatore de Stefano, harpist, Jan. 3, the Isadora Duncan Dancers with George Copeland, Jan. 23. Acceptances have been received from Mrs. Charles M. Rice, Mrs. John T. Davis Jr., Mrs. Victor Ehling, Mrs. Howard Watson, Mrs. Max Goldstein and Mrs. David McWilliams. Although the first concert is not until Oct. 24, all but four of the boxes for the course have been subscribed for. The course is under the direction of Elizabeth Cueny.

Among early fall musical offerings that will entertain St. Louis society will be the series of concerts that will be given at the Odeon, Oct. 28 and 29, in support of the social welfare program of the Convent of the Good Shepherd. The concerts are being fostered by a mixed committee of well-known St. Louis women and business men and will be sponsored by a special list of patronesses among whom will be the following: Mesdames Sam Plant, Herbert L. Parker, J. L. D. Morrison, H. Worthington Eddy, Helen A. B. Carton, Ernst Stix, Robert A. Walsh, J. G. Cahill, L. L. Culver, John O'Fallon Delaney, D. G. Evans, A. B. Ewing Jr., James M. Franciscus, A. Busch Leo Fuller, Ashley D. Scott, R. W. McBride, Lon O. Hocker, James C. Jones, P. J. Toomey, Henry W. Kiel, Lawrence McDaniel, T. F. Gradwohl, James Ross Clemens, Seth W. Cobb, W. T. Donovan, Theodore Benoist, Philip N. Moore, James W. Grace, D. C. Nugent, Leo Moser, Paul Bakewell, J. D. Perry Francis, L. E. Anderson, F. V. Hammar and Sam W. Fordyce Jr., and Misses Stella Gillick, Eugenia Chouteau, Bertha Bruening and Tillie Gecks.

The musical programs will be given by local professional musicians who have volunteered to lend their services in the interest of the convent, which maintains at the institution more than 300 women and girls.

Downtown headquarters will be opened this week in preparation for the concerts.

FURS AND MYSTERY

This is not the first honest story about the mole. In numerous passages of the Bible this little animal was mentioned in an interesting and impressive manner.

From that good day to this, many things have been perpetrated in the name of the tiny excavator of tunnels and builder of hills, that would not look well in print.

For example, a large percentage of the "moleskin" found in to-day's market comes from an animal many times the size of the busy little mole—namely, the muskrat.

This fur when sheared makes an unusually good imitation of the real thing, and is, therefore, a treacherous substitute in the hands of an unscrupulous dealer.

In nine cases out of ten he will get the price of the genuine, which is fairly costly because of the tininess of the skins and the difficulty with which they are caught, while the customer gets the imitation.

Were you to enter his shop with a request for genuine moleskin and have the genuine placed before you, at its fair price and then the substitute, as a substitute, mind you, at its proper figure—then all would be well, and this article never written. But the time has not yet come when all stores, or even a fair percentage of them, will do this, so one still must be keenly on one's guard.

Genuine moleskins are of a bluish black and are no longer or broader than one's hand. The majority of them come from Scotland, while Holland adds smaller collections to the annual supply.

Muskrat skins range up to 15 inches in length, and are extremely plentiful in all parts of this country and Canada. You can readily see, therefore, that the margin of illegitimate profit is no small item.

Besides muskrat there are poorer substitutes for moleskin, such as rabbit, which in turn can be sold to you as muskrat imitation, if not as the moleskin itself.

FACTIONAL MOVE AGAINST M'JIMSEY IS STARTED HERE

Two Candidates for Administrator.

For Public Administrator, Frank M. Slater, who was defeated in the last election, and Sheriff George P. Weinbrenner are candidates. Joseph B. Thomas, Supply Commissioner, and Republican committeeman from the Twenty-eighth Ward, is talking of becoming a candidate, as is also Charles Hertenstein, chairman of the Efficiency Board. Politicians say there is considerable doubt who in this field Koeln and Foristel would support.

For Sheriff, the Kiel-Schmoll wing has chosen James N. McKelvey, Director of Public Safety. Other prospective candidates are Elmer L. Moone, for many years a member of the Republican City Committee, and a deputy Circuit Clerk; Charles E. Mohrstadt, who was defeated for the nomination for Sheriff three years ago, and Charles Eggman, now cashier in Sheriff Weinbrenner's office.

There will be three vacancies on the circuit bench, the terms of Judges Kimmel, Shields and Grimm expiring. Politicians are expecting an unprecedented number of candidates, because the last Legislature increased the salary of Judge of the St. Louis Circuit Court to $8000. The Judges whose terms expire are expected to seek renomination.

sent a summons to the local Soviet food commissioner, Gorbunov.

"Who are you?" he was asked, when he appeared.

"The representative of the people's commissariat of food—a communist," he answered.

"Do you own property?"

"No."

"What is your educational census?"

"I am a candidate of economic sciences."

"Here is your bourgeois passport."

"But I am a——"

"No conversations. If you don't take it of your own will, we will deliver it through the militia."

And the Soviet commissioner, having the misfortune of belonging to the "intelligentsia," was compelled to take the disgraceful bourgeois passport in the left corner of which the following beautiful inscription appears:

"He who does not work, does not eat."

No Room for Argument.

The food commissioner raised a row about the matter, but this did not deter the Saratov commission for the registration of bourgeois residents from proceeding with its work. There is a man in Saratov by the name of Foma Morosov, an old revolutionist. Morosov became identified with the extremist party as early as 1904 and experienced the horrors of the Czar's prisons and exile. But Morosov has never been a proletarian. He was a school teacher, by birth a peasant. One day a messenger called on Morosov and delivered to him a bourgeois passport.

"But I am a peasant. I never owned any property. I am a Bolshevik. Here is my party membership card," protested Morosov with indignation.

"This is your personal affair. Take the passport and pay the 25 rubles," was the final answer. Morosov had to comply, but got a receipt for his money and lodged a complaint.

Official correspondence in Soviet Russia has a way of traveling for many long days and passing through numberless bureaus before it is acted upon. I met an agricultural expert in Moscow managing some communal estates in the country, who came to the capital to obtain the funds necessary for his work. It was May and every hour that he stayed away from the country was extremely valuable. When I saw him he had spent two weeks in Moscow, succeeding in drawing 25,000 rubles only after obtaining the signatures of seven officials and after wasting many days waiting in various reception rooms. He spoke bitterly of the Soviet bureaucracy, taking a very gloomy view of its consequences.

2500 CIVIL SUITS FILED FOR OCTOBER CIRCUIT COURT TERM

Most of Them Are Personal-Injury Claims Against U. R. and Railroad Administration.

Approximately 2,500 civil suits have been filed for the October term of the Circuit Court. Arthur E. Geserich, cashier in the Circuit Clerk's office, said the number is a record-breaker, any previous general filing of suits for one term not exceeding 2000. Yesterday was the last day for entering suits for the term, which begins Oct. 6, and the Deputy Circuit Clerks and Sheriffs were busy getting out writs for service. In order to have the case heard at the next term the defendants must have been served by last midnight.

Most of the cases filed are damage claims for personal injury. The increase in litigation is due, it was explained, to the failure of the Railroad Administration and the receiver for the United Railways to settle claims without a suit. In such actions the defendants named are Director-General Hines of the railroads and Receiver Wells of the traction company. One attorney alone filed nearly 200 suits, mostly damage cases, in the last few days.

There are numerous divorce suits on the October docket, but no more than usual, it was stated.

From

Music's Imitation

to

Music's RE-CREATION

In 1877 Thomas A. Edison presented the world with a machine that imitated music. It was the original phonograph—still imitated by other manufacturers.

This small picture is from an actual photograph taken in July, 1919. It shows Leola Lucey, the musical comedy star, making the Edison "Official Test" of one of her recordings. She stood beside the New Edison and began to sing her song. Suddenly she stopped and the New Edison sang the song alone. There was no difference between her voice and its RE-CREATION. The recording was passed as an "Official" Edison RE-CREATION.

We Are To Blame!

If the Corset Department you are accustomed to patronize cannot supply you with do not blame the retailer. He has done his utmost to keep his Nemo stock complete, but in many instances without success.

The present scarcity of Nemo Corsets has proven, beyond a doubt, their necessity to the life and welfare of multitudes of women; and our inability to furnish a sufficient supply may prove a detriment to their health.

The Hygienic Service of Nemo Corsets makes their use imperative; and retailers simply state a fact when they insist that women who have become accustomed to Nemo Corsets cannot and will not wear anything else. They refuse to accept a substitute.

This demonstrates sufficiently the urgent need for Nemo Corsets; and our failure to supply them in quantity, when and where needed, makes us feel

We Owe the Public an Explanation

It takes time to make Nemo Corsets. They are constructed on scientific principles which compel the most careful, painstaking workmanship. Their hygienic features are adjusted to the most minute detail, and only the most expert operators can make them.

Under the most trying conditions the Nemo Standard of Quality and Hygienic Service has been and will be maintained.

This has made it impossible to increase production and still maintain the Nemo Standard of Quality and Hygienic Service. We have now, however, just added another factory and hope soon to be able to meet and keep up with the demand.

The fact that Nemo Corsets are a benefactor to womankind makes our responsibility all the greater. We promise to fulfill our obligations. Have patience with the retailers and with us.

"SCANDAL" FRONTS HOMESPUN "TILLIE"

Two Widely Divergent Comedies Tonight at American and Shubert-Jefferson.

A more emphatic contrast can scarcely be imagined than that between the two comedies which will be presented for the first time in this city at the Shubert-Jefferson and American Theaters tonight. To the former comes "Scandal," a play based on Cosmo Hamilton's pungent novel; and to the latter a dramatic study of the homely Mennonite sect in Central Pennsylvania, under the title of "Tillie."

The story of "Scandal" concerns a spoiled daughter of wealth, who goes to visit an artist in his rooms at an unsuitable hour. When discovered by her relatives, she proclaims that she has been secretly married, not to the artist, but to a man in another apartment, who happens along providentially. The man accepts the situation for the moment, but is presently demanding that the young woman take her own statement in earnest. Bedroom scenes and much talk ensue, all in the atmosphere of idle-rich society.

"Tillie" is based upon a novel by Helen R. Martin, who has specialized, for fictional purposes, in the Mennonite sect, and one of whose previous novels, "Barnabetta," provided a memorable role for Mrs. Fiske in "Erstwhile Susan." Tillie is a Mennonite maid, apparently fated to hide her prettiness and stifle her feelings all her life, under the suffocation of the narrowness and bigotry of the particular brand of piety in her community.

The arrival of a young Harvard graduate to teach the village school, his giving Tillie books to read, and tempting her to commit the carnal sin of walking with him in the garden by moonlight and even of letting her curls protrude from under her cap, are incidents in a revolt against the village saints which culminates in a stirring and satisfactory climax.

Miss Collinge in Slavey Role.

The title role is taken by Patricia Collinge, who is said to be vastly improved since her days in "Pollyanna," wherein she was forced to be the most saccharine youngster in all stage literature. Her performance of the unfortunate drudge has been pronounced charming and sympathetic. Three others in the company, who were members of Miss Collinge's cast when "Tillie" was presented last January at the Henry Miller Theater in New York, are John W. Ransome, Mildred Booth and J. C. Kline; to them have been added Reed Hamilton, Elliott Nugent, Helen Weathersby, Jennie Dickerson, Edward Waldmann, Kraft Walton and I. M. Brown.

"Scandal" is now being presented by several companies, one of which, after a successful run in Chicago opened 10 days ago in New York. The company coming here has Ann Winston and Herbert Ranson in the chief roles.

Two return engagements are scheduled next week at the American and the Shubert-Jefferson. "A Tailor-Made Man" will be repeated at the American, and Booth Tarkington's "Seventeen" at the Shubert-Jefferson.

A troupe of Spanish singers and dancers, recruited from a Spanish opera company which tempted fate in New York, with the result that some of its members have resorted to vaudeville, will lead the program at the Orpheum this week. Other announcements are Miss Juliet, in "A One-Girl Revue;" Bernard and Duffy, in "Have a Smile;" O'Donnell and Blair, in "The Piano Tuner;" Henry B. Toomer, in "The Wife Saver;" Claudia Coleman, in "Feminine Types;" Phina and a company, in songs and dances, and the Salla brothers in flips and flops.

BOYS BUILD TRENCHES TO THROW BRICKS AT GERMAN NEIGHBORS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DALLAS, Tex.—Although the Germans have signed the armistice and the peace treaty the event means nothing to the children of two German and two American families who live on opposite sides of a street in this city. These youngsters continue fighting as they have been doing for more than a year. There are five children in each of the families, giving each army ten "fighting men." At present four of the Germans are on the casualty list and this fact accounted for a furious attack on the part of the young "Yanks" this week which led the entire armies to the juvenile court and eventually brought their parents in for a lecture by the Judge.

These "armies" became so proficient in the arts of war that they dug two trenches in the street and from these trenches hurled rocks, bricks and scrap iron at each other and at thir houses from day to day. It was said in court the windows of the houses had been shattered and the parents of the fighters were on the verge of a feud.

The crisis came this week when one of the neighbors was struck on the head by a brickbat hurled from a "Yank trench" at the head of a "German" in another trench. Both armies were arrested and an officer was sent out to destroy the trenches.

Ships Officers Convicted.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Capt. LEAGUE TO SUPPLANT STATE SUFFRAGE BODY

Missouri Organization Will Make Changes to Conform With Principles of New Organization.

The Missouri Equal Suffrage Association is to pass out of existence, and its place will be taken by a State Chapter of the League of Women Voters, according to plans for a convention of the women voters of Missouri to be held Oct. 15-17 at Hotel Statler. The call for the meeting was sent out yesterday by the officers of the Missouri Equal Suffrage Association.

The League of Women Voters was established at the National Suffrage Convention in St. Louis last winter, with the purpose of using direct action at the polls to redress political wrongs directed against women, and to purify electoral and other unworthy political conditions. There is to be a series of changes in the constitution of the Missouri Equal Suffrage organization to enable it to conform with the principles of the league.

In order to abate an opinion that seems to have been gaining ground recently, the association has issued a pamphlet reciting that while the league is political in a wide sense, it is in no way partisan, its members being entirely free to such party affiliations as appear to them desirable.

Under terms of the call, the convention will consist of some 200 delgates from all over the State, representing the different suffrage organizations of Missouri. There will be a considerable number of outside guests of distinction, among them Mrs. Charles H. Brooks of Wichita, Kan., national chairman of the League of Women Voters, who is expected to make one of the keynote speeches of the convention.

The arrangements for the convention and the entertainment of the delegates are in the hands of the State body, of which Mrs. George Gellhorn is president. The social phases of the meeting will include luncheons at the women's clubs in formal dinners each evening, and the afternoons.

DAWSON DRY, WITH GAMBLING AND DANCE HALLS DESOLATE

By the Associated Press.

DAWSON, Y. T., Sept. 20.—"So this is Dawson. Well, how the old place has changed." A grizzled miner, one of the old-timers who mushed over the Chilkoot Pass to the Klondike during the first rush and who then succumbed to the "Lure of the Yukon," returned to the metropolis of the gold fields recently and thus gave expression to his surprise.

Dawson is dry now. Venerable dance halls of this once wild Arctic city are empty, desolate, barn-like. Gambling houses and other "joints" have been cleaned out. Some have been remodeled and will be used for stores. The habitues and the gamesters—most of them, at least—have fled. The rest are "making their getaway" for days are getting short and the boat season is approaching a close.

Closing of the bars in Dawson City marks the end of the wide-open saloon in North America, from the Arctic Circle to the Rio Grande.

Government vendor shops are to be opened here and at White Horse. Wholesale dealers are turning over their remaining stocks to the Government at cost price, laid down here, plus a year's interest of 12 per cent.

Mexico is said to be the destination of many adventurers who spent a decade or more in this region.

"Watch Your Feet"

Sensenbrenner's
SIXTH AND ST. CHARLES

GERMANS INSTRUCTED IN USE OF ARMS FROM CRADLE

otism." And that's the main thing.

Willie Krause is to become a business man after all. Too bad. He would rather be an officer. But for that, more money is needed than the parents can still raise; and whoever isn't of the aristocracy can only through a very particularly favorable chance get into the "fine" regiments. To be a student would also be nice. Brother Emil, the philologist, wears a colored students' cap and sports three colored knots on his watch chain; sports also strange, warlike, healed wounds on his cheeks and chin, the results of student duelling, and can drink half a quart of beer at one swallow; can, if desired, repeat this performance several times in succession. But who knows how long the poor fellow will have to wait for an appointment? And when he finally lands one, the pay is wretchedly small and there's small prospect of rapid advancement.

Nobility of Soul Useless.

Willie has from his earliest youth heard that one must be strong, self-assertive, self-confident, use one's elbows, crowd the competitor out of the way, get ahead, not let one's self be intimidated and imposed on; only actual performance, accomplishment, matters; everything else is incidental. Always and everywhere he has seen that people whose nobility of soul, whose spotlessly clean character, is praised find no place, no patron, that on the other hand everyone is eager to acquire people for his business or enterprise who have the reputation of unscrupulous shiftiness. Nobility of soul is therefore worth nothing; metaphysics are merely phraseology or furniture for the parlor, which one opens only on Sundays and holidays. "Deutschland ueber alles" means performance above everything.

The two concepts blend into one. The ideas of fatherland and nation become identified with the concept of a "mutual association for gain," whose power increases the power of each of its members and therefore brings in interest. He who is efficient performs much, is thorough and doesn't "do anything foolish"—meaning deviate from the highway of practical self-interest, to become conspicuous through some "incorrectness" or other, or even to marry "for love" a girl without dowry—will quickly get to the top, and once there can buy whatever his heart craves—orders, titles, state "honors" of all kinds.

German Pride in Titles.

Willie knows no other world except the one in which there are imperial, royal, grand ducal purveyors to the court, in which everyone is addressed and referred to by his title, the wife even by her husband's title, be it merely that of an "expediting railroad secretary;" a world in which nearly every gray-haired head is called a "Herr Geheimrat" and in which the guests invited to even the smallest private dinner wear all their order ribbons, crosses, stars, oak leaves and swords on show. Willie has been brought up to be nationalist and militarist, educated to rigid brusqueness and to underrating everything foreign. Now he shall and will become a business man, because one can make a success in life quicker.

From his education and the sum of beliefs which his education gave him a bridge leads into his future occupation in life. His father said comfortingly:

"If you behave yourself, young fellow, you can become a reserve officer!"

There is a goal toward which all his forces not otherwise absorbed by the striving for profit can passionately strive toward. One of brother Emil's many cares, as that of every grown-up German, was to see that his military papers were always in good order; he was commanded to report at control meetings, he was called up for exercises with arms, his "politics" too were controlled, and he belonged to an association of regimental comrades. If Willie could succeed in getting as far up as a Lieutenant of the reserve, then would heaven open for him and he would receive the initiation into the "first estate of the state."

This, too, he achieves, competent in every field of activity. He has his own peculiar "honor," possessed only by officers, whose injury must be atoned in a duel; he stands under a "council of honor," a court of honor, and can place on his visiting card, "Lieutenant d.R., Section Chief in the Department Store Rudolf Spiegelberg & Co." and may watch the parade in uniform which the all-highest War Lord is graciously pleased personally to review.

Double Life of Officer.

Did he ever dream of greater wonders as he played with his lead and tin soldiers on the floor of the nursery? He leads a double life, like Moliere's coachman-cook in "Harpagon," he is business man and officer, but always in the service of the Mutual Benefit Association, which bears different names and which must be promoted with various tools.

The growing up and life experiences of such a Willie Krause are typically German; typical in a nation which attained unity and prosperity late, which therefore gives offense by many a parvenu quality, which out of its own resources cannot feed all its children; and to which the thought is always hammered home that it ought no longer to remain a nation of dreamers and poets, and which was dyed to the roots by the Prussian ideal of "efficient performance at any price;" which had to be thus colored by Prussia because Prussia had helped it to attain unity and prosperity. Other nations have different histories, conditions of life, qualities; have they only nobler qualities? A Pharisee, blindly in love with himself, may believe that.

Don't forget Willie Krause when, in quick anger, you damn the strange mentality of the latter-day Germans! He was too competent, in order to be moral in the highest sense; he was too blindly obedient and loyal to the state, as a mutual benefit association, to feel himself as a serving member of humanity; and for the worshiper of Performance the noble content of the soul had no market value. Was it really so very much better elsewhere in the time of the selfish mammon cult? Was not only the outer husk, the form, different from that of Willie's?

His world your arms have smashed to bits; and the German world of Wolfram and Walter von der Vogelweide, of Duerer and Gruenewald, of Kant, Goethe, Schiller, Lessing, Schopenhauer, Moericke, Bach, Haendel, Beethoven, Mozart, Schubert of all the artists, scientists, benefactors of humanity of German race can arise again. In that world every man is valued at just as much as he is worth by his own grace, not by the grace of others; every man is pledged to maintain loyalty to himself, to the deity in his bosom; in that world honor cannot be conferred or taken away from without, and the empire of Humanity, which alone is worth while, begins only beyond Efficiency, Thoroughness and its Income.

But do not forget, either, that without warmth there never was life; and, likewise, do not make up your minds too late, after the hideously purple world wound, to have a friendly, trustful understanding for the Germany that wants to be. Then will the report about Willie's Germany soon begin, like an old fairy tale: "Once upon a time"——

QUEENSTOWN PROTESTS AGAINST LOSS OF TOURIST TRAFFIC

DUBLIN, Sept. 20.—There are numerous protests in the Irish press against the abandonment of Queenstown as a port of call for great American liners. In future only the small vessels are to call there and it is pointed out that this means that the profitable tourist traffic from America will be taken direct to England.

MINE EXHIBIT TO BE SHOWN HERE NOV. 17-21

Exposition, to Be Opened by Secretary Lane, Will Be Held Jointly With U. S. Mining Congress.

The National Exposition of Mines and Mining, embracing exhibits of mining machinery, safety devices and labor-saving appliances from practically every state in the Union, will be held in the Exposition Building, formerly the old Southern Hotel, Nov. 17 to 21.

The exposition, which will be held jointly with the meeting of the American Mining Congress at the Planters Hotel during the same week, is scheduled to be opened by Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior.

It is planned to instal the exhibits immediately after the close of the St. Louis Exposition of Industrial Arts and Crafts, which will be held in the same building from Oct. 15 to Nov. 11.

John T. Burns of Washington, D. C., assistant secretary of the American Mining Congress, who arrived here yesterday from Washington to assist the local committee in working out arrangements for the congress and exposition, said last night that the exposition will be the largest distinctly mining exhibit ever held in the United States.

"While we now have less than two months to plan for the huge task of staging one of the largest mining exhibits ever held, I am convinced that the 'St. Louis spirit' will make it a big success. During my recent visits to this city I have had occasion to meet many of your leading business men and have seldom before encountered such enthusiasm in connection with a convention of this nature."

The convention of the American Mining Congress was secured several months ago largely through the efforts of the St. Louis Convention and Publicity Bureau, and the decision to hold a national exposition here came about following a visit to St. Louis two weeks ago of Morton F. Leopold, safety engineer, United States Bureau of Mines, who represented Secretary of the Interior Lane.

There will be open discussion of labor's plan to nationalize industry and the effect of labor control of railroads and mines upon all national activities will be shown. The relation of mining to industrial prosperity and the close connection between the present low per man production and the extraordinary cost of all commodities will be discussed. There will be national conferences of gold and silver producers, coal operators, oil shale and petroleum men, state geologists and economists, with special programs for each. War mineral producers and those interested in tariff for American mineral and chemical products are being called together and advocates and opponents of blue-sky laws, leasing bills and conservation will hold special conferences.

NAVY SEEKS CARPENTERS' MATES

Schools for Recruits Have Been Established on Each Coast.

The navy is looking for recruits with a slight knowledge of woodworking to serve as carpenters' mates on board ship and in the air service.

Schools for general service men in this branch have been established on each coast and a thorough course in airplane woodworking is given at the mechanics' school at the Great Lakes. The work on board ship will consist of boat repairing and cabinet making, while men in the air service will make propellers and wing supports.

FIND NEW DIAMOND FIELD

A discovery which may result in the development of a new diamond field in the Gold Coast of Africa has been reported by the British Geological Survey. According to a statement by the Colonial Office in London, the precious stones have been found in shallow quartz gravels of the Abomo stream and an adjacent ridge, near the village of Abomoso, on the Birrim River. This is some 65 miles northwest of Accra, the capital of the colony.

All the stones found up to the present have been small. Most of them have been of good quality, clear and colorless, while many were perfect crystals.

More than 600 diamonds were found by panning while the terrain in the vicinity was being tested to determine the origin and distribution of the diamondiferous gravels The investigation has not proceeded far enough as yet, the statement says, to prove the economic value of the discovery.

SOIL EXPOSITION AT KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 20.—An exposition of world interest is scheduled to open in convention hall Wednesday morning—the International Soil Products Exposition. The fourteenth annual session of the International Farm Congress will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday in Convention Hall.

Missouri will not be represented at the exposition. The last Legislature passed a bill appropriating $15,000, of which $5000 was to have been used for an exhibit this year, $5000 for the 1920 show and $5000 for premiums. The Governor vetoed the bill. A few counties in which farmers prepared exhibits will be represented.

REPUBLICAN CLUBS TO MEET

A State convention of the Republican clubs of Missouri will be held in Moberly, Nov. 11.

A camapign is being made of the entire State for the organization of new clubs and to try to bring the membership in the clubs to 100,000 before the date of the convetion.

You cannot Judge a player-piano
You can Judge the maker

If you will give this a little thought you will see we are right. In the first place, when you buy a Player-Piano this year, you don't expect to buy another next year, or even five years from now.

So the really big point in buying a Player-Piano is—will it still be good ten years from now?

Making a Player-Piano that will be good ten years from now means using the best of materials in places where they are not seen—it means doing a lot of things that cost money, but aren't apparent.

The Aeolian Company produces residential pipe organs costing in the thousands of dollars—it is the maker of the famous Pianola, and the marvelous Duo-Art Piano. It is the largest producer of musical instruments in the world.

Unusual manufacturing facilities mean unusual economies in production. But quality comes first. You cannot expect a quality Player-Piano at a lesser price than that of the

ALKALI IN SOAP BAD FOR THE HAIR

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—ADV.

Earl Curzon Says Only Object of Agreement Is to Insure Nation's Independence.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—Great Britain's treaty with Persia does not constitute a protectorate of the latter country in any way, the only object of the agreement being to ensure Persia an opportunity to work out her destiny as an independent country, said Earl Curzon, Government leader in the House of Lords and president of the council, in speaking at a dinner given here last night in honor of the Foreign Minister of Persia. The speaker admitted there had been misunderstandings of the treaty, but said there was no ground for suspicion as would be proved by the working out of the agreement.

An "era of chaos and confusion in Asia" was forecast by Earl Curzon, who declared it would be some time before stability is restored in regions formerly dominated by Russia and Turkey.

"I see it stated in some quarters that this agreement is a disparagement or deliberate neglect of the league of nations. Articles 10 and 20 of the covenant are supposed in some sense to have been ignored by us.

"I would say emphatically on behalf of my Government and after a conversation with his highness this afternoon, that both his Government and mine accept unreservedly articles 10 and 20 of the covenant of the league of nations and that we see in them nothing inconsistent with what we have done. On the contrary, as soon as the treaty of peace is ratified and as soon as the council of the league of nations comes into effective existence, it is the intention of his Government and mine to communicate the agreement to the council of the league with a full explanation and defense of its contents."

LEADERS ON STAGE TELL WHAT LED TO STRIKE

Statement of Actors Reviews Conditions That Resulted in Forming of Equity.

Over their signatures a number of well-known actors and actresses have issued a statement, prepared for them by George Creel, covering their view of the recent actors' strike and the events leading up to it. The signers are John Drew, Marjorie Rambeau, John Emerson, Edith Taliaferro, Ed Wynn, Ernest Truax, Helen Ware and Lillian Russell.

The review begins with the explanation that in the earlier days of the profession the managers were either players or else men of artistic gifts and dramatic insight; every venture was in the nature of a partnership between the manager and the actors, and money was not the chief incentive.

"With prosperity, came the commercial conquest of the theater by business men moved only by business instinct," it stated, with the result that "factory methods were adopted with respect to hiring, borrowed millions were brought in, and to earn the largest possible returns on huge investments every trick of bartering was brought into use. The players, however, did not change as conditions changed. As a matter of course this attitude delivered them into the hands of the theater's new commercial control, and evils and injustices crept in that grew to have the weight of millstones about the neck of the unfortunate player."

Rehearsals Never Paid For

Among the abuses recited were the following: Rehearsals were never paid for, though lasting as long as 15 weeks, and there was no assurance that more than one week's salary would be paid; the player at the whim of the manager, was subject to discharge at a moment's notice; if a tour was canceled in some distant place like California or Texas, the players could get back to New York as best they could; the practice grew general of cutting salaries in half during the two weeks before Christmas, the two weeks before Easter, and election week; there was an increasing habit of canceling Saturday night performances and deducting one-eighth of the player's salary; and all costumes had to be provided by the actors.

Out of these wrongs came the Actors' Equity Association, organized on the spur of the moment by five or six prominent actors who met casually at the Players' Club, in 1913. A fairly representative membership was enlisted, and with legal aid the "equitable contract" was framed and laid before the managers. "For three years," it is declared, "the equity went cap in hand from office to office begging common justice, common decency, and meeting only with insult and derision."

As a result, in 1916 a unanimous vote of the equity membership gave the council the power to affiliate with the American Federation of Labor whenever such decision seemed wise and necessary, for "the actors had watched the musicians of the theater form themselves into a union, had seen them join the ranks of organized labor, and were exactly familiar with their entrance into decent incomes, self-respect and independence."

Few Kept Pledge, They Say.

Then it was that the managers put aside their refusals of three years, held so-called "contract meetings" with the actors during the summer of 1917, and agreed upon an "equity contract" that promised a remedy for most of the old abuses. But the allegation is made that few managers kept their solemn pledges. Many delayed months in the issuance of the new contracts, and 90 per cent broke them continuously.

In May, 1919, the new Producing Managers' Association was formed, which, in the midst of apparently friendly negotiations over amendments to the "equity contract," suddenly, like a thunderclap, gave a statement to the press denouncing the demands of the actors as "extortionate," and declaring that the Equity would not be recognized or dealt with in the future. The conservative leaders among the players offered to arbitrate, and named Messrs. Taft and Hughes, who consented to serve. The managers declined to arbitrate.

Therefore, in July, 1919, the council exercised its authority and affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, "receiving a charter that granted full autonomy, entire control of internal policies and funds, and guaranteeing against the Equity's inclusion in strikes unless specifically authorized by its own membership."

Then came war. From June to August a progressive lockout disemployed member after member, the statement proceeds, threats, persuasion and bribery were used to destroy the Equity morale, and as a last resort the managers huckstered a contract that seemed to grant all the Equity's demands, but included a "fake" arbitration clause which would have returned the individual actor to his old powerlessness.

How the Strike Progressed.

On. Aug. 7, almost without a dissenting vote, the 4200 members declared in favor of a strike. In a week the membership leaped to 8000. Twelve companies were called out the first night; as the managers were not even then induced to take the revolt seriously, one company after another was called out, until only one non-Equity show in New York kept its doors open. Thereupon the managers, using "their highly paid press agents," sent up the cry of "contract-breakers."

The answer to this charge is that as far back as June the managers had committed not merely contract breaking but contract destruction by their public repudiation of the Equity Association. The actors also affirm that at no stage did they demand the closed shop. They conceived the idea of giving their own shows, and then "the possibilities of a theater operated by players in the interest of real dramatic art, together with the grim fraternalism of the allied stage crafts, brought the managers face to face with the certainty of defeat." They consented to receive a form of contract, but sent it back so adroitly altered as to "destroy all possible value." When the actors refused to accept it, the managers announced that negotiations had been broken off by reason of the high-handed methods of the Equity.

There had not been a moment in the last two weeks of the strike, it is asserted, when it was not in the power of the Equity to paralyze the theater throughout the country. This statement of the managers was the last straw, and the word went forth that made the strike national and complete. The rush of managers to resume conferences was swift and instant. At 3 a. m. on Sept. 6, the strike ended with the signing of a contract that "embodied practically every Equity demand."

ECONOMIC STRAIN ON TEACHERS HARD, PRINCIPALS SAY

64 Heads of Public Elementary Schools Adopt Statement Explaining Purpose of Their Organization.

CLAIM SALARIES ARE INADEQUATE

Intelligence Level Raised Only by Education and Not by Demands or Threats, It Is Declared.

Sixty-four principals of elementary schools met yesterday at Central High School, and adopted a statement setting forth the purposes of an organization which will probably be completed at a meeting Oct. 4. One hundred and two men and women are eligible for membership, and it is expected that most of these will be enrolled as charter members.

Miss Lillia R. Ernst, principal of the Cote Brilliante School, is chairman of the temporary organization committee, and the other members are E. S. Williams, John J. Maddox, P. S. Stevenson and C. L. Sampson.

In their statement the principals speak of their salaries as inadequate, and say that proper compensation of teachers is a sign of a community's progress in intelligence. The level of intelligence, it is added, can be raised only by education, and not by demands or threats. The resolution commends the Board of Education for having in the past been responsive to the teachers' needs.

No plan of affiliation with labor organizations is being considered, according to members of the committee.

The paragraphs of chief interest in the principals' resolution are as follows:

Inadequate Pay a Menace.

"The economic strain under which all America is laboring is probably heavier for the teaching profession than for workers in general, because teachers have never received salaries commensurate with their needs as professionally trained workers in a peculiarly exacting field. The inadequacy of their remuneration has now become a serious menace to the communities themselves, in that the profession cannot find a sufficient number of worthy recruits or prevent desertions.

"As productive, or rather as creative, workers teachers add to a community's assets a product that can be given no market price nor has it barterable value. As a result it is only as a community grows in intelligence to the point of being able to evaluate the teachers' service and output, that teachers may hope for a fair measure of justice in the recognition that their communities accord them.

"The intelligence level of a community cannot be raised by demands, by threats, or by any means other than those calm processes of education in which the teacher is and should be expert; by these alone is it proper for the teaching profession to influence a community to its profit and to their mutual satisfaction.

"In the long history of the St. Louis public schools, at no time have the officers and teachers of the schools made known to the community, through the Board of Education, any emergency, difficulty or real need that required the community's intelligent cooperation and interest, and failed to meet with a just and proper response.

Responsibilities of Principals.

"The principals of the elementary schools in the St. Louis system are the school officers who are responsible for the practical administration of the major part of the investment of the community in school buildings and equipment; for the proper expenditure of the major part of the current maintenance expenses of the system. They are responsible, as professionally trained school officers, for the welfare and work of the large majority of teachers in the service of the community; and for the welfare and progress of more than 90 per cent of the children of the public schools. Upon the elementary school principals, therefore, to a very great extent, as administrative and educational officers, depend the returns to the community on their investment of millions of dollars in permanent plants and materials, and annually of millions of dollars in pay rolls for teachers' services.

"Therefore, it seems wise and proper to form an association of all who fill the position of principals, in order that the greater complexities and the new demands of public education may be met with as much intelligence as their associated thinking and discussion and counselling together may net to the group; in order to maintain in so responsible a body as the group of public school principals a balanced judgment and a sane and calm mind in the midst of the agitated and systerical condition of these times; in order to make it easier for each one to meet his own problem by the fact of his association with all the members of his group in order to be able more effectively to make the community know as it should know what difficulties and serious menaces lie in the immediate way of its most precious investment, and in order that the principals may be ready in every sense for any call that the Board of Education or the Superintendent of Instruction may need to make upon them for extra service."

New System of Fat Reduction

Here's a new way for all fat people to laugh together at that old bugaboo—Obesity. The saying that "there is nothing new under the sun" does not now apply to fat people any more. Here is something new for them—a new sensation, a new pleasure, a new and graceful figure, easily found by anyone who is passing beyond the limits of slimness. Everyone has heard of the Marmola Prescription; that harmless combination of fat-defying elements discovered by one of our foremost physicians. Now, from the same high authority, there comes another idea—the idea of condensing these same pure, harmless ingredients into a pleasant little tablet. Taken after eating and at bedtime, they help the stomach to dispose of all the fatty foods, converting them into compact, solid flesh, muscle and energy, without dieting or exercise. Marmola Prescription Tablets regulate the entire system—do for you what bodily exertion and self-denial cannot do, and the fat, once routed, is gone for good. You can prove all this at a trifling cost. Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists or sent postpaid by the Marmola Co., 864 Woodward Av., Detroit, Mich., A large case—sufficient to bring lasting results—is but $1.—ADV.

AMERICAN TOURISTS BEGIN TO FILL HOTELS OF BERLIN

Proprietors and Waiters Rejoice—Miss Anne Morgan Among Visitors.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

BERLIN, Sept. 19.—The American season has set in with a rush. A strong advance guard, made up mostly of professional and business men, has been pouring in by way of Holland, Copenhagen and Coblenz. According to the German police records 279 Americans have arrived in Berlin the last month against 140 French, 122 British, 74 Belgians and 53 Italians.

Proprietors, managers and the hotel help, especially the waiters, are rejoiced at seeing real American tourists coin again.

Socially the most prominent American visitor to Berlin since the war began is Miss Anne Morgan, who came from Paris on a sight-seeing trip, and who spent two days at the Hotel Adlon last week under the chaperonage of the French military authorities. The Berlin press featured her as "Anna Pierpont Morgan, the multi-millionaire member of the Red Cross."

Miss Morgan was the cynosure of all Teutonic eyes in the restaurant of the Hotel Adlon, where she dined as the guest of Gen. Dupont, chief of the French mission.

An amusing dilemma nearly marred Miss Morgan's first meal in Berlin. She arrived in the city wearing her regulation blue uniform of the Red Cross. She had brought no other clothes with her. Retiring to her apartments—the former imperial suite of the Hotel Adlon—Miss Morgan sent her uniform to be pressed. Luncheon arrived, but no uniform. She was obliged to telephone Gen. Dupont that she was ill and could not be present at luncheon. The uniform, however, was returned later, and Miss Morgan had a delayed luncheon.

Miss Anne Dike came here with Miss Morgan, the party being accompanied by Gen. Dupont's aide-de-camp, Aviation Lieut. Baron du Ruve.

ST. LOUISAN TO SPEAK IN ALTON

Nicholson of St. Louis, recently elected president of the Burlington Way Association, a national organization interested in the development of an interstate highway connecting Duluth, Minn., with New Orleans, will address a meeting at Alton tomorrow night, where the development of the highway in that vicinity will be considered.

Nicholson is also vice president of the St. Louis Automobile Club. His election to the presidency of the Burlington Association took place at a meeting of members at Jackson, Tenn., last week. The Burlington Way passes through Missouri at only one point—between the McKinley and Free Bridges in St. Louis. R. S. PREDICTS PROFIT IN TOWS AND BARGES ON LOWER RIVER

Director of Inland Waterways of Railroad Administration Testifies Before House Committee.

PRAISES TERMINAL CITY IS BUILDING

Asserts That Proper Facilities Alone Are Needed Now to Make Mississippi Service a Financial Success.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—There is no doubt in the mind of G. A. Tomlinson, Director of the Division of Inland Waterways of the Railroad Administration, that the lower Mississippi River can operate a system of tows and barges profitably provided the proper terminal facilities are created.

Tomlinson stated this conclusion in testimony before the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, which is holding hearings on various measures proposed for future railroad control.

"We have been putting in the joint rates as fast as it seems practicable," said Tomlinson. "Of course, I am essentially a waterways man, and I am speaking only from the waterways standpoint. We have tried to go along intelligently because our fleet is so inadequate and so uneconomical that to make any large joint rates at the present time would be suicidal, because we would disappoint the shipper and hurt our ultimate operation."

In reply to further questions, Tomlinson said that if the fleets that have been created by the Railroad Administration are not sold, they necessarily will continue under Federal control and, personally, he did not see how the joint rates could be destroyed.

Chairman Esch remarked that with the cessation of Federal control, the rates, like all other Government-made rates, would come under the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

All the inland waterway rates, said Tomlinson, are today subject to the approval of this commission. He added that the Government had the power, or at least was exercising the power, of making intrastate as well as interstate rates.

Representative Sims asked to what extent the Northwest was using the joint rates, and Tomlinson replied: "Not very extensively yet."

Is Pioneering Matter.

"It is largely a pioneering matter," he said, "and we are trying to get the subject introduced so that, with the completion of our steel fleet of large units, we can do something in a large way.

Questioned about terminals, Tomlinson said that the new city terminal at St. Louis was a "splendid installation." This terminal, he added, was not half completed while there were no facilities at East St. Louis.

He said that on the Mississippi section, although the municipalities were willing to create terminals for their local business, they were apparently not interested in the erection of terminals for through business by rail and water. Asked whether such terminals should be built at the joint expense of the rail and water carriers Tomlinson said that he had no definite views on that point. He said that the Director-General has caused estimates of the cost of terminals on the Mississippi and Warrior Rivers to be prepared, but had made no commitments.

Representative Merritt referred to testimony before the commission that boat traffic on the Mississippi River has been choked off by the railroads paralleling the river.

"This commission," he said, wants to foster all kinds of commerce. The question is whether to protect the river traffic a differential in favor of the river traffic must be kept; in other words, whether, with open and free competition, the river traffic can live or not?" Tomlinson replied: "With eight feet of water, adequate terminals, joint rates and good water equipment, freight can be carried cheaper by water than by rail; that is, certain freight; not all freight."

History of Development.

Tomlinson declined to say whether, in his opinion, water carriers should be returned to private control at the same time that rail carriers are returned. That, he said, was a question of policy of the Director-General. He said that he had made no recommendation of a policy to be pursued in connection with the waterways after the end of Federal railroad control. Tomlinson gave a history of the development on the Lower Mississippi River and the Warrior under the Railroad Administration, saying that of the total authorization of $9,681,087 to the Director-General, $4,223,542 had been spent to Sept. 1. This provided for the building of 40 steel barges for the Mississippi, of which two had been delivered, one would be delivered Saturday and the rest at the rate of four or five a month.

In addition, contracts were let for six tow boats, two of which would be delivered in December, two in January and two in February or March. Describing the present equipment on the Mississippi, Tomlinsin said:

"This is only a temporary arrangement, the idea being to institute service on the Mississippi as early as possible in order that we may co-ordinate with the Railroad Administration in the promulgation of joint rates in opening up the whole traffic problem.

The Lower Mississippi service, said Tomlinson, in the period from its beginning in October, 1918, up to the end of last June, operated at a loss of $411,169. This included an item of $85,000 caused by a disaster to a boat loaded with coffee.

Presenting figures on the Mississippi River tonnage by months, Tomlinson said that the marked falling off in July was due to inability to keep the old boats in operation.

Traffic in Upper River.

There is a tendency to develop an increase in tonnage away from the river bank, he added, the joint rates being utilized by shippers as far north as Chicago. He said that when he was in New Orleans he noted that large tonnage was being sent to St. Louis by rail and thence by water to New Orleans.

Asked whether the establishment of a line of tows and barges on the upper Mississippi would enable the lower river to show a profit Tomlinson said it would "to a certain extent. "It is quite possible," he added, "on northbound tonnage, to load a cargo in full at New Orleans, take off part at St. Louis, and continue on to St. Paul. That is physically possible, but whether it would be practicable or not I would not care to say."

He said that the administration had nothing to do with the Goltra line on the Upper Mississippi.

Chairman Esch suggested that the Missouri River, like the Upper Mississippi, might be linked up with the lower river and carry freight from Kansas City or even above. Tomlinson agreed that the Missouri, so developed, "would naturally act as a feeder to the main highway."

"So you can state from your experience," said Esch, "and from a survey of the possible commerce that may be developed, that the lower river can profitably operate a system of tows and barges?"

"I have no doubt of it," replied Tomlinson, "provided the proper terminals are created."

PARIS CHIEF OF POLICE BARS WAGNERIAN MUSIC

French Press Assails 'Idiocy' of Prohibiting Playing of "Lohengrin" and "Siegfried."

Special Corresponlence of the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, France, Aug. 26.—Newspaper satirists here are having fun with a prefect of police who forbade a concert program in the Tuileries Garden composed of the music of Wagner and Berlioz. Judging from the sputter of comment aroused, the French music lover is beginning to grow a bit hungry for the strains of "Lohengrin" and "Siegfried." It is said a club is soon to be formed under whose auspices Wagnerian music will be privately performed.

A writer in Le Journal thus sarcastically refers to the ban that descended upon the Tuileries concert:

"Dogs without muzzles are taboo in the squares and public gardens; so is the music of Wagner.

"Meantime, Germany sends us Bolshevist tracts by the carload. She has withdrawn the millions of bayonets which she has been exporting to us for five years; but she is already replacing them by table and pocket knives. She is preparing to invade us industrially and commercially. What of that? Supposing some curious person should ask of the authorities an explanation of this German aggression, no doubt the reply will be, 'Don't worry. We are on guard. We have forbidden Wagner's music in the Tuileries.'"

The writer continues:

"I am not passionately fond of Wagner's music. I even admit barefacedly that as between Wagner and Saint-Saens, I prefer Messenet. But that does not prevent me from thinking this boycott idiotic. Were we the defeated people in this war we might well find insolent these operas, which would exalt the pride of a victorious nation. Siegfried forging his sword would then be an undesirable. But all of Wagner's Valhalla has collapsed. Siegfried has fled weaponless into Holland. So now we may well listen without bitterness to the music of the god of Bayreuth. The dragon, Fafner, who pretended to frighten, is now but a caged beast to whom we throw bits of bread."

Copies of the peace treaty are being sold for 20 francs (nominally $4) at the book stores that offer official works for sale. The supply is far from being equal to the demand. So far 20,000 copies have been printed, and a large number of these were sold to various delegations of the allies, who thought it more economical to buy them in France than to reprint the treaty themselves. The national publisher is contemplating a second edition in view of the fact that, as one bookseller remarked, "The peace treaty, at 20 francs, is proving a better seller than some novels that cost only 7 francs."

SUIT FILED TO TERMINATE TRUST

One of Four Sons Asks Right to Control Estate.

A suit was filed yesterday by Marion C. Early as attorney for George J. Gerhart of 5015 Cabanne avenue to terminate a trust created by the will of his father, Peter G. Gerhard, by which the son's share of the parent's estate was tied up until such time as three other sons, Frank H., Charles B. and Thomas S. Gerhart, deemed he was capable of handling the property.

It is alleged that Frank H. and Charles B. Gerhart, two of the trustees, are in favor of ending the trust and turning the property over to their brother, but that the third, Thomas S. Gerhart, will not give consent to such action.

George Gerhart's interest is valued in excess of $25,000. Since the death of his father he has been receiving only the income from the property held in trust. The elder Gerhart helped lay out Forest Park. He was in the real estate business.

SYMPHONY SCREWS SEAT COST UP A PEG

Advanced Prices Announced for Season Tickets, Due to Various Causes.

The Symphony Orchestra has now harmonized itself with the concert of higher costs, and has speeded up its price of seats to an accelerated tempo. It was stated at the office yesterday that the cost of season tickets in the parquet will be increased from $17.50 to $20; first row in the balcony, from $12.50 to $14; second, third and fourth balcony rows, from $9 to $11; and remaining balcony seats, from $7.50 to $9.

As reasons for the advances were given the increased number of high-priced soloists engaged for the season, the enlargement of the orchestra to 81 members, a raise in the minimum wage scale paid to musicians, and a raise in salary for Director Zach.

This year a soloist has been engaged for every pair of regular concerts save one, the exception being a special Christmas concert to be given on Dec. 19 and 20. The season will begin with a popular concert on Nov. 9, which may, according to present plans, be given at the Coliseum instead of the Odeon. The first regular program will be given on Nov. 14 and 15 at the Odeon, with Sophie Braslau, Metropolitan contralto, as soloist.

The list of other soloists and their engagements is as follows: Nov. 21-22, Albert Stoessel, violinist; Nov. 28-29, Sergei Rachmaninoff, pianist; Dec. 12-13, Charles E. Galagher, basso; Jan. 9-10, Albert Spalding, violinist; Jan. 16-17, Rosita Renard, pianist; Jan. 23-24, Julia Claussen, mezzo-soprano; Feb. 6-7, Reinald Werrenrath, baritone; Feb. 13-14, Mabel Garrison, soprano; Feb. 20-21, Michel Gusikoff, violinist; March 5-6, Josef Lhevinne, pianist; March 12-13, H. Max Steindel, violoncellist; and March 19-20, Max Rosen, violinist.

Subscription Sales $41,000.

In addition, the Symphony Orchestra will give a special concert on the evening of Dec. 1, with Mme. Schumann-Heink as soloist, possibly at the Coliseum.

The announcement is made that subscription sales for the Friday and Saturday concerts have passed $41,000, and that the amount is already $6,000 greater than last year's grand total. The St. Louis Art League, the Kiwanis Club and the North St. Louis Business Men's League have completed purchasing their quotas of 100 tickets each. Ten other organizations are pledged to take up all subscriptions remaining unsold after the regular customers are supplied.

CHILDREN WILL RAISE $15,000 FOR ERECTION OF MEMORIAL

Beauty Spot to Be Built on Government Hill to Commemorate War Work

A memorial fountain which promises to be one of the most pretentious beauty spots in Forest Park will be erected on Government Hill to commemorate the war work of the Children of American Loyalty League, which will raise the fund of $15,000 to do the work.

The commission to design and execute the fountain has been awarded to Miss Caroline Risque, a St. Louis sculptor. The contour of the top of the hill is to be completely rearranged to form a proper setting for the memorial. Lily ponds and goldfish pools will form part of the design, the central figure of which will be a heroic feminine statue.

Efforts to raise the fund will start Thursday night with the presentation, under municipal sponsorship, of a spectacle, "Spookland," at the Odeon. The performance will be repeated Friday night under the auspices of the Elks' Lodge, and Saturday night, under the auspices of union labor.

WEDNESDAY JEWISH NEW YEAR

Congregations Will Celebrate Rosh Hashonah and Yom Kippur.

Celebration of Rosh Hashonah, the Jewish New Year, will begin in orthodox and reformed congregations at sunset Wednesday. It will be the beginning of the year 5680 in the Jewish calendar. The celebration will continue in orthodox congregations until sunset Friday, and, in reformed congregations, until sunset Thursday.

Ten days later will be Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, when members of orthodox congregations fast for 24 hours. The week of Succoth, or Feast of the Tabernacles, follows five days after Yom Kippur, and commemorates the dwelling of Israel in the wilderness.

Adjutant-General Harris of the War Department has ordered that all men of Jewish service shall be allowed furloughs for the holiday period when possible, and that services shall be held for the benefit of men who cannot be allowed furloughs.

EIGHTEEN ENTRIES IN TWO BALLOON RACES FROM HERE

Six Will Start in Army-Navy Contest Friday and Twelve More in National Event on Oct. 1.

RIVALRY OF SERVICE MEN IS EXTREME

Entries Include Men of Overseas Service or Wide Military Experience—Records Expected to Be Established

Final arrangements for the Army and Navy balloon race to be held Friday afternoon from Meramec Park, Grand avenue and Meramec street, and the national balloon race on Oct. 1 between pilots representing eight cities, from the same field, have been announced by Maj. Albert Bond Lambert of the Missouri Aeronautical Society.

Six balloons, with a gas capacity of 50,000 cubic feet each, have been entered for the military race. Twelve balloons, having a limit of 80,000 cubic feet, are entered in the national races.

The official list of entries for the Army and Navy race includes men of overseas service or wide military experience in the United States. In the list are Lieutenant-Colonel Jacob W. S. Wuest and Lieut. William E. Huffman of the balloon school at Fort Omaha, Neb.; Capt. E. P. Phillips and Lieut. Harold K. Hine, Brooks Field, San Antonio, Tex., representing the Army; and Lieut. H. W. Hoyt and Ensign F. W. Reichelderfer, U. S. Naval Station, Akron, O.; Ensign J. H. Stevens and Lieut. W. R. Reed, Pensacola, Fla., and Lieut R. Emerson and Ensign F. L. Sloman, Washington, D. C., representing the Navy. The headquarters of the balloonists will be at the Jefferson Hotel.

Capt. Glidden Official Starter.

Capt. Charles J. Glidden, president of the Aerial Touring Association of Washington, D. C., will be the official starter, and Maj. Lambert and Lieut. Edwin F. Hermanns will be in charge of the race. Lieutenant-Commander Lansdowne of Washington will represent Secretary of the Navy Daniels, who will not be able to be present. A silver trophy will be presented to the winner by the Missouri Aeronautical Society.

Contestants in the Army-Navy race will meet Thursday evening and draw lots for the favorable starting position. The first ascension is set for 4:30 p. m. and the balloons will rise at five-minute intervals. The last one to ascend is thought to have an advantage because of the lower temperature.

A reception and dance will be given at Meramec Park the night before the race in honor of Col. and Mrs. M. McFarland, Recruit Depot, Jefferson Barracks; Col. and Mrs. John H. Parker, Recruiting Office, St. Louis; Lieutenant-Colonel Jacob W. S. Wuest, U. S. A. Balloon School, Fort Omaha, Neb; Commander E. A. Brooks, Navy Recruiting Office, St. Louis; Maj. and Mrs. Henry Abbey, Scott Field, Ill.; Capt. William L. Crabbe, Marine Recruiting Office, St. Louis; Capt. Glidden, the officers of the Twelfth Balloon Company and the officers of the army and navy who are to be contestants in the races.

Letters from former aviation men from all over the country have been received by Maj. Lambert, announcing that they will attend. The event will be the first of its kind ever held and the rivalry between the army and navy men is said to be keen. The balloons have reached the field and inflation pipes are being laid to facilitate the race.

In the natural amphitheater at the field there will be seating capacity for 3000 persons and additional space for about 500 automobiles to park within the inclosure. A fee, not yet determined, will be charged for admission to the park. Space has also been made just outside the inclosure for more automobiles, and many may watch the ascensions from outside the park.

National Race Next Week.

Five days later the national balloon races will start, also at 4:30 p. m. Twelve pilots, some of them former army officers, representing eight cities, have entered. Four of the pilots will represent St. Louis and the Missouri Aeronautical Society. They are Capt. Elmer G. Marschuetz, Capt. Ernest S. Cole, William Assman and Paul J. McCullough. Other pilots will be Capt. Carl W. Dammann, representing Wichita, Kan.; Capt. John S. McKibben, Murphysboro, Ill.; G. L. Bumbaugh, Indianapolis; H. E. Honeywell, Kansas City; Ralph Upson, Akron, O.; Capt. Warren Rasor, Brookville, O.; Joseph S. Batt, Aero Club of Massachusetts, and Robert Glendinning, Philadelphia. The last two are recent entries. Capt. Glidden will also be starter of this race.

The four Captains were instructors in the aviation service during the

37 CITIES HAVE UNIONIZED POLICE FORCES CHARTERED BY FEDERATION OF LABOR

Pressure of Organization, With Its 4,000,000 Members, Being Exerted in Washington to Get Recognition of All Such Organizations.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Belleville and Peoria, Ill., St. Joseph and Moberly, Mo., Topeka, Kan., and Tulsa, Ok., are named in a list of 37 cities in which the police forces have been unionized, under charters issued by the American Federation of Labor. The list was issued a few days ago at the national headquarters of the A. F. of L. in Washington.

The important question of public policy involved in the unionizing of police forces, with the strike as a weapon in cases of wage disputes, was not generally realized until the recent strike of Boston's police force, which President Wilson characterized as "a crime against civilization."

The East St. Louis policemen obtained their union charter several months ago, but their delegates have not yet been received by the local Central Trades Union, because of ill feeling which has existed between the police and some branches of East St. Louis union labor.

The Belleville police received their union charter a few days ago. The Mayor had asked them not to affiliate with the national labor body, but his request was overridden.

List of Unionized Forces.

The list of unionized police forces given out by the A. F. of L. includes, besides the seven near-by cities referred to, the cities of Boston, Washington, St. Paul, Los Angeles, Jersey City, Oklahoma City, Knoxville, Tenn., Macon, Ga., Cumberland, Md., Fort Worth, Tex., Norfolk, Va., Pueblo, Colo., Warren, O., Clarksburg, W. Va., Portland, Ore., Meridian, Miss., Evansville, Ind., Terre Haute, Ind., Wheeling, W. Va., Chattanooga, Tenn., Hattiesburg, Miss., Miami, Fla., Superior, Wis., Huntington, W. Va., Portsmouth, Va., Richmond, Cal., Key West, Fla., Zanesville, O., Lynn, Mass., and Vicksburg, Miss. The situation at Macon, Ga., is critical, a strike being imminent because the city authorities have refused to recognize the union.

The pressure of the American Federation, with its 4,000,000 members, is being used in Washington to win recognition of the police union. The District Commissioners, on the other hand, have taken a position from which, they assert, they will not retire—that no member of the force may belong to a police union affiliated with a labor organization. The Commissioners have full jurisdiction, but already the contest has extended to Congress, and it is likely that before the struggle is ended a vote on some phase of the question will be forced. The Central Labor Union of Washington announces that a copy of its report championing the cause of the police union will be sent to each national legislator.

Would Refuse to Pay Police.

The day before this report was framed Senator H. L. Myers of Montana proposed in the Senate that Congress interpose by refusing to vote the pay of any member of the Washington police force who belonged to a union.

Every step in the trial of strength, which previously has received scant attention in the news sent from the capital, now receives an enhanced importance owing to the occurrence of the police strike in Boston. The starting point goes back to the last annual meeting of the American Federation of Labor. What was done there was placed before the District of Columbia Commissioners by Samuel Gompers, president of the Federation. He said:

"For years many policemen, many policemen's organizations, which have been formed—prudential, benevolent and societies of that kind—have by personal appeals, by correspondence with officers of the American Federation in many cities of the country, have asked us to recognize them as unions and to organize them into unions and to issue charters to them as affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. For years we have held off. The requests became so widespread and from so many sources that at the last convention of the American Federation of Labor, held at Atlantic City, June 9 to 16, 1919, or just about two months ago, a resolution was adopted to issue charters to all bona fide organizations of policemen."

No Strike Provision in Charter.

After the Boston policemen began their strike last week, inquiry was made at the office of the District Commissioners in Washington as to the no-strike provision referred to by them in connection with the union in Washington. The statement was made that it was understood that it was contained in the charter.

At the American Federation a representative asked about this said: "There is no strike provision in the charter issued to the police unions by the Federation. That is a question left for each particular union to determine according to the circumstances facing it. They make their own regulations and, of course, if they desire to put in a no-strike provision, they could do so."

The police unions affiliated with the Federation, in short, claim the weapon of the strike just as any other member union, and it is pointed out by opponents of a unionized police force that unless the no-strike clause were in a contract under which the violators could be responsible, the heat springing out of issues in full clash would likely sweep away any provisions that hampered carrying the fight to the limit.

The police have two main aims in affiliating with organized labor. One is better pay, the other shorter hours. Their pay has advanced slowly compared with the increase in cost of living and in contrast to the large increase obtained by the unions for their members. In some cities the pay is unchanged. Policemen's organizations which have sought advances have found that city governments act slowly. A few cities, realizing what was ahead, raised the wages of the policemen. One of these was Buffalo. It is reported that efforts to form a police union there have been defeated in this way. New York is now considering a pay increase.

Expected Quick Results.

On account of the usual delays in obtaining from the city governments an increase in wages, policemen saw in the Federation a big lever that promised quick results.

Senator Charles S. Thomas of Colorado, in addressing the Senate a few days ago, said:

"Let us suppose that a strike should occur in the city of Washington, and it is perhaps not too much to suppose that it might occur in the Post Office Department, and that the Postmaster General should call upon others to take employment under the Government and discharge the duties which are cast aside by the members of the postal union, and the members of the union should interfere with violence and by force to prevent the taking of these places by outsiders. Does any man believe for a moment that the police of this city would protect the new officials to the same degree and with the same efficiency as would be the case if they themselves were not a branch of the same general organization? It is not in human nature."

ST. LOUISAN TO DESIGN CATHEDRAL IN URUGUAY

George D. Barnett Sr. to Receive $10,000 and Expenses for Work at Montevideo.

George D. Barnett Sr., of the firm of Barnet, Haynes and Barnett, architects, has been chosen to design a cathedral for the Roman Catholic Church in Montevideo, Uruguay, and will depart in October.

The cathedral is a $1,500,000 gift of one man to the church. Barnett regards his choice as its architect as corroboration of the rank architecturally of the St. Louis Cathedral. He says that the opinion frequently has been expressed that the St. Louis Cathedral is the finest of modern churches of the world. He was its architect.

Barnett will receive $10,000 as his fee for the Montevideo cathedral, with his expenses paid. If he chooses to remain to supervise construction, his fee will be an additional 10 per cent of the construction costs. The construction will require three years, he believes. He also will go to Rio Janeiro and Buenos Aires to discuss projects.

Plans for the cathedral are tentative, subject to review after he arrives in South American, Barnett says, but he plans an English Gothic type with a 300-foot isolated tower.

PLANT OFFERED TO EMPLOYES WHEN THEY GO ON STRIKE

Head of Company Proposes to Sell Factory at Easy Terms and Throw in His Own Services.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—When the employees of Goldsmith, Stern & Co., one of the largest jewelry manufacturing concerns in the United States, threatened to strike unless they were granted a 25 per cent increase in wages, August Goldsmith, head of the company, offered them the entire plant at its appraised value of $300,000, and his own services for six months without pay in helping them to run it. His offer was refused.

This was learned from Goldsmith today. He said he offered the plant on an easy payment basis.

The workmen told Mr. Goldsmith that his offer of the plant was "too big for them," he said. They walked out 10 days ago and the plant has been idle ever since.

LANSING WOULD RATIFY TREATY AS IT STANDS

Secretary in Speech Says There Is Nothing in It Invading Sovereignty.

By the Associated Press.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 20.—"The treaty should be ratified without delay and without change," declared Secretary of State Robert Lansing here today in the first public utterance made by him since the statement of William C. Bullitt before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in which it was alleged that the Secretary of State, on May 19, in Paris, said that if the American people knew what was in the treaty they would defeat it.

"In the treaty of peace," Mr. Lansing further said, "there is nothing which invades the sovereignty of this republic or which limits in any way the full exercise of such sovereignty."

Mr. Lansing spoke at the dedication of Lansing Dorph, a suburb of Watertown, erected by the Government to house munitions workers and named in honor of the home of the Lansing family in Holland. He made no direct reference to the Bullitt testimony, contenting himself with saying that the treaty, as it is, should be ratified.

"We are approaching a new era," he said, "an era of peace, and. as I confidently believe, an era of national prosperity unsurpassed in our history. The people of the earth ardently long to enter upon this era so that they may begin to rebuild that which has been destroyed. This cannot be done until normal commercial and industrial conditions are restored and they can only be restored in one way and that is by ratifying the treaty of peace which now lies on the table in the United States Senate. The economic life of the world will continue in its stagnant and wretched state of uncertainty until the Senate consents to ratification.

"In the treaty of peace there is nothing which invades the sovereignty of this republic or which limits in any way the full exercise of such sovereignty.

"There may be in the treaty features which do not meet universal approval. It would be strange if it were otherwise. But the objections which have been made to certain provisions are trivial compared with the imperative need of peace.

"We ought to have peace at once. The treaty should be ratified without delay and without change.

"Common Sense Demands It."

"It is a narrow-minded statesmanship which would endanger the going into effect of the treaty by changing its provisions and thereby postponing the return of peace. I cannot comprehend how any man with a true appreciation of the situation, much less one who shares the responsibility, can permit any objection less than the impairment of the national sovereignty of the United States to weigh against the universal prayer of the nation for the restoration of peace.

"Let the treaty be immediately ratified and let us go forward with the great task which lies before us. The world demands it; patriotism demands it; common sense demands it. We have already waited too long."

BULGARIA PROMISES TO PUNISH AUTHORS OF ILL TREATMENT

Head of Peace Delegation Admits Excesses Were Committed in Some Occupied Districts.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Sept. 20.—Admission that Bulgaria's administration of occupied territory had not been unmarked by cases of ill treatment of the population was made by Gen. Theodoroff, head of the Bulgarian mission, in his speech in receiving the peace terms from the peace conference at the French Foreign Office yesterday.

"We acknowledge that excesses have been committed in certain occupied regions," Gen Theodoroff said. "We have pledged ourselves to punish mercilessly the authors of these excuses. And many prosecutions have been begun."

He denied that Bulgaria had pursued an imperialistic policy, or desired to extend her limits beyond those she was entitled to on historical and ethnological grounds, and pleaded for a plebiscite.

WOMEN'S FROCKS CHEAPER IN BERLIN THAN IN NEW YORK

American Currency Will Purchase $100 and $150 Garments for $60 to $80.

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—Women's clothing, especially in the higher grades, can be purchased more cheaply in Berlin than in New York, London or Paris, provided the purchaser brings American currency into Germany. Taking 20 marks to the dollar as a basis, women's frocks, which in New York would cost from $100 to $150, are to be had at prices ranging from $60 to $80.

The goods used in the manufacture of these frocks are of good quality imported since the blockade was lifted, and most of them are copied from French models.

ALIENATION SUIT BEGUN AGAINST MRS. LEPPERT

Mrs. Golish Says Widow Made Love to Husband, Asks $20,000 Damage.

Mrs. Ida Leppert, widow of Charles J. Leppert, former president of the Leppert-Roos Fur Co., was named as defendant yesterday in a $20,000 alienation suit filed by Mrs. Clara Golish, formerly of 4509A Manchester avenue.

Mrs. Golish, in her petition, alleges that Mrs. Leppert made love to her husband, Joseph Golish, and influenced him to leave her. She gives the date of the separation as Sept. 15 of this year.

Golish formerly was a salesman for the Leppert-Roos Fur Co., of which Mrs. Leppert was secretary and treasurer until she sold out her interest after her husband's death in November, 1917. Mrs. Golish's lawyer said he did not know the present whereabouts of Golish.

Mrs. Leppert, in December, 1917, was defendant in a suit brought by her daughter, Mrs. Lillian Bittel, to break Leppert's will. He bequeathed only $1 to Mrs. Bittel and the remainder, about $70,000, to his wife. The contest was decided against Mrs. Bittel.

Mrs. Leppert until two days ago lived in an apartment house at 4933 West Pine boulevard. A reporter who went there was told that no one there knew her present address.

LONDON NOW HAS PROFESSIONAL SHOPPER FOR WOMEN CLIENTS

High Railway Fares Cause Out-of-Town People to Purchase Through Agent.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—High railway fares and the increased expenditure occasioned by the termination of the war, has brought out the professional shopper who is finding that her circle of clients is rapidly widening. One woman who knows the art of dress has recently taken up the work with marked success.

"I have become a professional shopper," she said, "and the women in the provinces are beginning to find me useful. I work for a great many women who live a long distance from London, some of them in the far northern counties.

"These women, knowing the smartest and best things can only be found in London, and by one who knows London well, prefer to employ me to do their shopping than to make use of a catalogue. I dress entire families. Some people write, leaving the selection of their dresses entirely in my hands, and I send them just what I know will suit them. Of course I charge a commission, but it is infinitely smaller than the railway fare and the money wasted in going to the wrong shop and buying the wrong materials."

AUSTRIAN LEADERS ASK ALLIES TO RELIEVE COAL SHORTAGE

Vienna Faces Crisis and All Cafes and Public Houses Are Ordered Closed to Save Fuel.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Sept. 20.—Dr. Karl Renner, Austrian Chancellor, has addressed to Premier Clemenceau and other members of the Austrian delegation remaining at St. Germain, telegrams outlining in detail the situation in Austria arising from the lack of coal. He asked for immediate relief.

VIENNA, Sept. 20.—Efforts are being made by the inter-allied coal commission to meet a coal crisis which is threatening Vienna, being due to the failure of the Czecho-Slovaks to deliver coal for which contracts had been made. During the first 10 days of September less than one-third the amount agreed upon for the electric plants of the city was delivered, and only about one-fourth the coal necessary for domestic use had reached here.

The city, unable to accumulate a reserve, found itself facing a critical situation. A notice was issued stating that beginning Sunday, all tramways would cease running, all cafes, restaurants and public houses would be closed at 8 o'clock in the evening and street lighting would be reduced. Fear was expressed that industrial plants would be forced to close.

Allied railway and coal authorities took steps to ameliorate conditions and communicated with the Prague Government insisting upon immediate shipments.

BOYS MISSING WITH $1,000,000

Trusted Messenger in New York Disappears With Bonds.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Trusted messenger boys in the financial district have disappeared with nearly $1,000,000 in negotiable bonds and other securities in the last six months, according to an estimate made here today. In addition to other thefts totaling $750,000 since last March ,one messenger who disappeared with $178,000 in bonds, was murdered in Milford, Conn., and no trace of the bonds or the youth's slayers has been found.

The latest loss reported was charged to Leo Jufolsky, a 20-year-old messenger, who disappeared yesterday with $141,000 in Liberty Bonds which he was to deliver for a brokerage house.

CATHOLIC BISHOPS TO MEET IN WASHINGTON

Churchmen Will Discuss Prohibition, National Education, Missionaries and Charities.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Next Wednesday in Washington will begin a conference that is likely to have the most far-reaching results upon social and economic conditions in the United States. All the Bishops and Archbishops of the Roman Catholic Church in this country will assemble in council, for the first time in 35 years, expressly to discuss a program that is full of interest not merely for the nearly 20,000,000 Catholics in the United States but also for every American, no matter what creed he may confess or to what religious denomination he may belong.

No doctrinal points are to be debated, and while matters of religion and church administration will, of course, receive attention, the parts of the program which have aroused the most earnest and widespread interest are those that deal with social reconstruction, the enforcement of prohibition, nationalization of education, and especially the rights and mutual relations of capital and labor.

The official program is designedly made broad enough to embrace every phase of the great problems with which America is wrestling almost if not yet quite as desperately as the countries of Europe.

Yearly Councils Planned.

This council is an indirect result of the National Catholic War Council's activities during the war. It had its direct original last February, when about 60 bishops met in Baltimore for the golden jubilee of Cardinal Gibbons' elevation to the episcopate. At this ceremony was also Archbishop Ceretti, papal Secretary of State for Extraordinary Affairs, who had been sent by the Pope as a special delegate. It was at his suggestion that the Bishops decided to hold the council that is to begin this week and hereafter to hold such a council every year.

When Archbishop Ceretti returned to Rome he reported this decision to the Pope, who warmly espoused it in a letter to Cardinal Gibbons and the American episcopate. In his letter Benedict XV used such expressions as "the whole structure of human society is in danger, and all civic charity, swept by storms of envious hate, seems likely to shrivel and disappear." And again, "Our human society moves now along the narrow ledge which separates security from ruin, unless it be firmly re-established on the basis of charity and justice. In this respect, greater efforts are demanded of you than of all others, owing to the vast influence which you exercise among your people. Retaining, as they do, a most firm hold upon the principles of reasonable liberty and of Christian civilization, they are destined to have the chief role in the restoration of peace and order, and in the reconstruction of these same principles, when the violence of these tempestuous days shall have passed."

Cardinal Gibbons will preside at the Council whenever he is able to do so. In his absence Bishop Muldoon will occupy the chair. The ranking prelate of the American hierarchy is Archbishop Bonzano, the Apostolic delegate, but he has gone to Rome to visit in order to leave the purely American Bishops free to discuss purely American affairs.

The bare headings of the program set before the Bishops give little indication of the nature of the subjects to be discussed, but it will be seen at once how much latitude they allow. Here is the program: (1) The Holy See; (2) Home Missions; (3) Foreign Missions; (4) Social and Charitable Work; (5) Catholic University; (6) Catholic Education in General; (7) Catholic Literature; (8) Catholic Press; (9) Legislation; (10) a Catholic Bureau; (11) Finances.

Capital and Labor.

It is easy to gather from the recent writings and conversations with eminent Catholic prelates what subjects will be taken up in an attempt to provide a practical solution. Foremost and most generally interesting of these is that of the relations between capital and labor. On this the Bishops of the National Catholic War Council—Muldoon, Schrembs, Hayes and Russell, three of whom are on the committee on arrangements and program of the coming council—have already spoken in no uncertain voice. Their statement, issued in January and commonly called the "Bishops' program," astonished many persons outside the church—yes, and many within its fold—by the seemingly radical character of the remedies proposed. Such influential Catholic magazines as the Catholic World, published by the Paulist Fathers, and America, published by the Jesuits, have printed many articles on this program, and there is no doubt that an effort will be made to have the council formally indorse it.

But, important as are the problems of social reconstruction, there are others, equally important to Catholics and to many Protestants, that are to be discussed by the council of Bishops. Foremost of these is prohibition. The church does not deny that the State has the right to regulate or forbid the traffic in intoxicating liquors, but it does deny that even the State has the right to do this in a way that interferes with religious observances.

Now wine is essential to the one religious ceremonial that matters in the Catholic Church. This, of course, is the sacrifice of the mass, at which every Catholic must assist on all Sundays and holy days under pain of mortal sin. Without wine—fermented wine, not grape juice—the mass is impossible. It has been pointed out that in the prohibition amendment to the Constitution, sacramental wine is not exempted; there is, however, an exemption in the supplementary law, but this law might be repealed some day and, anyway, its administration is left to the Collector of Internal Revenue. If some future Collector were to put the ban on wine for sacramental purposes, he would have that right under the law.

Problem of Getting Wine.

Besides growers and distributors of wine see no profit in producing or dealing with the small quantities that are needed by the churches, and express companies refuse to handle it. Therefore, even with an Internal Revenue Collector who was disposed to uphold the spirit as well as the letter of the law, it will be increasingly difficult to get the wine that every church must have.

This subject will be debated under the head of "Legislation," and the Bishops hope to induce Congress to establish irrevocably the right of the church to obtain and to use wine.

Under this head also Cardinal Gibbons asks the Bishops to take up the "many signs of increasing hostility to the church, and of a desire to translate this hostility into legislation. * * * Most of the legislation harmful to us, however, is passed without any thought of injuring us. What means should we take to know proposed measures of legislation and to prevent, if possible, what is harmful?" asks the Cardinal.

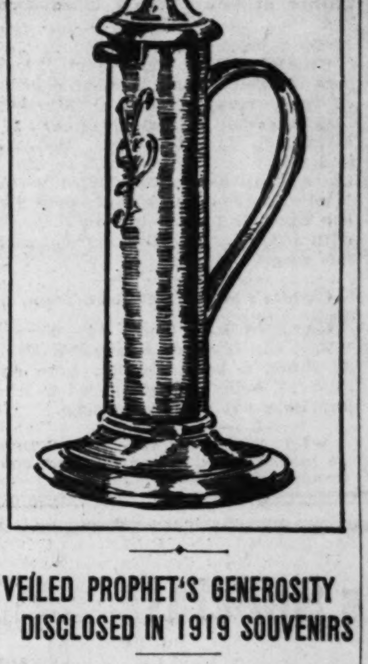
The establishment of a National Catholic Bureau of Information will also be proposed. The National Catholic War Council has been publishing regular bulletins, and it is certain that something of this sort will be continued on a wider basis. It is proposed to collect a fund of $5,000,000 for this bureau, and for carrying on the work for a solution of the pressing social problems of reconstruction.

Meetings Important.

Such, then, are the principal subjects that will be discussed at this important council. The great influence of the men who will take part in it, and the evident determination to put the social principles of the church into actual operation, make the deliberations of deep importance not merely to all Americans, but to the entire English-speaking world. Cardinal Gibbons, in his letter convoking the council, used these words:

"We all recognize, dear Bishops, the importance of the act now being accomplished, in pursuance of the suggestion of the special delegate of the Holy Father, Archbishop Ceretti. This suggestion I regard as a divine call to summon our best thought and maximum energy in order to organize and direct them for the kindliness of religion in the hearts of the American people. Coming at this time it is providential; the formation of the committee begins, I believe, a new era in our church. * * * No other church in history, probably, had so grand an opportunity challenging it as we have at this moment. On us, and particularly on your younger minds and stronger arms, devolves the duty of surveying the field and planning the great work."

VEILED PROPHET'S SOUVENIR FOR 1919



VEILED PROPHET'S GENEROSITY DISCLOSED IN 1919 SOUVENIRS

Silver Electric Candles, Surpassing All Previous Gifts, Will Be Distributed This Year.

The Veiled Prophet, who has become known as a generous old soul through the souvenirs which he has sent out with the invitations to his ball in past years, has outdone himself this year in the attractiveness and stylishness of his gift to prospective guests at his ball Tuesday night, Oct. 7, in the Coliseum.

The Prophet's 1919 souvenir is a silver electric candle, 5½ inches high, with a tiny bulb in its top and a button just beneath the bulb. Each candle is supplied with a battery and is ready for use. The natural place for the candle is on a bedside table, but it can be used wherever an ordinary flashlight is serviceable. The Prophet's monogram is on the front of the smooth silver shaft.

Several thousand of these souvenirs will be sent out with invitations in the next few days.

DELEGATION OF 60 TO REPRESENT CITY AT AD CONVENTION

St. Louis Sends Men and Women Advertisers to Meeting Being Held in New Orleans.

WOMAN MAY GET EXECUTIVE PLACE

Seven Local Club Members Will Address Gathering; Contingent Will Support Miss Wheat.

St. Louis will be represented at the fifteenth annual convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, which opens at New Orleans today, by one of the largest delgations in attendance. Sixty men and women, representing the Advertising Club of St. Louis and the St. Louis Women's Advertising Club, departed for the convention city yesterday afternoon aboard two special cars attached to a train bearing delegates from Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa.

That this city will figure as prominently in the present convention as it has in previous meetings of the advertising fraternity is evidenced by the fact that seven members of the St. Louis delegation are scheduled to address the convention, which will be presided over by another St. Louisan, W. C. D'Arcy, president of the D'Arcy Advertising Co. and head of the Associated Clubs.

It is expected that two of the national officers elected at the meeting will be from St. Louis. D'Arcy, however, has announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election.

May Elect Woman.

One of the questions to be decided at the present convention and which had its origin in St. Louis, is whether or not the various women's advertising organizations will have a representative on the Executive Committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World. An amendment to the national association's constitution providing for the election of a woman to the Executive Committee will be submitted to the delegates by the St. Louis women.

In the event the amendment is adopted the women will endeavor to agree on one candidate, Miss Jane Martin, president of the Women's Advertising Leagues of New York. However, if more than one candidate is proposed the St. Louis contingent will nominate Miss Mary Wheat, president of the local women's club.

Headquarters for the St. Louisans will be at the Grunewald Hotel, the official headquarters for the convention. The meeting will be opened with a special inspirational service on the campus of Tulane University. Business sessions will be held at the Tulane Theater. Adjournment will take place next Thursday.

Financial Advertisers to Meet.

The fourth annual convention of the Financial Advertisers' Association, a department of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, will be held jointly with the larger meeting at New Orleans. The Association has a membership of 415 financial advertising writers and managers from different parts of the country. M. E. Holderness, vice president of the First National Bank of St Louis is secretary of the association and John M. Ring Jr. of the Mercantile Trust Co., is a director.

Included in the St. Louis delegation are 20 women, members of the Women's Advertising Club and the wives of delegates.

Among the St. Louisans who went to the convention are Mayor Kiel, Festus J. Wade, John Ring Jr., M. E. Holderness, M. P. Linn, Paul V. Bunn, George M. Burbach, G. Prather Knapp, W. B. Weisenberger, H. M. Crutcher, Douglas B. Houser, Louis Blumenstock, Charles R. Ketchum, D. A. Ruebel, J. Carr Gamble, Edward Mead, E. F. Gottschalk, P. M. Fahrendorf, J. T. Donegan Jr., Virgil Harris, E. J. Brennan, R. L. Hildebrand, J. F. Cronin, Herman DaCosta, John Lansill, Roy B. Simpson, F. L. Norris, E. R. Britt, Walter Marsh, J. H. Brinkmeyer, C. W. Wessel, W. W. Sims, H. P. Lehman, P. E. Burton, Arthur Siegel, Charles F. Hatfield, E. R. Wright, L. H. Budke, P. L. Ryan, O. A. Life, Mrs. Julia Shipley Carroll, Miss V. A. L. Jones, Miss Louis L. Thomas, Miss Anita Moore and Miss Mary Wheat.

WILSON SATISFIED WITH PROGRESS MADE FOR TREATY

California Received Wrong Impression of England's "Six Votes" and Shantung Question From Johnson.

By DAVID LAWRENCE,
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1919).

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 20.—President Wilson is giving five days of his time to the State of California, more than he has devoted to any other state on his tour. Aside from the fact that California boasts that it is the most progressive state in the Union and therefore able to discern more readily the wisdom of proposals looking toward the advancement and progress of human society, Mr. Wilson had been told that California had received through the speeches of its junior Senator, Hiram Johnson, some erroneous impressions of what the treaty of peace contains.

The President has not been debating with Senator Johnson, but has been expounding the treaty. So deeply rooted had been the impression, for example, that Great Britain had six votes in the league of nations to America's one, that audiences have gone away wondering how they have been led to believe such a statement. Mr. Wilson has simply read the covenant to them and disclosed that the British Empire and the United States have one vote each in the council of the league, the only body "that can accomplish action," while the several colonies of the British Empire each have a delegate to the assembly, which takes no action but simply discusses.

"Voice of Humanity."

The President calls the assembly the "voice of humanity" and the council an instrument for the carrying out of the mandates of world opinion when it has crystalized. When the President showed that the assembly votes on no questions except the admission of new members, and that when it renders any other opinion on an international question, no majority vote can be valid, unless it includes the affirmative vote of all the states on the council, of which, of course, the United States is a member, the people act as if they have been told something entirely new.

Perhaps it would have been better if the President had explained the matter of voting and representation when he first got back from Europe as it certainly was raised then and has been gaining momentum in the public mind, but such extensive publicity has just been given to the President's argument that it is doubtful whether in the case of any, except those who are so affected by the Irish question that they don't want Great Britain to have any votes at all, there will be much misunderstanding on this point hereafter.

Canada's Case.

Mr. Wilson has felt himself embarrassed on the other hand to discuss Britain's representation lest it give the people of the several colonies the impression that the United States didn't want to have them represented in the league. For instance, Canada, which has made more sacrifices in human life in the late war than had America, gets nothing material out of the war and her people are plainly insistent that hereafter they shall not be dragged into war by the Central Government in London without an opportunity for the people of Canada to express through their representative a verdict thereon.

Again, South Africa, to whom the United States extended an overwhelming sympathy in the Boer war, has shown herself through Gen. Smuth, her representative at the peace conference, and Gen. Botha to be even further advanced in her desires for world peace than some of the statesmen of England and Australia, whose soldiers fought alongside the American troops and gained an everlasting hold on the affections of the Pershing army, feels the necessity for a voice in the big partnership which is to determine the affairs of the world. Indeed, it was when a tendency to show a spirit independent of London appeared that the statesmen of England yielded to the demand of the self-governing colonies for a part in settling the foreign policy of the Empire, especially when it might affect their lives and property.

New Zealand felt the same way. It is said that based on his experience at Paris, the President thinks the British colonies are just as apt to concur in the views of the United States as they are in those of the mother country. This would be especially true if ever the question of racial equality is introduced by Japan.

Cuba Would Have Vote.

But Mr. Wilson's argument that the British colonies merely were to have delegates present who can express their views, applies also to countries more or less under the protection of the United States. Cuba, for instance, would have a vote or delegate in the assembly. So would the Philippines when its independence is granted. So would Panama, which is already an independent state. America could, as a rule, count on Brazil and some of the Central and South American states whose interests are identical with the United States, so that even in the matter of an expression of opinion in the assembly, the United States would find allied with her all the countries which were disinterested in European intrigue and which would be more than likely to concur in the American views and they have in the past.

The way Mr. Wilson has handled the Shantung question has also impressed Californians. At the big meeting in Oakland there were occasional hisses for Johnson, something unheard of in California. But some of the people in the crowd said this was not to be construed as by any means a representative impression of public feeling toward Senator Johnson, though they admitted that his arguments on the league had omitted to tell all the facts about Shantung and the question of Britain's six votes, so that his prestige in the State might eventually be affected.

The President turns eastward on Sunday for a week more of speechmaking. He touches Reno, Salt Lake, Denver, Pueblo, Wichita, Little Rock, Oklahoma City, Memphis and Louisville. Thus far he feels satisfied with the trip; satisfied that exposition of the salient features of the treaty have revived interest in a question that had hitherto been regarded by the average man as entirely a matter for "the smart men in Washington" to decide.

NEED OF RUSSIA IS MORE SCHOOLS, LENINE ASSERTS

Soviet Leader and His Wife Speak From Same Platform at Extra-Scholastic Education Convention.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

STOCKHOLM, July 16.—Mr. and Mrs. Nichola Lenine spoke from the same platform at the convention on extra-scholastic education held in Moscow in May. Lenine delivered the opening address in the name of the Soviet Government. Mrs. Lenine, known in revolutionary party circles under her maiden name of Krupaskaia, addressed the convention as a delegate, for she takes a deep interest in the movement for education outside the regular schools.

The chief organization leading this movement is the "proletcult," which is a combination of the words "proletariat" and "culture." It carries on extensive educational work among the laborers outside of the work of the Soviet Government's commissariat of education and has branched out amazingly in the last year.

The Bolshevist revolution will deteriorate into a bourgeois revolution if the ignorance, darkness and savagery of the Russian masses are not overcome by powerful educational organizations. This was the thesis of Lenine's address, which set the pace for new and greater efforts in the field of extra-scholastic education. Lenine said, in part:

Peasants Demand Knowledge.

"I am certain that there is not another branch of soviet activity where for a year and a half such enormous successes have been attained as in the field of extra-scholastic education and enlightenment. Doubtless it was much easier work in this field than in the others. It was easier to meet that enormous demand for knowledge, free education, and free development which was manifested in the labor and peasant masses.

"If it was easy for us, thanks to the mighty push of the masses, to throw off the foreign obstacles which hampered our progress and to break down the traditional capitalistic institutions which tied us to an imperialistic war and condemned Russia to great hardships resulting from this war, it was on the other hand very difficult to carry on the work of re-education and organization of the teaching corps and fight with the heritage of darkness and ignorance, barbarism and provincialism.

We had to contend with two kinds of obstacles in our efforts to give an education to those adult elements which sought it outside the schools. The first shortcoming was the abundance of upstarts from the ranks of 'intelligentsia' who regarded the workers' and peasants' educational institutions as new fields for their individual fancies in the realms of philosophy and culture.

"The second shortcoming was that the large elements of the middle class, seeking education, could not contribute anything new to the system.

"In the field of the education of the illiterate we have accomplished very little. Our general task is to understand the necessity of organizing the proletarian elements. It is necessary to instill into the masses the idea that every literate person should take it upon himself to educate several illiterates.

Books Were Not Used.

"When I had to deal with the library question in the council of commissars, I heard the complaint that our backwardness in production was responsible for the fewness of our books, and that we cannot supply them in sufficient quantities. Of course, we have no fuel, factories are at a standstill, and we can get no books. But why not make use of the books that we did have? We continued to think with the naivete and helplessness of the peasant who, after robbing the landlord's library, ran home fearing lest someone took the books away from him. We did not and we could not have any knowledge of distribution. The undeveloped peasant masses are not responsible for this. But from the point of view of the revolution's development it was an unavoidable stage.

Better Organization Needed.

"Now we must fight against the remaining disorganization and chaos, and against the ridiculous interdepartmental quarrels. We must make use of those books that we have and begin to create a systematical net of libraries through a single well-planned organization. If our revolution will not solve this problem it will remain a bourgeois revolution. The fundamental peculiarity of a proletarian revolution advancing toward communism lies in this thing

'For the bourgeoisie it is only sufficient to break down the old regime and give the individual peasant community its own freedom, without organizing a collective system. If we call ourselves communists we must understand that only now, having finished with the external obstacles, having destroyed the old institutions, we must begin to solve the first problem of the proletarian revolution—i. e., the organization of tens, or hundreds, of millions of people. After a year and a half of experience we must finally stand on the right road which would conquer that ignorance and darkness and savagery with which we constantly come into conflict."

Mrs. Lenine Gives Address.

The keynote of the speech of Krupskaia-Lenine, the wife of the Bolshevist chief, was that Russia must not expect too much from social revolution in western Europe. She said:

"History chose Russia to be the first country for social revolution to break out. In Russia it was easier to make a revolution than in Europe. We thoroughly broke up the old and we must now create new forms of life, in which respect Russia finds herself in a most difficult position, since we have almost universal illiteracy. Take for instance the Government of Simbirsk, which has 80 per cent illiterates.

"We fully know how difficult it is to create new forms of life at this moment, particularly so because there is a lack of leaders, because there is not enough knowledge among us of elementary things. Of course, with the victory of social revolution in Europe, conditions in Russia will improve, but even the victory of socialism in Europe will not create in Russia new forms of existence.

Must Build a New Russia.

'Just as the emancipation of the workers is the business of the workers themselves, so is the creation of new forms of a country's life the task of the inner forces of the country. And without regard to the time and the manner in which social revolution will be accomplished in Europe, we must now build a new life in Russia. And in this connection education outside of the schools is of enormous importance.

"I take it that we do not speak here of the mere raising of the cultural standard of the people. The masses are educated by the system, by the forms of political life under which they live. Our work now cannot bear the character of the work carried on in the '90s of the last century. In the '90s we tried to develop the workmen, to persuade them that knowledge is useful, but now everybody drinks up every bit of knowledge at every opportunity.

Worker Wants to Be Manager.

"Now we must furnish positive knowledge in two directions, in the understanding of political problems and in the spreading of technical sciences, because today the worker wants to be not only a workman but also an expert manager. So there must be work in the domain of politics and in the domain of professional and technical knowledge. But we must not only endeavor to create new forms of extra-scholastic education and to direct them along certain channels. We must also do it as soon as possible. Organization must occupy a big place in soviet Russia. Generally speaking we must learn how to organize. But especially is this true in regard to extra-scholastic education."

The sixty-second school year of Washington University will start Thursday. Classes will begin work in every department except the evening and Saturday courses, the latter starting Oct. 4 and the evening classes Oct. 6.

Registration for all classes except those in the extension courses will be held tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday. Registration for the Saturday courses is on Saturday next, while for the evening courses it is set for Friday, Oct. 3, 7:15 to 9:30 p. m., and Saturday, Oct. 4, 2 to 5 p. m.

Enrollment of students has been actively in progress several days, and it is from the outlook thus created that Chancellor Hall anticipates the largest attendance in the history of the university. The bulk of the increase over former years is expected in the college and the school of engineering.

In the school of dentistry, at Twenty-ninth and Locust streets, increase is expected only in the freshman class, owing to recent lengthening of the course from three to four years. The third-year class, which, but for the change, would be the senior, also is comparatively large, while the senior class proper numbers but two, whereas last year 52 were graduated.

At the School of Medicine, King's highway and Euclid avenue, the prospective enrollment is between 175 and 200, against 160 last year. Attendance at the evening classes, the total of which is expected to be approximately 750. One business house will pay the tuition of about 80 students this year and another about 15. Men and women are to be the beneficiaries of this new policy.

In addition to the courses to be given evenings, Prof. F. W. Shipley, director of that department, said yesterday that Sebastiao Sampson, Brazilian Consul at St. Louis, had accepted appointment to conduct a course on South American trade with special reference to the United States. This is scheduled for Friday evenings, 7:40 to 9:30 o'clock, and any desired information may be had by inquiry of Dr. Shipley at the University. The course will cover commercial, economic and financial questions of Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Chili, Colombia, Paraguay, Peru, Uruguay, Venezuela and the Guianas.

Spotless Complexion Easy to Have Provided You Make Use of the Wonderful Calcium Sulfide in Stuart's Calcium Wafers.

The camera catches the expression, but it cannot show the beauties of those natural tints of a beautiful complexion. In fact, a sweet expression is made a hundred times more enchanting when the complexion is lovely.

All you need do is to clear the skin of pimples, blotches, liver spots, blackheads, muddy complexion and skin eruptions by using Stuart's Calcium Wafers. These troubles seek the skin as one of the natural outlets of the body. And if you supply it with the proper materials it will pass off in the pores of the skin instead of ugly accumulations. Get a box of Stuart's Calcium Wafers in any drug store at 50 cents. You will then realize what it means to be prettier than your picture.—Adv.

ROBERT MINOR TO LECTURE HERE

Cartoonist Will Tell of Experiences in Bolshevik Russia.

Robert Minor, formerly a cartoonist for the Post-Dispatch, who recently was held more than a month in a military prison in Coblenz on charges made by military authorities which were never made public, will be in St. Louis Wednesday to lecture that evening on his experiences in Bolshevik Russia at the Odeon, under the auspices of the Socialist party of St. Louis.

He returned to this country immediately after he was released from custody in Germany early in July. He has been making a tour of the principal cities telling of his experiences. In addition to his talk at the Odeon, he is scheduled to lecture Thursday night at the Artists' Guild.

J. L. HORNSBY QUITS LEAGUE

Joseph L. Hornsby, former president of the old City Council, resigned from the Civic League yesterday as a protest against the action of the league's Executive Committee in indorsing and advocating municipal ownership of street railways.

Hornsby declared the question of municipal ownership should have been referred to the league membership before receiving the public indorsement of the organization. He served as a member of the St. Louis Public Service Commission, which, in 1912, fixed the valuation of the United Railways property at $37,638,667.75.

EIGHTEEN ENTRIES IN FOUR BALLOON RACES FROM HERE

war. Honeywell is known as a racing balloonist, having participated in a race starting at Berlin in 1912. He finished second, landing in Moscow, 1200 miles away. He crossed the English Channel in an international race from Paris several years ago.

The lifting power of most of the balloons will be unusually great, according to Maj. Lambert, and existing records should be broken. The endurance record is now held by a Frenchman at 72 hours. The gas is to be furnished to the contestants free of charge.

Society Bears Expense.

The first prize is $500, the second $300, and the third $200. The expense is being born by the Missouri Aeronautical Society without outside subscription, and the races are under the direction of the Aero Club of America.

Novel "stunts," the nature of which have not yet been announced, will be performed before each of the races. One of the stunts will be performed for the public this afternoon. A small balloon with a gas capacity of 5000 cubic feet with lifting power of the weight of one man, known as a "jumping balloon," will be exhibited. The pilot cannot be lifted unless he gives impetus to his basket by jumping into the air. It is possible to jump the baloon over a high house or trees in this manner.

About 100 soldiers from Jefferson Barracks, in addition to the Twelfth Company, now stationed at the field, will assist in the ascensions.

BRITISH ENGINEER URGES ACTION TO RELIEVE NATION'S CONDITION

Says Government Situation Is Very Grave; Trade Unionist Skeptical of Production.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—Quoting Herbert Hoover's declaration that "rising prices are a visualization of insufficient production," J. T. Brownlie, Chairman of the Executive Council of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers, has written a letter to C. W. Bowerman, Secretary of the Parliamentary Committee of the Trade Union Congress, urging action "to effect some amelioration of the position in which the nation finds itself."

"The national situation is very grave," Mr. Brownlie declared. "A considerable amount of misapprehension exists in the minds of the trade unionists throughout the country, in regard to production. The trade union movement is more powerful today than at any period in its history. With power comes responsibilities, and however much we may reject the criticism of those who are not trade unionists, we cannot evade our responsibilities to the community. The parliamentary committee is the most representative and responsible body of trade unionists in the country; therefore, I consider it incumbent upon your committee to take some action with a view to alleviating the situation."

"I regard the matter as one calling for wide and earnest attention," said Mr. Bowerman in commenting on the letter. "My own view as a labor representative is that we don't want this matter to be forced upon us as a result of unemployment."

GERMAN UNIVRSITIES EXPECT U. S. AND BRITISH STUDENTS

Short Cuts for Completion of Studies Announced at University of Berlin.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—One of the effects of the coming peace, in the opinion of Dr. Kuno Meyer, professor of languages at the University of Berlin, will be the return to German universities of American and British students in numbers practically up to the pre-war standard.

"The University of Berlin," said Dr. Meyer, "has a total of 12,964 students and I expect that the number will be increased substantially before the opening Oct. 1. We have arranged combinations which will furnish what might be termed short cuts in order that those unable to complete their studies because of military service may finish in the shortest possible time, now that they are back in civil life."

Dr. Meyer declared that while the league of nations and the prospect of more traveling on the part of the general public in the various countries tends to international thinking, the world has come out of the war with national feelings stronger than ever.

$2,000,000 WORTH OF TREASURY CERTIFICATES TO BE SOLD

St. Louis Quota Is $500,000; Securities Bear 4.27 Per Cent Interest.

A campaign is being organized in every county of Missouri for the sale of $2,000,000 of the new Treasury Savings Certificates. The St. Louis quota is $500,000.

Treasury Savings Certificates are in denominations of $100 to $1000, possessing the advantages of the familiar War Savings Stamps with an additional advantage of being in the form of United States registered notes, thus guarding against loss. Their interest rate is 4.27 per cent if retained to maturity.

They may be offered for redemption at any time after two months, the Government adding interest each month. The September price of a $100 certificate is $84, and each month thereafter its value increased 20 cents. The value on Jan. 1, 1924, will be $100.

Commission Refuses to Be Arbiter.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 20.—The Public Service Commission today declined to act as a board of arbitration in the wage dispute between the street car company in St. Joseph, Mo., and its operators. The reason given was that the commission is facing a full docket and cannot assume any further obligations not within the regular scope of its work.

LABOR FEDERATION IN FRANCE INDORSES RUSSIAN REVOLUTION

Resolutions Constituting Sort of Platform Declare for Nationalization of Industries Under Proper Control.

By the Associated Press.

LYONS, Sept. 20.—Resolutions constituting a sort of platform for organized labor in France were adopted at the closing session of the Federation of Labor here last night. A large majority was shown in the vote.

The resolutions demand the nationalization in industries under the control of producers and consumers and that the nationalization of transportation, wines, waterpower and banks. They point out that this does not mean an extension of the attributes of the state nor the submission of industries to functionalism, "with its irresponsibility and constitutional vices." It is declared that by nationalization is meant the confiding of national property to those interested the most—the producers and consumers.

The convention affirmed its solidarity with the Russian revolution and charged the executive committee to demand that unions in transportation services refuse to carry arms and ammunitions destined either for the forces of Admiral Kolchak in Siberia or those of Gen. Denikine in Southern Russia.

"The reactionary policies of the Entente" were condemned and a demand was made for an immediate peace with the Russian revolutionists. Leon Jouhaux, secretary of the federation, and other leaders declare that the adoption of the resolutions signifies a decisive victory over the extremist element, which demanded an immediate revolution.

OIL BOOM MAKES MILLIONAIRES OF FORMER RADICALS

Desdemona, Tex., Once a Hotbed of Socialism of the "Divide It" Type, Now Overrun by Plutocrats.

OLD ECONOMIC IDEAS FORGOTTEN

People So Busy Piling Up Wealth That Annual Encampment to Flay Capitalists Verbally Is Given Up.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DESDEMONA, Tex.—For many years the hotbed of Socialism in Texas was in Eastland County, with Hog Town, now called Desdemona, as the storm center of agitators who preached the doctrine of equal distribution of wealth among all the people. Now these very same men, who cast their votes for Eugene Debs for President, and prior to becoming Socialists, were pioneer members of the Populist party, are simply reeking with wealth—not imaginary prosperity, but real coin—oodles of it. Incidently, it may be mentioned that not a one of them is saying a word about dividing up his fortune with the "downtrodden poor."

Oil caused the transformation. Strange to say, the owners of virtually all the farms that now comprise the heart of the Desdemona oil field were Socialists. Many of them belonged to the more rabid faction. One of the most radical was Thomas A. Hickey, an Irishman, who was editor and publisher of the Rebel, which was the recognized organ of the party in Texas.

The Rebel Suppressed.

Postmaster-General Albert Burleson found it necessary to suppress the Rebel early in the war because of its alleged unpatriotic utterances. Hickey was not only a Socialist in his writings, but he acted and looked the part. He became the owner of a piece of land near Desdemona. It was worth little as a farm. Then came the oil boom. Hickey has risen from almost poverty to millionaire in the last eight months. No one hears him talking Socialism any more.

In former years one of the great delights of the Socialists of the Hog Town community and other parts of Eastland County was to gather in annual encampment at Ellison Springs. They made it the occasion of solving all the problems of the country and digging hard into the ribs of the "capitalistic class." At these encampments Hickey was wont to orate long and loudly on economic questions from the standpoint of the radicals. From the encampment the Socialist farmers and business men with their wives and children would travel back to their homes in canvas-covered wagons to take up the dull routine of work that promised them no remuneration beyond a bare living.

100 Now Are Millionaires.

More than 100 of these men, who only a year ago were preaching Socialism and struggling to make both ends meet, are now millionaires; several of them are worth in actual cash $10,000,000 to $25,000,000 each, all made out of oil leases and petroleum production. Another 500 Socialists of Eastland and Stephens Counties are already well along toward the million mark.

As a result of this wealth, or perhaps because they are too busy piling up more, there will be no Socialist encampment at Ellison Springs this year. If by any chance these men should get together it would be a convocation of more millionaires than ever before assembled at one time in Texas.

As an illustration of the luck that has descended upon these Hog Town Socialists the case of the baseball park here may be cited. Some of the young Socialists got up a baseball nine and played games with teams from Gorman and other communities. They used a piece of ground on the farm of Dr. S. E. Snodgrass for the baseball field.

Dr. Snodgrass is a Democrat of the old-fashioned kind. He has no use for Socialism so he sent word to the manager of the Socialist baseball team that that aggregation could not play on his land. This made the Socialists angry. They decided to buy the land.

"What will you take for an acre and one-half for the ball park?" Dr. Snodgrass was asked.

"You may have it for $50," he said.

Everybody knew that $50 was an exhorbitant price, but the Socialists had their ire up. Subscriptions were called for and the money was raised, most of the stockholders subscribing $1. Dr. Snodgrass now admits that he laughed over the sale. Today the Socialists who own the one and one-half acre ball park could dispose of it for $40,000 and one-eighth royalty of all oil that it may yield. The little tract is surrounded by big wells.

CONVERTED A RIVER INTO WHISKY PUNCH

Under Wartime Prohibition Thousands of Bottles Were Emptied Into the Niobrara.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LINCOLN, Neb.—Swimming parties and fishing excursionists have been very popular along the Niobrara River, which runs close to the Wyoming border, through northern Nebraska. This is due to the fact that the authorities have been dumping thousands of quarts of confiscated whisky into the waters of the river, which has run yellow, at times, with the flood of booze.

For weeks before national war prohibition went into effect thousands of bottles of liquid refreshment were stored on ranches on the Nebraska side of the border. It came from the saloons of Wyoming, which were closed on July 1 and have had no chance of being reopened because a State prohibitory law goes into effect there very soon. It was intended to be peddled out to Nebraskans during the next few years.

One raid brought to light 15,000 pints, worth $5 a pint, on one ranch. It all went into the river. A dozen other raids in the same section produced an equal number of bottles, and their contents also were dumped into the Niobrara.

Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over Rheumatism

Discoverer Tells Druggists Not to Take a Cent of Anyone's Money Unless Allenrhu Completely Banishes All Rheumatic Pains and Twinkes.

Mr. James H. Allen suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. Your druggist has been appointed agent for Allenrhu in this vicinity with the understanding that he will freely return the purchase money to all who state they received no benefit.—ADV.

200 FILE SUITS TO ENJOIN COLLECTION OF SEWER TAX

Property Owners in Mill Creek Benefit District Say Ordinance Is Void.

Two hundred property owners in the Mill Creek Sewer Benefit District yesterday filed suit to enjoin the collection of special tax bills assessed for the sewer. The suit is directed against Charles W. Bates, to whom the contractors assigned the bills for collection.

It is alleged that the ordinance providing for the improvement is void because there was not a public hearing on the matter of laying out a benefit district. Other grounds recited for its illegality are that it is not merely a relief sewer but also a public sewer, which should be paid for from the general revenue fund, and that included in the assessment district were property owners who were not benefited while a considerable area which was benefited was not included in the tax district.

According to Lambert E. Walther, one of the attorneys for the plaintiffs, about $150,000 is involved. Many other property owners who were assessed have paid the tax.

PRESIDENT'S WIFE GIVES $180 FOR CARE OF ARMENIAN GIRL

St. Louis Office of Relief Committee Advised of Devotion for One Year's Support.

A report has just been received by the St. Louis office of the Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief that Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, when in New York, donated $180 for the care of an Armenian girl for one year. The little girl is one of those in an orphanage in a portion of Armenia called the "Dead Land," by its former inhabitants, since every vestige of life was destroyed by the Turks during the Armenian massacres.

One donation at the St. Louis office was $20 through Katherine Gormand of 1020 Leona avenue. Ten little girls raised the money by giving two shows at 6041 Suburban avenue.

Mrs. Mike Korkorian recently received a letter from her mother, now a refugee in Aintab, Turkey, asking for money to aid them, and saying they were destitute. Mrs. Korkorian sent her $172, through the Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief.

WIDOW SUES REALTY AGENTS FOR $12,450

Charges Note and Contract Were Removed From Envelope—Defendant Denies It.

Mrs. Margaretha Morganthaler, 87 years old, a widow, of 3417A St. Vincent avenue, yesterday filed suit against the Charles F. Vogel Real Estate Co., the Frank L. Dittmeier Real Estate Co. and Frank L. Dittmeier for $12,450, the face value of a note executed by the Vogel Co., May 29, 1917.

She avers that on the date named Dittmeier, who was her confidential agent, induced her to accept the note in lieu of certain negotiable promissory notes which she owned and which were secured by deeds of trust on St. Louis realty. In addition to the Vogel principal note the plaintiff also received ten interest notes for $311.25 each, payable one every six months for five years, the petition recites. At the time of the transaction, it is alleged, the defendants obtained from the plaintiff an agreement to renew the principal note for five years from its maturity if the Vogel Co. should so desire. This agreement was so covered as to appear like a certificate of title, it is alleged.

On May 29 last Mrs. Morganthaler, her petition states, inclosed the principal and interest notes together with the contract of agreement in an envelope and took them to the Dittmeier Co.'s office at 624 Chestnut street. The allegation is made that the defendants paid to the plaintiff the interest note then due, but removed the pricipal note and the contract. They now refuse to return the note and the contract and have converted the same to their own use, it is charged.

Mrs. Morganthaler's lawyer, William C. Connett, said that his client only recently discovered the absence of the principal note and contract, but was unable to obtain any redress from Dittmeier, who several years ago purchased the Vogel Co.'s business. Mrs. Morganthaler had transacted business with the Vogel Co. for 40 years and continued with the Dittmeier Co. after the sale, she says.

Dittmeier yesterday denied to a reporter that he had the principal note. He suggested that perhaps Mrs. Morganthaler herself lost the document, but declared she had not taken up the matter with him. He said he would be willing to give a duplicate note on proof the original was lost.

Wife Seeks Missing Husband.

Mrs. John L. England, 1726 O'Fallon street, is seeking her husband, a teamster, who, she says, disappeared from his home Tuesday afternoon and has not been heard from since. Last March England struck his head on the pavement when he slipped on the ice and has complained of pains in the head since then. He is 47 years old.

"A good place to work"

A girl— Wanted!

Maybe you are this girl. Listen, while we tell you about her, and then decide if she is you.

She works for her living. She works for pleasure, too. There is such a great difference between working only to get a living—and working to get real happiness out of life.

Mary Pickford is one of the hardest-working girls in America. She works regular hours, long hours—and often at night she is too tired to eat. When you go to see Mary Pickford in a photoplay, you don't see all the hard work she does, making a scene over and over again until it is just right—and she is simply "fagged out." You see only the results.

And, girls, that is what counts—the results. What do you get for your work? You get out of your work just what you put into it.

The writer of this article is a business man, whose wife used to work, and the other evening he had a friendly argument with his wife over the question of how a girl could best succeed in business.

And this was her answer: If I were a girl, and had to support myself, I would first try to get a position doing work that I am suited for. It might be in an office, or it might be in a store, or it might be in a factory. And I would resolve that for just two months I would not think about clothes, or beaux, or pleasures of any kind. I would do what all successful men, and successful business women, had to do at the start. For two months I would work, work, work—my best and hardest—and think about my work. I would put my heart and soul into it—learn my job, and do my work the best that it can be done. Any girl who will do that, for just two months—will solve her own "cost of living" problem. She will get more money in less than two months—if she gets a job that she is suited for, and if she puts into her work her entire interest and best effort. She will advance herself steadily—and she will have found happiness, as well as increased pay.

Because business men—managers, superintendents—are looking, searching for that ambitious, business-kind of working girl.

She is the girl that we want now.

And we will do a whole lot to help her get started right. We will help her select the kind of work in our big business-home that she is suited for. We will pay her well at the start—if she is a beginner—and pay her all that she is worth, if she has experience, or as fast as she gets experienced with us.

You take an interest in your work with us, and we will take an interest in you. Ask any of the girls who work with us. Our employes have named Bemis Bro. Bag Company "A good place to work."

Fair treatment—promotion—all the modern rest-and-health facilities—bright, sanitary, cheerful surroundings—a daytime business-home, where girls who are interested in their work can make the best wages. Our work consists chiefly of manufacturing and printing new, clean cotton and burlap flour bags.

Come see us. Or, if you cannot conveniently call immediately, write for our booklet—"A Good Place to Work." Ask for, or write to Mr. Braznell, Employment Manager, or Miss Dehnert, his assistant.

Blood-Iron Phosphate For Weak, Thin Folks

Weak, thin, nervous people almost invariably owe their condition to lack of phosphate in the nerves and lack of iron in the blood. One of the surest, quickest and safest ways in which to make up the deficiency is to take with each meal a five-grain tablet of digestible phosphate and iron known among druggists here as Blood-Iron Phosphate; because it supplies the iron to the blood as well as phosphate to the nervous system. People who have tried it say that one five-grain tablet taken with each meal quickly restores depleted nervous energy, enriches the blood, increases strength, vitality and endurance, and those who are too thin usually put on pounds of solid stay-there flesh in a short time. Inasmuch as Judge & Dolph Drug Co., Johnson Bros. Drug Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. and all other druggists are authorized to sell Blood-Iron Phosphate under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back, every thin, weak, nervous or anemic man or woman should give it a trial without delay.

Important—Blood-Iron Phosphate is sold only in original packages, containing enough for three weeks treatment, at $1.50 per package—only 50c a week. —ADV.

SCHOOL BOARD MEMBER REPLIES TO TEACHERS

Says Law Forbids Using $287,000 Intended for Southern Hotel to Increase Salaries.

Christopher W. Johnson, member of the Board of Education, has written to the Post-Dispatch replying to a letter signed "Teachers of St. Louis," which was published in the Post-Dispatch Wednesday. The letter asked that Johnson, as chairman of the Finance Committee of the board, should tell the teachers why he "could find only $271,000 for teachers' salaries, and could find $800,000 for the purchase of the Southern Hotel."

Johnson says, in his letter, that the price of the Southern Hotel, if it had been purchased for a vocational school, as planned, would have been, not $800,000, but $287,000. This price, he said, was fixed in an option held by the board. The plan for the purchase failed.

Cannot Be Used for Salaries.

The money for the purchase of the building, he said, would have come out of the board's trust fund, known as the permanent fund, which was created by act of Congress, and which cannot be used for salaries or current expenses, but only for permanent improvements or additions.

He then gives the record of increases in teachers' salaries, following a constitutional amendment increasing the school tax rate in 1902. The board, he says, on July 2, 1903, increased the teachers' salaries from $1,180,487.20 to $1,341,859.90. April 10, 1906, it increased the salaries from $1,482,705.75 to $1,675,300. In 1907 it increased the salaries 9.3 per cent, the increase amounting to $159,956. June 14, 1910, it increased salaries $190,000, a little less than 9 per cent. Nov. 19, 1918, it increased salaries $533,751. The latest increase, approved at an adjourned meeting of the board Sept. 11, amounted to $261,000.

Ready to Hear Complaints.

Johnson says that, as a member of the board, he supported all these increases. He adds this comment on the teachers' letter:

"It seems to me, and to the members of the Board of Education, if I may speak for them, regrettable that what the members have done for the teaching corps in the way of salary increases, since the incipiency of this board in May, 1917, has not been appreciated by those for whom the members of the board have been so earnest in giving their time and their services, and that they should so forget themselves, as employes of the board, as to appeal to the public press, and not even use their own names in making the appeal, as the board has been ready at all times to receive any communication from them and give it due consideration."

LUSITANIA MEDAL SAID TO HAVE BEEN ORIGINATED BY DEALERS

German Official, in Suppressing Sale of Reproduction, Claims Government Did Not Coin Any.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES IN GERMANY, Aug. 27.—Sale of a reproduction of the Lusitania medal, which for a time was being peddled in the occupied areas, has been forbidden in the Rhine province by the oberpresident. Hundreds of the medals were bought by American soldiers as souvenirs. Writing to Col. I. L. Hunt, the oberpresident says:

"I wish to inform you that such a medal has, of course, never been coined or caused to be coined by any German Government. The medal is simply the outcome of misguided thrift and greediness on the part of certain private dealers who published this tasteless reproduction and have hawked it about, without considering that by so doing they stimulate the animosity against Germany."

The story generally current with the sale of this issue of the medals was that they were made in Munich by the manufacturer of the original, which was issued in 1915 after the sinking of the Lusitania, and from the same dies on which the original issue was cast. These dies, according to the story, were ordered destroyed by the German Government after only 28 medals had been struck off, but were surreptitiously saved by Karl Guertz, who is reported to have been the designer. The German Government has several times denied that any Lusitania medal was ever issued with consent of Government officials.

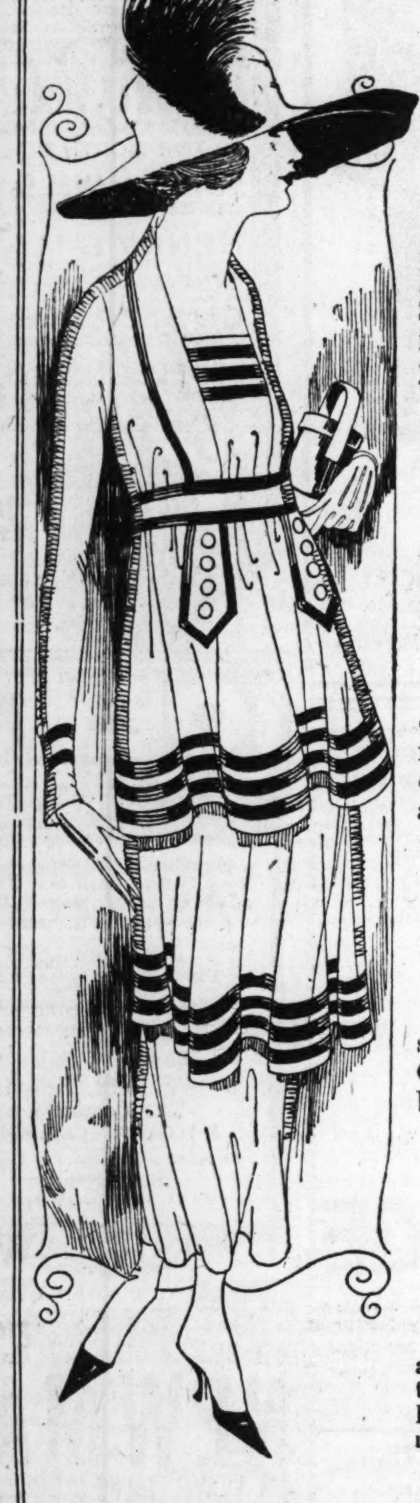
The correct in vogue, the splendidly varied in assortment and the really worthy in value characterizes our modish Fall and Winter



Outer Apparel

From the leading style sources they come—a gay bevy of Autumn modes that somehow manage to express a certain positive joyousness. Frocks and Evening Gowns have vivid dashes of color or a sparkling glint of silver or gold texture here and there. Suits and Coats are more sedate, of course, in color, but luxurious as to texture and also in trimming—which is beautiful fur in many instances. Our collection is so large that you have literally hundreds of variations on this style theme to choose from.

Note the 3 Following Very Moderately Priced Groups:

Fashionable Frocks

Specially Featured at... $30.00

It is surprising how many of the cleverest of the new modes find expression in these moderately priced frocks. You will find chic tailored styles, also dressier models for afternoon of serge, tricotine, jersey, satin and Georgette; also combinations of the various materials.

Trimmings are used effectively this season in many different ways of individuality. Colors are new in tone and different, with blue and black strongly favored. All sizes.

Newest Autumn Suits

Specially Featured at... $39.75

You will change your mind about not being able to get ultra smart styles at a moderate price when you see the unusual style and quality offered in these Suits. They are smartly tailored of handsome

Serge, Oxford cloth, plain and checked velour, broadcloth and Burella, in the fashionable shades; also blue and black.

Plain tailored effects are most favored although dressier effects are also shown. Collars, belts and pockets are large and distinctive. Sizes from 14 years to 46 inch bust.

Fall and Winter Coats at $29.75

There are 500 Coats for you to choose from at this price, and the selections of style and color are extremely varied and attractive with models for the miss as well as the matron. It is an opportunity worth looking into, as seldom if ever during the entire season will so large a collection of styles be offered at so moderate a price. The materials include plush, kersey, velour, Oxford and wool mixtures in new shades—some with plush collar and cuffs.

Other Coats and Wraps of elegance, in great variety, at $29.75 to $365.

ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS TO MEET HERE MONDAY

1000 Steel Men Expected to Attend Annual Convention to Be Held at Statler.

The thirteenth annual convention of the Association of Iron and Steel Electrical Engineers will open at Hotel Statler tomorrow morning, and continue in session until Friday.

It is expected that over 1000 steel men will be in attendance, and one of the important transactions of the convention will be the establishing of a St. Louis section in industrial St. Louis.

The national offices of the association are established at Pittsburg with sections in Birmingham, Chicago, Cleveland and Philadelphia, St. Louis being the only large iron and steel manufacturing center not organized.

The convention will discuss the world's production of iron and steel any many new inventions and processes of manufacture will be presented.

Industry Aided.

The association was organized 14 years ago. As a result of the organization there was brought about cooperation between the iron and steel industries and the electrical manufacturers that has resulted in superior equipment being provided to meet the requirements of the industry. It has resulted also in the rapid electrification of the industry and, in turn, the revolutionizing of methods of producing iron and steel.

The association has aided in securing legislation regulating the direction of industrial safety and welfare. It inaugurated industrial safety from which was the outgrowth of the National Safety Council.

It is predicted that a number of new and startling processes of manufacturing will be presented during the convention.

H. D. James, Control Engineer, Westinghouse Electrical Manufacturing Co., East Pittsburg, Pa., will speak on the "Recent Improvements in Industrial Control." James is a contributor to the Technical Press and has taken out numerous patents on controllers.

List of Officers.

Paul Lincoln will read a paper on "Overland Protection for Motors." He was former president of the association; is a member of the Engineers' Society of Western Pennsylvania, and has written a number of papers on electrical technology. He is advisory head of the electrical department of the University of Pennsylvania.

The officers are D. M. Petty, Bethlehem Steel Co., Bethlehem, Pa.; president; B. W. Gilson, Carnegie Steel Co., Youngstown, O., first vice president; H. C. Cronk, McKinney Steel Co., Cleveland, O., second vice president; James Farrington, LaBelle Iron Works, Steubenville, O., treasurer; C. A. Menk, Carnegie Steel Co., past president, Munhall, Pa.; F. D. STOCKHOLM IS MOST EXPENSIVE CITY IN EUROPE, TRAVELERS SAY Hotel Bed, Breakfast and Bath Cost $8, Meals $5 and Taxis $7.50 an Hour.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Travelers arriving here from Stockholm, after visiting some of the other capitals, are firm in their conviction that it is the most expensive city in Europe.

The staple coin is a krona, a little more than 25 cents, and it costs 32 krona for bed, breakfast and bath in a hotel. The simplest meals cost $5, and wine is prohibitive at about $20 a bottle for the worst war champagne. A taxicab for an hour costs $7.50, and 5 krona is the customary tip for a meal, while one is expected to give a krona to the man who insists on opening the door you would rather open yourself.

"I have been in many places these past five years," said a recently returned traveler, "Moscow and Bagdad, Bombay and Saloniki, Cairo and Rome, Paris and Petrograd, London and Monte Carlo, Brussels and Milan. The cheapest of them all was Monte Carlo. Stockholm was the dearest."

BANQUET FOR FRANCIS FRIDAY

Former Exposition Directors to Meet Ambassador at M. A. A.

A special table for former directors of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition will be reserved at the banquet to be given in honor of D. R. Francis, United States Ambassador to Russia, at the Missouri Athletic Club, next Friday night.

Francis was the president of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Co. Of the 93 directors, 50 are still alive; 11 reside outside of St. Louis. The Ambassador, who has been resting at his home in Rye Beach, N. H., is expected to arrive in St. Louis next Friday. The banquet will be given jointly by the city administration, Chamber of Commerce and Merchants' Exchange.

MOTORS MAY REPLACE DOGS

By the Associated Press.

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, Aug. 30.—Dog teams, which for years have pulled the mail sleds over winter Alaska snow trails, may be replaced by motors. A Seattle firm is reported building motor sleds designed to pull trailers over the winter roads. Mail will be carried over some of the Alaska routes by the motor sleds this year.

INFLUENZA RETURN EXPECTED BY BLUE

Pandemic in Mild Form Likely This Year, He Says—No Known Cure.

WASHINGTON.—"Will the 'flu' come back this year?"

This question, being asked by thousands of scientists and millions of laymen throughout the world, is discussed by Surgeon-General Blue of the Public Health Service in an official bulletin, in which it is said that the plague probably will reappear, but not in its severe a form as last winter.

"Probably, but by no means certainly, there will be a recurrence of the influenza epidemic this year," says Gen. Blue. "Indications are that should it occur it will not be as severe as the pandemic of the previous year. City officials, State and city Boards of Health, should be prepared in the event of a recurrence. The fact that a previous attack brings immunity in a certain percentage of cases should allay fear on the part of those afflicted in the previous epidemic.

"Influenza is spread by direct and indirect contact. It is not yet certain that the germ has been isolated or discovered, and as a consequence there is yet no positive preventive, except the enforcement of rigid rules of sanitation and the avoidance of personal contact.

"Contrary to the opinion expressed frequently during the early weeks of last year's pandemic by a number of observers, the studies of the Public Health Service indicate that the epidemic was not a fresh importation from abroad. Careful study of the mortality statistics of the United States shows that there were a number of extensive though mild forerunners during the previous three or four years.

"Concerning the important question of immunity conferred by an attack of influenza, the evidence is not conclusive, but there is reason to believe that an attack during the earlier stages of the epidemic confers a considerable, but not absolute immunity in the later outbreaks.

"Despite the fact that there is still some uncertainty as to the nature of the micro-organism causing influenza, one thing is certain, that the disease is communicable from person to person. Moreover, judging from experience in other diseases, it is probable that the germ, whatever its nature, is carried about not only by those who are ill with influenza, but by persons who may be entirely well. Everything which increases personal contact, therefore, should be regarded as a factor in spreading influenza.

"It seems probable, however, that we may expect as least local recurrences in the near future, with an increase over the normal mortality from pneumonia for perhaps several years, and certainly we should be, as far as possible, prepared to meet them by previous organization of forces and measures for attempted prevention, treatment, and scientific investigation.

"Communities should make plans now for dealing with ay recurrences. The most promising way to deal with a possible recurrence is, to sum it up in a single word, 'preparedness.' And now is the time to prepare.

"Evidence collected during last winter's epidemic points strongly to infected eating and drinking utensils, especially in places where food and drink are sold to the public, as being one of the modes of transmission of this disease."

FARMERS OF WEST TEXAS SEEK 50,000 TO GATHER COTTON CROP

Yield Will Average Bale Per Acre; $1.25 the Hundred Pounds Is Being Offered to Workers.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

AUSTIN, Tex.—An appeal for 50,000 cotton pickers has been sent out by the farmers of West Texas. Besides this number of men, women and children who are needed to gather the cotton crop, nearly that many men could find employment there at harvesting the enormous maize crop which is now ready for cutting.

It was only a few years ago that the discovery was made that cotton could be successfully grown in the more western part of the State. It is proving to be the most productive of all the cotton-producing section of Texas. Even the plains region, where the altitude is 2500 to 3000 feet, is found to be ideally adapted to growing enormous yields of cotton. The staple is now raised in enormous quantities all the way west to the New Mexico line.

In many localities the yield this year will average a bale to the acre. How the cotton and maize crops are to be harvested is now the problem that is disturbing the farmers of that region. They are offering $1.25 a hundred pounds for picking cotton. At this rate it is easily possible for an average worker to make $5 to $6 a day.

A Bet of £25,000

against

A Shake of the Hand

—Forms the starting point of E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM'S new novel,

"The Curious Quest"

—The bet is between a rich young idler in a mental and physical funk, and a crusty doctor who told him in so many words that he had no moral stamina.

—Stung by the physician's manner, the young man suddenly offered to wager that he could start out with a five pound note, the equivalent of about $25, and live for one year on what he could earn.

—If he lost he was to present 25,000 pounds, or about $125,000 to a hospital in which the doctor was interested.

—If he won he was to receive a handshake and an apology for the reflection on him.

—The story relates the astonishing adventures of the young man during the next twelve months, written in Mr. Oppenheim's characteristic captivating manner.

—"The Curious Quest" will be published serially on the

CAN'T FIND HORSES FOR VETERANS TO RIDE IN PARADE

Farmers Have Autos but Few Have Mounts, Search in and Near Atlanta, Ga., Shows.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ATLANTA, Ga.—That the automobile has shoved the horse thoroughly into the discard, was never more forcibly demonstrated than it was in Atlanta when the horse and carriage committee of the Confederate reunion set out to get steeds for some of the leading veterans to ride in the parade which is always the big feaure of the annual gatherings of the heroes who wore the gray.

About 5?0 saddle horses were wanted, but they couldn't be found within the limits of Atlanta. Scouts were sent out into the surrounding country. They reported that all farmers had Fords nowadays, but mighty few of them had saddle horses. It is possible that enough horses will be obtained from Camp Gordon remount station to make up the necessary quota.

In any event, according to the reunion committee, there will be good horses in plenty to add that dash and snap to the parade which only horses can produce. There will be 20 or more bands, too, and just about the only tune they will play will be "Dixie."

Atlanta is preparing for one of the biggest occasions in its history when the reunion is held October 7-10. Reservations and requests pouring in from all parts of the South indicate that thousands of people will take advantage of the one-cent-a-mile rate on all railroads which the government grants to every veteran or relative of a veteran, and to all maids and sponsors and others officially connected with the reunion. All that is necessary to get the rate is to present a certificate showing that the purchaser is entitled to it. Certificates can be obtained from camp, department and divisional commanders.

May Postpone Madrid Visit.

BRUSSELS. Friday.—King Albert's visit to Madrid, which he had intended to make soon, will probably be postponed, according to announcement here. He will remain in the United States about six weeks. Conferences with Norman Armour, charge d'affaires of the American Embassy here, and Rear admiral Andrew T. Long, naval attache of the American Embassy in Paris, have not brought about any change in the original plan for the king and queen to sail on September 22.

First Run Paramount and Artcraft Pictures

The best there is in the market will be shown exclusively during the season 1919-1920. No theater will run Paramount-Artcraft pictures until 30 days after they are shown at the West End Lyric.

Paramount and Artcraft pictures have since the beginning of moving pictures been considered the best by far. That's why we have selected them for exclusive showing at the West End Lyric. We could not do better.

will be our aim for the season of 1919-1920. No expense will be spared in making the West End Lyric the real amusement theater of St. Louis. GOOD ROADS COMMITTEE TO MEET

The Good Roads Committee of the St. Louis Automobile Club, which was formed recently by Maj. Harry B. Hawes to aid St. Louis County in carrying out road improvements with the $3,700,000 provided in a special road bond issue, will hold its first meeting at the Missouri Athletic Association at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Hawes will explain the purposes of the committee and discuss the methods of road construction in use in various parts of the country. The information for his address was obtained in a special investigation made for that purpose. Subcommittees will be formed at the meeting to carry on the committee's program. About 100 business men, residing in the county, but whose offices are located here, comprise the committee.

Famo Kills Seborrhea

It Stops the Dandruff Disease and Grows New Hair

Science knows now that Seborrhea causes falling hair and finally, baldness.

Seborrhea is the bacillus of dandruff.

Famo actually kills this germ that kills the hair.

The formula of Famo came from one of Detroit's largest laboratories, after two years of constant research. It worked scores of authenticated cures of Seborrhea, before it was even given a name.

If you have dandruff, you have Seborrhea.

Famo eradicates the dandruff. It penetrates the glands of the scalp that feed the hair.

It grows hair by making and keeping the scalp and hair healthy.

Seborrhea is a disease as deadly to hair as is Pyorrhea to the teeth.

And unless you use Famo to kill the Seborrhea germ, your hair is making a losing fight.

Everything about Famo is better.

Everything in it is helpful to the hair—helpful toward a healthy scalp, toward the growth of beautifully glossy, luxuriant hair.

Famo contains not a trace of alcohol, which dries out the natural oil of the hair.

Famo actually postpones the coming of gray hair by keeping the scalp healthy.

Thousands of hair shops testify to the extent of the scourge of Seborrhea.

This appalling sacrifice can be stopped tomorrow by Famo.

Try a bottle today. The first treatment will remove the dandruff.

And you will be amazed at the improvement in your hair after a few applications.

Famo is economical. The dollar size contains a third more than the average.

Begin to use it regularly this very night—continue to use it daily.

Get Famo at any toilet goods counter. In $1 and 35 cent sizes. Applications at the better barber shops.

ROYAL VISITORS BRING PROBLEMS FOR WILSON

King, Two Queens, Two Princes and Six Princesses Already Scheduled for Entertainments.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—President Wilson must welcome soon after his return to the White House the biggest flood of royalty that has ever flowed over this democracy.

Up to date there is scheduled for entertainment in the United States one King, two Queens, two Princes, six Princesses, with a probability of a royal Duke and at least one additional heir to a throne. The White House is going to look like one of those hands that is dealt when a pinochle deck has come inadvertently into a poker game, and the President has to be on the job or the world's political fortunes will rock.

There is nothing jocular about acting as host to such a series of house parties. First and worst of the complications is the matter of arranging the guests who will be invited to meet these royalties. The troubles start with the Prince of Wales. If you are a hearty American, with a proper sense of your own social or official importance, and are big enough to figure in the gatherings of the domestic great, you are going to be pretty sore if you are officially deemed unworthy of sitting at meat with the Prince of Wales at the one big dinner that will be given for him at the White House.

President Must Choose.

The President will have to shoulder the burden of making up the list of guests.

How is he to determine the comparative rights—letting the almost equally grave question of precedence in the manner of their seating stand aside—of the politically great, industrially great, socially great, intellectually great and governmentally great? He can't very well pass the buck to Congress for reference to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Incidentally he will have to go to Congress for the funds to pay for the entertainment of all this royalty, for the emoluments of the President make no provision for wholesale hospitality to rulers and Princes.

Congress will come through all right, for Congress, political amenities aside, is a pretty good fellow and a fair sportsman, but there is something a little bit awkward about going to Congress for the wherewithal to give a dinner and not including Congress among the guests.

Personal considerations cannot weigh in sending out the invitations. The Speaker of the House and the Vice President must be included on every count, and presumably the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, though it is well known that the President's sentiments toward Henry Cabot Lodge are only equaled in intensity by those entertained by the Senator from Massachusetts for the chief executive, and every reader of that sprightly publication, the Congressional Record, appreciates what they are.

Heirs to Succession Many.

Theoretically the guests should be as nearly as possible the peers of the heir to the throne. This suggests that a nice party could be made up of the candidates for the Wilson succession, but the White House is not chambered to take care of more than a hundred dinner guests, and there are certain disadvantages to spreading a banquet in a circus tent.

More and more the people who have been worrying over this difficulty are coming around to the belief that the unfortunate young Prince is doomed to be subjected to the horrors of a strictly official dinner—with nobody there but Cabinet officers, Ambassadors and others high in statecraft with perhaps a slight leavening of stuffy college professors.

Now, as to what the President is going to do with the Prince by way of more intimate entertainment. The President's sole dissipation is golf. One reason that he will not take Albert Edward out on the links may be hinted at. There are frequent references in the current prints to the President's playing the royal game, but that spirit of the American press that forbids the parading of the sorrows of public men for the delectation of ribald readers has kept out of type all statistical comment upon his score. The fixing of the handicap would be a matter even more delicate than the seating of guests already referred to.

More nearly tragic is the question of what is to be drunk at the Prince's dinner—to say nothing of luncheon and tea.

Cellars Were Famous.

Time was when the White House cellars were something to be spoken of with respect. Every succeeding President prided himself on replacing what was consumd during his regime with its equivalent in quantity and quality for his successor, but now! A Broadway playhouse with an Equity strike on is not more lonesome and melancholy.

The question the President has to determine is if it is possible to regale the heir to a throne, founded on such conceits as that even the Poet Laureate who sings its triumphs is to be paid in casks of Canary, with plain or fancy water. Can the health of King George be drunk in grape juice or those subterfuges and ersatzes the very names of which are redolent of apology and repining?

The only way out appears to be for the Prince to bring his own, or to drift up to the British Embassy Building when he feels the need.

Brings Viscount Grey.

Incidentally it is the coming of the Prince that is responsible for the prospective advent of Viscount Grey of Falloden as British Ambassador. It is not pretended that this is anything but an ad interim appointment, for he doesn't want the job. In fact, they are having a lot of difficulty in finding the right sort of a man who does want to come to the dry capital, so the Viscount has consented to fill out for the time being. Ostensibly the appointment is to settle some of the grave questions of the post-war period, but none of these is more vital now than at any time during the past half year, while they have to have an Ambassador when the Prince is our national guest.

More Royalty to Come.

At that the troubles of the President are only beginning at this point. King Albert's Queen comes with him and by and by the Queen of Rumania and six royal Princesses are due. It may be possible to satisfy the amenities with buck royalty by official dinners and such solemnities, but the social side cannot be sidestepped when it comes to Queens and Princesses.

Who is there brave and wise enough to choose from American society those who shall be invited to meet august ladies? If there was some sort of apostolic succession to the functions of the late Ward McAllister, the President might, as a war measure, impress the incumbent of that throne to function—as he brought Schwab to Washington to build ships—and so get a decision as among the old Knickerbockers, the F. F. V.'s, the Boston Back Bay set, the railroad group and the later comers to Fifth avenue; failing that, the President himself must take the responsibility.

It behooves all patriotic churchgoers to con that portion of the service that deals with "A prayer for the President of the United States," for the perils of his administration are before him and he needes all assistance, material and ghostly, in this fateful October.

Hungarian Patriot Dies at West Plains.

WEST PLAINS, Mo., Sept. 20.—Col. Peter Paul Dobozy Dezit, 87 years old, a Hungarian of noble birth who fought under Louis Kossuth, died at his home here last night. Exiled from his native land because he refused to swear allegiance to Francis Joseph, he fled to Turkey and later joined the Hungarian Hussars to fight under Garibaldi against Austria in 1859. He came to the United States with two nephews of Louis Kossuth soon after the beginning of the Civil War and offered his services to the Federal army.

CONFERENCE TO PLAN C. OF C. AID IN STATE DEVELOPMENT

Committee to Meet With Representatives of Federated Commercial Clubs.

Jackson Johnson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, has notified I. R. Kelso, president of the Federation of Missouri Commercial Clubs, to set a date for a joint conference with a committee from the Board of Directors of the Chamber.

Kelso advised Johnson that he had called a meeting of representatives of the Federation in St. Louis Oct. 9, and would arrange for a meeting with a committee from the Chamber at that time.

The purpose of the meeting is to reach a clear understanding between the city and the country regarding the attitude of the Chamber towards the raising of funds for State development work.

The meeting will make some disposition of the alleged pledge of the old Business Men's League to raise $150,000 for State development work.

Kelso said the Federation would make a strong effort to co-operate with the Chamber in working out a plan of State development through local units.

This accusation lowered him in the esteem of his friends, he says. He also avers that she nagged him. They were married Sept. 20, 1909, and separated May 1 last.

ORDER ARREST BY WIRELESS

BREWSTER, N. Y.—Trooper E. C. Roberts of the Brewster Station of the State Constabulary arranged to order the arrest by wireless of Nicholas Toleff, charged with murder in Jamesville, N. Y., now four days out at sea on the steamship Pannonia of the Cunard line. The ship is destined for Piracus, Greece, and will not make a landing for 14 more days until it docks there.

The defendant is accused of murdering Christo Bozenoff near Jamesville, in Onondago County. Troopers Roberts and Charles Maguire traced the defendant from Jamesville to the Cunard dock in New York City, where they established that the fugitive sailed with a Serbian passport. They arranged with District Attorney Walwork to wireless the officers of the ship to put Toleff in the brig and hold him when they dock, for extradition back to this country to face prosecution. This is the first time since the State Constabulary was organized that it has had occasion to make an arrest by wireless.

BIG INCREASE IN MEXICO'S TRADE WITH UNITED STATES

Business Larger Than Ever With Many American Firms Proposing to Establish Branches.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 1.—Despite conditions popularly regarded in the United States as uninviting to American trade expansion here, business between that country and Mexico shows a decided upward trend. During the fiscal year just closed imports and exports between the two republics amounted to more than 531,000,000 pesos ($265,500,000 normally), according to figures given the Associated Press by W. F. Saunders, secretary of the American Chamber of Commerce in Mexico City.

Of this amount 376,000,000 pesos represents exports from Mexico. Previous to the current fiscal year, the banner period of Mexican-United States business was in 1911, when 102,000,000 pesos' worth of goods were exported from Mexico and 146,000,000 pesos' worth were imported.

"Deducting amounts representing petroleum exportations, which are not considered in the ordinary run of commercial business, and for increased values of goods, these figures indicate clearly that trade is increasing," said Saunders. "Mexico will spend more than $150,000,000 in the United States during 1919 with imports of hardware, machinery, drugs and dry goods leading all others. During the month of August we received more than 700 letters from firms who intimated intentions of establishing branches here. The end of the war has brought sharp competition for Mexican business."

MANY ALTON SOLDIERS MARRIED

Greatest Number of Licenses Taken in Draft Period.

Alton young men who served in the war did not wait until the war's end to marry, the records of License Clerk Emil Joesting Show. Reports from other cities show that the return of men from the service has been the cause of a great increase in the number of marriage licenses issued.

According to Clerk Joesting the number of licenses that will be issued in 1919, based on the number issued up to Sept. 1, will be about 300, the number issued last year. The records show, however, that the greatest number of licenses issued was during the time men were being called in the draft. In the latter months of 1917 and early 1918, 499 licenses were issued, the records show.

TANKS USED TO CLIMB ALPS AND TOW BARGES

Work to Start Soon on Marne Bridge in Honor of American Soldiers.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Sept. 20.—After having helped to overcome this country's foe, tanks are now helping man to overcome the difficulties of mountain climbing. The first experiments were made recently on the French Alps, when small French tanks, transformed into comfortable vehicles, easily reached heights as yet beyond the strength of man. A regular tank transportation service on the Alps is contemplated. Other uses to which these former engines of war have been put include towing barges along canals and rivers and as tractors for agricultural purposes.

Work will begin soon to bridge the Marne at Chateau-Thierry to commemorate the American heroes who fell there last year. The new bridge, which will replace the old one blown up in the battle, is designed by Charles Latrohne, a French architect. The money needed is being supplied by the American committee for devastated France, while the cost of the monument placed on the Marne's right bank is covered by subscriptions from the officers and men of the Third Division, each of whom gave up a day's pay to this end. The monument, on which American aspirations are represented, is to be built of concrete and will form an integral part of the bridge, which consists of one big handsome span without any intermediary pillars.

The five years of war have taught women to find themselves. This is one of the reasons put forward here for the extraordinary number of sportswomen France boasts of today. Scores of instructors are teaching French women basket ball, football, fencing, shooting, rowing, swimming, tennis and hockey. Riding horseback is another great attraction, many women riding astride. Motor driving has long been enjoyed by women but since the armistice nearly 200 new licenses have been granted to women to drive cars.

Dancing has come into its own again. There is a particular craze for Greek dances. The seaside towns this year held open air classes, where these dances were taught. Perhaps because of the hot summer France enjoyed, swimming had the priority among women's sports. Suzanne Wurtz, 20 years old, the French woman champion, established records for short and long-distance swims almost daily.

One of the pre-war dates in French automobiling will be revived this year, when, on Oct. 9, the automobile show will be opened in the Grand Palais here, which throughout the war served as a hospital. All makes of cars will be represented at the show, but it is regretted that only a few American firms are participating, among them the Cadillac, Pierce-Arrow, Hupmobile and Overland. The chief attraction at the show will be a new French standard made car produced in large series. It is fitted with all modern appliances, such as automatic starter and electric lighting, but is considered rather small for the road. A 10-horsepower motor sold for 7500 francs (about $1500) is the cheapest car in France.

HOLLAND NOT EXPECTED TO SURRENDER WILHELM

Rumor Heard in Germany that England Would Welcome Definite Refusal by Netherlands.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—A report from Paris to the effect that the Council of Five has decided to ask Holland to deliver up the former Kaiser receives much comment in German newspapers and is discussed with interest in all circles.

As to the stand which will be taken by the Dutch Government, the correspondent is able to state from information obtained through reliable sources that the Netherlands Government has decided after a long and careful investigation of the case that there is no legal basis on which they can turn their unwelcome guest over to the Entente. The majority of the authorities wish that they could find some tangible ground for so doing and regret that they have been unable to do so. They have been hoping that such a demand will not be made because of the position in which it will place them—that of being forced to refuse a request which they would be glad of an excuse to grant.

There are reports in plenty as to the real views of England and America. The one most often reiterated is that unofficial representations have been made by the British to the effect that England will be obliged to Holland for a definite refusal.

Says Car Shortage Holds Wheat.

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 20.—Gov. Samuel R. McKelvie today made public a telegram he sent to Director General Hines of the Railroad Administration, urging that steps be taken to relieve a shortage of railroad cars in Western Nebraska, where huge quantities of wheat are said to be in danger of rotting because of a shortage of shipping and storage facilities. At Dalton, Neb., the telegram said, "Farmers have 1,000,000 bushels of wheat, part of which must be disposed of at once to avoid loss from inadequate shelter and to give relief to banks in that community."

RED CROSS BARRACKS 'AMERICA' TO AN OLD FRENCH PEASANT

Asks U. S. Investigator in Verdun Area for "Lift" and Gets Off at Former Relief Station.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

VERDUN, Aug. 26.—Motoring north from the battered city yesterday the automobile of an American member of the committee which is investigating the work of reconstruction was hailed by an old peasant who asked to be given a lift. There was a vacant seat in the car and the villager was asked what his destination was.

"America," he replied.

The passengers thought he had become mentally unbalanced, but he argued with the chauffeur, who finally allowed him to ascend to the seat next to him, intending to drop him at the first village. It was done. "Grand merci," said the peasant. "This is America."

"America" proved to be a great barracks which had been erected by the American Red Cross on a spot where formerly stood the little village of Fresnes. There the Red Cross distributed clothing, food and other necessities of life to repatriated citizens of the devastated region of the Meuse.

The returning inhabitants have christened the village "America." The barracks are now occupied by Russian soldiers awaiting their return home, some of them not anxious to return home at all. They have been provided with old American uniforms and look exactly like doughboys who had neglected to shave for three months. When asked as to their nationality, they reply: "We Amerikansky."

PROF. ELIOT'S STATUE HUMOROUSLY STATED

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—Although President-Emeritus Eliot of Harvard University no longer takes an active part in the conduct of the institution, he has been characterized as "professor of everything." A man of his acquaintance overheard the following conversation of two rural folks at Bar Harbor a few days ago:

"There goes Prof. Eliot."

"Who?"

"Prof. Eliot of Harvard College."

"What's 'e professor of?"

"Well, I dunno, but I guess he's professor of the whole darn thing."

President A. Lawrence Lowell, now the head of the university, is seeking an endowment fund for Harvard of $11,000,000. The work is being carried on by the graduates, of whom there are over 36,000. A large part of this money will be devoted to a general increase in the salaries of the administrative and teaching staffs; the balance will go to improvements in all parts of the university.

PLANTS TO PRODUCE 60,000 CUBIC FEET OF HELIUM A DAY FOR ARMY DIRIGIBLES

Production of Noninflammable Gas in Texas Is Expected to Make Craft Invulnerable.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PETROLIA, Tex.—Van H. Manning, Director of the United States Bureau of Mines, who has been in Texas investigating the development of helium gas, says that when the plants for the extracting of this noninflammable product are finished the daily output will be more than 60,000 cubic feet of gas a day for use by the Government, chiefly in military balloons. The Bureau of Mines is operating the helium plant at Petrolia and the two experimental helium plants that were built at Fort Worth were under the bureau's direction. The large helium plant now being constructed at Fort Worth will be operated by the Navy Department, Manning stated. In discussing the possibilities of helium gas, Manning said:

"Just now, the army and navy are the branches of the Government most interested in this singular gas from an aviation standpoint, and we are endeavoring to develop a sufficient quantity for their uses. As far as we have gone we can only hope that it will some time be possible to obtain enough additional helium for commercial purposes and that it can be produced at a price that will make it commercially feasible.

"Before helium was discovered in natural gas, it had been obtained in such minute quantities and by such time-consuming methods that its cost ran up to about $2000 a cubic foot. We are confident of getting the cost far below this mark.

War Incited Production.

"It was the war that was the great incentive to the rapid development of helium. Long before the United States entered the conflict, hydrogen-filled dirigibles had lost their effectiveness through the development of incendiary projectiles. The high inflammability of hydrogen had made the war dirigibles an easy prey to the enemy and many hydrogen-filled aircraft were brought to the ground in flames. The possibility that here was a noninflammable gas not vulnerable to incendiary bullets was seized upon eagerly by the allies, and an almost frenzied effort was made to learn whether or not this gas, which became known by the camouflaged name of 'Argon' could be produced in quantity.

"The British were especially anxious to obtain it, believing that its use in the war would, by making dirigibles impregnable, have tremendous and terrifying results. The British Admiralty had visions of obtaining from the United States 100,000,000 cubic feet of the gas at once, and of contracting for a further supply of 1,000,000 cubic feet a week. While this was an impracticable figure at that time, I may say that by the time the armistice came, the United States, in its experimental plants, had obtained about 200,000 cubic feet of 92½ per cent helium. This gas was stored in steel containers, at a pressure of 2000 pounds to the square inch, each cylinder containing enough of the gas to expand to about 200 cubic feet when released to atmospheric pressure. Of these cylinders, 750 were ordered sent to France for aeronautic purposes, and were on the dock at New Orleans awaiting shipment when the armistice was signed. If the war had not come to an end when it did, the United States would have been able to wield, through helium, a weapon of incalculable potency, and Texas generally would have had the proud distinction of supplying it.

R-34 Practically Obsolete.

"It probably is not too much to say that a mighty dirigible balloon filled with helium and mounting guns of different calibers both above and below the envelope, would be practically invulnerable in war against anti-aircraft batteries and airplanes, when floating thousands of feet above a city.

"I am told by aircraft experts that machines three months old become obsolete, so rapid is the stride of invention in this field, so that the 'R-34,' that has recently made the first glorious round trip flight across the ocean, has already, in many respects, become a back number.

"Helium is of prime importance in aeronautics because next to hydrogen it is the lightest gas known; because its rate of diffusion and consequent wastage through ordinary balloon fabrics is only half that of hydrogen; and above all, because of its being chemically inert. Even under peace conditions, the great hydrogen-filled envelope of the dirigible constitutes a serious hazard because of possible ignition from atmospheric electricity, or from flames originating in the power plant of the craft, it being remembered that hydrogen is continually leaking out into the surrounding air. It has occasionally happened that a hydrogen-filled aircraft on landing has been blown to bits because the charge of static electricity accumulated by cloud friction on the envelope has been suddenly discharged on contact with the earth. Helium, however, being absolutely inert, cannot be ignited or exploded, and even mixtures of certain amounts of hydrogen with helium can be used with perfect safety in lighter-than-air craft."

HUGE BOA CONSTRICTOR KILLED IN DE SMET, SOUTH DAKOTA

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D.—Big snake hunting has become a pastime with the more courageous residents of De Smet, S. D.

Dr. L. P. Scofield and Merle Sasse were passing along a residence street when they espied a monster snake making its way across a street, evidently having come from its place of concealment in sheds at the rear of a residence.

The reptile proved to be a boa constrictor, six feet in length, which the two men killed after a hot fight.

Recently the snake charmer connected with a street carnival company showing in De Smet had a row with her husband and disappeared, carrying with her every cent of the family accumulations.

In his anger at being left stranded financially, the husband evidently believed the only way he could "get even" with his recreant wife was to turn the snakes loose, which he did.

The boa constrictor just found and killed is believed to have been the largest of the snakes turned loose on a peaceful and snake-hating community.

How many more of the snakes are running free about the town and vicinity is a mystery which the timid residents of De Smet wish they were able to solve.

In the meantime, since the appearance and slaying of the boa constrictor, they will be afraid to stir about nights for fear of treading upon and being bitten by some of the snakes believed to be at large.

GREETING SPANS 40 YEARS

Preacher Finds Stranger in Church Is Long-Lost Brother.

WILDWOOD, N. J.—Rev. Dr. D. H. King, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, noticed an elderly stranger among the members of his congregation, reluctantly waiting to greet him afte ra service this week. Approaching the visitor, he extended his hand in greeting, meanwhile asking him his name. The elderly man replied "George Dallas King." Surprised, yet joyous, the pastor queried further and soon found that the stranger was none other than his long-lost brother whom he had not seen for 40 years. George Dallas King is a farmer, residing at Hamilton, Tucker County, Va.

The mother of the King boys died when they were young, the eight children were taken by different families. Mr. King is the only one who has received a college education.

EX-OFFICERS PLEAD FOR ANY KIND OF WORK

Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON.—Cases of inability of demobilized army officers to obtain employment have been brought to the attention of Sir Robert Horne, Minister of Labor, by a deputation from the Ex-Officers' National Union.

Maj. G. M. Horn, spokesman for the deputation told of an ex-Captain, married and with a family, who has been eking out a precarious livelihood by carrying timber on the docks, at which he is able to get work only two days a week. A former staff Captain, who had obtained a degree from Oxford just before the war, and was in active service from the beginning to the end of hostilities, now, after months of fruitless search for work, is ready to take a position as hall porter, or even as street sweeper.

Maj. Horn urged that an official order be sent out requiring all employers who have vacancies to report them to the labor exchanges. He said the Government had set a bad example in employing women and girls who are not dependent on wages for a livelihood, when preference should be given to demobilized soldiers.

Maj. T. J. May reported the case of a middle-aged officer who was good enough to fight but for whom no employer has been willing to make a place; and he mentioned several former irregular officers who have rendered long and distinguished service, but for whom no provision has been made in civil employment.

State aid was asked by Lieut. E. M. Mote and Lieut. R. H. W. Simpson on behalf of an ex-officer who had been taken from his trade for the war and could not now get back into it for lack of capital, and in behalf of other officers who had prepared themselves for civil service examinations before the war and were now unable to resume their studies, having reached the age limit in military service or because of the insufficiency of the present civil service salaries.

Half pay for unemployed officers was suggested.

POSTOFFICE WITH NO CARRIERS SERVES 20,000

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JOPLIN, Mo.—Picher, Ok., 25 miles southwest of Joplin, has the distinction of being the largest city in the Southwest without letter carrier service.

The Picher Postoffice serves 20,000 persons. Two clerks are kept busy at the general delivery windows waiting on two ever-changing columns of patrons. In the office are 1500 lock boxes, which are rented all the time, and there usually is a waiting list.

Picher is a zinc and lead mining town. Three years ago it was a vast prairie of Indian-owned land. Today there are more than 100 zinc and lead mines, each with a concentrating plant representing expenditures of from $100,000 to $250,000 each, and there are between 4000 and 5000 miners and mill hands employed there.

Picher became a town overnight. Thousands of persons rushed there early in 1917, and for a time they were without postal service except by rural route. The closest railroad was five miles away. There was no water system, and for almost two years water was hauled in wagon tanks and delivered to barrels of the residents.

Finally Uncle Sam created a fourth class postoffice, providing for a Postmaster and one clerk. The Postmaster had no fixtures and handled the mail as best he could. It was not uncommon to see 500 persons standing in line awaiting their turn at the general delivery window.

Being unable to handle the mail with the assistance of one clerk, the postmaster employed two additional clerks, paying them himself. His allowance from Uncle Sam failed to meet the expense of the office, and the postmaster not only paid out his own salary in clerk hire, but was forced to delve into his private funds to meet the emergency.

Today the Government is taking better care of the town, but still there is no city delivery, and may not be for many years. The town of Picher is built on leased land. There are no sidewalks to meet with the requirements of the Government for city delivery, and there may never be sidewalks until the property is deeded.

OLD CLOTHES CLUB REQUIRES MEMBERS TO WEAR PATCHES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D.—An interesting club is being formed by residents of Canton, 20 miles south of Sioux Falls. It will be known as the Old Clothes Club and the members will pledge themselves to wear old clothing which ordinarily would be thrown into the discard. In this way they propose to reduce the cost of living and at the same time contribute their mite toward reducing the price of clothing.

The password to meetings of the members of the new club will be the word darn. The official badge of the club, to be worn by all true followers of the order, will consist of a patch, the condition being that the patch be worn in the most conspicuous place. The patch must not be covered, and no member will be limited to a single patch, but may have several if he wishes. In the cases of the men and women members of the club who wear more than one patch, one of the patches must be visible.

No particular color or shade of patch is designated in the constitution and bylaws of the new club, but different emblems will be conferred from time to time as the member takes the various ascendant steps to the chief places in the order. The badges will always consist of patches, and more patches.

Women members who wear dresses until the hem becomes ragged must continue to wear the dresses for at least three months longer until the wearer reaches the degree of Tatters. A male member of the club who wears a coat until all the wool is worn off will be eligible to advancement to the degree of Threadbare. The highest degree possible to attain in the new club is the degree of Rags.

Food Company Shut Down.

TOLEDO, O.—The Toledo Gardeners' Exchange, charged with price-fixing, is forbidden by a temporary injunction from acting as an agency in produce disposal. The injunction was granted by the Court of Appeals in the suit seeking to dissolve the exchange. The exchange is declared to be the selling agency for many produce growers.

ESSEX MOTOR CARS

Have You Examined

A Smart Five-Passenger Model of the Light Car Men Praise So Highly

The Essex Sedan?

You must have seen this dainty new Essex.

More than a thousand are in service.

You Will Recognize It at a Glance

It comes in the same beautiful green that distinguishes the Essex touring car. The body is simple with the newest square lines, low roof, but with ample head room, wide doors, deep seats and high backs.

Has Large Car Comforts With Small Car Costs

For one reason, men speak of the Essex as they do, because of its costly car finish and equipment. The Essex has no useless length or weight and no sacrifice has been made in any of the comforts. It has all the passenger space that larger cars can afford.

You have but to ride in an Essex to know its comfort. There is the large car's solidness about it that removes all sense of its weight or size.

And yet its size gives distinct advantages.

It makes the Essex easy to drive. It can be steered with two fingers. It can be turned in a short radius, parked in a small space, and of course there is an immense saving in operating costs.

And, too, its size accounts for its costly car quality at a moderate price.

It Is Just as Lively as the Other Essex

Many will tell you the fastest automobile ride they ever enjoyed was in an Essex.

Others say it is the quickest and liveliest car in acceleration they know. We leave it to the Essex to reveal those qualities.

But rest assured it is not sluggish. It gives way to no car where acceleration, speed and comfort of driving and riding are concerned.

The season when the Sedan will be most enjoyed is approaching. So you should speak for your Essex without delay. The one thousand in service, to say nothing of ten times as many touring models in use, indicates a continued Essex shortage.

LORD GREY COMING TO U. S. TO URGE LEAGUE'S ADOPTION

Famous English Statesman Will Strive to Establish More Friendly Relations Between Great Britain and America.

WILL ATTEMPT TO APPEASE IRELAND

British Journalist Believes Treaty Will Be "Merely Scrap of Paper" if This Country Leaves Europe to Own Resources.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—"Lord Gray's Task" is the title of the following striking article in the Daily News by A. G. Gardiner (who recently resigned as editor of the Daily News):

"Next week Viscount Grey sails for America. There has been no more momentous journey across the Atlantic in this or any other time. It is hardly too much to say that upon its sucess or failure hang the destinies of two hemispheres.

'In saying this it is not suggested that Lord Grey is a miracle worker or that it is in his power by the magic of his personality to resolve the discords of this distracted earth. But if anyone can redeem the catastrophe of Paris, it is he.

Sending Nation's Best Mind.

"In Lord Grey we are sending to America the best mind of the nation—not a cunning mind nor a clever mind, but a mind noble in thought, distinterested in purpose, spacious in vision, moved as only great souls can be moved by the agony of these years and inspired by the single idea of rescuing the world from the pit into which it has fallen, and it is to America that we need most to send such a messenger, such a witness of our good will, such an assurance of our good faith.

"In the general chaos of affairs there is still one hope of world reconstruction. It is in the British people and the American people working together loyally for a common policy of appeasement. When the war ended that hope was high, but the golden moment was lost. Six precious weeks were wasted on a 'hang-the-Kaiser' election in this country, an election in which the mind of the nation, instead of being moved to grand issues, was saturated with the basest appeals to revenge and ignorance. We emerged from that saturnalia to the discussion of peace with the atmosphere poisoned by false issues and shameful commitments.

League Is Threatened.

"We have never recovered from that indelible crime. It involved us in a French peace of revenge instead of an American peace of healing, and its fruits are scattered over Europe in famine, disease, revolution, war and all the great miseries of a continent collapsing deeper and deeper into barbarism. President Wilson got his league of nations, but he got it at a price that threatens to make it little more than the highest aspiration of a holy alliance.

"Under French inspiration we plunged, with Winston Churchill joyously leading, into the infamous war on Russia, which will leave us the most shameful chapter in the history of this country.

"The effect of all this, coupled with the now universally repudiated treaty of peace, has been disastrous in America. Originally the antagonism to President Wilson was largely partisan, but the course of events in Europe has brought other and more worthy elements into the ranks of his opponents. 'Europe,' they say 'has chosen to make an evil peace. We offered to help to accomplish a peace of justice. It has preferred to make a truce of revenge which will be the seed of a plot for future wars. We cannot underwrite those liabilities. We must leave Europe to stew in its own juice.'

U. S. Needed to Save League.

"That is the grave menace that confronts the world. If America weighs anchor and sails away from Europe, then the league of nations covenant is a worthless scrap of paper and Europe will be left a delelict wreck given over to mutiny and universal bankruptcy.

"The presence in America at this critical time of so powerful and elevated an influence as Lord Grey cannot fail to have weight with American opinion. But something more than his presence will be needed if his momentous visit is to consolidate an understanding between this country and America and, through that achievement, to establish the league of nations on a sure foundation.

"He must be supported from home, supported not only by the Government but by public opinion, by such votes as that of the electors of Wydnes and the congress at Glasgow, which gives the lie to the tragic misrepresentation of the mind of this country as revealed in the acts of its ministers.

"The importance of the end in view needs no insistence. If America weighs anchor from Europe, the disaster will be primarily ours and the blame will be primarily ours, too. For it is idle to blink the notorious fact that it was our reactionaries at home who played into the hands of President Wilson's opponents throughout the peace negotiations.

"Must Appease Ireland."

"We can do something to minimize the bad impression created by the peace in two ways. The principal lions in the path are the sea and Ireland. These lions must be slain before an absolutely clear and enduring understanding can be accomplished. It is we who have to slay them, and in both cases we have it in our power to make a gesture no less beneficent and final than that of a century ago, when we agreed with America to leave the Canadian frontier unfortified and unpatrolled.

"It is best to be quite frank in those matters. If by the failure of human wisdom at this searching time the future of the world is left insecure, it will be sea power which will be the danger point. America, in her isolation, will have to build, and she can build only with two contingencies in view: a conflict with this country or with Japan, or both. This is a moment to prevent this dreadful necessity arising. Let us enter into such a pooling arrangement with America for policing the world in the interests of the league of nations that no question of competition can ever arise. Only in that way can this country give to America and the world at large assurance that not supremacy for itself, but security for the world, is its aim.

"And the other issue is no less urgent. The greatest message that Lord Grey can carry to America is the message of appeasement in Ireland. If he can carry that, his success is assured and with it much greater interests also. Without it he will return with credit, we may be sure, but without the pearl of price."

GEER'S HEIRS-AT-LAW WERE A BIT SURPRISED

NORTH STONINGTON, Conn.—William E. Geer left the village over seven years ago and never sent back so much as a picture post card inscribed: "Having a fine time; wish you were here." His relatives concluded that he was no more.

Geer had left a tidy bit of property in the town, and at the end of seven years his relations decided to claim it as his heirs-at-law. Charles O. Caswell, a representatives of the family, appeared before Probate Judge Charles C. Gray of the town of North Stonington, and had him insert the customary notice in the Norwich morning paper, praying the law to grant administration "upon the estate of said absentee, presumed to be dead and intestate."

The legal notice apeared on Aug. 18. Soon thereafter Geer in the flesh appeared and called a halt. He explained that he had been living in Watertown, Conn. Seeing the legal notice in the Norwich paper, he had concluded to come home and claim his estate himself. Nevertheless his folks gave him a cordial welcome.

SHIMMY IS A POPULAR DANCE AMONG UNIVERSITY STUDENTS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo.—They like the shimmy in Columbia, at least the students of the University of Missouri. If you don't believe it ask the manager of one of the leading hostelries here and you will be convinced. At the opening assembly dance of the school year there were so many on the floor—170 couples—there was scarcely room to shake. And the shimmy was all the go. They were jazzing it to beat the band—or trying to at least but the band kept a few paces in the lead of the "shimmyites"

Now the manager finds that he will be unable to accommodate all those who like to trip the light fantastic to the jazz-time at his regular Saturday night dansant so he has decided that it will be necessary to put on the dancing two nights in the week, making it Friday and Saturday night. He believes that will give all of them an opportunity to shake the shimmy to their heart's content.

Yet it is doubtful if his troubles will end then. The registration is the largest in five years and with each new batch of students comes a crowd of shimmy dancers.

TODAY'S BEAUTY HELP

We find you can bring out the beauty of your hair to its very best advantage by washing it with canthrox. It makes a very simple, inexpensive shampoo, which cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly of all the dandruff, dirt and excess oil, leaving a wonderfully clean, wholesome feeling. After its use, you will find that the hair dries quickly and evenly, is never streaked in appearance and is always bright, soft and fluffy; so fluffy, in fact, that it looks more abundant than it is, and so soft that arranging it becomes a pleasure. Just use a teaspoonful of canthrox, which you can get from any good druggist, dissolve it in a cup of hot water; this makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head.—ADV.

He stated that the reason for this offer was his desire to bring his rents back to a pre-war level, without unnecessary hardship on the tenants.

BETS $100 SHE'LL KISS PERSHING

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—One fair war worker faces the loss of $100 as a result of a wager that she would kiss Gen. Pershing before he left Washington. As he was leaving a hotel last night, where he had attended a function in his honor, a comely young woman made a rush for him.

Members of the General's staff grabbed her, but not until she had an arm around Gen. Pershing's neck and was trying to kiss him. There was a grand rush by other women and girls and Pershing literally dived into his waiting car.

The young woman then explained her wager.

French Canal Service Nearly Normal

PARIS, Sept. 19.—Water communication between Belgium and the liberated regions along the old battlefront may be considered as reestablished, according to a report made to President Poincare by M. Claveille, Minister of Public Works and Transport. The report states that navigation is almost normal along the Aige, Deule, Sensee, St. Quentin and the Somme canals, and that since the armistice approximately 350 miles of double track road and 300 miles of single track line have been reconstructed.

THE LUDENDORFF AND VON TIRPITZ MEMOIRS

LUDENDORFF GIVES REASONS FOR FALL OF VON KUEHLMAN, GERMAN FOREIGN SECRETARY

Says Imperial Government Walked Into the Trap of the Russian Bolshevists in Summer of 1918.

By Gen. ERICH von LUDENDORFF
Fifteenth Installment.

AT the beginning of July, Secretary of State von Kuehlman retired from office. His attitude in the Reichstag, and particularly his assertion that the war could hardly be ended by a purely military decision, was going too far for the Imperial Chancellor. We also had felt it our duty to express our opinions. But what finally turned the scale in favor of the resignation of the Secretary of State von Kuehlman was his personal attitude during these days.

Von Kuehlman was the type of the post-Bismarckian German diplomat. The entrance of the Bolsheviks in Berlin and the unspoken consent to the propaganda sent out from the Russian embassy will always be connected with his name.

I greeted Secretary of State von Hintze as his successor, as I considered him a strong nature. I told him of my hope to make the Entente yet eager for peace, and pointed out the dangers of Bolshevism as well as the revolutionary activities of Herr Joffe. He continued in the Bolshevik current of his predecessor in office, partly because of his views on Russia, partly because he, too, did not become master of the old policies of the Foreign Office.

In Russia events had taken a peculiar course which was typical of the Soviet Government's untruthful attitude.

With its consent, the Entente had continued to organize Czecho-Slovak bands of troops from the Austrian-Hungarian war prisoners. They were intended to be used against us, and were to be brought to France across the Siberian Railway. And this was allowed by a Government with which we were at peace, and we let it go on! I wrote to the Imperial Chancellor at length about this at the beginning of June, and called his attention to the dangers which threatened us from the Soviet Government.

This weapon which had been forged against us was indeed to be turned against the Soviet Government itself. The Entente had recognized that there was no use working with this Government, which, moreover, leaned on Germany. Therefore it took a stand against Bolshevism. The Czecho-Slovak troops did not come to France; they were held up on the Siberian Railway on the frontier of Russia and Siberia, in order to fight the Moscow Government from this point. They pressed forward more and more against the middle Volga, in the direction of Kasan and Samara.

By occupying the Siberian railway the Entente at the same time succeeded in preventing the return of our prisoners of war in Siberia. This was certainly a blow to our strength. If the Soviet Government had been in good faith with its peace treaty, the same trains which carried the Czecho-Slovaks could have borne German prisoners of war as well. But it was not honorable. Bolshevism hurt us wherever it was able.

The situation was complicated in so far that I could not make any difficulties for the Bolshevistically inclined policy of the Government, and that Krasnoff looked upon the Soviet Government, and not the Entente, as his foe. Nevertheless, it was possible to keep him from taking any open stand in favor of the Entente, and to win him in a measure as a confederate. If we decided to fight Moscow, then he would openly come out on our side.

The Bolshevikis for the time being were in the ascendancy. In the beginning of June, although the Moscow Government could not go far enough in its assurances of peace, they landed a few thousand men from the Southwestern Azof district over the Sea of Azof at Taganrog. Here they were soon annihilated by German troops.

Soon Annihilated Bolsheviks.

In Novorossiisk were still the remnants of the Russian ships which had escaped from Sebastopol. Our military right and the laws of necessity required us to demand or enforce their return from there. In this, too, the Foreign Office, in consideration for the Soviet Government, delayed negotiations, although no better proof could have been shown of its unfriendly attitude, at least, of its inability to prevent unfriendly actions of its troops, than the landing at Taganrog.

At length the Soviet Government agreed to the return of the ships to Sebastopol. Only a portion of them arrived; the majority of them were sunk by the Bolsheviks, influenced after all by a national feeling, in the harbor of Novorossiisk. We had stipulated with the Soviet Government to make use of the ships during the war as much as the military situation should require. We have had no use of them.

My Thoughts and Actions.

As regards Great Russia, our policy, as carried out by Ministerial Direkter Krieg, worked directly in favor of the Bolshevists. There is no doubt that right through the summer it prevented us from forming a new military front. This I recognized. On general grounds I held such a policy to be shortsighted, as it was bound, in the long run, to strengthen the whole Bolshevist movement.

That could only do us harm; and I regarded it as the duty of our Government to guard against such an eventuality, not only on military grounds, but also, and indeed, more urgently, from the purely political point of view. Dr. Helfferich regarded this as quite possible. The position of the Government was certainly difficult, but they had only themselves to thank for it. They assured me that their policy reflected public opinion in Germany.

Here, again, I was compelled to believe that consideration for tendencies of internal politics was impeding the effective prosecution of the war. As for our military position, we could easily have made a rapid attack on Petrograd with the troops we had in the East. With the help of the Don Cossacks we could also have attacked in the direction of Moscow. This would have been far better than merely defending a long line, which absorbed more troops than would have been required for a short advance, besides unnerving the troops, whose morale would have been maintained by active operations.

We could have deposed the Soviet Government, which was thoroughly hostile to us, and given to other authorities in Russia, which were not working against us, but indeed anxious to co-operate with us. This would have been a success of great importance to the general conduct of the war.

If some other Government were established in Russia, it would almost certainly have been possible to come to some compromise with it over the peace of Brest, whereas, in dealing with the Bolshevists, a simple abandonment of the treaty without any idea as to how matters would develop, would have been the same kind of "payment in advance" policy as were all the ideas about a peace of "understanding," so long as the enemy would accept no such peace.

Our Government remained wholly ignorant of the underground activities of the Bolshevists, whom they regarded, or wished to regard, as honest. They entered into further negotiations with them over those points of the treaty which had not been cleared up. Nothing, not even the unavenged murder of our Ambassador at Moscow, shook their faith. They walked straight into the trap set by the Bolshevists, while simultaneously showing distrust of all other tendencies in Russia.

The Bolshevist Government was very accommodating; it granted the German demands with regard to Esthonia and Livonia, conceded the independence of Georgia, agreed to pay an indemnity by installments, and held out prospects of the delivery of raw materials, including oil, from Baku. Later on, the first installments of the indemnity were actually paid as agreed, rather to my surprise. Our Government's confidence in the Bolshevists went so far that they actually wanted to supply arms and ammunition to Herr Joffe. The gentleman who brought from the Foreign Office the document dealing with the matter remarked to me: "This material remains in Germany and Joffe will use it against us here."

At the conference in Spa, when our Georgian policy was being discussed, the imperial Chancellor agreed to send Col. von Kress, who had returned to Germany from the Palestine front, to Tiflis as his representative, with an escort of one or two companies. It had become essential for us to show a stronger hand in this district, not merely because we hoped to secure some military assistance from that quarter, but also in order to obtain raw materials. (Germany and Turkey were then clashing over control of the riches of the Caucasus.)

Could Not Rely on Turkey.

That we could not rely on Turkey in the matter had been once again demonstrated in her conduct in Batum, where she claimed the right to retain all the stocks for herself. We could only expect to get oil from Baku if we helped ourselves.

The shortage of fuel at home, and the difficulties of our winter fighting, with all their attendant inconveniences, were only too firmly impressed on my memory.

After the attack of the Eighth Army, the army's reserves of fuel had also run out, and we felt the shortage keenly. Oil was needed for the Ukraine railways also.

The Director of Railways had to solve the problem of tank ships. I was highly disgusted when the Bolshevists, simply in order to injure us, sank the Elbruz, the largest tank steamer in the Black Sea at Novorossiysk.

The crucial question, of course, was how we were to get to Baku. Here, again, consideration for the Soviet Government prevented us from acting firmly or rapidly, and the first event of importance was that the English from Enseli crossed the Caspian Sea at the beginning of August, and took possession of the town.

Their occupation of Baku, which was only rendered possible by the complete inactivity of the Turks in North Persia, was a severe blow for us. By this move the English also came into closer touch with the volunteer army in Kuban district, but on the other hand, at Baku they were within our reach.

An attack upon them, involving only a small force, seemed possible. G. H. Q. set about preparing a blow against them, with the co-operation of Nuri's troops, and sent a brigade of cavalry and a few battalions to Tiflis. The question of the transport of troops had not yet been settled, when the situation in Bulgaria compelled us to send the troops to Rumania.

"No Napoleonic Dreams."

In the East I went only so far as in my view was absolutely demanded by our military position and economic needs. I had no Napoleonic dreams of world conquest. The anxious struggle in which I was so deeply engaged left me no time to pursue fantastic schemes.

I wanted no territory in the Ukraine or Caucasus; my only object was to procure the supplies that were so urgently needed for our bare maintenance and the prosecution of the war. I hoped also, now that we had succeeded in breaking the blockade at this point, to improve our economic position, and thus to raise our physical strength and morale.

I wished to make what use was possible of the manpower of these districts, partly by direct recruiting, but on a larger scale, and with greater prospect of success, through enlisting labor for employment in Germany, so as to release men for the front. I pursued this course in all parts of the East, and had hopes of obtaining recruits from the German population there.

We did not, however, work quickly enough. The Eighth Army, at Riga, complained that the Ministry of War, in spite of all my persistence, had failed to give any instructions in the matter.

It was only to protect and foster German Kultur that I went beyond immediate military requirements and thought of the future. That did not involve any expenditure of military strength. I wanted to strengthen and consolidate German national spirit, and thus increase its influence. Some of my acquaintances had placed a substantial sum of money at my disposal for this end. I used it to support the German national press in Austria.

I steadily furthered my pet scheme of settling the isolated Germans scattered throughout Russia, side by side with our soldiers in the eastern districts. In this matter I made myself the advocate of Germanism against the Government. I rejected as fantastic, however, such proposals as the foundation of a German colonial state on the Black Sea.

Fail to Coerce Austria.

No progress had been made with the solution of the Polish problem. The Emperor Charles' attitude varied from time to time. Baron Burian, the successor of Count Czernin, adhered to the Austro-Polish solution (which involved an Austrian King for Poland). Our Government was still in the position of not knowing its own mind. It was as uncertain on this point as in the rest of its Eastern policy.

A good opportunity to dispose of the Austro-Polish question once and for all was not taken. The Emperor Charles had written the Parma letters (proposing peace to France and offering to urge Germany to give up Alsace-Lorraine). Under pressure from Vienna he had to decide in May to make his "Canossa" pilgrimage to Spa. (This journey was made to make amends to the Kaiser.)

The position was one of which anything might have been made. The Field Marshal and myself urged Count von Hertling and Secretary of State von Kuehlman to use this favorable opportunity to get matters put on a clear footing. They, however, lacked the necessary resolution.

With great solemnity, some document or another was drawn up and signed, not merely by the leading statesmen, but also by the two monarchs personally. This agreement, however, laid no obligations whatever on Austria-Hungary, and was utterly worthless. Our diplomacy had failed, and the dual monarchy had won.

Everything had turned out as we soldiers had prophesied. Baron Burian felt himself, and with good reason, not bound by anything. He continued to aim at the Austro-Polish solution with the persistence which was at once so prominent a feature of his character and so annoying to our diplomats.

German Peace With Russia Was Prevented Early in War by Blunders of Diplomacy

By
ALFRED VON TIRPITZ
Grand Admiral of the German Navy
THIRTEENTH INSTALLMENT.

Von Tirpitz Tells for the First Time Some Remarkable Incidents of the Historic Meeting of the Czar and the Kaiser at Sea in 1907, to Which He Was an Eye-Witness.

GERMANY'S war with Russia was one of our cardinal mistakes. Our policy should have been continually, after the outbreak of that unhappy event, to try for a speedly conclusion of peace with the Czar while he was still on his throne, before it was too late. This should have been an essential object of German diplomacy as well as an objective of the German armies in the field and the German fleets at sea, all of which were working for victory.

I believe now that the possibility of an early and victorious peace with Russia early in the war was undeniable. This conclusion, of course, is rendered more difficult by the fact that Turkey came in on our side and the non-fulfillment of Hindenburg's plan of campaign in 1915, which began so brilliantly. But in spite of all this, an acceptable peace could have been concluded with Russia in 1916, when the Czar began to feel his throne trembling beneath him, and sent President von Steurmer, of his Council of Ministers, to make peace with us.

For ten years previously—and this includes the time when England had made a settlement with Russia in 1907—I retained strongly the conviction that Czardom held no serious threat for the future of Germany. Nicholas did not want war with us. He said to me in one of the last conversations I had with him: "I give you my assurance that I shall never make war on Germany." And I am sure this was his sentiment, even in 1914.

Kaiser's Diplomats Blundered.

I will not enter upon a discussion of these blunders of diplomacy which prevented us being able to stem the tide of influence of the Petrograd war party by a more correct treatment of the Czar and the Serbian question in July, 1914, when our ultimatums were driving the two great empires to the point of the sword. Let the Wilhelmstrasse answer for that.

After the defeat of the Russian fleet under Admiral Rojestvensky in the Russo-Japanese war, off Port Arthur and in the straits of Tchusima, for which the Russians had to thank the English, just as much as the Japanese, the trend of Russian international policy began to turn away from Germany toward the English.

In fact, on his return from Japanese captivity, Admiral Rojestvensky explained this to Admiral von Hintze, our naval attache at the Czar's court, in words thoroughly characteristic and descriptive of the Russian people. He said to Von Hintze:

"A Russian gives a kick to anybody who helps him and is kind to him, for he regards such a person as his lackey. But he will kiss the hem of the robe of anyone who thrashes him!"

During the Russo-Japanese war Germany tried to effect an alliance with Russia at the suggestion of the Kaiser himself. He had hopes of forming a great continental coalition to dominate the world. When he told me about it I was dubious, especially as the Emperor hoped to bring France in as a party to it. However, it would have failed anyway, for Russia was unreceptive from the start.

I doubted at that time whether an alliance with France would ever result in the armies of France being mobilized for us, especially when it was made with a German pistol pointed at her head, with the offer of an alliance as an alternative.

Later on I was informed by Friedrich von Holstein, head of the political department of the German Foreign Office, and a most eminent disciple and survivor of Bismarck's, that Russia herself had turned down the Kaiser's project. It was Holstein, however, who got Kiaochow for us in China and sowed the seed of the German interests in the Far East.

I suspect that Russian ministers at that time made good use of the German offer in their dealings with the Western Powers, and turned it to account for themselves. But Czar Nicholas himself was well-disposed toward Germany. The German public had a false picture of the Czar, as indeed it had of many personalities and political circumstances.

The Czar was an honest and personally fearless man, with muscles of steel. His instinctive autocratic dignity was coupled with a correct habit of straightway referring all political business to those authorities which were concerned. His inmost longing was to disappear into the quiet of bourgeois life. This was why he loved the Wolfsgarten in Hesse, a retreat which was a favorite of his and of the Czarina. When he was there he liked nothing better than to be spared any visitors.

How Kaiser Met Czar.

For this reason also he liked to mix with the German fleet where released from the restraint of his position, he felt and acted like a man among men and conducted himself in a frank and agreeable manner toward us. Among his own people the Czar, it seemed to me, was more than half a prisoner.

On the occasion of the historic meeting between the Emperor and the Czar when both were cruising in their yachts off Swinemund, in 1907, the German imperial yacht Hohenzollern sailed past the rendezvous set for the reception, and contrary to the arrangement understood between the Czar and the Kaiser. It had been understood that the Kaiser, on the Hohenzollern, was to lie at anchor and that the Czar on his yacht, was to sail through the lines of our fleet.

But the Emperor, in one of his impetuous moods, and doubtless not unmindful of the theatrical effect lent by the combination of a surprised Czar and the marine panoply in which he made of himself the stellar figure, pressed me to sail the Hohenzollern on to meet the Czar. If he had intended to surprise Nicholas, he accomplished his design in one of the hitherto unwritten serio-comic episodes of European history. We sighted the Czar off Kolberg. A high sea was running, but in spite of this the Kaiser ordered the imperial barge to be made ready and, in the full uniform of an Admiral of the Russian navy, started in the barge for the Russian imperial yacht, a feat of foolhardy seamanship which the Russians had not considered possible.

Accordingly, no preparations had been made aboard the Czar's yacht to receive him. It kept close to the wind, and we could not understand why, for the elementary help that a ship can give to a small boat at sea consists in the ship heaving to so as to form a protection. While we were passing around the stern of the ship the Kaiser shouted to the Czar:

"Nicky, won't you make a-lee?"

But the Czar's yacht still lay to windward, and in a moment we saw the reason why.

For the Czar, still in undress, could be glimpsed through a porthole making frantic preparations for the reception that had been forced upon him too soon for Russian imperial dignity and ceremony. As we came alongside we noticed that the deck force was at attention, having been ordered by the deck officer to parade. However, the accommodation ladder, by which the Kaiser should have gone aboard with the usual grand ceremonial pomp, was not let down.

Nothing remained but to go forward where a sea-ladder of ropes, for the use of the Russian common sailors, dangled down into the rough water. The Kaiser was beside himself with rage. We saw the Czar, by this time enveloped in his uniform, rush forward on deck while those gigantic sailors stood as stiffly at attention as corpses. Past their immovable ranks tripped the Czar of all the Russias toward the sea ladder; far behind him, and realizing the faux pas to which they were unwilling observers and actors, came such high moguls of the Russian aristocracy as Foreign Minister Count Lamsdorff, Count Benkendorff, Marshal of the Czar's Court, and ex-Ambassador to England, and Count Fredericks.

Czar Was in Bad Humor.

True to their knowledge of the usages of such a ceremony, these grandees swarmed around the companion ladder, which was their proper station, although the ladder was not let down. The mounting of the forward ladder at that time would have been difficult for anyone, and not without danger for the Kaiser. Not even a rope was thrown down to us from the Czar's yacht. The Czar came to meet the Kaiser alone. Our arrival having been unexpected, neither of the commanders of the Czar's yacht—for curiously enough there were two—would assume the responsibility, in spite of the pleading of our naval attache who was aboard, of giving the command which the situation required, and which, in our naval establishment, the officer of the watch would have given of his own accord.

This scene put the Czar out of humor for the rest of the day. In fact, I noticed that whenever he met the Kaiser in Russian surroundings, he looked oppressed. Perhaps this was because the Kaiser immediately became the natural center of the circle, and, when dressed in a Russian uniform, moved quite like a Russian in Russian society. Then the Czar, in whose nature there was the genuine Russian force of passive resistance with little initiative, soon felt himself outshown. Social and political initiative always proceeded from us.

So far as the opportunities allowed, I always supported the Kaiser's efforts, which were very active in their way, to arrive at a good relationship with Russia, and I was always able to enjoy the good will of the Czar, although his nature constantly imposed a considerable measure of reticence.

In 1903 the Kaiser sent me to Petrograd to see the Czar on a very delicate mission which I kept to myself, in the first place, because the Anglophile Czarina never left her husband alone with me, and my conduct eventually proved me right.

I cannot judge whether this beautiful woman was gifted intellectually. In any case, so far as I could see, she had not much love left for her German fatherland. On this occasion I warned the Czar of the Far Eastern danger which I estimated very gravely, in view of the merely decorative nature of the Russian fleet in Asiatic waters, which was well known to me. Nicholas, who personally could not bear the Japanese, replied to me that he considered the danger for Russia from Japan was past, for he now was too strong for the Japanese to do any more.

I regretted the Russo-Japanese war on our own account and even on Sept. 2, 1904, when a victory for the Russian troops was still universally reckoned on, I elaborated to Chancellor von Buelow the danger that would arise if, in the event of a Russian defeat, we were left as mere outposts in Shantung. We could not imitate the cool way in which the English helped the Japanese in the war, although we did the Russian fleet more service with our help and advice within the bounds of neutrality than the French did.

When Admiral Rojestvensky asked that our naval attache at Petrograd, Von Hintze, accompany him when he sailed with the Russian Baltic fleet to Asiatic waters, the Kaiser refused to give his permission, on the ground that such action infringed neutrality. On the other hand, it was an English personnel which took over to Japan, after the outbreak of the war, the Japanese cruisers Kasuga and Nishin, which had been built in Italy, and English naval officers played a very active and important part on Admiral Togo's staff at Port Arthur.

In the battle of Port Arthur, Admiral Togo wanted to break off the engagement, under the impression that he had little prospect of success. But the Englishmen on his staff urged him to keep on and shortly afterwards the Russian Admiral's flagship, the Czarevitch, received a decisive blow.

In his next installment Von Tirpitz, in a series of intimate analyses, shows the Kaiser's "lack of character" and accuses Wilhelm of meddling in the naval plans of Germany with self-made designs for warships which never, under the rules of naval construction, could possibly exist. The former head of Germany's navy details the Kaiser's sudden outbreaks of excitement, and what he believes was a strong impulse of the Kaiser to be an actor. Picturing the Kaiser as the center and at the same time the prey of a group of intriguers, he tells how he himself resigned under the pressure of the Kaiser's bitter criticisms, only to relent when the mood of the Emperor passed.

EVERYBODY IS HELPING TO BUILD GOOD ROADS IN THIS MISSOURI COUNTY

Bankers and Laborers Work Together on the Construction Tasks and as a Result Over 200 Miles of Good Highway at Very Low Cost Is Nearing Completion.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PIEDMONT, Mo., Sept. 19.—The activities of Wayne County, Mo., in building roads is attracting attention and emulation in other counties in this southeastern section of the State, and pilgrimages are being made by road enthusiasts who have heard of Wayne County's achievements in laying out more than 200 miles of new roads since the first of the year, with nearly 100 miles now in good, serviceable condition and more than sixty miles hard-surfaced and completed.

Wayne was the third county in the State to vote bonds for road building. The people approved the issuance of $200,000 of bonds in 1916 and though some desultory work, mainly in the way of repairing the old roads, was done in the ensuing two years there was no organized plan of construction until the beginning of the present year. It is expected that before the end of the year 100 miles of roads will have been surfaced and hardened so that they will be among the best of their kind in the State.

Bankers and Laborers Work Together.

Except for Federal aid on one military road and State aid on three highways crossing the county all of the road improvements have been paid for out of county funds or with donations of money and labor by those whose property the roads would benefit. The banker and the village barber have worked side-by-side to make Wayne County's road project a success.

Up to last fall about $30,000 of the $200,000 bond issue had been expended on the existing roads but no new construction had been attempted. A better plan of road building was made a vital issue in the fall campaign, with Oscar W. Hackworth as the leader of the good roads forces. The result was the election of Hackworth and J. A. Banks, Democrats, and G. W. Burch, Republican as judges of the County Court.

Under the direction of the new county court the work of construction was started last March. In addition to 60 miles of road completed since then, 40 miles have been cleared and graded and is ready for the top dressing of gravel. The average cost has been $1000 a mile. This low cost is made possible by the fact that all the material for building and dressing the roads is native to the soil. There is an abundance of creek gravel and hill gravel in all parts of the country and it has not been necessary to bring in any outside material.

Seventy-five per cent of the roads have been built on new locations so as to get away from creek beds and steep grades. Most of the old roads have been abandoned.

The system was laid out over entire county, which has an area of 800 square miles and a population of about 17,000.

The Three Different Classifications.

There are three classifications of roads.

Class 1—Forty-foot right of way 20-foot crown, 9-foot hard surface, costing about $2500 a mile. Of this 84 miles have been laid out, the state paying half the cost on 50 miles.

Class 2—Thirty-foot right of way, 18-foot crown, 7-foot hard surface. The average cost is $1200 a mile and about 120 miles have been laid out.

Class 3—Thirty-foot right of way, 16-foot crown, 7-foot hard surface. The cost is $800 a mile and 120 miles have been laid out.

The hard surface consists of four to ten inches of gravel, covered with sufficient earth to form a binder. This causes the gravel and clay to pack and cement so that it will not cut through in any weather, road experts say. To the mile Class 1 requires 1000 cubic yards of gravel Class 2 requires 500 cubic yards and Class 3 requires 350 cubic yards.

To aid in the relocation of roads the farmers have voluntarily moved back their fences, opened their fields to public use, donated rights of way and built new fences without cost to the county. In addition to this the farmers of the county have donated the equivalent of $15,000 in cash and labor this year and have pledged themselves to donate $30,000 more. And all this despite the fact that the assessed valuation of the property in the county was raised from $4,000,000 to $2,200,000 this year and that a part of the extra taxes thus raised went into road work.

Benefits Already Reported.

Judge Hackworth and other good roads advocates say the beneficial results already are apparent. The population of the county has increased this year more than in the last 10 years. Real estate men report that since the good roads have been constructed they now close deals with one out of five prospective buyers of farms. The former average was one out of 40.

Every successful business man and farmer in the county is actively aiding in road construction, and often at a financial sacrifice. A case in point is that of C. F. McLane of Lowndes, the biggest stock dealer and farmer in the county. He contracted with the County Court to build a class 3 road between Lowndes and Greenville, the county seat. In order to get a better road he has constructed a class 2 road, standing the additional cost himself. His lead in this has been followed by Mart Burkett of Williamsville, J. A. Estes and M. M. Alexander of Chaonia and H. H. McLure of Mill Spring and others.

In the work of constructing all the class 3 roads the county is contracting with farmers on the route to build the road in sections of a mile or more and is aiding them in buying farm tractors. The farmer pays the cost of the necessary labor and uses the tractor on the road. The value of this work is computed and applied on the purchase price of the tractor. When the construction job is finished the farmer has a good road and a tractor for farm use at little or no cost to himself.

Politics Adjourned for This Week.

Another feature of the Wayne County road work is that the old system of employing road overseers by political appointment and intrusting them with funds has been eliminated. The funds formerly handled by overseers are pooled with the road construction fund, and used for permanent work only. All of the overseeing is done by men who volunteer their services without charge or for only the payment of their actual expenses. Under this system it has been possible to put into actual construction work this year $20,000 which last year was handled through overseers who owed their places to political preferment.

Instead of the old patrol system by which political appointees patrolled the roads in mile or half-mile sections to see where repairs were necessary, the County Court has inaugurated the gang patrol system. Under this arrangement there are six superintendents, each with a truck, a tractor and repair machinery, who work the year round, and cover 40 to 50 miles a day. When they find a defect in the road they repair it at once, instead of reporting that somebody else ought to fix it.

Road experts have estimated that under the old overseer system the county expended $1,000,000 in 20 years and had practically nothing to show for it in the form of good highways.

One plan which is yet to be worked out is to build a road across the county solely with poll tax funds. Each able-bodied citizen of the county pays $4 a year income tax, the annual collection amounting to about $8000. It is expected that with the use of this revenue and with volunteer workers it will be possible to complete the cross-country road in two years.

Remarkable Strides in One Year.

Of the 450 miles of public road in Wayne County only 20 miles was improved at the beginning of this year. Of this the best stretch was the 20 miles from Piedmont to Greenville, which was built under the direction and partly at the expense of William Carter, the county's wealthiest resident in 1912.

Carter's public-spirited work was an object lesson that laid the way for the present road-building achievements of the county. Before the Piedmont-Greenville road was built the journey from one town to the other with wagon and team consumed an entire day. The farmer would start from Piedmont in the morning and drag his weary way into Greenville at nightfall. Now an automobile easily covers the distance in an hour.

One of the finest stretches of new road is the Holladay highway, named for the late Hiram Holladay, a lumberman. This road follows the former right of way of the Ozark Valley Railroad, originally the Williamsville and Greenville Railroad, a distance of 34 miles from Williamsville in the southwest corner of the county to Cascade in the northeast.

"Goodrich has The Tire"

The summer of 1919 established this outstanding automobiling fact, "Goodrich has THE TIRE." Car owners and drivers everywhere are saying it, passing along the good news by word of mouth.

At the outset Goodrich knew it had the tire—knew it by knowledge of tire making—knew it by road testing.

That's why Goodrich stepped forth last June with its revolutionary More-Mileage Adjustment, and certified Goodrich Tires at 6,000 miles for Fabrics; and 8,000 miles for Silvertown Cords.

The performance of Goodrich Tires has made the Goodrich Certified Mileage, the peak standard for tire service; just as Goodrich list prices and Goodrich quality have always told tire users what tires to drive, and what to pay for them.

corner. The railroad has been abandoned and junked, but right of way, graded, banked and drained, remained as a ready-made highway. It only remained to put on a top dressing of clay and gravel to make one of the best highways in southeast Missouri. This has been done and the Holladay highway is now the county's pride.

Natural Obstructions Are Overcome.

The existence of these good roads is the more remarkable in view of the fact that the country is wild and hilly, with dense timber in many places, so that until recently many sections could be reached only on foot or on horseback.

Practically every able-bodied citizen of the county has done actual physical work on the roads. No outside superintendents or supervisors have been employed. The roads are entirely a home product.

Among those in the larger towns who have volunteered their services on the roads are:

Williamsville— C. E. Sharp, miller; S. C. Haynie, banker; Ott Duncan, merchant; M. M. Sheets, Prosecuting Attorney, and J. R. Duckett, Mart Burkett, G. F. McLain and James Risby, farmers.

Cahokia—B. F. Henson, lumberman.

Taskee—N. W. Hughes, H. L. Hughes, Bert Williams and John Childress, farmers.

Greenville—E. M. Smith, banker and merchant; York Lovelace, Sheriff; J. F. Hughes, County Collector; J. S. Marsh, Mayor; Ellsworth Bell, editor of the Greenville Sun.

Mill Spring—J. P. Bone, capitalist; F. S. Chilton, merchant; S. L. Leeper, farmer.

Piedmont—O. W. Hackworth, County Judge; William Carter, capitalist; C. E. Burton, County School Superintendent; Tede McAllister, farmer; F. E. Douglas, automobile dealer; J. L. Hickman, Deputy State Veterinarian; Judge Z. C. Smith, J. H. Rainey, former Congressman; Lee Malloy, barber; William Lazlier, civil engineer; W. E. Hamacher, president of the Piedmont Light and Power Co. and G. W. Stivers, publisher and editor of the Piedmont Banner.

A Successful Inspection Tour.

All of these made a tour of inspection of the roads last Tuesday under the guidance of Judge Hackworth. The condition of the roads is attested by the fact that they covered 130 miles between 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. with stops for lunch and for inspections and all of the 20 automobiles used by the party finished in good shaps.

A large delegation from Bollinger County to the east of Wayne County covered part of the same route Wednesday. Bollinger County is planning a bond issue for roads. Madison County and Iron County to the north will vote on bond issues this fall. Butler County to the south, on the Arkansas line has voted road bonds and has started construction.

It is the dream of the good roads enthusiasts that in time there will be a series of good roads on which it will be possible to travel from St. Louis into Arkansas, which State in the last year has built hundreds of miles of roads.

LAUGHING AT INVENTION COST KANSAS CITY MAN A FORTUNE

Official of Telephone Company Tells How He Displeased Maker of Automatic Instrument.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 19.—A laugh at the wrong time cost H. W. Ritterhoff, general commercial superintendent of the Kansas City Telephone Co., a chance to become identified with the invention of an automatic telephone by A. B. Strowger, a Kansas City man. Incidentally it lost him a fortune. Ritterhoff told the story on himself today.

Strowger, an undertaker in Kansas City, in the early 80's, called Ritterhoff and showed him a crude model of an automatic telephone, which he was working on. Ritterhoff helped him and they worked on it together.

Strowger then moved to Chicago. Before leaving he promised Ritterhoff 10,000 shares in a company he planned to organize. About one year later Strowger wrote Ritterhoff to come to Chicago and see his new model. The model was so crude Ritterhoff couldn't keep from laughing, and Strowger became offended. He never again wrote or consulted Ritterhoff.

"While the patent has made a fortune for the present holding company of the automatic telephone," said Ritterhoff, "Strowger's financial returns were negligible, I understand. The company he organized was making only modest headway when he died. Later his company was taken over by the present holders of the patent."

It is more durable than the ordinary broom because its metal parts double its strength. The metal shoulders prevent strands of corn from working out of the top and breaking off, and the rigid vice-like grip in which the corn or sweeping part is held causes it to wear evenly across the bottom.

Another feature—it has a detachable filler, the sweeping part can be removed from shoulder and handle. You keep the shoulder and handle and buy only a new filler when the old one wears out, thus you save from 35 to 40 per cent on the cost of an entire broom every time you need one.

A very fortunate buying opportunity enabled us to secure this broom, and we unhesitatingly recommend it to you as an extraordinary value at the price.

The Phonograph of Marvelous Tone

THE throat of the Thrush, as he sings his songs of life, scarcely surpasses in musical mastery, the VITANOLA, the marvelously toned Phonograph that has awakened the love of music and brought joy and sunshine into thousands of American homes.

THE VITANOLA plays all records—plays them with a conception no less rare than distinctive. The soul-thrilling tones of noted stars of grand opera are faithfully reproduced by the VITANOLA. The martial music of famous bands, and the softer strains of stringed instruments, find delightful expression through the medium of this "scientifically improved and bettered" phonograph.

THE VITANOLA is a vital force in Harmony-Land, and this page advertisement, appearing today in the leading newspapers of the United States, introduces the "Phonograph of Marvelous tone" to over 29,000,000 people. It is the first national announcement of an instrument that within a short time, has won a foremost position in the Phonograph field through unusual merit alone.

IN the VITANOLA Shops of this city and adjacent towns are now being shown VITANOLA models that embody the most important refinements and improvements devised by scientific effort in the reproduction of recorded music. Every demonstration of a VITANOLA Phonograph proves the marvelous tone and is a real revelation to the music lover.

EXCLUSIVE VITANOLA features give absolutely correct tone values, provide tone control that is remarkable in its interpretative effects, and make possible the playing of all disc records of any size or make. The VITANOLA is the supreme achievement in the Phonograph field, a beautiful work of art, mechanically perfect and a master entertainer.

When the Doctor says—"a complete rest"

The Sealy Sanitary Tuftless Mattress

WHEN the doctor says "a complete rest" he means that every hour of the day's twenty-four shall be devoted to complete relaxation; that you must have relief from physical tension during your sleeping hours in addition to relief from mental tension during your waking hours.

The Sealy Sanitary Tuftless Mattress is specifically the mattress for relief from physical tension. Its body-conforming resiliency and caressing softness are components of perfect relaxation. They effectually aid sleep's upbuilding process and hasten speedy recovery.

The Sealy is an inseparably interwoven, tuftless, single unit consisting of 164 cubic feet of light, fluffy long fibre cotton pressed down, inserted into the ticking and released to the generous depth and buoyant softness of the mattress.

And just a word about Sealy Made TUFTED Mattresses

Essentially these differ from the Sealy Tuftless Mattress in point of construction. But like the Sealy TUFTLESS, each is made exclusively of NEW materials and bears a label indicating the quality and character of its contents. Each is a relatively good value and merits your inspection and confidence.

ARMY AND NAVY SURGEONS TO MEET IN ST. LOUIS OCT. 13

Thousands of Doctors Who Enrolled for War Service Expected to Attend Three-Day Convention.

PAPERS ON MEDICAL SUBJECTS TO BE READ

"Movie Medicals and Surgicals" Will Be Shown; "Sleeping Sickness" and Plastic Surgery to Be Discussed.

St. Louis surgeons and physicians who enrolled for war service are taking a lively interest in the approaching convention of the association of military surgeons of the United States, which opens for a three days' session Oct. 13, at the Hotel Statler. Thousands of doctors are expected to join before the convention finishes its work. At the beginning of the war there were only about 400 eligible for membership, but the war, which called something like 32,000 American doctors into service at home and abroad, opened the doors to all the medical volunteers.

The convention this year, accordingly, is expected to be the largest and most important since its organization, nearly 30 years ago.

What surgeons learned from the war will be told in papers and animated pictures. Many reels of films that have never been shown before will be placed at the disposal of the convention by the Surgeon-General's Department at Washington, and these subjects cover both medicine and surgery. The expectation is that Surgeon-General M. W. Ireland will attend and that most of the leading medical officers of the regular army who can be spared, will take part in the sessions.

Tentative Program.

The tentative program is calculated to keep the doctors busy and leave little time for entertainment, but there will be no lack of sociability. Dr. Malvern B. Clopton, who served in France as a Lieutenant-Colonel, is at the head of the general committee. Dr. William H. Mook, who was also a Lieutenant-Colonel in charge of a section in one of the largest French hospitals, is at the head of the entertainment committee and has arranged among other features a luncheon at the Washington University Medical School. Dr. Hannau Loeb is chairman of the finance committee, Dr. Eugene L. Opie, the program and Dr. Walter Fischel, the reception committee. All of these rendered war service.

Dr. Simon Flexner of Rockefeller Institute, who ranked as a Lieutenant-Colonel during the war, will discuss "Lethargic Encephalitis," or "sleeping sickness," as it is better known. He will treat of the pathology of this mysterious disease, which exacted a heavy death toll in the United States and Europe during the last few months of the war, with both military and civil victims.

Col. William F. Snow, in his paper, will treat of the steps to be taken to combat the spread of social diseases among soldiers and sailors. This subject has been placed at the head of the list, and will be taken up as soon as the formal proceedings are disposed of on the morning of the first day. Col. Snow will be followed by Capt. F. E. McCollough of the navy, who will speak on the logistics of the Naval Medical Department for distant operations of the fleet. Lieutenant-Colonel Vilray P. Blair of St. Louis, who specialized in plastic surgery in one of the largest French military hospitals, will discuss plans for the immediate care and reconstruction of battle injuries of the face and jaws.

Papers Assigned.

Other papers for the first day's session have been assigned to Col. Charles F. Craig and Col. Victor C. Vaughan, both of the army. Col. Craig will tell of the medical museum of the army, and Col. Vaughan will present data explaining the greater resistance of the seasoned soldier to infectious diseases than is shown by the raw recruit.

On the second day there will be a discussion of the military aspect of the base hospitals, led by Lieutenant-Colonel Gustavus M. Bleach. The earlier problems that confronted the medical corps of the American Expeditionary Force will be discussed by Cols. S. H. Wadhaus and A. D. Tuttle. The afternoon will be given over largely to the plans for the reconstruction of disabled and partially disabled soldiers. Col. Frank Billings will present his views on the modern military medical and surgical reconstruction, in its relationship to the vocational education of discharged compensable discharged soldiers, and will be followed by Commander William Seaman Bainbridge, U. S. N., who will tell of the importance of physical therapy in both military and civil practice. Col. H. A. Shaw of the medical corps of the army will also discuss this subject.

Movie Medicals."

The "movie medicals and surgicals" will be shown on the evening of the first day. These will bring to view some of the more important activities of the medical corps in the hospitals and dressing stations. The audience will be composed entirely

New Way to Curl Hair Fine for Outdoor Girl

The silmerine method of curling the hair is the proper thing before going motoring, boating or golfing, or indulging in any outdoor sport or exercise. This will not only give the hair the most beautiful wavy and curly appearance imaginable, but wind or heat will not take the curl out. The curliness is quickly acquired and lasts much longer than where the waving tongs are used. Besides, the hair will be bright and lustrous, instead of dull and dead looking. When combed out it will be as nice and fluffy as if it had just been shampooed.

Just get a bottle of liquid silmerine at any drug store, follow the accompanying directions, and you will be simply delighted with the result. This product is of course perfectly harmless and there is nothing sticky, greasy or unpleasant about it.—Adv.

Corns Come Off Like Banana Peel

"Gets-It" Leaves Toe Smooth as Your Palm. Never Fails.

Ever peel off a banana skin? Well, that's the way "Gets-It" peels off any corn or callus. It's a picnic. Nothing else in the world will do it but "Gets-

"2 Drops of 'Gets-It,' Good-bye Corns!"

It" because of the new secret principle in the "Gets-It" formula. "Gets-It" does away forever with "contraptions," "wrappy" plasters, ointments that rub off, blood-letting knives, and scissors that snip into the "quick." "Gets-It" eases pain. It takes but a second or two to use "Gets-It." There's no fussing or trouble. It dries immediately. You put your stocking right back on again. Your corn will come off painlessly in one complete piece. That's common-sense. It never fails.

"Getts-It," the only sure, guaranteed, money-back corn-remover, costs but a trifle at any drug store. M'f'd by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

of medical men. There will be more pictures on Tuesday evening, when Capt. Frank L. Pleadwell of the Navy will deliver an illustrated lecture on the British system of handling hospital trains in the most aggressive stages of the war. There will also be a paper by Col. E. L. Munson of the army on a subject to be selected by himself. The session on the third day will be given over to the installation of officers and the reading of reports.

While the visitors are at Washington University, where there is to be an informal luncheon on the afternoon of the second day, they will be shown through Barnes Hospital and the Children's Hospital and a short address of welcome will be made by a representative of the medical school. The business scheduled for the afternoon will then be taken up in the large auditorium of the medical section.

The Association of Military Surgeons of the United States is composed of medical officers of the army, navy and physicians in the Public Health Service. If all who are now entitled to enter its fold avail themselves of the invitation extended by Surgeon-General Ireland, the membership will exceed 33,000, as the medical corps of the navy was also greatly augmented by the war.

The present officers of the organization are Col. Henry P. Birmingham, a retired army officer residing at Charleston, S. C., president; Lieutenant-Colonel Joseph A. Hall, first vice president; Assistant Surgeon-General J. W. Kerr, second vice president; Capt. Frank L. Pleadwell, M. C. U. S. N., third vice president; Col. James Robb Church, U. S. A., secretary and treasurer, and Lieutenant-Colonel Fielding H. Garrison, U. S. A., assistant secretary and treasurer. With few exceptions the officers make their homes in Washington. Of the 850 members of the St. Louis Medical Society, there are 320 qualified to join the association.

About the time the convention begins in St. Louis it is expected that the Interallied Medical Conference will be under way in Rome. Col. Nathaniel Allison of St. Louis, who was asked to help arrange for the national gathering in this city, had to turn this detail over to Dr. Clopton, when he was named as one of the American delegates to the international meeting.

DANDRUFFY HEADS BECOME HAIRLESS

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—ADV.

How Signs of Old Age Creep Into Your System When the Iron in Your Blood Runs Low

For Want of Iron, You May Be Old at Thirty—Nervous, Irritable and All Run-Down—While at Fifty or Sixty, With Plenty of Iron in Your Blood, You May Be Young in Feeling and Brimming Over With Strength and Energy.

IRON IS THE RED BLOOD FOOD

That Helps Strengthen the Nerves, Restores Wasted Tissue and Aids in Giving Renewed Force and Power to the Body. Physicians Explain Why Administration of Simple Nuxated Iron Often Increases the Strength and Endurance of Delicate, Run-Down People in Two Weeks' Time.

YOU ARE AGEING If you are wearied by the activities of your daily life

YOU ARE AGEING If you have lost the spring of your step and your movements are cumbrous

YOU ARE AGEING If your skin is shrinking and your face looks wrinkled, careworn and old

YOU ARE AGEING If the enthusiasm for tackling your daily problems has waned

Old age has already sunk its talons into thousands of men and women who ought still to be enjoying the springtime and summer of life simply because they have allowed worry, over-work and nervous strain to sap the iron from their blood and thereby destroy its power to change food into living tissue, muscle and brain. You will find plenty of people at 40 who are broken in health and steadily going downward to physical and mental decay while others at 60 are strong, active, alert and seemingly growing younger every year. One class withers and dies like leaves in autumn while the other by keeping up a strong power of resistance against disease may pass the three score and ten mark with surprising health, strength and vigor. But you cannot expect to look and feel young and vigorous unless you have plenty of iron in your blood, and physicians explain below why they prescribe organic iron—Nuxated Iron—to supply the iron deficiency in the weak, nervous, and run-down so as to build them up into stronger, healthier men and women.

"Many a man and woman who ought still to be young in feeling is losing the old-time strength and energy that makes life worth living simply because their blood is starving for want of iron," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly Physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital. "Thousands are ageing and breaking down at a time when they should be enjoying perfect health because anaemia—lack of iron in the blood—has fastened its grip on them and is sapping their strength, vitality and energy. But in my opinion you can't make strong, keen, forceful men and healthy, rosy-cheeked women by feeding them on metallic iron. The old forms of metallic iron must go through a digestive process to transform them into organic iron—Nuxated Iron—before they are ready to be taken up and assimilated by the human system. I strongly advise readers in all cases to get a physician's prescription for organic iron—Nuxated Iron—or if you don't want to go to this trouble, then purchase Nuxated Iron in its original packages and see that this particular name (Nuxated Iron) appears on the package. If you have taken preparations such as Nux and Iron and other similar iron products and failed to get results, remember that such products are an entirely different thing from Nuxated Iron."

Dr. George H. Baker, formerly Physician and Surgeon, Monmouth Memorial Hospital of New Jersey, says: "From a careful examination of the formula and my own tests of Nuxated Iron, I feel convinced that it is a preparation which any physician can take himself or prescribe for his patients with the utmost confidence of obtaining highly beneficial and satisfactory results."

MANUFACTURERS' NOTE. Nuxated Iron, which has been used by Dr. Sullivan and other physicians with such surprising results, is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, and does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by Judge & Dolph Drug Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Weipert Drug Co., Pauley's Drug Stores, Enderle Drug Co. and Merker's 3 Stores, East St. Louis, and all other druggists.—ADVERTISEMENT.

SERVICE MEN ASKED TO FILL OUT BLANKS

Adjutant-General and Historical Society Want Record So Medals May Be Given.

An appeal to all who were in any branch of service in the war to fill out record blanks has been made by Adjutant-General Harvey Clark and the Missouri Historical Society. More than 60,000 of these blanks have been issued and only 8000 returned and special efforts are to be made to complete the records at once.

Adjutant-General Clark is now compiling the official State record and military report for publication, and this must contain a short biographical sketch of every Missourian who served against Germany. The St. Louis and St. Louis County collection of these records is in charge of the Missouri Historical Society, and blanks may be obtained at their headquarters in the Jefferson Memorial, at the Demobolization Bureau for Soldiers, Sailors and Marines, 110 North Ninth street; War Camp Community Service, 108 North Fourth street, or at the Gerhard Studio, 3622 Olive street.

The Missouri Historical Society wishes to preserve permanently in the Jefferson Memorial and military record of every soldier, sailor and marine, with genealogical history and photographs in files which will be accessible at all times to those interested.

The service record will be in the nature of an application for the handsome medal which Missouri will soon issue to every man of the State who served in the war. Medals will be issued to the families of those who died in service.

The names of those from St. Louis and St. Louis County who made the supreme sacrifice are to be immortalized on tablets of bronze and marble, and relatives of the dead are asked to supply the information for the tablets.

COURSES IN HOSPITAL PRACTICE AND CRAFT WORK TO BE GIVEN

School for Occupational Therapy Founded by Missouri Association.

Increasing demand for teachers trained in the use of crafts and occupations as curative measures in hospitals, institutions and workshops for the handicapped has caused the Missouri Association for Occupational Therapy to dedicate a part of its new headquarters at 3510 Washington avenue to be opened tomorrow at 9 a. m. to the establishment there of the St. Louis School for Occupational Therapy.

The course will include 16 weeks of craft work and 12 weeks of hospital practice. The tuition is $60, exclusive of supplies, which average about $15.

Students wishing to take the course should file application blanks not later than 9 a. m. tomorrow, with Miss Alice H. Dean, director, 3510 Washington avenue.

Dr. G. Canby Robinson, dean of the Washington University School of Medicine and chairman of the association, read an important paper on the "Use of Occupational Therapy in Heart Disease" at the National Conference for Occupational Therapy, held in Chicago, Sept. 7 to 11.

The demand for experienced and well-trained teachers of personality and resourcefulness was stressed. Government positions also are still open for teachers in reconstruction work.

About 500 delegates are expected. This is the first convention held by the association since the beginning of the war.

New Thought Conference This Week.

Sessions of the Missouri New Thought conference will be held Thursday to Saturday at Hennemann's Hall, 3806 Olive street. Joseph Perry Green is managing chairman of the conference. 30 Days' Trial Easy Payments

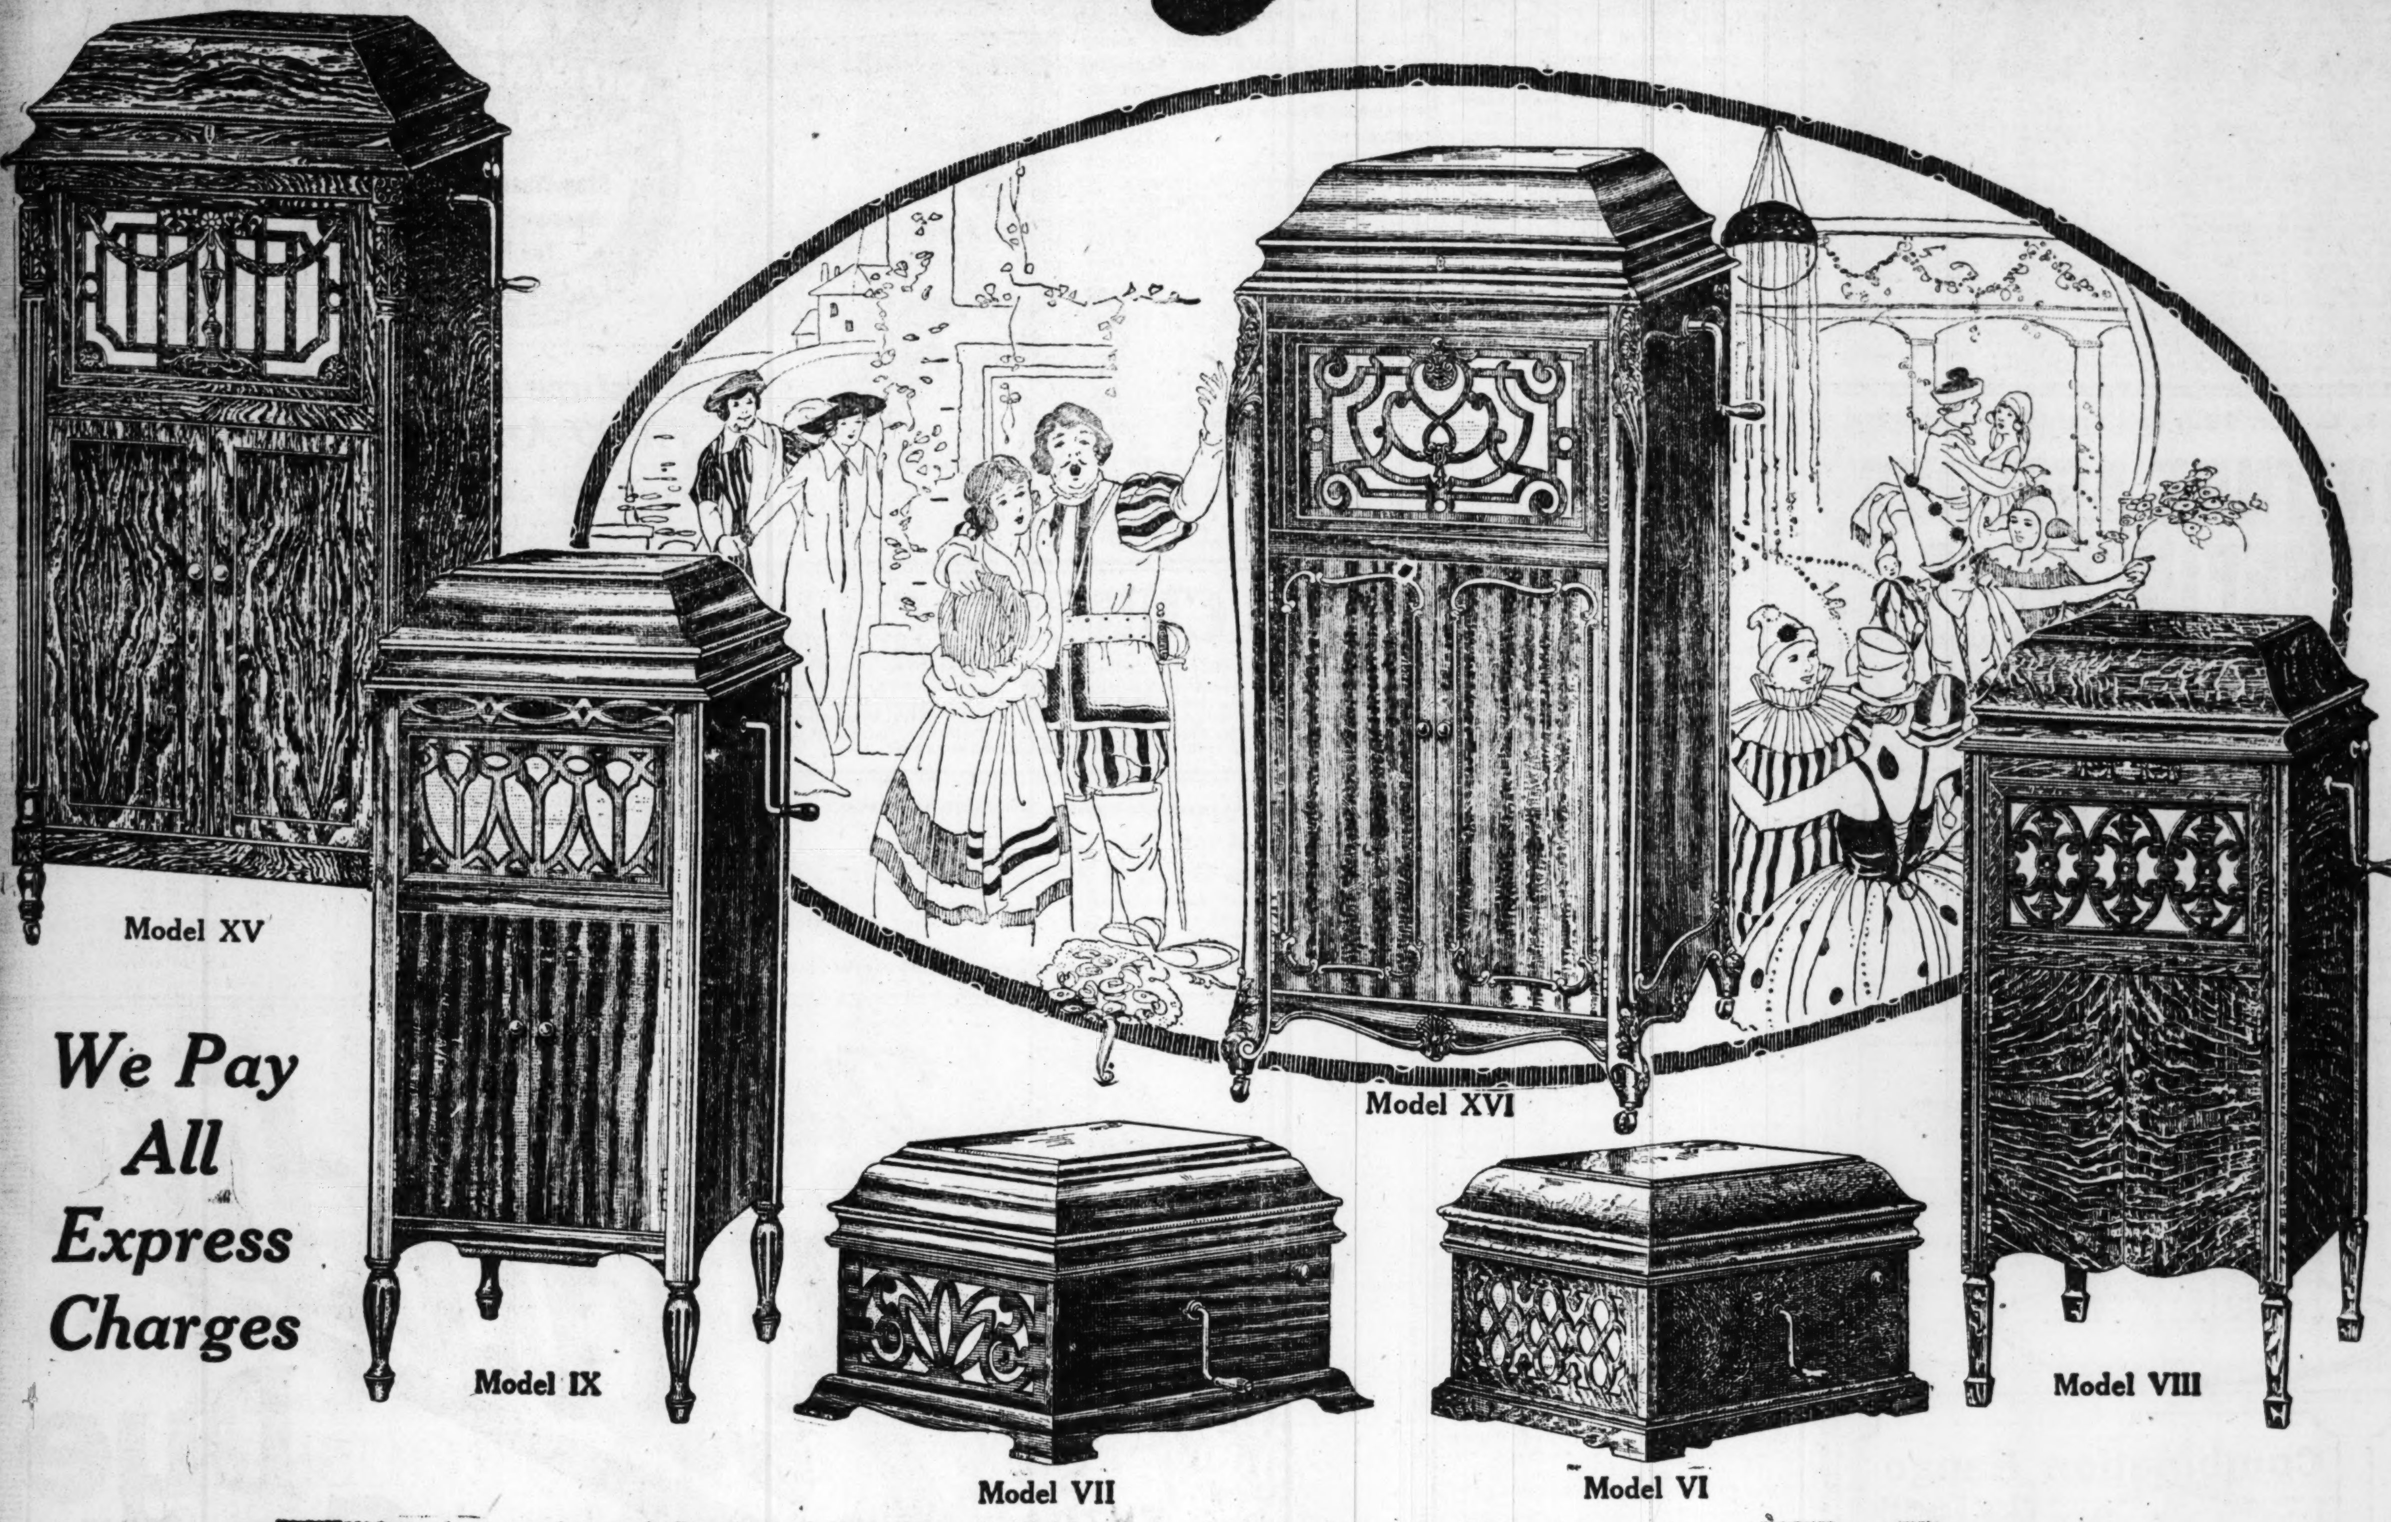
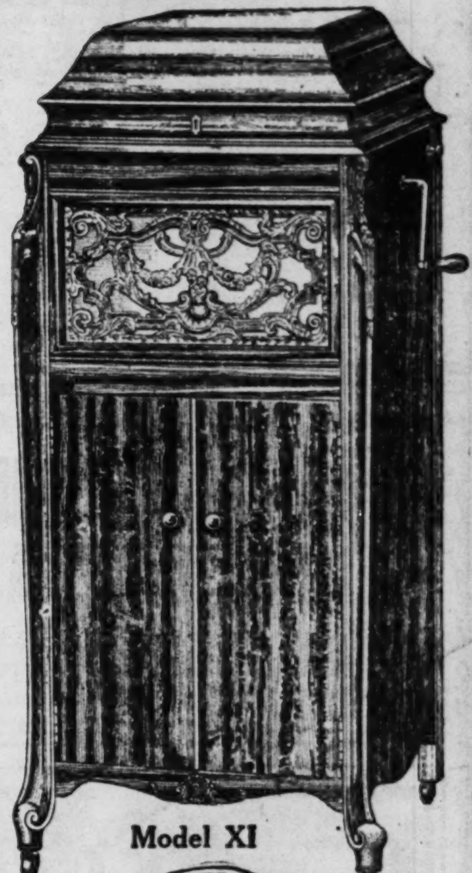
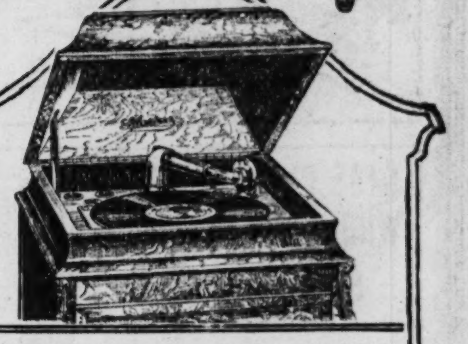
We Pay All Express Charges







TWO weeks ago today we first announced through the columns of this newspaper our new and liberal plan of selling SILVERTONE Phonographs on time payments, no money down, with the privilege of trying the instrument for thirty days in your own home before deciding whether or not you want to buy it. The response to this announcement was so enthusiastic that we decided to repeat the offer today.

Send No Money—Thirty Days' Trial

Select any SILVERTONE Phonograph illustrated on this page, check the Columbia records you want on the list printed below, fill in the order blank in the lower right hand corner of the page and mail it to Sears, Roebuck and Co. today. We will deliver to your home, all express charges paid, both the phonograph and the records, without the payment of one cent in advance. And this does not obligate you in any way. All we want you to do is to try the instrument for thirty days. Examine its mechanical features, cabinet work and finish. Compare its musical excellence with any other phonograph. Give it every test necessary to prove the truth of our claims for it. If at the end of this thirty-day trial you are not satisfied with the instrument, if you do not believe that it is the equal of any phonograph on the market, simply notify us and we will take it away at our own expense.

Easy Monthly Payments

If you decide to keep the phonograph after this thirty-day trial, simply add the price of the records you have selected to the price of the phonograph and send us this amount in equal payments each month until the total is paid. The amount of the monthly payment of each machine is shown in the column at the right.

SILVERTONE

The Dominant Phonograph

The SILVERTONE Cabinets

SILVERTONE cabinets are the finest product of the skilled cabinet makers' art. Whether of oak, walnut or mahogany, every cabinet is a handsome piece of furniture—dignified, graceful and artistic in appearance. They are fitted and finished with that exquisite care and perfection which marks the work of the painstaking artisan.

Tone

Tone is the all important thing in a phonograph. Tone quality depends upon the reproducer, tone arm and amplifying chamber. Each must be correctly designed and proportioned and harmonized in its relation to the other two, so that all will act together as a unit. This has been done in the SILVERTONE and that is what constitutes its musical perfection.

The SILVERTONE reproducer faithfully reproduces every tone quality that went into the making of the original record. It accurately reproduces every delicate shading of tone, every minute variation of volume and density, every sound vibration, whether it be the strains from the violin of a master, the silvery tones of the harp, the heavy instrumentation of a military band, or a vocal solo.

Tone Control

The SILVERTONE is equipped with a tone modulator which gives complete control of the volume of sound. It serves the same purpose as the doors on the Victrola or the shutters on the Columbia Grafonola.

Fitted With Powerful and Silent Motor

Doctor Tells How to Strengthen Eyesight 50 Per Cent in One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home.

Philadelphia, Pa. Do your wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye strain or other eye weaknesses? If so, you will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, after trying it: "I was almost blind: could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses, and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was lie a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time, and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and allow to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Note: Another prominent Physician to whom the above article was submitted said: "Bon-Opto is a very remarkable remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist, and is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." It is sold by the Enderle, Johnson Bros., Pauley, Judge & Dolph, Wolff-Wilson Stores and other druggists.—ADVERTISEMENT.

MILLIONS IN GOLD SALVAGED FROM SUNKEN OCEAN LINER

Searchers Recover Part of $35,000,000 Lost When the Laurentic Went Down Off Coast of Ireland.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

PORT SALON, Ireland, Aug. 25.—Salvaging $35,000,000 worth of gold ingots and bullion the White Star liner Laurentic is reported to have carried when she was sunk the night of Jan. 25, 1917, off Fanad Light, one of the northernmost headlands of Ireland, is being conducted by the salvage ship Racer.

The cargo lay at a depth of 22 fathoms. The gold and bullion were contained in the strong chamber amidships, rendered almost impregnable by its thick steel walls and heavily bolted doors. Portions of the Laurentic's decks were blasted away and a passage cleared for the divers.

The first bucket sent up contained only copper pennies and a few silver coins. Then for several days bucket after bucket containing three or more gold bars, each worth more than $5000, were hoisted to the surface and dumped on the deck of the Racer.

Most of the gold bars were nine inches long, two inches thick and four inches wide and weighed about 28 pounds. For days not one was found, as many of them were hurled clear of the wreck by the blasting necessary to make the strong chamber accessible. Several feet of sand have now been washed over these scattered bars and it frequently requires hours to pry them loose. The record day's haul so far had been 47 bars, worth approximately $350,000. Several million dollars' worth of treasure has been salvaged.

LOUISIANA TO EXHIBIT RESOURCE AT EXHIBITION HERE NOV. 13-27

Leaders of Movement Believe Display Will Attract Colonists to State.

State authorities of Louisiana will make an exhibit of that State's resources at the Mississippi Valley Exposition to be held in St. Louis Nov. 13 to 27, according to word from New Orleans. Harry D. Wilson, Commissioner of Agriculture and Immigration of Louisiana, has appointed a committee to prepare the exhibit and to be in charge during the exposition.

A good location has been obtained and the committee is now busy gathering exhibits. Every farmer in the State has been invited to send along his prize stalks of sugar cane, his head rice, cotton, corn, fruits and vegetables. The leaders of this movement believe colonists can be attracted to the State through the exhibit.

It is very likely that additional space will be reserved for an exhibit of New Orleans public utilities, including the publicly owned cotton warehouse, the grain elevator, the port, the docks and the public belt railroad.

Headquarters have been established in the State museum where the exhibits will be gathered and crated. Much of the State's agricultural exhibit at the forthcoming State fair at Shreveport will be sent on to St. Louis.

National Memorial Program Here to Be Under Auspices of National Council of Women.

St. Louis will start the national memorial community "sing" at 11 a. m. on the first anniversary of Armistice day, Nov. 11, under the auspices of the National Council of Women of the United States, which will hold its biennial convention here on Nov. 10-14.

At that hour, in public meetings and schools all over the country, it is planned for hundreds of thousands of men, women and children to begin a program consisting of "The Star-Spangled Banner," "Battle Hymn of the Republic," "Lest We Forget," "Our Tribute," "Ring Out, Sweet Bells of Peace," "America the eBautiful," and "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

An effort will be made to have Gen. Pershing visit St. Louis on Nov. 11. In that case, there will be a mass meeting at the Coliseum, and the Symphony Orchestra will accompany the singing. Mrs. Davis Campbell, who originated the idea of the memorial song exercises, will be present. She is chairman of the Community Music Committee of the National Council, president of the Community Music League, and editor of the Musical Monitor and of Community Music Service.

Rupture Kills 7,000 Annually

Seven thousand persons each year are laid away—the burial certificate being marked "Rupture." Why? Because the unfortunate ones had neglected themselves or had been merely taking care of the sign (swelling) of the affliction and paying no attention to the cause. What are you doing? Are you neglecting yourself by wearing a truss, appliance, or whatever name you choose to call it? At best, the truss is only a makeshift—a false prop against a collapsing wall—and cannot be expected to act as more than a mere mechanical support. The binding pressure retards blood circulation, thus robbing the weakened muscles of that which they need most—nourishment.

But science has found a way, and every truss sufferer in the land is invited to make a FREE test right in the privacy of their own home. The PLAPAO method is unquestionably the most scientific, logical and successful self-treatment for rupture the world has ever known.

The PLAPAO PAD when adhering closely to the body cannot possibly slip or shift out of place, therefore cannot chafe or pinch. Soft as velvet—easy to apply—inexpensive. To be used whilst you work and whilst you sleep. No straps, buckles or springs attached.

Learn how to close the hernial opening as nature intended so the rupture CAN'T come down. Send your name today to PLAPAO CO., Block 557, St. Louis, Mo., for FREE trial Plapao and the information necessary.—ADV.

A Home Recipe for Wrinkled, Saggy Skin

The famous saxolite lotion recommended by beauty specialists for removing wrinkles and for reducing distended pores can easily be made at home. Ask your druggist for saxolite in powdered form, one ounce, and a half pint of witch hazel. Dissolve the powder in the witch hazel and bathe the face, neck and hands in the solution. Results are remarkable and instantaneous. The skin tightens, and this naturally reduces the wrinkles, as well as creases or folds about the neck, cheeks or hands. The tissue beneath the skin also becomes firmer and more solid.

One feels much refreshed and exhilarated after using this truly wonderful preparation. Many women look five or ten years younger after using this only a short time.—ADV.

REJECTION OF BONDS RETARDS ROAD PLANS

Issues for Nearly $12,000,000 Have Been Turned Down Since Present Law Went Into Effect.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 20.—Rejection by more than a dozen of the wealthiest counties in the State of proposed good roads bond issues since the passage of the McCullough-Morgan "mud roads" bill, has caused a serious set-back to the hard road building program of the State, and has indicated a postponement for at least several years of a State-wide system of hard roads.

Although the State Highway Board, which sponsored the McCullough-Morgan bill, is issuing voluminous reports on the success of the road program, an analysis of their statements shows that in reality a a greater amount of road bonds have been rejected since the new law went into effect than have been approved.

Millions Have Been Voted.

In recent statements the board has shown that a total of $14,585,000 in bonds have been voted, and proposed issues totaling $11,711,000 have been defeated. The fact is that of the more than $14,000,000 voted, in excess of $5,000,000 was voted under the Hawes law, which was repealed by the present law, while the total of nearly $12,000,000 of failures have been since the present law went into effect.

In a number of instances proposed bond issues have failed in northern Missouri counties, where roads generally are impassible for nearly four months during the winter season. It was from these counties that the greatest opposition to the Hawes law came, and the greatest demand for the McCullough-Morgan law, which would put State money into the counties without requiring them to vote sums adequate for good, hard-surfaced roads.

The principal bond issues adopted have been in Ozark hill counties, where land is poor, and where taxes to pay bonds will be a much greater burden than in the more wealthy counties north of the Missouri River. The extreme southeast Missouri counties, which are wealthy, have been progressive in road building and nearly all of them have voted road bonds.

List of Bond Failures.

The bond failures, according to reports from the State Highway Board, have been:

County.	Assessed Valuation.	Amount of Proposed Bond Issue

The largest amounts of bonds voted for roads have been $3,000,000 in St. Louis County and $2,000,000 in Buchanan County, both voted when the Hawes law was in effect, and $1,250,000 in Clay County, $750,000 in Scott County and $700,000 in Jasper County. The greater proportion of the bonds voted have been in amounts less than $100,000, and in special road districts without any State-wide, comprehensive road system in view.

The State Highway Board has approved projects for 277 miles of hard road, though most of it is for gravel road only. The counties building this mileage will receive State and Federal aid to the amount of $1200 a mile, and will receive from the State and Federal funds half the cost of construction in excess of $1200 a mile.

The estimated cost for the 277 miles is $5,014,465. During September and October bond issues totaling $6,856,000 will be voted on, and in other counties there are movements started to call elections to vote on $18,566,000 of bonds.

MISSOURI SCHOOL OF SOCIAL ECONOMY TO REOPEN TUESDAY

Large Registration Expected, as Graduates Are Assured of Openings; Course for Negroes.

The largest registration the school has ever had is expected tomorrow for the Missouri School of Social Economy, 2221 Locust street. Dr. George B. Mangold, director of the school, stated yesterday that interest was general in the new term, which will open Tuesday morning. The practical value of social service training has been so well demonstrated in both war relief and reconstruction work, and the demand for graduates of the school is so great that all who enter the school are practically assured of good openings upon graduation.

In addition to the regular courses for philanthropic, welfare and research organizations, children's institutions, settlements and community centers, there is a course in public health nursing for graduate nurses, and also night classes for those unable to attend the day school.

There will be a series of weekly lectures for men and women given every Thursday afternoon from 4 to 5:30 p. m., in the nature of instruction in the methods and possibilities of social service preventives and relief for problems of the day. These lectures will be for the general public and not for thos who wish to take up social service as a profession.

ST. LOUIS A CENTER FOR WAR ON CANCER

Barnard Hospital Gives Free Board and Treatment, Holds Radium Clinics.

Most St. Louisans are probably not aware that there is a hospital in this city, under private control, where no pay patients are received, and where not a cent is charged for board, treatment or medicine.

The Barnard Free Skin and Cancer Hospital, Washington and Theresa avenues, is conducted entirely as a free institution. Its directors intend to continue this policy, under which the hospital has become known to physicians and philanthropic workers throughout the United States.

Under the present war revenue law, the hospital's maintenance fund has been greatly reduced. The hospital's endowment is largely in the stock of corporations, which pay a heavy income tax. Because of this tax, the institution's income has fallen far below the $50,000 a year which is needed for its maintenance.

The directors are considering means of obtaining gifts or bequests which will enable them to carry on the work of the institution. They desire to complete the third floor of the hospital building, which has never been finished, and which would make possible a needed increase of capacity from 44 to 75 beds. They also desire to reopen the research laboratory, which has been closed for a year, except for inexpensive routine work.

125,000 Die Yearly of Cancer.

One hundred and twenty-five thousand deaths a year, in the United States, are attributed to cancer. Insurance statistics indicate that cancer is on the increase, but this is believed to mean that the disease is more readily recognized than it was formerly.

The Barnard Hospital is a center of anti-cancer propaganda. It is an important outpost of the American Association for the Control of Cancer, which carries on a campaign to educate physicians and the general public in early recognition and timely treatment of cancer.

Cancer is a disease of all living organisms, plant as well as animal. It is not communicable as between animals, and is not contagious or infectious among human beings. It may develop from any ulcer or irritation of the skin or the mucous membrane, and if recognized promptly it is curable by surgery, radium, the X-ray or cauterization. When allowed to develop it is sometimes incurable, and is sometimes curable at the cost of great physical disfigurement.

In this connection it is of interest to know that plastic surgery, for the remaking of human faces, was in use at Barnard Hospital before the war brought this form of surgical art into public notice.

From All Over Country.

Only patients who are unable to pay for their board and treatment are admitted to the hospital. Those of moderate means, who can pay their board, board outside the institution, and have the benefit of the free clinic, which is attended by 40 to 60 patients a day.

Patients are admitted from all parts of the country. About one-half come from St. Louis and adjoining places. Because of the demand for accommodations, no patient is kept more than six weeks, the average stay being about three weeks. A checking-up of the financial circumstances of patients, made at different times in the past, has shown that few of them, not more than 2 per cent, have misrepresented their condition.

Radium is used continually in the treatment of patients. Thursday is radium clinic day, and the ultra-precious metal is in use on inmates of the hospital throughout the week.

The hospital's supply of radium is worth from $12,000 to $15,000. It is not sufficient to meet the demand, and if the amount were doubled, much more effective results could be obtained by this form of treatment.

152,235 Free Days' Treatment.

Since the institution was opened in 1905, and up to Sept. 1 last, it has given 152,235 free days' treatment to patients. The hospital was opened in a building on Jefferson avenue, between Washington avenue and Locust street. Dr. M. F. Engman, physician in charge, interested the late George D. Barnard, founder of the stationery firm bearing his name, in the institution, and a series of gifts, the first being $1000, resulted. In 1910 Barnard built the present hospital, a modern brick and concrete structure, at a cost of $250,000.

Barnard died in 1915, leaving an estate valued at $2,000,000. Under the terms of the settlement of his estate, the institution has since received the income from one-half of the estate. It has, in addition, an endowment of about $275,000. As has been explained, the institution's income has been seriously affected by the war revenue law.

The hospital has no indebtedness, and its expenditures are made to conform strictly to the limitations of the money on hand. This is a fixed policy of the institution, but its present result, in the closing of the research laboratory, is unsatisfactory to those in charge. Much work remains to be done in research into cancer, and it is believed that an active research department might obtain results which would be of the greatest and most lasting value to the world, in the nature of discovering a preventive serum or new curative agencies. As compared with such a result, the work which the hospital is now doing, in curing individual cases, would appear of little relative importance.

Those Who Have Charge.

The board of directors of the hospital is headed by Charles Wiggins, with J. M. Franciscus and Frank V. Hammar as vice presidents, D. K. Catlin as secretary, J. Hamilton Farish, treasurer, and Charles E. Bascom, chairman of the Executive Committee of the board. Mrs. Frank V. Hammar is president of the Woman's Auxiliary Board of 63 members. The directors, besides the officers named, are George Marion Brown, Peyton T. Carr, H. D. Condie, J. Lionberger Davis, Dr. M. F. Engman, John Fowler, John M. Gannett, Max Kotany, Edward Mallinckrodt Jr., J. Lawrence Mauran, Dr. Harvey G. Mudd, George W. Simmons, J. F. Shepley, J. Herndon Smith, B. J. Taussig and F. O. Watts.

Why ACID-STOMACH Must Cause Weakness, Bad Health and Awful Misery

Trace the disease to its source. Then remove the cause. Physicians say that more than 70 non-organic diseases can be traced directly to an Acid-Stomach, or hyperacidity as they call it. Besides this, there are numerous ailments which can hardly be classified as true diseases but which, nevertheless, cause untold suffering, and these, too, are found to have their origin in ACID-STOMACH.

Now there must be good and sufficient reasons why so much human misery, suffering and ill health that affect practically every part of the body, all get their start in a sour, gassy belching, Acid-Stomach.

There ARE such reasons—and here is one of them: Because of excess acidity an acid-stomach cannot properly digest food. Unless food is fully digested its nourishing elements cannot be properly assimilated. Hence the blood becomes thin and impoverished. Even the strongest body cannot maintain its strength very long if proper nourishment is denied. And that is the very reason why so many people are weak, sallow-skinned, emaciated and anemic—always ailing!

Here is another reason: Excess acid causes food to sour and ferment in the stomach. This gives rise to indigestion, belching, sour, gassy stomach, disgusting food repeating, heartburn, dyspepsia, etc. Moreover, this sour, fermented, partially digested food when it passes the intestines sets up irritation all along the intestinal tract—irritation so severe as frequently to result in ulcers, catarrh and even cancer.

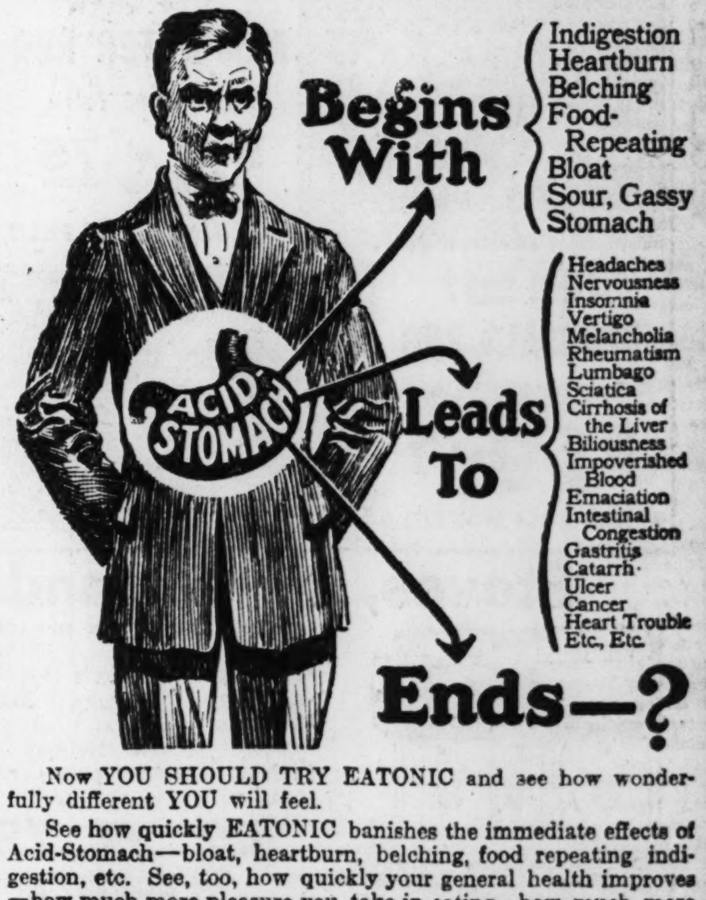
Just think how acid-mouth ruins teeth—how the acid eats right through the hard enamel and causes decay. Think, then, how destructive to the human organism acid-stomach must be!

And here is still another reason—one discovered by Prof. Metchnikoff, the famous scientist. Imperfectly digested food, charged with acid, when it reaches the intestines, becomes the breeding place for countless millions of disease germs. These poison germs are absorbed into the blood stream and carried throughout the system. Hence the severe attacks of blinding headache so many people suffer; the nervousness, irritability, insomnia, mental depression, melancholia, dizziness, and vertigo. The entire system soon becomes more or less saturated and clogged up with these poisons, and besides the many ills mentioned, we can add rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, biliousness and often times valvular heart trouble and heart failure—all of which can be traced to the one common source—ACID-STOMACH!

Thousands, yes millions, of men and women suffer daily from these troubles and never dream that Acid-Stomach is the cause of their ill health.

The common sense, logical thing to do is to go right to the seat of the trouble and REMOVE THE CAUSE. You must get rid of your Acid-Stomach immediately.

You can now rid your stomach of its excess acid. A wonderful modern medicine called EATONIC literally wipes it out. It does the work easily, speedily and thoroughly. It makes the stomach pure, sweet, cool and comfortable. It helps you get full strength out of every mouthful of food you eat; and unless you DO get full strength from your food you cannot enjoy robust, vigorous health.



Now YOU SHOULD TRY EATONIC and see how wonderfully different YOU will feel.

See how quickly EATONIC banishes the immediate effects of Acid-Stomach—bloat, heartburn, belching, food repeating indigestion, etc. See, too, how quickly your general health improves—how much more pleasure you take in eating—how much more easily your food is digested—how soundly you sleep—how nervousness and irritability disappear. And all simply because, by taking EATONIC, you get rid of the cause—ACID-STOMACH—the very thing that has been holding you back and making your life miserable!

GET A BIG GUARANTEED BOX OF EATONIC from your druggist today. We authorize him to guarantee it to please you and you can trust your druggist to make this guarantee good. If it fails in any way, take it back—he will refund your money.

If not convenient to get it from your druggist or if he does not keep EATONIC write to us and we will mail you postpaid a big 50c box. You can send us the 50c after you receive the EATONIC. Don't delay—attend to this today. Address, Eatonic Remedy Co., 1001-B S. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH
AUTOMOBILE NEWS

Many Picturesque Views for Motorist in Tour to Bowling Green, Mo.

More Than 30 Miles of Toll Roads Are Free to the Traveler on Sunday—Roads Are Good Most of Way With Few Bumpy Stretches.

IN 1805, Zebulon Montgomery Pike, a young Lieutenant, 26 years of age, was intrusted with an important military expedition up the Mississippi River to find its source, establish forts and trading places and to make report to the Government of any and all valuable information about the new country that had been purchased from France. On Aug. 9 of that year, accompanied by one Sergeant, two Corporals, 17 privates and one guide the expeditionary force embarked at St. Louis for their trip northward in a 70-foot keel boat. This exploration was overshadowed by the much more pretentious one to the West, and both overshadowed private searches, one up the Missouri River three years before Lewis and Clark, and one up the Mississippi 14 years before Lieut. Pike. Pike was an efficient officer and a very popular man. Seven years later, in 1813, he was commissioned a Brigadier-General and was killed in attack before Toronto. Five years later, in 1818, his glory had not the least abated. Two of Missouri's counties formed in that year divide the honor of his name—Montgomery and Pike.

Indian Massacres.

The Indians in this section of Missouri were numerous and peaceably disposed, but by nature they were easily incited to depredations by the British agents similar to the "hair buyer" (scalp purchaser) of Old Vincennes, writes Historian Basye. In December, 1811, a conference was called of all the settlers, as trouble seemed to be portending by the mysterious actions of the Indians. A fort was settled on and immediately commenced on the Alex. Allison farm, two miles south of Louisiana. Into this fort, called Buffalo, more than 20 families were gathered, taking turns at guarding and cultivating crops. An underground passage was made to a spring not far away. During the year no harm came to them and in 1812 they were thrown off their guard. They went further away to work and began to think preparation for defense was unnecessary. But in the following March, Capt. Robert Jordan and his son, James, were shot and scalped by the Indians while working on their farms. They were buried where they fell. Today a memorial stone marks their graves in the old Buffalo Cemetery.

The people were now thoroughly alarmed and requested Governor Clark at St. Louis to send soldiers for protection. Samuel Watson, one of the oldest, went to St. Louis to intercede with the Governor, who refused, but agreed to send a guard to conduct the colonists to St. Louis. They bundled up such goods as they could, put them in a flat boat and took refuge in St. Louis.

Settlers Brave Danger.

The settlement further south also called a meeting at the Clarksville fort to devise means of defense. At this meeting was James O'Neil, whose wife and nine children were murdered and scalped by the Indians, during his absence.

This settlement then went to Fort Woods at Troy or Fort Stout at Auburn. A few of the settlers braved the danger by remaining at Buffalo Fort, and others came to them from nearby setlements. In July, 1814, a company of sixty-four volunteers, known as rangers, came up from Cap-au-Gris, commanded by Capt. Allen Ramsey, for whom the creek was named. They started to go to Fort Mason, near Saverton, and stopped at Buffalo Fort. From there, for some unknown reason, part of them returned to Cap-au-Gris. The others under command of Capt. Ramsey, continued toward Fort Mason.

Somewhere between the two forts they encountered a band of Winnebago Indians, who were lying in ambush. A fight ensued in which Capt. Ramsey and four of his men were killed and most of the others wounded. This battle, about which little is known, is believed to have taken place on Mud Lick prairie. About six months after this battle in the early days of 1815, the war with Britain closed and the Indian hostilities ceased. The refugees began soon afterward to return, bringing many settlers with them.

Pike County was formed three years later.

Indian Hunting Grounds.

It was in this territory that the Indians had their hunting grounds, according to historians. The Sacs, Foxes and other tribes lived to the north on Rock River in the Selkirk regions, on both sides of the river.

ROUTE TO BOWLING GREEN, MO.

From Post-Dispatch Building go north to Locust street, west to Grand avenue, north to Delmar boulevard, west to King's highway, north to Easton, west over Easton through Wellston, continuing straight ahead over St. Charles Rock road to St. Charles. (The bridge toll across the Missouri River at St. Charles is 35 cents for auto and driver, one way, and 50 cents for round trip. Passengers are assessed 5 cents each.) Turn left immediately after crossing bridge on Second street for two or three blocks passing through business section to Clay street. Turn right, passing photographer's establishment on corner to right and ascend long grade over oiled road through residential section. Continue straight ahead, following red, white and blue markers of National Old Trails road to fork at 21.3 miles. The fork is well marked with signs.

Take the right-hand road to St. Peter's, descending gradual slope for some distance and passing Oak Grove Cemetery on right. CAUTION should be taken in descending winding grade at 25.6 as a wooden bridge obscured from view by a bend in the road is located at the foot of slope. At 26.4 the rock road ends. The roads from St. Louis thus far are in very good condition. A graded dirt road starts here and ends at 27.6. During the early part of last week it was dusty but otherwise not unpleasant to travel upon. At 27.6 a rock road starts giving a very good road the balance of the way to St. Peters, Mo., 28.8 miles from the starting point. Continue straight ahead, crossing iron bridge and railroad tracks just beyond, paralleling the railroad on graded dirt road for about a mile. At first three corners turn left on road passing under railroad trestle which swings to right shortly beyond. Follow route of main travel, jogging to right and left, without recrossing railroad, to O'Fallon, Mo. This is a solid dirt road in good condition and oiled most of the way.

At the end of road in the heart of town with garage and filling station ahead, turn left for two blocks then right on oiled dirt road that leads south out of O'Fallon. At three corners, less than a mile distant, turn right with travel on dirt road that is dusty for about a mile across the prairie, later becoming a solid dirt road with stretches of rock road traversing hilly country. Between O'Fallon and Flint Hill the road crosses the Wabash Railroad three times. Caution is necessary at each crossing. At 43.9 at four corners with concrete fence posts on right keep straight ahead to Flint Hill over a gravel road in good condition. At Flint Hill turn left where road ends in heart of town, picking up markers one block beyond of the Red Ball route, which is a red ball painted on a white background. These markers have been freshly painted and are placed at close intervals, giving clear directions from here to Louisiana, Mo., 94.7 miles.

On Sunday there is no toll collected at the gates in Pike County, though toll is collected the same as week days in Lincoln County. The first toll gate on this route is north of Troy, Mo., at 60.7 miles, in Lincoln County. The toll rate is 3 cents a mile from any type or size of motor vehicle. The toll from Troy to Eolia, which is the only road toll collected on the trip on Sunday is 55 cents one way and $1 for a round-trip ticket. Passengers are not assessed. Other toll gates are located at Auburn, in Lincoln County, 70.5 miles; Calumet, 82.2 miles, and Aberdeen, 85.7 miles, the last two mentioned being in Pike County. The road from Louisiana to Bowling Green is a toll road also, with a gate on the outskirts of either town. This road has recently been graveled and concrete culverts and bridges built to replace former wooden culverts and open water courses. This road is heavily traveled by motorists of both towns on Sunday because of the scenery through which it passes which is some of the prettiest to be had in Missouri. The road from Flint Hill to Louisiana is in good condition the greater distance there being stretches here and there that are bumpy but not sufficiently unpleasant for motor travel to class as rough. There are several long hills that require the use of the intermediate gear but most of the road is such that the average motorist may roll along at 20 miles an hour without difficulty.

On entering Louisiana, turn left at hotel, with the markers of the red ball route, turning right one block beyond, passing another hotel on left. At first cross street, Georgia street, turn left, passing through business and residence section straight ahead on an oiled, hard-surfaced road through the residence section, which is lined with large maple trees on both sides of the streets for several blocks. The branches of these trees are so interlapped and their foliage so dense that an archway is formed that the sun is unable to penetrate.

TO URGE CONSTRUCTION OF OZARK TRAILS ROUTE

The construction of the Ozark Trail from the city limits at Maplewood through Maplewood, Shrewsbury, Webster Groves, Glendale, Kirkwood, Valley Park, Crescent, Eureka, Allenton and Pacific, will be taken up with the State Highway Board, the St. Louis County Court, and the highway engineer, by the officers and executive committee of the Ozark Trail Association of St. Louis County.

The trail association was organized at the Armory at Webster Groves Thursday night, under the auspices of the Civic League of Webster Groves. Two hundred representative citizens from 10 towns along the proposed trail through the county attended. These 10 cities it is claimed represent one-third of the county population, practically all of whom would fail to derive any direct benefit from the expenditure of the $3,000,000 road bonds unless the Ozark Trail is constructed.

Street Commissioner C. M. Talbert addressed the meeting. He explained the work the city is doing in road construction and said the city would gladly meet such highways the county chose to construct to the city line. He said he never realized the importance of the Ozark Trails until he attended some of their meetings and saw the enthusiasm displayed by the crowds that attended them, and how the various cities fought for a place on one of the trails. He commented upon the scenic beauties of the route through Missouri and added, that the numerous trails being constructed throughout the great Southwest looked toward St. Louis as the ultimate end of the Trail. The city, he said would co-operate with the Ozark Trail Association to that end.

The officers elected at last night's meeting were: Judge Sam D. Hodgdon, Webster Groves, president; J. B. Ackfeld, Mayor of Shrewsbury, vice president; J. J. Rowe, Kirkwood, secretary; Albert Koppitz, Pacific, treasurer.

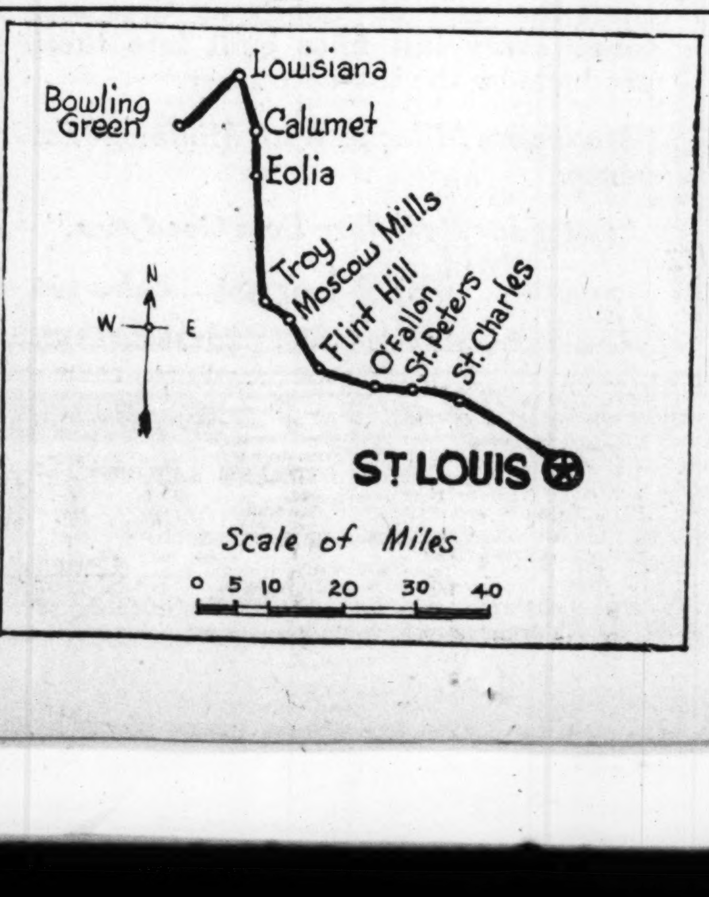
SUGGESTS ARMY CORPS FOR ROAD BUILDING

Creating a Public Service Corps, under the army, the functions of which would be to construct public works and particularly public highways is the subject of a bill introduced by Representative Halings which has been referred to the Committee on Military Affairs. This bill calls for the organization of a force of not less than 175,000 men selecteed annually, fully equipped for infantry service in the field and provided with "animals, vehicles, tools, machines and materials prescribed by the Secretary of War, requisite for the improvement and construction of roads, levees, bridges, or other public works." The sum of $200,000,000 or as much of that amount as may be necessary is asked to put this act into effect.

DRAWINGS FOR SPACE AT NATIONAL SHOWS, OCT. 2

Drawings for space at the two national automobile shows will be held in New York Oct. 2. Applications, which already are coming in volume, will be received up to midnight of Sept. 27. The New York show, as already announced, is to be held the week beginning Jan. 3, and, as usual, in Grand Central Palace. The truck show, to be held simultaneously, has the most logical location available in the Eighth Coast Artillery Armory. The Chicago show, opening Jan. 24, will display cars at the Coliseum and First Regiment Armory, and trucks at the International Amphitheater.

Post-Dispatch Suggestions for Tours—No. 16



NEW MODELS

The latest creation in Case cars, a seven passenger touring model finished in dark blue with fine white-striped trimmings is on display in the showrooms of the Illmo Automobile Company, 3027-31 Olive street, a concern newly formed to distribute the Case car in Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois. The members of the organization are H. E. Harper, well known in the St. Louis automobile filed and Frank J. Hauss, recently returned from military service, who formerly was in the automobile business in East St. Louis.

The new Case car has a body that is smartly and comfortably proportioned. Paneling of inlaid circassian walnut is used in the construction of the cowl board and in the rear of the front seat. The two extra seats in the tonneau disappear in the back of the front seat and are protected by a cover from dust.

Long grain genuine leather is used in the upholstery. The top has a beveled plate glass in the rear and is lined with whipcord linen. The curtains fold into the deck or are opened with the doors.

The motor is a Case Continental Six with cylinders in block.

Tire carirers in the rear provide for one or two spare tires or one wire wheel.

NEW ESSEX

The first Essex roadster to reach St. Louis since the introduction of this new make of car upon the market last February is now on display in the showrooms of Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Company.

It is a two-passenger roadster with straight seat and is finished in what is termed coach painter's green. The body is of straight line design with beveled edge. Like the Hudson the radiator is equipped with a shutter which eliminates the need for a hood in cold weather to retain the warm air under the hood. The opening and closing of the shutter is controlled from the driver's seat.

The motor is of six cylinders with Delco Lighting and Ignition system. The adjustment of the carburetor is done from the seat in regulating the intake manifold during changes in the weather.

The upholstery is of hand buffed grain leather. A deck with cover is built in the rear for accommodating luggage. A tire rack holds two spare tires.

NICKEL-PLATED MOTOR BEING DISPLAYED HERE

A six-cylinder Haynes motor, built for showroom purposes, is now on display at the Wilson Motor Car Co.

The greater portion of the metal parts of the motor are nickle plated with the exception of the cylinders, which are painted in black enamel. The model is built on a special stand which permits the observer to inspect improvements that have been made in this motor during the last six years, which include a double exhaust manifold, heavier crank case, and a new improvement of the Bendix drive of the starting motor in engaging with the fly wheel.

MOTOR VEHICLE LIGHTS

TO comply with the law which requires the lighting of motor vehicle lights a half hour after sunset, motor cars should be lighted this week as follows:

Today	7:30 p. m.
Monday	7:29 p. m.
Tuesday	7:27 p. m.
Wednesday	7:26 p. m.
Thursday	7:24 p. m.

"SHIP-BY-TRUCK" DAY PLANNED FOR ST. LOUIS

Parade of Motor Trucks Through City to Demonstrate Growth of Rapid Transportation.

The relief of the railroads from their burden of short-haul freight carrying and the encouragement of the use of motor trucks to take care of nearby shipping is the purpose of the Chamber of Commerce and the St. Louis Automobile Manufacturers and Dealers' Association in proposing a "ship-by-truck day" in St. Louis. Mayor Kiel has promised that he will issue a proclamation, declaring Oct. 25 "ship-by-truck day," and he has also promised that all of the trucks belonging to the city of St. Louis will be in the monster parade of trucks to be held that day.

A meeting to formulate the plans for the "ship-by-truck day" was held at the Chamber of Commerce Thursday afternoon, attended by C. A. Bothell of the Packard Motor Car Co., R. S. Rauschkolb of the Ship-by-Truck Bureau of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., R. E. Lee of the St. Louis Automobile Manufacturers and Dealers' Association, E. N. Ferris of the Production Bureau, and James F. Coyle of the Transportation Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce.

Tentative plans were laid for the "ship-by-truck day" to include a parade of commercial cars of every description. A meeting of the larges users of truck in St. Louis will be held at the Chamber of Commerce at 2 p. m. next Thursday, to complete the plans. It is believed that a parade of at least 1500 commercial cars of every description may be organized. Such a parade would be seven or eight miles in length and would be a revelation to the people of St. Louis as to the almost complete motorization of the hauling traffic of the city.

The purpose of the "ship-by-truck day" and the parade is to spread the propaganda of better hauling by quick moving motor trucks. The congested condition of the railroads of the country is so marked that leading railroad officials are encouraging the use of motor trucks for short hauls. They say that the short haul is the worst feature of railroading and the hardest to handle. It is believed that the attention called to the use of motor trucks will eventuate into the establishment of motor truck lines for freight carrying to points within a hundred miles of St. Louis in every direction. The same trucks in taking merchandise from St. Louis to customers, would bring back return loads of farm products.

CONDITION OF STREETS TO BE DISCUSSED

Arrangements were completed for a meeting of members of the Missouri Auto Club at a board of directors' meeting held Tuesday night. The meeting will be held Thursday night, Sept. 25, at Riverview Club, and the invitation to it includes womenfolk. President Kinsey of the Board of Public Works, Director Talbert of the Department of Streets and Sewers and Street Commissioner Slater have been asked to attend the meeting to hear the discussion by club members of the condition of streets in St. Louis.

An address on "Touring and How to Tour" will be delivered by W. A. Lippman of the Field-Lippman Co., who will show lantern slides of many trying situations in which he has found brother tourists and their cars.

W. L. Patterson of the St. Louis Motor Service Co. will also deliver the second of his series of talks on the motor car and its care. Refreshments will be served and there will be music and dancing up to midnight. The meeting is open to members and prospective members of the club and will begin at 7:45 p. m. Thursday.

AUTO EXHIBIT LARGEST EVER AT COUNTY FAIR

The automotive exhibit which includes passenger cars, motor trucks and tractors at the St. Louis County fair at Upper Creve Coeur Lake which closes tonight is the largest ever held there, according to George B. Bowles, superintendent of grounds.

More than 40 dealers of St. Louis and adjacent territory had exhibits in the motor car section. The exhibition included passenger cars and motor trucks. Fourteen farm tractors took part in demonstrations Friday and Saturday for which ribbons were awarded winners in a plowing contest.

Auto Associations Join Forces to Fight Theft of Motor Cars

Uniform and Effective Legislation Throughout All States Sought to Prevent Duplication of Effort.

Concerted action directed toward the abatement of automobile stealing and the improvement of highways will be taken by the national associations representing owners, dealers and manufacturers as the result of a conference held Sept. 9, at the offices of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce in New York City.

To curb car stealing they will ask for legislation in all states to protect car users and will urge that the Dyer bill be passed by Congress making it a felony to take a stolen car from one State to another, punishable by imprisonment of not less than two years nor more than 10. In the direction of obtaining better roads they will indorse the Townsend bill and encourage everywhere permanent types of highways for motor vehicle use.

Another bill that will have their support will be the Volstead bill, a prohibition measure which, through the efforts of the National Automobile Dealers' Association, has been amended so as to protect dealers who hold mortgages on automobiles confiscated for carrying liquor.

The contemplated co-ordinaiton of effort was brought about by the growing insistence of automobile users everywhere for more uniform and effective legislation bearing on the needs mentioned. It was recognized by all present that duplication of effort could be avoided and the facts presented more clearly to the public through co-operation than through independent effort. It was also felt that in this manner legislators could be supplied with basic information which they desire now but which has not been readily available in the past as to the best means of procedure to gain the desired ends.

The meeting was attended by the following representatives: National Automobile Dealers' Association, Harry G. Moock, business manager, C. A. Vane, attorney; Motor and Accessory Manufacturers, M. L. Heminway, general manager, M. L. Shuster; American Automobile Association, A. G. Batchelder, executive chairman, George C. Diehl, director Good Roads Board, W. Eugene Turton, chairman Legislative Committee; Trailers Manufacturers' Association, H. W. Perry, general manager, C. H. Martin; National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, H. H. Rice, chairman Legislative Committee, David Ludlum, D. C. Fenner, Alfred Reeves, general manager, J. S. Marvin, Pyke Johnson and H. R. Cobleigh.

The conclusions of the meeting were that a conference committee should be formed of a representative and an alternate appointed by each association and that this committee should draw up a plan of action and complete the details following out the general scheme outlined at this meeting. The committee is to hold meetings at stated intervals to initiate campaigns to be conducted by each association independently through its members and others in the same field, enlisting the co-operation of the trade and daily press.

ONE PERSON IN EVERY 19 IN U. S. OWNS AUTO

At the end of the first half of 1919 figures compiled by automobile industries show a total of 6,353,253 motor cars registered in the United States, a gain of 407,701 or 6.85 per cent for the period. The registration Dec. 1, 1918 was 5,945,442.

These figures show an average of one motor vehicle for every nineteen persons in the United States. Southern states lead in the increases, and Ohio displaces New York as owner of the most automobiles and trucks. Last year the states of the Middle West were in the lead.

ST. LOUISANS RETURN FROM MICHIGAN WITH DATA ON GOOD ROADS

Inspect System of Concrete Highways to Determine Best Mode of Construction for St. Louis County.

After having visited Detroit and Wayne County, Mich., of which Detroit is a part, for the purpose of studying road conditions as they exist there and as they might be applied here, Raymond A. Walsh, general secretary of the Good Roads Committee of the Automobile Club of St. Louis, in company with two members of the St. Louis County Court, Judges John Wiethaupt and William Shields have returned to the city.

Secretary Walsh said the improved road conditions in this part of Michigan is resultant upon the remarkable development in good roads undertaken by Detroit under the special direction of Chairman Edward N. Hines of the Wayne County Commission.

"The Judges of the County Court did not conceal their unqualified approval of the work done in Wayne County and sought and obtained an interview with Chairman Hines," he said. Secretary Walsh accompanied the court members to Detroit to gather details as to the method employed by Wayne County Commissioners in establishing what is probably the greatest system of county roads in the United States. He will submit his report in detail to the Good Roads Committee, of which Harry B. Hawes is chairman, at an early meeting.

"I feel that the trip to Detroit was a most beneficial one," said Secretary Walsh. "It was particularly interesting to us to see the remarkable results of the road system of Wayne County, these results being very apparent after but a few years of comprehensive road building.

Improved Rural Districts.

"Detroit has lifted from Wayne County all the objectionable features of rural districts, has converted its farms into veritable parks, in which the farm implements incident to farm life, set like beautiful monuments. The prosperity is evidenced on on all sides and the real estate developments, in the way of subdivisions, is little less than startling. There is no question but that the road system inaugurated by Mr. Hines is responsible for these results.

"Surrounding Detroit there are 185 miles of concrete roadway. All of the more recently built roads have a minimum width of 18 feet, some of them being as wide as 24 feet, not including shoulders. For miles and miles after the tourist leaves Detroit these great white ribbons stretch before him, and the remarkable part of it is that farmers living off of these roads have done as much to aid in the construction of these roads as if their property was on them. This is natural, for the reason that the County Commissioners of Wayne County have set forth a definite program on which they are working.

"Mr. Hines told us that in the early days of concrete road construction he encouraged apparently what were insurmountable obstacles. He decided that there was but one way to build roads to please every resident of Wayne County and that was to lay a definite program and follow it against all obstacles. He and his associates drew their plans for 12 radial highways, these highways leaving Detroit and running into the various corners of the county, similarly to the four State highways proposed for St. Louis County.

PRACTICAL PARAGRAPHS

Ammeter Trouble.

When the ammeter shows a rate of charge or discharge very much higher than usual it may be accepted as an indication that there is a cross somewhere, so that the battery is not getting the current intended for it

Top Mending.

To mend a tear in the top it is best to use woolen yarn to draw the edges together, after which a top of material similar to that of the top is applied with rubber cement, set by the vulcanizer.

Overheating on Low.

When it is necessary to employ the low gear for a considerable period it is possible to obviate the overheating that would ordinarily result by keeping the mixture in the leanest possible condition.

Fierce Clutch.

The car owner should remember that when the clutch is fierce in taking hold and does not have a slight slip, the mechanism that transmits the power from the engine to the drive wheels, particularly as regards pinions, universals and gear teeth, receives destructive strains.

Weak Starting.

When the starting motor for any reason lacks power to turn over the crank shaft it may be strengthened by coupling on another storage battery, connecting it in multiple so as not to increase the voltage. If the conducting wires are of sufficient size from the battery to the motor there will be a considerable gain in power output.

Electrolyte.

Here are a few things regarding the fluid used in storage batteries. Iron rust even in small quantities is very detrimental to the battery. Almost all rain water contains injurious matter. Chemically pure sulphuric acid only should be used. In mixing acid and distilled water the acid should be poured into the water slowly. The addition of water to acid is dangerous.

Cleaning Rear Axle.

The gum and grease that accumulate on the rear axle may be easily cleaned with a cloth wet with kerosene. A stiff brush will reach the grooves and corners, and the cleaning will be easier if the kerosene is warmed.

In Mountain Running.

The density of the air at 5000 feet is about one-fifth less than that of air at sea level. An engine with low compression will not deliver full power with that amount of decrease in density. Also the carbureter will need some adjustment before the car reaches the higher altitudes. These facts should be borne in mind by the motorist who intends to drive through mountainous districts.

When Brakes Are Dangerous.

In descending long, steep hills, if the brakes are applied so that the wheels cannot turn, the car is apt to skid in a most precarious manner. Under such conditions tire chains with cross chains on every link and a transmission brake form the best method of descent.

Black Hawk, Keokuk and other famous chieftains lived there, while to the south, near St. Louis, and on the Missouri river lived the Winnebagos, Osages and other tribes. The Indians had no homes in Pike county. Here they hunted buffalo, deer and bear for food and the skins of which they bartered at the trading posts or used for clothing. The other game they hunted included wolves, panther, elk and turkey. The prairies were the feeding places for the buffalo and their trails going to and from the water courses are yet to be seen in various places, one distinct one is located two miles northwest of Bowling Green. For centuries, perhaps, countless thousands of buffalo would go in herds and in course of time made deep road beds from two to six feet deep.

As the white settlers increased, the Indians became less frequently seen, although as late as 1856 Indians were seen coming single file into town, having their bows and arrows. They would shoot at coins set up in split sticks. Persons still live who saw them coming into Louisiana bringing nuts, game and trinkets, and they always walked single file, the squaws carrying the burdens.

First Settlement in 1800.

Judge T. J. C. Fagg, who has compiled considerable history of Pike County, says that in the year 1800, James Burns of Kentucky effected the first temporary settlement of what is now Pike County, at or near the present site of Clarksville.

Louisiana was laid out in 1818, and the plat filed Dec. 10, 1819. The date of the laying out of Bowling Green is given as November, 1826, though as early as Oct. 14, 1822, the General Assembly of Missouri appointed Willis Mitchell, G. C. T. Trabue and William McPike to "superintend the erection of a courthouse at Bowling Green." The courthouse building was completed on Aug. 5, 1823.

Maj. William Pigg, in 1828, made brick for the second courthouse. The first courthouse was ordered plastered with mud and also the roof repaired in 1827.

Last January a new three-story courthouse built of limestone, at a cost of approximately $140,000, was completed. For splendor and modern architectural design it is not excelled in Northern Missouri.

Certain people from Bowling Green, Ky.—the Thorntons, Culbertsons, Pikes, Readings and others, known as "the Bowling Green crowd," gave the town its name. The two places are laid out alike.

At Bowling Green some of Missouri's most prominent lawyers commenced their practice. Among them, Ezra Hunt, Foster P. Wright, T. J. C. Fagg, A. B. Chambers, James O. Broadhead, A. H. Buckner, Gilchrist Porter, D. P. Dyer, Samuel T. Glover, Elijah Robinson and John B. Henderson.

Home of Champ Clark.

The home of Champ Clark is located but a short distance from the courthouse square of Bowling Green. Admirers of the former Speaker of the House of Representatives have traveled far and near to see the house where Champ Clark made his home. During his absence the Clark home is occupied by Joe Adams, the City Collector of Bowling Green, and his wife, who superintend its upkeep. The Clark home is a simple two-story frame house with a porch and balcony on two sides. It is painted white, with shutters and trimmings in green. Large shade trees of elm and maple varieties are in goodly numbers about the premises. An iron picket fence less than three feet high is built at the front of the grounds. The house sets about 60 feet back from the street, affording the motorist a good view from the roadway. On the west side of the Clark home is a small ravine which parallels the property. To reach the Clark home continue straight ahead on arriving at the courthouse square in Bowling Green with the new Pike County courthouse on the right. At first cross street beyond turn left for little more than two blocks, passing large frame residence on left painted a light brown with dark brown trimmings, and crossing iron bridge over ravine just beyond. The home of Champ Clark is to the left at this point. The distance from the Post-Dispatch Building to the front gate of Champ Clark's home is 106.7 miles, according to speedometer registration.

Famous Hickory Pipe.

Bowling Green has a population of about 2000. Its elevation is 480 feet higher than that of Louisiana, Mo., located on the Mississippi, with a population of about 5500. The distance between the two towns is 12 miles. There are five springs in the territory adjacent to Bowling Green. A mineral spring is passed on the right on entering the town from Louisiana.

H. M. Strother, the Mayor of Bowling Green, is president of a pipe factory that has become famous for the manufacture of a "hickory" pipe which is now sold throughout the United States. An axe handle factory employing 20 men is another important industry. Bowling Green is in the heart of a rich agricultural district, wheat, corn and oats being the principal crops. A grain mill is located in the town. The raising of livestock is also an industry of importance, there being eight or ten shippers in the near vicinity. In the way of schools Bowling Green has both well equipped grade and high schools. There are two hotels where meals may be had by motorists at regular hours. A restaurant opposite the courthouse serves meals at all hours of the day. Two new churches have recently been built and a bill is new pending in Congress for the erection of a new postoffice to cost $50,000.

Attractive Side Drive.

At Louisiana there is a short side drive that leads to the summit of the river bluffs north of town, from which point a wonderful view for miles across the Mississippi into the lowlands of Illinois may be had as well as the junction of the Salt River with the Mississippi some miles north of Louisiana. To make this drive turn to the right at Masonic Temple on Georgia street on road that inclines to left after a short distance, then ascends long winding grade over very good roads to summit of bluff.

The drive from Louisiana to Bowling Green is very picturesque, there being a long chain of hills on the left with the same formations at intervals on the right carpeted in varying shades of green in the pasture land, while farther up on the hill sides—and some of the hills rise to heights greater than three hundred feet—the leaves in the timberland have already begun to change. Later in the fall, residents say, after they have been nipped by the frost, the multi-colored leaves of the trees on the hillsides form a picture that is a treat for the eye to feast upon.

Among the principal commercial activities of Louisiana are the nurseries where fruit trees are grown. The raising of apple trees is a specialty. The nurseries are located to the left of the road on the outskirts of Louisiana on the way to Bowling Green.

There is also a shoe factory, a plant where drain tile is made, and limestone quarries. There are a number of stock farms in this vicinity. Mules are raised chiefly. Agriculture is the chief pursuit of the surrounding districts. Apple and peach orchards are numerous.

The high schol of Louisiana in equipment, construction and architecture compares favorably with those of larger cities. An Elks Club of proportionately large membership is also located there. A mineral spring said to possess medicinal qualities is located in the block north of Georgia street on Fifth street.

There are two hotels and several restaurants where the motorist may obtain meals.

Last Monday a "round table" of automobile men was instituted at the Jefferson Hotel in the north dining room. It is planned by President Brockman of the St. Louis Automobile Manufacturers' and Dealers' Association to have the men in the trade gather there each day for luncheon There were 34 of the dealers at the first round table and the attendance each day has been excellent.

To car owners who need more power

Power largely depends on piston rings. They are hidden away in your motor—easy to overlook—and some motorists never realize that unless they are using the right design of rings—McQuay-Norris Leak-Proof Piston Rings—lots of the gas they buy never has a chance to become power.

Nine years ago these rings were designed to protect motor power. Nothing has ever equaled the efficiency of their two-piece design. These rings have increased power and decreased carbon and saved gas. They have stood the test of time.

They are made in every size and over-size—packaged power for every make and model of motor. Your repair man has them or can get you proper sizes promptly from his jobber's complete stock. Insist on the genuine.

FULL PRODUCTION OF NEW TRACTOR TO START JAN. 1

More Than 500 Persons to Be Given Employment by New St. Louis Industry.

The production of a farm tractor all of the parts of which, with the exception of the motor and wheels, is to be a "made in St. Louis" product, has already begun on a small scale by the Kardell Tractor and Truck Co., which occupies the plant formerly owned by the Whitman Agricultural Co. at 6900 South Broadway.

Tractors now in the process of construction are to be used for display purposes by dealers and distributors and in giving demonstrations.

Full production will start about the first of the year. H. W. Kardell, president of the company, said the schedule of production for 1920 calls for 5000 tractors from Jan. 1, 1920, to Jan. 1, 1921.

He said one of the tractors to be completed this week will be expressed to Los Angeles to take part in a demonstration there conducted by the State, within the next 10 days.

More than 500 persons are to be employed in the new plant when full production is started, President Kardell said.

The plant has already been equipped with the greater portion of the machinery necessary for quantity production. The organization of the various departments has been completed, material has been contracted for and a great deal of it delivered, and contracts for the output of the plant have been made with distributers and dealers who want anywhere from 1 to 500 of the tractors each, Kardell said.

The two brothers, H. W. and J. C. Kardell started in the farm implement business in St. Louis in 1901, at 509 North Main street, and with the advent of the automobile organized the Kardell Motor Car Co. which, according to H. W. Kardell, sold approximately $1,500,000 worth of automobiles in 1918 throughout the St. Louis territory.

The Kardell Tractor and Truck Co. is incorporated for $1,000,000 under the laws of Delaware. Stock which hitherto sold at par since Sept. 10 has been selling at $112.50 a share. President Kardell said during the early part of October he expected the price per share to rise to $125.

Enough stock has already been sold, he said, to start production. It will take until the first of the year to get the plant fitted complete he stated.

The plant occupies about 175,000 square feet of floor space on a tract of 14 acres. There are two railroad switches alongside a loading platform where eight freight cars may be loaded at one time.

The Kardell tractor is a four-wheeled tractor with a motor of 8-16 horsepower rating. The mechanism is inclosed in a dustproof case.

There are but the two speeds, forward and reverse, the tractor is so constructed that the gears are in mesh continuously. The operation of the tractor is very similar to that of an automobile, the same type of wheel being used, with one lever for forward speed and another for reverse. The steering device is so constructed that it can be extended, permitting the driver to ride on any implement the tractor may be hitched to. An automatic gauge controls the oil system in case a pet cock should be opened while in use, and the oil drain from the crankcase. When the oil gets at a certain level near the danger point, the gauge automatically causes a short in the mageto and kills the motor. A filter to gather dirt and dust in the air is attached to the intake of the carburetor.

To avoid the damage done highways by tractors equipped with cleats on the wheels, a specially designed quick detachable cleat or lug is part of the regular equipment. There are 18 of these cleats to each of the rear wheels, and are detached or put on in a short space of time.

The motor is being manufactured by the Wisconsin Motor Co. of Milwaukee. The wheels are a product of French and Hecht, makers of wheels in Davenport, Io.

The balance of the tractor parts are to be made in the St. Louis plant.

One of the completed tractors is to be expressed to Los Angeles this week to take part in a large tractor demonstration to be conducted by the State in the near future. H. W. Kardell said he will visit Los Angeles at the time, and supervise its demonstration.

The officers of the Kardell Tractor and Truck Co. are H. W. Kardell, president; J. C. Kardell, vice president; William F. Fahey, treasurer; H. F. Fahrenkrog, secretary; Given Moore, sales manager.

BATTERY MEN MAKE MOVE TO IMPROVE BUSINESS

Every member of the St. Louis Storage Battery Trade Association was provided with a card reading: "Member of the Storage Battery Trade Association," for office use, at the meeting held at the American Annex, Monday night. Four new members were admitted to the association, giving it a roster of 31 firms. The association is preparing to initiate a campaign of general advertising to convince the automobile public that its storage batteries should be sent only to reputable firms, skilled in the charging and repairing of batteries. No firm is admitted to membership in the association that cannot meet these requirements fully. The association is also about to send to all dealers in automobiles and garages in St. Louis, a printed list of its membership, giving the addresses and names of batteries handled by each member.

NEW PLANT IN MILWAUKEE TO BUILD 4-CYLINDER CAR

Production to Be Equal to Present Plant of Nash Motors Co. at Kenosha, Wis.

The Nash Motors Co. is to build a four-cylinder car in a plant to be constructed in Milwaukee, it has been announced here. Transfers of 41 acres of land at Clement street and Oklahoma avenue, Milwaukee, have been made to the Nash Motors Co. and contractors are ready to carry out the construction of this new factory without delay.

The Nash Motors Co. is also making substantial additions to its main factory in Kenosha where Nash six-passenger cars and Nash trucks will continue to be built.

Work on the Milwaukee building will be completed within the next 12 months. It is planned to bring the production of the Milwaukee plant as early as possible up to a point of production equal to the passenger car production of the Kenosha plant.

The buildings now planned include a power plant, foundry, machine shop, drop forge, body building plant and sheet metal plant. Immediate expenditure of a million dollars is planned by the company and it is declared several times that amount will be expended in the development of the Milwaukee plant just as rapidly as the plans are worked out.

Motor Car Safety Depends on Right Engineering

A study of the causes of motor car mishaps will show that in nine cases out of ten they are as much the fault of the car as of the driver. When it comes to the safety of a man and his family, Packard Engineering never compromises with chance.

EVEN if every one of the 6,000,000 motor car drivers in this country were always careful and thoughtful—there would still be accidents.

The greatest possible care will not help a man if his car fails.

Safety is the first and foremost consideration in Packard engineering. There is a sound, practical engineering reason for every factor of safety in the Packard car.

Consider the security afforded by the high reserve power of the Packard Twin-Six—the stored-up energy which responds instantly in an emergency, but costs nothing when it is not in use.

The Packard is the safest car in the world to handle in traffic. From less than two miles an hour on high, it will pick up in a few blocks to more than a mile a minute. It's perfect balance—its ease of control—makes it stop or start without effort.

Just as the Packard engine is built to deliver more power than ordinary needs call for, the Packard car is built to withstand more than ordinary strain. Yet the Packard requires no more power to run than many cars which compromise with strength to secure lightness.

Its weight is scientifically adjusted to its power. It stays on the road when lighter cars show a tendency to leave it.

To the man who has any regard at all for himself or his family, Packard safety is priceless.

The Packard people are transportation experts; they have more to tell you on this subject than any other organization in the world. You can ask them to discuss your car problem without obligation. It is to your interest and profit to do so.

MOTOR TRUCK DEALER GIVES A BANQUET

Frank A. Martin, president of the Martin Motor Truck, entertained officials of the three lines of motor trucks his company distributes and members of the office and service forces with an elaborate banquet at Mission Inn last Wednesday night.

Martin said the treat was given in recognition of the good work done by the company during August while Martin was on his vacation. During August 39 motor trucks were sold, bringing the total sales upward of the 200 mark for the present time.

R. B. Thompson, sales manager, and Clement Raymond, treasurer, were in charge of the company's operations during Martin's absence, when the record for one month's sales was established.

Among the factory officials who came to St. Louis at Martin's invitation to attend the banquet were J. C. Ayers, vice president, and E. A. Beasley, district manager of the Denby Motor Truck Co. of Detroit; H. E. Rose, vice president and general manager of the Fulton Truck Co. of Illinois, the Chicago representative of the Fulton factory, which is located at Farmingsdale, N. Y.; A. J. Whipple, general salesmanager, and S. H. Cady, district manager of the Diamond T. Motor Car Co. of Chicago. Harry Grover of Clayton, J. B. Hendricks of East St. Louis and Joseph Williamson of Jerseyville, dealers for the Martin Motor Truck Co., were present. C. W. Hatfield of the St. Louis Automobile Securities Co. and H. R. Henry, wholesale sales manager of the Overland Automobile Co., were also guests.

MISSISSIPPI SCENIC WAY HEADQUARTERS NOW HERE

Headquarters for the Mississippi River Scenic Highway, which follows the course of that river from Minneapolis to New Orleans, are now located in St. Louis.

Truman Pierson, president, now has his headquarters at the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce. At a recent meeting at Memphis the last lap of the highway from Memphis to New Orleans on the east side of the river was settled upon. The other officers of the highway association are W. H. Hayley, 1st vice president, Memphis; E. G. Fairfield, 2nd vice president, Muscatine, Iowa; W. H. Holstein, secretary-treasurer, Burlington, Ia.; Thomas A. Scherer, counsel, Quincy, Ill.; and E. Segel of St. Louis, assistant to the president.

The headquarters of the Mississippi River Scenic Highway were formerly in Quincy, Ill.

ST. LOUISANS URGE THE PASSAGE OF DYER BILL

A telegram was sent Friday afternoon by Paul V. Bunn, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of St. Louis, to United States Senator James A. Reed, in which it was stated that the directors of the Chamber of Commerce strongly indorsed House bill No. 9203, introduced by Representative L. C. Dyer which was passed by the House last Monday. The telegram asks Senator Reed to secure a favorable report on it by his committee, and to work for its passage in the Senate.

This bill makes it a felony, punishable by $5000 fine or five years' imprisonment, or both, to take a stolen automobile, or any part thereof, from one state to another.

During the week members of the St. Louis Automobile Manufacturers and Dealers' Association have sent more than 200 letters and telegrams to Representative Dyer, commending the bill, for his use before the Senate Committee. The National Automobile Dealers' Association has also requested dealers in all parts of the country to help push the passage of the bill. Locally, the St. Louis Motor Accessory Trade Association and the St. Louis Storage Battery Trade Association have sent telegrams to Senator Reed, and letters to Congressman Dyer asking the passage of the bill. It is believed that this measure will go far to stop the stealing of automobiles, and it affects St. Louis largely, in being so situated on the State border making it easy for a thief to escape across the river in 10 minutes with a stolen car, into another state.

ST. LOUIS MONOPLANE USES LIBERTY MOTOR

Two new Liberty motors to be used by the International Aerial Navigation Co., 1032 North Vandeventer avenue, in the construction of a large tandem monoplane being built by that company for use in transcontinental passenger and mail service between St. Louis and New York have arrived in St. Louis. One of them was on display last week in the showroom of the Packard Motor Car Co. of Missouri.

These are two of the first 24 Liberty motors to be purchased since the war for use in privately owned airplanes.

Stearns MOTOR CARS

100,000 Miles—and still giving satisfactory service—

At the time when a car could reasonably be expected to be ready for a "trade in," the Stearns-Knight with its sturdy chassis and its masterbuilt body presents an appearance of a car that has seen but half the service reported on its speedometer.

At the time when a car could reasonably be expected to be ready for the scrap-heap, the Stearns-Knight, with its wonderful Stearns-built Knight motor, is continuing to perform satisfactory service.

It is not an uncommon thing for a Stearns-Knight to be performing its daily duties for its owner after having traveled a hundred thousand miles.

Stearns-Knight Automobiles are built for long service.

As the miles roll up, the remarkable flexibility of the Stearns-Knight car increases.

The Stearns-built Knight engine runs more quietly, pulls more easily and responds more readily after a season's use than on the day it left the factory.

The traits that have given the Knight motor its right to dominate in the motor field are reflected in the outstanding features embodied in the Stearns.

Stearns Methods provide a degree of satisfactory performance that time does not lessen.

What do you know about tire construction?

Do you know that there are six important fundamental features in a tire?

—that any one of them is just as important as any other one?

—that to overemphasize any one merely furnishes sales talk at the expense of real tire quality?

BRUNSWICK TIRES

In the Brunswick these six essential features are coordinated into one composite, scientifically balanced tire.

Try one and be convinced.

A Hot Spot Chalmers Costs $1685 f. o. b. Detroit

THAT is the price of the five-passenger model.

We have said so little for a long time about price, and so many wealthy men have bought Hot Spot Chalmers that the public has begun to feel that the price is higher than the sum really asked.

It's true it's a quality car, quality all the way through; it looks well when purchased—and four years after—and it often runs 10,000 miles without a penny's outlay.

And it has in Hot Spot and Ram's-horn two devices that lift it entirely out of its price field and make it one of the few great cars of the world today.

It is one of the largest selling six-cylinder cars, it holds the world's 24 hour record, and it has multiplied its friends in all the great centers.

Yet it is not merely a "boulevard car," although it is well dressed; and it is not a "one year car," as it runs even better the second and third year than the first.

The great advance of Chalmers is due to Hot Spot and Ram's-horn.

If you've been driving a $5000 car come in and take one ride.

You'll forget your evening engagement.

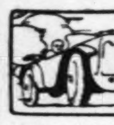
Locust at Jefferson



AUTO NOTES and GOSSIP.

W. J. S. Hemphill has been promoted to the position of wholesale sales manager by the Weber Implement and Automobile Co.

For the past two years he has represented the Weber company in Northeast Missouri in the sale of Maxwell, Hupmobile and Chalmers cars and Maxwell trucks.

Prior to his connection with the Weber company Hemphill was employed by the Maxwell Motor Co. of Detroit in the capacity of district salesman.

Cooper-Higgins Sales Co., 1909 Locust street, announce they have been appointed an authorized service station for Goodyear tires, and that their tire repair equipment will be available to Goodyear users.

The Weber Implement and Automobile Co. has just received a letter from J. A. Gibson, 4458 Swan avenue, that he had returned from a trip to Milwaukee made in his Maxwell car. The trip covered 1130 miles.

He went via Springfield, Peoria, La Salle, Ottawa, Chicago and Racine to Milwaukee, and returned via Lake Geneva, Chicago, Joliet, Bloomington and Springfield.

The total amount of gasoline used for the trip amounted to 48 gallons, an average of 23½ miles per gallon.

He had no punctures, blowouts or adjustments to make on the car throughout the trip.

The car has covered 10,000 miles up-to-date. He has spent but $1.27 for repairs. This repair was for a starting shaft, he wrote.

It is announced that Everett Hunkins will begin the erection of a large garage at 3620 Washington avenue Monday. The building is to cost $30,000 when completed.

During the present year the Cole Motor Car Co., anticipates a total production of 6500 motor cars. Its entire production is devoted exclusively to the manufacture of one chassis—the Aero-Eight—and it is offered with nine different styles of bodies.

The present output of the Cole Motor Car Co. is twice that of any other year in the company's history. Not only is the Cole represented throughout the United States and Canada, but has representation throughout Europe, as well as in China, Japan, Egypt, South Africa, India and in the South American countries.

MAY BUY AN AUTO NOW ON TIME PAYMENT PLAN

A large percentage of automobiles are now sold on the time payment plan, especially the medium and lower priced cars. Most of the dealers require an initial payment of 25 per cent or better and for the balance notes are taken. Some dealers require larger payments than 25 per cent before turning the car over to the purchaser.

By the new plan announced by the Remedial System of Loaning, Inc., a corporation composed of St. Louis business men, with offices in the Chemical Building, a new departure has been inaugurated in the purchase of automobiles of any price on the time payment plan.. According to James E. Powers Jr., secretary and manager, the capital stock of the corporation is $200,000.

By the plan announced a person contemplating the purchase of an automobile is required to pay the automobile dealer 25 per cent of the cost price as a first payment. The balance is then advanced by the loaning company and paid the dealer, permitting him to do his business on a cash basis.

The purchaser from then on transacts his business with the Remedial System of Loaning, Inc., paying back the loan in weekly, bimonthly or monthly payments that may be extended over a period of 12 months, while the purchaser is enjoying the use of his automobile or truck.

The charges aside from interest on the money outlay include insurance against fire, theft or wrongful conversion of the automobile.

The other officers are W. E. Fritsch, president; S. S. Eagle, first vice president; F. E. Smith, second vice president and A. N. Kingsbury, treasurer.

NEW ENCLOSED CARS SOON TO APPEAR

An entirely new line of Paige enclosed cars will shortly make its appearance. Advance reports on these new models indicate that the Paige, which has always specialized on original and distinctive body designs, has something decidedly interesting to offer.

"Judging from reports of dealers throughout the country, most of whom already have waiting lists for enclosed cars, all records for sales of cars of this type will be broken this fall," says James E. Newell, president of the Newell Motor Car Co. "Each year the proportion of enclosed cars sold increases materially because the general all-the-year-round service and comfort these cars offer make a strong appeal.

"This year we have among our new models a seven-passenger, four-door sedan, a five-passenger, four-door sedan on the smaller Paige chassis and a five-passenger coupe built on the larger Paige chassis. The latter model is a new type. The fact that it is much like a semi-sedan and therefore combines many of the advantages of both sedan and coupe will give it a strong appeal.

"In all our new enclosed models we have aimed at designs that are not only original and distinctive, but truly beautiful and I am confident that the new line will be regarded as the handsomest models that have yet borne the Paige name."

MICHELIN

Universal Cord

Michelin—the house that built the first detachable cycle tire, the first pneumatic auto tire, the first successful non-skid, the first demountable rim, and the first universal casing—would not offer a cord tire until absolutely certain that this tire was a distinct advance in tire making.

Michelin Tires are the result of experiments and tests which have been continuous since 1901. They are the result of 17 years of effort.

The Michelin principle of impregnating the cords with rubber gives greater resiliency and longer wear. Add to this advantage the great over-size of Michelin Cord Casings, the superiority of their Universal Treads and the fairness of their prices—and you know why we endorse the Michelin Cord as the best tire for you or any man.

Doctor Issues Warning and Tells How to Stop Tobacco Habit

New York: Dr. Connor, formerly of Johns Hopkins Hospital, says: I am often asked if I know anything to stop the tobacco habit, and I always recommend Nicotol, which I have prescribed with great success. Nicotol contains no habit-forming drugs, is absolutely harmless and produces astonishing results in a very short time. The use of tobacco saps the vitality, vim, vigor and ambition of the slave who is enthralled by its seductive effects. It undermines the health and leaves the victim an easy prey to general debility, throat and lung troubles, nervousness, insomnia, heart trouble, kidney trouble, headache, tongue and lip cancer and even blindness. Physicians the world over often trace the start of the above diseases and many others to nicotine poisoning.

If you want to free yourself from tobacco go to any drug store and ask for Nicotol tablets. Take one tablet after each meal and in a short time you will have no desire for tobacco—the craving will have left you. With the nicotine poisoning out of your system your general health will quickly improve.

Note: When asked about Nicotol tablets, one of our leading druggists said: "It is truly a wonderful remedy for the tobacco habit—away ahead of anything we have ever sold before. We are authorised by the manufacturers to refund the money to every dissatisfied customer, and we would not permit the use of our name unless the remedy possessed unusual merit." Nicotol is sold in this city under an iron-clad money-back guarantee by all up-to-date druggists, including the Judge & Dolph, the Wolff-Wilson and the Enderle Stores.—ADV.

CRAFTS EXPOSITION TO SHOW PROGRESS OF U. S. INDUSTRIES

Automobile Company Will Illustrate Design and Workmanship of Motor Car Manufacture in Large Exhibit.

INDIANS TO MAKE RUGS AND POTTERY

Skilled Foreign-Born Workers of St. Louis Will Demonstrate Processes of Their Native Folk Arts.

The organization of the exhibit departments for the St. Louis Exposition of Industrial Arts and Crafts, opening Oct. 15 at the Southern Hotel Building for four weeks, is being perfected with many of the industrial display features nearing final adjustment as to character, cize and location.

An industrial display which is expected to prove an attraction to a large proportion of the visitors is the exhibit by the Cadillac Automobile Co. of St. Louis along new industrial lines. Three thousand feet of floor space has been acquired in which the design and craftsmanship of automobile manufacture will be shown from the start to the finished produst. The zeal of craftsmanship as shown in this display represents the ideals toward which American industries are progressing.

The St. Louis School of Fine Arts, besides a notable collection of work done by its students, will have looms, Potters' wheels and other art craft tools and machinery, and show these implements in the production of objects designed by the students.

Space and plans for an informative exhibit of the are work of the students in the public schools have been arranged. Robert A. Kissack, supervisor of drawing, will be in charge, with the co-operation of the teachers. This display will include "going exhibits," in which weaving and other art processes will be demonstrated to visitors by boys trained in the public schools.

Theatrical Arts Exhibit.

The Artists' Guild will have an exhibit of the Theatrical Arts, and Clark McAdams, president, has taken for the guild a room suitable for this purpose. A stage will be set up and theatrical settings, showing the advanced stage craft developed by the modern art, will be presented. It is believed that the public will be interested in seeing how far this craft has been advanced by the group of artists of the Little Theater at the Artists' Guild.

The processes of many arts and crafts will be made clear to the public for the first time. The Government exhibit will make this an important feature, and the distribution from the Indian Bureau, to be organized under direction of Commissioner of Indian Affairs Sells, will include Indians making rugs, pottery and other native products.

The art glass exhibit, the plastic art exhibit and the toy exhibit are other departments in which processes of manufacture will be shown to visitors. Several St. Louisans will contribute to this feature. Dawson-Watson will demonstrate the carving of frames and other branches of craftmanship. There will be a demonstration of various folk art processes of countries represented in the foreign-born population of St. Louis. Expert art workers trained in their native countries are now in this city, and they are being asked to contribute to the exposition.

Printers Have Display.

One of the noteworthy examples of exhibit literature was issued Thursday by the Benjamin Franklin Club of St. Louis in the form of a printed brochure on that organization's exhibit of printer's products and processes. The brochure presents a comprehensive and beautiful display. It is intended to instruct all persons who have printing done, and to help the good printer by educating his customers in the conditions of the art. A department also is devoted to the history and literature of the craft.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce has appointed a committee of 12 members for service in the building up of the the new industrial St. Louis, and furthering the exposition and future exhibits of this character by placing themselves at the disposal of the exhibitors, to give information and act as guides and explain the many phases to visitors.

MINERS DEMAND NATIONALIZATION OF COAL INDUSTRY

Resolution Adopted at Convention at Cleveland Calls for Immediate Purchase by Government.

MOTION FOR GENERAL STRIKE IS REJECTED

Body Would Give Right of Way to Nationalization of Railroads, and Carry Plan Into Canada.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 20.—The convention of the United Mine Workers of America today developed its plan for the nationalization of coal mines, which includes purchase by the Federal Government of all private mines at their actual value as determined by Federal appraisers and operation by the Federal Government, with equal miners' representation upon the bodies administering the industry and fixing wages and conditions of employment.

Nationalization of coal mines in Canada is also proposed. The miners offer right of way to nationalization of railroads, provided the railroad brotherhoods pledge themselves to continue the fight with equal vigor for the nationalization of mines. Action was taken by a unanimous rising vote.

The convention further adopted resolutions demanding legislation to take from the United States Supreme Court the power to declare unconstitutional laws passed by the elective Congress; calling upon President Wilson to remove Postmaster-General Burleson as the "uncharitable, harsh and malignant" opponent of labor; and asking for a new trial or full pardon for Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings; the repeal of the espionage act and amnesty for political prisoners.

Strike Proposal Rejected.

It refused, however, to call, as proposed, a general strike and stoppage of all production until all political and industrial prisoners are released, and in its resolution on the espionage act declared that many offenders had been justly convicted for interference with the prosecution of the war and that it had no desire to condone such offenses.

The resolution in regard to nationalization of mines reads in part as follows:

"Coal mining is a basic industry, indispensable to the economic life of the nation and to the well-being of the nation's citizens.

"The all important coal resources of our country are owned and controlled by private interests. Under the prevailing system of private ownership, coal is mined primarily for the purpose of creating profits for the coal owners. The production of coal under this system is characterized by an appalling economic waste. The natural resources of America, and particularly those of timber and coal, are being despoiled under a system of production which wastes from 33 to 50 per cent of these resources in order that t maximum amount of dividends may accrue to those capitalists who have secured ownership of these indispensable commodities.

"We hold that the coal supply of our nation should be owned by the commonwealth and operated in the interest of, and for the use and comfort of all the people of the commonwealth.

"Must Protect Supply."

"The American people of this generation owe a solemn duty to future generations in protecting and conserving with wise administration those great treasures.

"Our coal resources are the birthright of the American people for all time to come, and we hold that it is the immediate duty of the American people to prevent the profligate waste that is taking place under private ownership of these resources, by having the Government take such steps as may be necessary, providing for the nationalization of the coal mining industry of the United States.

"We, the United Mine Workers of America, in international convention assembled, representing the workers who have their lives and the welfare of their dependents invested in the coal mines of the country, do therefore resolve: That we demand the immediate nationalization of the coal mining industry of the United States; That we instruct our international officers and the international executive board to have a bill prepared for submission to Congress containing the following provisions:

For Federal Operation.

"First — That the Government, through act of Congress, acquire title to all coal properties within the United States, now owned by private interests, by purchasing said properties at a figure representing the actual valuation of said properties.

FRAIL MAN TAKEN ON MURDER CHARGE SAID TO BE OUTLAW

Police Identify Prisoner Seized at Family Hotel as Member of Bandit Band That Has Killed 15.

GANG GOT $1,000,000 IN LAST SIX MONTHS

Detectives Say Prisoner Is One of Group That Robbed Banks of Kansas and Oklahoma.

A frail young man with nose glasses, blonde hair combed in a pompadour, and smartly tailored clothing, who was arrested Friday night at the Windermere, a family hotel at Delmar boulevard and Clara avenue, was identified last night by police and Pinkerton detectives as Walter L. Majors, member of an outlaw gang that has killed 15 men, held up 32 banks and stolen money and bonds estimated at more than $1,000,000 in the last six months. Majors himself is wanted on a charge of killing one policeman and wounding another in Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 17, last.

When city detectives and Pinkertons, who had been emphatically warned that Majors was a desperate man, with whom no chances should be taken, swarmed into his room at the Windermere with drawn revolvers, they were considerably surprised to find an apparently mild-mannered person of 24 years, who might have passed as a bookkeeper.

Arm Carries Buckshot.

Closer examination revealed, however, that the young man's right arm was in a sling, and that it contained several buckshot from a police riot gun, and that his effects included two loaded automatic pistols and two extra magazine clips, also filled with cartridges.

He was accompanied by a woman, 21 years old, who at first said she was his wife, but later admitted that she was not. The police matron took $1400 from the woman's stocking, and $200 in gold and currency was also found in the room.

The Pinkertons, who caused the arrest, say that eight members of the gang are now under arrest in Kansas City, partly as a result of the work of United States secret service men, to whom police authorities in Kansas City appealed for help in breaking up the gang.

Banks on the outskirts of Kansas City, and in Kansas and Oklahoma have been kept in a state of apprehension for six months because of the activities of this gang, which contained 12 to 15 members, who never hesitated to "shoot their way out" of any situation that confronted them, according to the Pinkertons.

In a revolver battle with Kansas City police Aug. 17, following a robbery, Policeman Frank Gardner was killed and Policeman John Ford was wounded, police said, and Majors is charged with that murder. Raymond Majors, another brother, now is under arrest in a Kansas City hospital, suffering from bullet wounds inflicted by detectives.

Like James Brothers.

The police say that the record of the band is comparable to that of the James brothers, and is far worse than that of the Dale Jones-Lewis brothers gang. Its specialty was holding up banks and gambling houses, and the loot invariably consisted of cash or Liberty bonds, or both. In a bank robbery at Newton, Kan., in August, $175,000 in bonds was taken.

The arrest of the man said to be Majors and his woman companion was the result of an unusual piece of detective work by H. H. Mosher, head of the Pinkerton agency here.

Mosher received last Thursday from the Pinkerton agency at Kansas City, a Bertillon photograph of Majors and instructions to arrest two men and two women said to be registered at the Maryland Hotel. He was warned to take no chances with them, as the men already had killed several officers.

Finds Trace of Two Couples.

He found that two couples fitting the description had registered at the hotel Aug. 22—five days after the revolver battle in Kansas City, and had remained until Sept. 9. He traced their baggage to Union Station, and there found that some of it had been sent to 5536 Pershing avenue, apartment house district.

Here other tenants remembered a young couple known as "Mr. and Mrs. Conroy," who had leased an apartment a week ago last Thursday, saying that they were motoring from Chicago to Florida. They had departed last Wednesday although they had paid $100 as rent for one month.

Mosher found an expressman who had taken their baggage to the Windermere, and there he discovered they were registered as "G.

FORMER KAISER'S FIELD KITCHEN ON WAY TO AMERICA

Followed German Ruler All Over Europe, but Shows No Signs of Damage.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept 20.—To the collection of war trophies which the Smithsonian Institution is now gathering will be added shortly the field kitchen of William Hohenzollern, late Kaiser of Germany.

German prisoners of war this week loaded the kitchen—which is said to be the most elaborate affair of the kind—aboard a transport at St. Nazaire, France, and it is on its way to Washington, with a large collection of war material of different kinds. The kitchen followed the Kaiser all over Europe while the war was on, to all of the fighting fronts which he visited, but shows no signs of damage, which is taken to indicate that it kept as far to the rear as did its imperial owner.

The Institution, among other trophies, has been given the great war map, on which Gen. Pershing and his staff worked out the strategical probelms which the American armies carried through. It will be housed within the same chamber that it occupied during the war, floor, wall, table, and chairs having been obtained for it. Uniforms of all nations, weapons, airplanes, documents and munitions used in combat constitute the remainder of the collection.

BERKMAN HEARD ON DEPORTATION

Immigration Officials Examine Anarchist in Prison.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 20.—Alexander Berkman, serving a two-year sentence in the Federal Penitentiary here, had a hearing today before immigration officials to determine whether he will be deported.

It is alleged that Berkman, convicted with Emma Goldman for conspiracy to obstruct the operation of the selective draft act, has attempted to continue his propaganda work in jail, and his continued activity made it necessary for prison authorities to segregate him from the other prisoners. Berkman's term expires Oct. 1.

'MILD' GROUP TO FIGHT JOHNSON AMENDMENT

They Urge Lodge to Accept McCumber Reservation; Expected That He Will Reject It.

DEMOCRATS CALL VICE PRESIDENT IN Want Him Present When First Vote on Treaty Comes This Week; Confident of Strength.

By Wire from the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—What is believed to be a final death blow was given today to the Johnson textual amendment to the peace treaty providing for equality of voting in the League assembly as between the United States and the British Empire. The mild reservation faction, in a formal meeting, decided not to support this proposition. They believe sufficient votes can be found to defeat it when it comes up next week.

Senators McCumber, McNary, Lenroot, Colt and Kellogg, met this afternoon and considered all phases of the situation. Their chief attention was given the Johnson textual amendment because it is the first to come up for a test vote. It was determined to support the McCumber reservation, proposed as a substitute for the Johnson amendment. It was held that this covers the objections outlined by the radical element.

As a matter of general principle it was decided by the Senators conferring that no amendment or reservation must be added to the treaty that will necessitate a re-opening of the peace conference. They agreed to vote against all suggestions that would bring such a result.

Notify Senator Lodge.

Later in the afternoon the mild reservationists called at the residence of Senator Lodge and informed him of their conclusions. He was frankly told that they could not vote for the Johnson amendment. They urged him to accept the McCumber reservation as a substitute. If that was impossible, he was notified that it will be offered in the floor of the Senate when the proper parliamentary stage is reached.

Senator Lodge promised to take the matter up with his associates and ascertain their views on the subject. It is regarded as certain that the proffer of the mild reservationists will be rejected and all possible efforts be made to force through the Johnson amendment.

It is declared by those who oppose the roughshod methods of the radicals that at least eight Republicans can be relied upon to vote with the Democrats to reject the voting proposition. These are the ones credited against the Johnson amendment: McCumber, McNary, Lenroot, Colt, Kellogg, Nelson, Cummins and Jones of Washington.

It was said after the meeting of the mild reservationists that progress is being made on the compromise reservations and hopes are entertained for a unification of the Republicans in their support.

Democratic Leaders Confer.

While the mild faction of the Republicans conferred on the Johnson amendment, seeking to encompass its rejection, the Democratic leaders held two conferences that virtually consumed the entire day. The conclusion reached by the Democrats was not to urge a vote on the Johnson amendment, but permit the Republicans to bring it up whenever they see fit. It was admitted that this is the strongest of all the proposed amendments. The opinion was expressed that while the contest will be uncomfortably close, the obnoxious amendment will be defeated by one or two votes.

Republican leaders say that eight Democrats will support the Johnson amendment. This would leave the majority of two, allowing for the defection of eight Republicans. The Democratic leaders do not admit that the desertions from their ranks will equal eight, but realize that possibly four or five will co-operate with the Republicans.

It was the sentiment of Democratic leaders who attended the conferences today that nothing further should be done in the direction of working out a plan for co-operating with the mild reservationists in the adoption of propositions much less drastic than those advocated by the Foreign Relations Committee majority until President Wilson returns from his western trip.

Seek President's Advice.

It was regarded as only fair that the President should be here to give advice and share responsibility. It was agreed that he should be told that it is utterly impossible to ratify the pending peace treaty without the addition of reservations. The view was expressed that the President's moral support in this matter will be

Carson Doubts Wilson's Hope for Irish in League

Ulster Leader Says He Finds It Difficult to See How President Reached His Conclusion.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—President Wilson's attitude regarding the self-determination of Ireland has attracted the attention of Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster leader, who today declared:

"As one anxious to see the league of nations founded to protect the world against the horrors of war, I do not desire to raise difficulties or anticipate decision on questions which must arise in the gradual development of a sound system of jurisprudence under the covenant. Therefore I am reluctant to criticise the President's answer to questions put to him by the San Francisco Labor Council with reference to Ireland.

"Indeed, I find it difficult to understand from the answer given what state of facts with relation to Ireland the President contemplated which entitles any of the contracting parties to raise this question under section 11 of the covenant dealing with peace safeguards.

"I would like, however, in the interest of success of the league, to point out that nothing would more likely lead to its faiure than interference by any of the great contracting parties with the evolution of Government in the realms of the others. The United Kingdom, as a whole, is one of the contracting parties, and in respect to constitutional rights and Government all the units of the United Kingdom stand on an equal basis, none being subordinate to the other, and it is difficult to foresee, therefore, what circumstances can arise which would justify interference by the league in relation to any particular unit.

"If President Wilson means to suggest that, because there is a large population of Irish descent or Irish origin in the United States who sympathize with the claims of the Irish secessionists, this fact threatens to disturb international peace or the good understanding between the United States and the United Kingdom, and that, therefore, the case arises under section 11 of the covenant, I must with great respect enter a protest.

"There would be no end to interference founded on such a plea, which really means that citizens who have adopted a new country carry with them the right to interfere in the affairs of the country of their origin. All naturalized citizens of all countries could raise a similar plea.

"It is not necessary to point out how disastrous the results would be. I believe the league only possible if real good will be shown by it in its infancy and wise men are chosen at the start to administer and evolve its constitution."

Lewis Says Wilson Will Present Irish Demands This Autumn.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Former Senator James Hamilton Lewis, who a few days ago asserted that President Wilson soon would announce himself in favor of socialization of coal, oil and transportation of the nation, today in a letter to Edward F. Dunne, Frank P. Walsh and Michael J. Ryan, the American-Irish commissioners who failed to get Ireland's petition for independence before the peace conference, outlined what he said was "almost a guaranteed" course in the Irish case. He professed to see President Wilson free to present the case of Ireland to the league of nations, when the peace treaty and league covenant should be ratified. He says:

"At the first meeting of the league this autumn in Washington, following the ratification of the peace treaty by the Senate, Woodrow Wilson ceases to be delegate for the United States in a peace conference called to Paris by the allied nations who were at war with the German Powers.

"He then is President of the United States. As such he can present to the league of nations as a member of it for the United States the demands of the Irish-born or Irish-American citizenry of the United States in behalf of their mother country. Ireland, in the full form as they urge it."

SPENCER PREPARES SUBSTITUTE FOR JOHNSON PROPOSAL

Has Reservation Ready to Offer in Senate if Situation Makes It Advisable.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Though not stating that he would vote for or against the Johnson amendment to the treaty of peace, which seeks to give the United States equal representation with Great Britain in the league of nations assembly, Senator Spencer of Missouri, classified in the doubtful column, tonight said that he believed the same result could be obtained through a reservation, and he preferred this course to adoption of a textual change that would endanger the treaty.

As a substitute for the Johnson amendment Spencer has prepared a reservation which he will introduce if the parliamentary situation seems to him to make such action advisable. This is the text of the proposed reservation as now drawn:

"The United States understands that self-governing dominions or colonies or other territories in any degree under the political control of any nation are not entitled to separate representation on the council, but are included in the representation of the nation with which they are thus connected, and the United States expresses its opinion that in the assembly its representation should not at any time be less than the combined representation of any other nation and the representation of such self-governing dominions or colonies or other territories politically connected with or in any degree under the control of such nation, and the United States expresses its intention to insure by every necessary and proper means the representation in council and assembly described in this reservation."

Adoption of this reservation, according to Spencer, would serve the same purpose as the Johnson amendment without causing the international complications that the textual change would involve.

In a speech in the Senate on Sept. 9, advocating the adoption of reservations safeguarding American rights, Spencer said:

"I have no sympathy with proposed changes, under whatever name they may be called, which are offered mainly in the desire and with the intention to kill the treaty or to so complicate the situation as to destroy or endanger its ratification."

Senator Reed, opponent of the league, will support the amendment. Reed tonight finished preparation of an anti-league speech which will consume most of the time of the Senate Monday. This speech, according to his friends, affords the most exhaustive analysis that Reed has yet made of the league as he sees it. A considerable part of the address is a reply to the President's contention that the one vote of the United States in the league assembly is an adequate offset to the votes of Great Britain and her dominions.

BUTLER IS APPOINTED U. R. SUPERINTENDENT

Successor to Bruce Cameron Started Working 30 Years Ago as Mule Car Driver.

Henry O. Butler of 3117 Potomac avenue has been appointed superintendent of transportation of the United Railways, at a salary of $6000 a year, to succeed Bruce Cameron. Announcement of the appointment was made last evening by Col. A. T. Perkins, general manager for the receiver.

Butler is 51 years old. He started working more than 30 years ago as a mule car driver for one of the companies now comprising the United Railways, and was assistant superintendent of transportation when Cameron resigned, last June. Since Cameron's resignation Butler has been performing the duties of the office.

"We have given special attention to Mr. Butler's work since he took over the duties of the transportation department," said Col. Perkins, "and have found it quite satisfactory. The receiver concurs in my opinion that Mr. Butler is the man for the place."

Col. Perkins said recently that there were many applicants for the office, all of whom were given consideration.

Cameron, who is under indictment by the grand jury for alleged complicity in the notorious referendum petitions' burglary, was paid $8000 a year as superintendent of transportation.

When asked if Receiver Wells had reduced the salary from $8000 to $6000 as a matter of economy, Col. Perkins said he had not; that $6000 had been the "regular' 'salary of the office.

UNITED MINE WORKERS PLAN TO AID STEEL MEN IN STRIKE

Resolution Pledging Refusal of Coal to Endanger Success Submitted to Convention.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 20.—A resolution pledging the support of the United Mine Workers to the steel workers in the coming strike, and binding them to refuse to supply coal for any purpose which would endanger the success of the steel strike, was introduced in the miners' convention here today.

Under the rules the resolution went to the Committee on Resolutions for report Monday.

Missouri Peach Crop 139,000 Bushels

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 20.—The Government crop report for Missouri shows that the total commercial peach crop for the year was 139,000 bushels. The total movement of the State was 225 cars. Prices averaged better than $2 per bushel for only fair quality peaches.

BOTH SIDES GET READY FOR THE NATION-WIDE STEEL STRIKE TOMORROW

Company Officials Say They Will Try to Operate Their Plants, but if Sufficient Men Do Not Report They Will Shut Down Until They Can Get Workers.

PRECAUTIONS TAKEN TO KEEP ORDER

Still a Faint Hope in Some Quarters That Conflict Will Be Averted, but Union Official Says There Is No Chance.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 20.—Employes of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company hot mill at Sharon, in session tonight, voted almost unanimously to report for work at midnight Sunday, ignoring the strike order. Daniel T. Haddock, manager of the mill, addressed the men and promised them protection in going to and from work.

Ninety-five per cent of the employes of both the Farrell and Sharon plants of the Carnegie Steel Company promised tonight to be at work as usual Monday morning.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 20.—The eve of the nation-wide strike in the steel industry finds both sides in the contest apparently prepared for the battle. Final arrangements were rushed today, the corporations paying much attention to plans for guarding their property, and the union leaders continuing their intensive campaign to unionize unorganized men. Tonight there seemed to be nothing to do but wait for the test of strength on Monday when the strike will officially begin.

Expressing confidence that the unions have not the power to compel a general shutdown, officials of the United States Steel Corporation and of other steel companies said they will blow their whistles as usual Monday morning, and try to operate their plants. They frankly admit they will do their best, and if sufficient men do not report, which they do not concede, they will shut down until such time as they can command enough men to make it worth while to start up again.

No Talk of Strikebreakers.

There is no talk of bringing strikebreakers into this district in the event the unions cripple or close down the plants.

The strike order affects approximately 200,000 iron and steel workers in the inner aud outer Pittsburg district, between Johnstown, Pa., on the east, and Youngstown, O., on the west.

Union leaders claim that a majority of these men will follow the request of the Steel Workers' National Committee, and refuse to go to work Monday. They assert that not only union men will be in the walkout, but that they will be joined by thousands who are not affiliated with any labor organization.

Municipal and borough officials in many parts of the Pittsburg district today also prepared to meet the situation and have taken precautions to maintain law and order in their communities.

Contest in McKeesport.

Mayor George H. Lysle of McKeesport, who, union leaders complain, has refused to permit labor organizers to hold public meetings in that city, issued a long proclamation calling upon citizens to support the constituted authorities in their efforts to maintain peace.

A number of organizers have been arrested in McKeesport in recent weeks for holding meetings without permits. Labor leaders say they tried to get permits but were refused.

A mass meeting is scheduled for McKeesport tomorrow. The Mayor said it cannot be held. W. Z. Foster, secretary of the steel workers' national committee, said it would take place as scheduled.

Proclamations were issued by various burgesses but were confined to the usual legal form of calling upon all citizens to keep the peace. The Pittsburg police authorities have also laid plans to maintain order around the iron and steel mills within the city limits.

Reports of Special Guards.

A report was circulated today that the United States Steel Corporation was swearing in 10,000 of its loyal employes as special guards to protect property. Corporation officials, following their custom, refused to divulge what police arrangements they are making.

"MOVIE TOWN" GIVES PRESIDENT BIGGEST OVATION OF HIS TOUR

LEAGUE MEANS "DISENTANGLEMENT"

Shouts of Approval Greet His Plea for Early Ratification of the Peace Treaty in His Los Angeles Speech.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 22.—President Wilson completed his week of speechmaking on the Pacific Coast tonight with a monster mass meeting here at which thousands shrieked approval of his plea for early ratification of the peace treaty.

Welcomed to the city by a crowd which densely packed the downtown section, the President was cheered tumultuously everywhere he appeared during the day. Along the line of a 10-mile parade he rode in a din of applause and later at a public dinner cheers greeted his declarations that the treaty should and would be accepted.

At many places during the parade the people crushed out so far beyond the curb that mounted policemen had to make a way for the presidential party, while in the cross streets were massed others thousands who had lost out in the fight for places along the parade route.

Windows, fire escapes and roofs where the President passed were thronged, and at many crossings crowds had climbed to the tops of stalled street cars to see the procession.

In one section 90,000 school children lined the streets. They tried to sing "The Star Spangled Banner," but their voices were drowned in the mighty roar of cheering that surged along as the President came by.

The President on his feet waved his hat in response to the shouts of the crowd. There were many shouts also for Mrs. Wilson, who rode with him, and she was kept nodding her acknowledgement.

Many showers of flowers fell on the presidential car, while from several office buildings confetti and paper streamers were released above the procession. Everywhere in the picture were patriotic decorations, and thousands waving small American flags in a whirling riot of color.

Standing in his motor during the ride, a sedate figure in a cutaway coat and silk hat, the President passed between groups of thousands of Japanese who provided a carpet of flowers for him to pass over. There were clumps of swarthy Mexicans and Cocopah Indians from over the border, bronzed Malays and South Sea Islanders and movie actors without number.

Fairbanks Gets Into It.

There were periods when the President actually divided honors with the agile Douglas Fairbanks, who occupied a conspicuous seat in a motor just behind him. The whole town and most of the adjoining sections of Southern California turned out under instructions to "make it snappy."

As a spectacle the reception in this town eclipsed any produced for the entertainment of the President on this side of the Atlantic.

As the President motored through the crowds more than one woman shrilled a "God bless you, Mr. President."

The apartments occupied by President and Mrs. Wilson at the Alexandria Hotel were fitted out with almost royal trappings. Leading citizens, including the millionaire movie stars, brought their priceless tapestries and other articles of art for the ornamentation suite of five rooms set aside for the use of the President and his wife during their stay. A couple of carloads of fruit and flowers were sent to them with characteristic California prodigality and met instructions to maintain a constant supply.

Cheered by Great Crowd.

When he entered the Auditorium for his night speech he was cheered for more than two minutes by a crowd estimated by the police at 6000. The hall was jammed and outside were thousands who could not get in. Some had been waiting since early morning for the doors to open.

At the Auditorium meeting Mr. Wilson was introduced by Mrs. Josiah Evans Cowles, national president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, who told the crowd that the league must and would become the bulwark of the war-weary world for all time. The "political partisan," she asserted, had no place in a decision of the peace treaty.

The meeting had been advertised as one of strictly non-partisan character, and many of the State's prominent Republicans sat on the platform. Among them were Henry W. Wright, speaker of the California Assembly, and Marshall Stimson, who was campaign manager in Southern California for Senator Hiram W. Johnson in 1910.

The President alluded to an address by President McKinley on the day before his assassination, and asserted that the martyred President's words about arbitration seemed to show he had a prophetic vision on the eve of his death.

Disentanglement Proposal.

Referring to objections that the League would involve the United States in entangling alliances, Mr. Wilson said the League was in fact a proposal for disentanglement.

"What Washington had in mind was exactly what these gentlemen want to lead us back to," he said. "The day of alliance is behind us."

When Mr. Wilson declared it was a matter of amazement that some men were now opposing the League, someone in the crowd shouted, "Shame on them!" and many others took up the cry. There were more cheers a moment later when he declared the treaty was founded on the rights of the weak rather than the power of the strong. It was a people's treaty, he said, not a statesman's treaty.

The peoples of the world, said the President, were tired of the old system of autocratic domination and they would overthrow "it one way or another." Under the League, he added, autocratic governments would be excluded from decent society because only self-governing peoples could hold membership.

"Facts to See Them."

Describing a friend who, he said, "never let the facts get him if he saw them coming first," the President asserted that some men could not now see the facts in the treaty discussion marching upon them.

"My prediction is that the facts are going to see them," he added, while the crowd cheered again, "and make a very comfortable meal of them."

It was an "ugly thing," he asserted, to propose that the United States shape its policy upon the principle of getting all it could at the expense of others.

Article ten, the President characterized as an extension of the Monroe Doctrine to the whole world. He declared there could be no real world rehabilitation unless the universal spirit of unrest was quieted by the establishment of peace.

Without the United States in the League, said the President, there could be no real guarantee of the peace settlement.

Case of Shantung.

Mr. Wilson reviewed at length the history of the German rights in Shantung province: Declaring when those rights were acquired the state of International law was such that President McKinley and Secretary Hay did not even protest but only asked that American trade rights should not be affected. The Hay open door policy, he said, meant "not the open door to the rights of China, but an open door for the goods of America."

Later, said the President, Russia, France and Great Britain obtained similar rights, without any protest from the United States. The peace of Portsmouth, he declared, by which Japan acquired Port Arthur at the end of the Russo-Japanese war, was "exactly similar" to the Shantung provision of the present treaty. Each, he said, gave Japan rights in China which had belonged to her defeated enemy. Great Britain and France "cannot in honor" now violate their secret treaties with Japan, the President declared, and the only way in which the case of Shantung could be bettered was to go to war against France, Great Britain and Japan. He asked whether those opposing the Shantung provision of the treaty were willing to start such a war, and added:

"Their interest in China is not in the interest of assisting China, but of defeating the treaty."

"That's it," and "that's the boy," yelled the crowd, and then there were more cheers.

Under the league, for the first time, he said, China would have a forum before which she could bring her case. He said he felt that all the nations had gone too far in their acquisition of rights in China.

Crowd Replies "No."

Turning to the objection that Great Britain would have a preponderence of voting in the league assembly Mr. Wilson said it was "nonsense" to have any such fear, because the assembly was largely a debating body, white the council made the great decisions. Naming Canada, Australia and India, he asked: "Would you wanta to deprive these millions of a voice in the debate?"

The crowd replied "no" in a great chorus and the President added: "It's a proposition that never has been stated because to state it answers it."

"Speaking unwisely and too soon, the German leaders," said Mr. Wilson, "had revealed her hope that the United States would be separated from the other great powers as it had been impossible to separate her during the war." The crowd stood up and shouted its approval again when he added America is no quitter.

Saying he did not want to see the Republican party "misrepresented and misled," the President declared that when international affairs were at issue there had been neither Republicans nor Democrats.

Reservation to Equalize Vote of U. S. and Britain

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.

THIS is the text of the McCumber reservation which the group of "mild" reservationists have accepted as a substitute for the Johnson textual amendment to the league of nations covenant providing for equality of voting in the league assembly between the United States and the British empire:

"That the United States understands and construes the words 'dispute between members' and the words 'dispute between parties' in article 15 to mean that a dispute with a self-governing dominion, colony or dependency represented in the assembly, is a dispute with the dominant or principal member represented therein, and a dispute with the principal or dominant member, is a dispute with all of its self-governing dominions, colonies, or dependencies; and that the exclusion of the parties to the dispute provided in the last paragraph of said article will cover not only the dominant or principal member, but also its dominions, colonies, and dependencies."

MINERS DEMAND NATIONALIZATION OF COAL INDUSTRY

as determined upon investigation by accredited agents of the Federal Government.

"Secend—That the coal-mining industry be operated by the Federal Government, and that the mine workers be given equal representation upon such councils or committees as may be delegated the authority to administer the affairs of the coal mining industry; of the authority to act upon the question of wages, hours of labor, conditions of employment, or the adjudication of disputes and grievances within the industry."

A third section instructs the international officers to start a campaign to bring the demand for nationalization of mines to the attention of the people and to obtain the support of all progressive elements.

Strike Proposal Rejected.

There was little debate on the nationalization resolution except that caused by a proposal to reserve explicitly in the resolution the right of miners to strike, even under Government ownership. This was rejected as endangering the success of the main issue and as always within the power of the miners, regardless of the law on the subject. The resolutions on behalf of Mooney and political prisoners provoked passionate criticism by those favoring direct action, who condemned the proposed measures as futile.

The miners voted to give medals to all members of the union who served during the war. They asked legislation to prevent the use of state constabulary and armed guards in protecting private interests, declaring strife, riots and bloodshed in all states in which they have been used against strikers; demanded the prosecution of the Chicago packers; favored co-operative stores and the establishment of cold storage warehouses by the federal government, and asked the defeat of the Myers bill against the foreign language press on the ground that it would suppress loyal labor organs published in foreign languages.

of great value and that his influence would count for much in deciding the course of such Senators as may be wavering between the drastic and mild reservations.

The Democrats were unanimous in the belief that the adoption of the Johnson amendment would kill the peace treaty.

Republican Senators tonight are in a state of great irritation and indignation because of a telegram sent out by the League to Enforce Peace. This is the telegram:

"Criss at hand will determine whether America joins league of nations or foresakes allies and negotiates separate peace. Votes for any reservation may require resubmission and endanger treaty. Will you join 99 others in giving $1000 each to League to Enforce Peace, William Howard Taft, president, for immediate use in arousing country to demand prompt ratification in form that will not send treaty back for further negotiation and delay? Challenge RepublicanClaim.

Democratic leaders in the Senate challeneged the claim of Republican opponents that enough pledges had been obtained to secure adoption of Senator Johnson's amendment.

While they expressed supreme confidence and predicted at least 50 votes against the amendment—enough to defeat it—these Senators finally got in touch with Vice President Marshall, insisting that he return in time for the first real vote on the treaty expected next week.

Senator Hitchcock said today that every effort would be made to hasten consideration of the treaty because of the "insistent demand" from business people for final settlement. There was no indication, however, as to how soon a vote might be called for on the Johnson amendment, which will be the first test of strength. This may be expected just as soon as one side or the other figures that the time is ripe from its standpoint.

STRIKE OF STEEL MEN MEANS HALT OF CONSTRUCTION

Added Weight to Building Trades Strikes and Lockouts Too Great a Handicap for Private Initiative.

HOPE IN CONFERENCE CALLED BY WILSON

Architects, Engineers and Contractors Say Losses in Building Industry Since Armistice Exceed Profits.

The prospects for abnormal construction activities during the fall and early winter will go glimmering if the threatened strike of the steel industry materializes and no early settlement of the building trades strikes and lockouts at other centers is had, according to The American Contractor. For this reason the building interests of the country are watching with keen interest developments incident to the industrial conference which has been called by President Wilson to convene in Washington Oct. 6.

At no time since the signing of the armistice has uncertainty been more pronounced in the construction industry than it is right now, the authority mentioned asserts. With the labor situation as it is, contractors cannot bid on work with any assurance that the wage scales on which the bid is based will remain operative until the job is completed. Many of them have found to their sorrow that where they can depend on the wage scale in their own organization, strikes and wage advances in the material field, by curtailing production and increasing manufacturing costs, are boosting material prices so that present bids may mean future losses.

Much of Activity Profitless.

The general public perhaps does not realize the seriousness of this situation. Because construction activities, when estimated in dollars, from Jan. 1 to Sept. 1 have been in excess of the activities in other years, some are disposed to believe that the industry is flourishing and healthy. As a matter of fact, from the standpoint of architects, engineers and contractors, there has been more money lost than profits made, and more jobs have been handled at cost in order to hold together working organizations and construction gangs than there have been jobs handled at a normal profit.

With an unprecedented housing demand, the construction industry has been laboring under serious handicaps and nothing helpful has been forthcoming through Federal legislation or encouragement. Wartime freight rates still are paid by some building materials; the Federal Government, while urging private interests to go ahead with construction work, has refrained from activities in this field to a greater extent than ever before and, to date, Congress has done nothing to encourage the financing of construction loans or the investment of money in real-estate mortgages. While the balance of trade is so great that it is a national embarrassment, Congress is devoting time to a bill to finance foreign trade, while the bills proposing to establish a system of Federal home loan banks and to exempt from the income tax investments up to $40,000 in real estate and building mortgages, two measures of vital interest to prospective home builders, repose in peace with Congressional committees.

Excessive Handicap Impends.

Thus far private initiative has very successfully met the economic handicaps, but if to these are now to be added such a strike as will cut down the output of the steel mills, and if the controversies in the building trades in several important cities are to hang on for any length of time, there is bound to be a very material slump in building activities and this will be reflected, ultimately, in rent advances on the one hand and a scarcity of employment for building trade labor on the other.

For three weeks statistics on construction contracts actually awarded have indicated a falling off in activities from the records of June and July. According to the data gathered in the territory east of the Missouri and north of the Ohio rivers by the F. W. Dodge Company, contracts awarded during the week ended Sept. 6 are of a money aggregate of $37,808,176. This is less than the total in any week since the first of June. For the week ended Aug. 23 the total was $47,294,220, and for the week ended Aug. 30 the total was $53,866,016. Residential building continues to lead the field, the total for the three weeks referred to being $13,980,215.

BIG TOBACCO DEAL PLANNED

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Negotiations looking toward absorption of the American Tobacco Co. by the United Retail Stores Corporation, formed last June by George J. Whelan, are reported to be under way. According to rumors in the financial district the deal would involve at least the amount of the American Tobacco Co.'s capital, which is $50,000,000.

Whelan said he expected to make an announcement next Wednesday which would deal with the American Tobacco Co.

STRIKE BY STEEL MEN IN ST. LOUIS DISTRICT UNLIKELY

Laclede Company Mills Only Nonunion Ones—No Recent Attempt to Organize Them, Official Says.

AGREEMENT HERE RUNS TO JULY 1

Prevailing Wage Scale, Based on Steel or Iron Market Prices, Enables Roller to Earn About $25 a Day.

None of the steel and iron mills or blast furnace workmen in the St. Louis district is likely to be affected by the strike of steel workers to take effect tomorrow, according to Bert Caldwell of 5921 Lucille avenue, vice president of the Ninth (St. Louis) district of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers. Caldwell said that only three mills in this district were not unionized—those of the Laclede Steel Co., at East St. Louis, Madison and Alton, Ill., and that no attempt had been made recently to organize them.

Robert Larner of Granite City, president of the largest steel union local in that town, also stated that no mill in the St. Louis district would likely be affected by the strike, and that no organizers had been sent to this field recently.

"As far as we are able to ascertain," Larner said, "the mills in this district will operate as usual."

Caldwell is also president of Local Union, No. 10, composed of 69 employes of the St. Louis Screw Co.'s rolling mill at 6900 North Broadway. These men are working under an agreement with the company that does not expire until July 1, 1920.

Steel and Iron Wage Scales.

Caldwell gave the union scale for workmen in steel and iron mills throughout the country and explained that wages are determined by the prevailing market price of steel or iron, based on the tonnage turned out by each man. This scale is readjusted every 60 days to conform to fluctuating prices.

For steel, the present wage of rollers is 65.1 cents a ton, based on a market price of $2.50 a hundred pounds. Caldwell, said the roller, assisted by three men, can put out about 50 tons a day, which, at 65.1 cents a ton, is $32.55. From this sum the roller is required to pay half of the wages of his three assistants, which, Calwell said, leaves him about $25 a day for himself.

Based on a production of 30 tons of bar iron a day, Caldwell said, the average workman would earn the following daily wages:

Heaters $21.60, rollers $21.30, catchers $11.40, rougher down $10.20, roughing hook $5.22, finisher $5.07.

A strike order, such as was issued against the Steel Corporation and other mills, Caldwell said, is not designed to affect steel fabricating concerns, such as the Commonwealth Steel Co., American Car and Foundry Co., or other places where steel is not actually manufactured.

BUILDING LABORERS TO VOTE TODAY ON CONTINUING STRIKE

Three thousand striking building laborers will vote at a mass meeting at New Club Hall, Thirteenth street and Chouteau avenue, at 9 a. m. today on whether they will return to work under pre-strike conditions or remain on strike. The men have been out since Monday and demand an increase in wages to 75 cents an hour. The present scale is from 38 to 60 cents.

Agents of the strikers have been suspended from the Building Trades Council because they refused to end the strike. Since the suspension, it has been announced, the Building Trades Council will not oppose the introduction of nonunion laborers where building operations are hampered by the strike.

John H. Taylor, business agent for four of the striking locals, declared yesterday that if nonunion men are put to work the Building Laborers' District Council, the striking organization, will call out 1000 plumbers' helpers and laborers, plasterers, hod carriers and tile and marble setters' helpers. These men are members of the district council, but have been permitted to remain at work.

KING STARTS TOMORROW FOR U.S.

By the Associated Press.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 20.—King Albert received the correspondent of the Associated Press at the Laeken Palace this afternoon and talked of his trip to the United States, for which he and the Queen will depart on Monday.

The King recalled that he visited the United States 20 years ago and spent five months traveling from the Atlantic to the Pacific coasts. "Your educational system has always been most attractive to me and I want to know more about it," the King said. "You not only look after the mental but the physical well-being of youth through your sports and training."

Both Sides Prepare for Nation-Wide Steel Strike

second only in size to the steel corporation in the Pittsburg district, had no information to give out regarding its strike plans.

The plants of the Allegheny Steel Co. and the West Penn Steel Co. at Brackenridge, near here, were closed today to give their employes an opportunity to meet and decide whether they would strike.

Beyond the coming and going of organizers preparing for the holding of mass meetings in all steel communities tomorrow, there was little information to be had at national labor quarters from points outside the Pittsburg district. Secretary Foster said he had no reports from other parts of the country.

Still a Faint Hope.

Despite all the preparations for the strike by both sides there was still a faint hope in some quarters that the conflict may yet be averted. When this was brought to Foster's attention, he shook his head and said there was not a chance of stopping the walkout. President Wilson's name is still frequently heard in the talk of possible intervention.

More than 95 per cent of the employes of the North Works of the Carnegie Steel Co. at Sharon today voted against the projected strike Monday, company officials said. Officials of other steel plants appealed to the Sheriff to arrange for sufficient deputies to handle the situation in the event of trouble.

Foster was also asked whether he knew of steel companies throughout the country fortifying their plants and said that the committee had been reeciving reports for a long time that guns, machine guns and ammunition have been taken into mills from time to time.

The national committee had no direct information this morning regarding the situation in Colorado, where organized men employed in the Colorado Fuel & Iron Co. have been asked to strike. Most of the workers in this company, it is said, are enrolled in the company union known as the Rockefeller plan. Abolition of company unions is one of the demands of the American Federation of Labor.

After a conference with M. F. Tighs, president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, I. M. Scott, president of the Wheeling Steel & Iron Co., announced that the four plants of the company would continue to operate as long as men report for work. Scott said the conference was without result.

LOYAL WORKERS ARE SWORN IN AS DEPUTY SHERIFFS

Thousands in Pittsburg Steel District Said to Be Taking Oath.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 20.—Deputy sheriffs are being sworn in literally by the thousands in the Pittsburg district today in anticipation of the steel strike. Men of known loyalty to the companies are being chosen for this duty, and the spectacle of men actually at work in the mills with the badges of their power pinned on their jumpers will give this contest between labor and capital a distinction belonging to no other in this district.

In the great Edgar Thomson plant of the Carnegie Steel Company at Braddock 2,000 employes were sworn in as deputies. Another 1000 were sworn in at the Clairton plant of the same company, while from the Donora Zinc mill of the American Steel & Wire Co., 900 were sent across country to Washington, Pa., the county seat, to take their oaths and get their badges.

Altogether in the plants of the United States Steel Corporation and its subsidiaries alone plans have been laid for the creation of 10,000 deputies should so great a number be necessary. Six deputies of Sheriff William S. Haddock, of Allegheny County have done nothing else today and will do nothing else tomorrow but swear these men.

The deputies being sworn in today are foremen, bosses of various kinds and workmen whose faithfulness has been tested. The scheme seems not only to be the securing of protection to property but creating a condition under which a striker who sought to interfere with another man's going to work would be interfering with an officer.

Most important of all, however, is the fact that with these men sworn in as deputy sheriffs they will be able to continue at work with greater confidence in their safety than would be otherwise possible. On this basis there has been a complete shift last night in the plans of the Steel Corporation. Last night it declared that where the men "remained loyal" plants would be kept in operation and that where they had to be shut down they would be shut down for good. Today it is announced that all plants will be started up as usual Monday morning, and that they will be kept in operation as long as it is possible to keep them going. In other words, the card on which the operating officials of the corporation are laying their bets is the deputy sheriffs.

The Greensburg and Butler troops of the State constabulary have been moved, respectively into the Monongahela and Beaver Valleys, and have been broken up into patrol groups of fine and ten for each town. A reserve force of 150 troops has been moved from the central and eastern sections of the State to the Greensburg barracks.

U. S. Steel Leaves Combatting of Strike to Plant Heads.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—It was learned at the offices of the United States Steel Corporation today that the methods to be employed in combatting the strike called for Monday morning would be left in a general way to the discretion of the heads of the various plants and subsidiaries. The plans will be governed largely by local conditions.

It is not the intention of the corporation to close all plants where the employes are not 100 per cent loyal to the company. If this policy is adopted in some cases it will be at the discretion of the plant managers or the heads of the subsidiary companies of which the plants are units.

Union Men Say Chicago Independent Company Would Negogiate.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—The first steel company to indicate its readiness to negotiate with the unions, was the Interstate Iron & Steel Co., an independent concern with three plants, employing about 2100 men, union leaders reported today. It was said none of the officials has signified to some of their employes that they preferred to negotiate a settlement.

Officials of other steel companies in the Chicago district were completing plans tonight to combat the strike, while the union leaders renewed their pledge that the strikers would not resort to violence.

Officials of the steel companies were reticent regarding their plans, but it was reported they were prepared to open despite the strike if enough local employes responded to the call already sent out. Other reports were to the effect that the plants were prepared to shut down. Workers remaining loyal to the companies and who report for work Monday will be kept on the pay roll regardless of whether the plants close, it was said.

The Wisconsin Steel Co. plant in South Chicago, an independent concern employing 2,300 men, was reported to have drawn its fires today. Officials of the company said, "We have closed down for repairs." Union workers declared that the closing of the plant was really the beginning of the strike.

Twenty-five union steel and iron organizers have received instructions from John Hd de Young, assistant secretary of the Chicago district, on how to handle the strike, and they have taken up their tasks in Gary, Hammond, South Chicago, Milwaukee, Waukegan, Indiana Harbor and other steel towns involved.

Heads of steel companies stand by their assertion that not more than 15 per cent of the workers will strike, while the union officials declare the tie-up will be complete.

Steel Mills at Cleveland to Make No Attempt to Operate.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 20.—Mills of the American Steel and Wire Co, subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, and employing 50 per cent of Cleveland's steel workers, will close Monday and make no attempt to operate in the event the strike is carried into effect, it was announced today by Stephen W. Taner, superintendent of employes.

Birmingham Plants Will Attempt to Operate.

By the Associated Press.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 20.—Iron and steel workers in the Birmingham district will go out Monday in accordance with plans for a general strike in the industry all over the country, labor leaders announced here today.

None of the steel plants expected to shut down, according to officials, and every attempt will be made to continue operations.

"Organized Riot" Is Alternative, Union Counsel Is Quoted as Saying.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—That "organized capital must meet organized labor or organized riot" is the statement credited today to W. B. Rubin, who is described as being of counsel to the steel workers. Rubin said this meant the Steel Corporation must deal with Fitzpatrick or the I. W. W. Rubin sat last week in Pittsburg at several meetings of the steel workers' organizing committee.

In a statement on the steel situation he said that the union men plan to seek the impeachment of the Mayor of McKeesport, Pa., which has commission government, because that official proposed a law that was passed forbidding public speaking in that city without a license.

"The Mayor proposed this law, voted for it as a member of the Board of Commissioners, signed it as Mayor and then fined alleged violators in his role as magistrate," Rubin said.

"We hope to initiate within a few days inquisitonal proceedings in which Mr. Gary and Mr. Morgan and others will be obliged to go on the stand as witnesses and tell how, where they acquired their holdings and also about the legality of the corporation and its managerent."

TEXAS STORM AREA EMERGING FROM CHAOS

Relief Work Going Ahead Rapidly—Deaths Expected to Total 500.

By the Associated Press.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Sept. 20.—One week of horror for Corpus Christi ended tonight with the city rapidly emerging from the chaos wrought by the terrific storm and tidal wave that swept in from the Gulf last Sunday.

The only hope officials see of a death list not exceeding 500 is in the possibility that there have been a number of duplications, due to more than one report made on bodies found and buried in a certain section.

Known dead, according to the official list compiled by the relief committee, stood at 386 today.

Army relief work in the Corpus Christi (Tex.) storm area will soon be turned over to civil control, a message received today by Quartermaster General Rogers reported. Conditions are improving rapidly and while Maj. J. O. Feiss, quartermaster corps, and a small detachment will remain at Corpus Christi, working under direction of the mayor, the rest of the army personnel will return to San Antonio by Sept. 30.

Fear for Water Supply.

The 4000 homeless, almost all from the North Beach district, have been cared for in every particular, hundreds of them sent to other cities, while the rest were maintained here on supplies and money contributed from numerous sections.

Fears that the water supply of Corpus Christi might be impaired were expressed tonight when it was reported a rise of from 10 to 20 feet was coming down the Nueces River, from which the water supply is obtained, about 12 miles from here.

Noteworthy among the instances of civic relief is the case of the little city of Alice, 42 miles from here, with a population not quite 3000. Fifteen hundred dollars in cash was received almost immediately from Alice and now $1200 awaits call.

Several carloads of oil stoves have been distributed throughout the city to take the place of gas, which is being gradually restored. Ice from surrounding towns has been sent in, ample for all purposes.

The milk supply still is limited and is available to individuals only for children. Fruit is scarce.

Red Cross Asked to Outline Rehabilitation Plan for Storm Area.

City and State officials at Corpus Christi, Tex., have asked the Red Cross to outline a plan of rehabilitation, according to a telegram received yesterday by Alferd Fairbank, manager of the Southwestern Division of the Red Cross here, from A. W. Jones, director of civilian relief in the flood district.

A survey of the flood territory is being made despite high water and lack of boats, according to Jones, and relief stations rapidly are being established in places heretofore not reached. The Red Cross, Jones reports, is now feeding 4000 persons a day in three kitchens in and about Corpus Christi.

Red Cross relief officials, Jones added, are now prepared to give information regarding the lost and missing to relatives and friends.

7-CENT CASH FARE MAY CONTINUE UNTIL SATURDAY

U. R. Does Not Expect Big Supply of Tokens Until Late in Week, General Manager Announces.

INCREASE WORKED WELL, PERKINS SAYS

Only Complaint Reported From Soldiers at Jefferson Barracks — No Marked Effect of Change.

Seven cents will be the cash fare charged by the United Railways Co. today, tomorrow, and probably until Friday or Saturday, it was announced last night by Manager Perkins.

Perkins said he did not expect to receive before the latter part of the week enough of the new fare tokens to provide an abundant supply at all the places designated for their sale. When there is a convenient place for everyone to buy tokens, at 7 for 50 cents or 50 for $3.50, the 8-cent cash fare, and the sale of two tokens for 15 cents, will begin on the cars.

The increased fares, which went into effect at midnight Friday, worked well yesterday, Perkins said. Placards in the cars carried the notice that 7-cent cash fares would be accepted temporarily, the company having decided on this action Friday and having obtained the sanction of the State Public Service Commission.

Complaint From Soldiers.

Only one complaint came to headquarters, the manager said. This was from the Commanding Officer of Jefferson Barracks, who said that the soldiers at the post objected to the new fare, which is an increase from 11 to 14 cents for the trip from the post to points in the city. He asked if any arrangement could be made to carry soldiers in uniform at the former fare. Perkins replied that the company could not make such an arrangement.

Commissioner Bean of the Public Service Commission yesterday dissented from the commission's action in refusing to review its order for an 8-cent cash fare in St. Louis. He caused a notation in the record, stating that he believed the adult street car fare should not exceed 7 cents. Bean dissented from the commission's order establishing a 6-cent fare last year, and he recently dissented in part from the commission's order for an increase in gas rates in St. Louis.

City to Continue Fight.

Associate City Counselor Hamilton said that within 20 days the city would apply for a writ of certiorari in Circuit Court in St. Louis, and would continue to fight the 8-cent fare, if necessary to the United States Supreme Court.

Hamilton outlined the probable future course of the dispute as follows:

It will be admissible to the Circuit Court upon a writ of certiorari, under which the Court will review the eveidence without new testimony, to determine the justice of the commission's award. If the ruling should support the award, the city would appeal to the Missouri Supreme Court on the clause of the State Constitution conferring upon municipalities the right of contract for street car fares, this city's contract being for 5 cents fare. If, on the other hand, the Circuit Court should support the city's contention, the company likely would appeal.

This contingency would necessitate the giving of refund slips to street car riders while the case was in process of decision. If the Missouri Supreme Court decision should be against the city, then appeal to the United States Supreme Court would be made on the basis of the constitutional provision for the inviolability of contracts.

No Marked Effect of Increase.

No marked effect of the increased fare appeared yesterday, either in the number of pedestrians on the streets, the number of straphangers in the cars in rush hours or the number of passengers on steam railroad lines to suburban points in St. Louis County. The rates from some suburban points to Union Station, for purchasers of coupon books, are slightly less than the new trolley fares, but the passengers must walk from the station to their places of employment, or pay another fare.

At St. Charles many persons bound for St. Louis walked across the highway bridge and took the car on the St. Louis County side of the bridge. In this way they saved 12 cents, and got to Wellston by paying three 7-cent fares, or 21 cents. The fare from Wellston to St. Charles, including bridge fare, was formerly 25 cents. The number of pedestrians on the bridge was much larger than the usual number. The St. Charles line is part of the United Railways system.

Alexian Brothers' Golden Jubilee.

The Alexian Brothers' Community will observe its golden jubilee, or fiftieth anniversary, Oct. 2. Archbishop Glennon will celebrate pontifical mass on that morning in the chapel of the Alexian Brothers' Hospital, 3933 South Broadway, and the Rev. Father Charles L. Van Tourenhout of Ste. Genevieve will preach. The institution was founded in 1869 by Brother Peter, with four other members of the order.

Alleged Murderer and Woman Taken With Him by Detectives

"MRS. G. W. VANMYRE."

"G. W. VANMYRE."

FRAIL MAN TAKEN ON MURDER CHARGE SAID TO BE OUTLAW

W. Vanmyre and wife, of Chicago," and that "Vanmyre" represented himself as a traveling salesman from Chicago.

Then Mosher called on the police for aid. More than a dozen detectives were in the squad that quietly filtered into the Windermere Friday night, and unobtrustively took up stations at fire escapes, windows, doors, stairways and at every place where the guest could possibly make an exit. Guests were quietly warned to get out of the way.

With pistols ready, Mosher and several detectives knocked at the door of the "Vanmyres' " room. The woman opened it slightly, and the detectives hurled their weight against it, bowling her over. The man was covered before he could move from the bed.

The couple bore many evidences of prosperity, especially in the matter of clothing. The man had 10 suits and 15 hats and caps, and the woman had a number of expensive dresses and furs.

Woman Won't Tell Name.

He insisted that he was G. W. Vanmyre, and the woman declared that she was Pauline Vanmyre, his wife. They said he was a traveling salesman. Later, at Police Headquarters, the woman admitted that she was not Mrs. Vanmyre, and said she lived in Kansas City. She emphatically asserted that she would not tell her name.

"Just call me Mrs. Vanmyre—that'll do you," she said. Both took their arrest calmly. The man refused to answer the detectives' questions. He was shown the Bertillon photograph, which appeared to be a close likeness of him, except that Majors wore a "Charlie Chaplin mustache" when it was taken at Cedar Rapids, Io., in August, 1917, whereas the prisoner now is smooth-shaven.

He looked at it coolly. "You're just wrong; it's not my picture," he remarked, turning away.

He said the wounds in his arm were due to tuberculosis, but when detectives hooted that statement, he said he was shot in a gambling house in Chicago recently.

Last night a wire was received here, from the Kansas City Pinkerton agency, stating that Majors had a bullet scar in his left breast. Such a scar was found on the prisoner. A charge of murder was placed against both of them.

Following the robbery and the shooting of the policemen in Kansas City Aug. 17, an appeal was made to secret service men to help round up the gang, which by that time had robbed thirty banks within three months.

The secret service operatives arrested a number of men, and held them in hotels while they questioned them. Then, on Sept. 5, a gambling house at 1309 Grand avenue, Kansas City, was held up and "shot up" by a gang, and another revolver fight with police ensued in which two of the bandits and one policeman were wounded. The wounded robbers were captured, and one of them was Raymond Majors.

Others of Gang Arrested.

Other members of the gang were then arrested. Among them were twin brothers by the name of Poffenderberger, who gave their first names as Major and Minor. A physician was arrested, charged with disposing of the stolen Liberty bonds. Walter Majors had left the city, the detectives say, and is believed to have been stopping at the Maryland Hotel here when the robbery occurred.

The fact that this gang worked in large numbers and usually dressed alike, led the St. Louis police last night to suggest that it may have been the gang of eight men who held up the Baden Bank here several months ago. Those robbers never were captured. They all wore raincoats and caps.

The Pinkertons are employed by the banks, and have a record of 32 banks robbed by the Kansas City gang in the last three months. However, they say, the activities of the gang began about six months ago. Large rewards have been offered for the capture of the members.

Bank employes and deputy sheriffs, as well as policemen, were among the 15 victims of the outlaws.

Believed to Have Been Member of Dale Jones-Lewis Brothers Gang.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 20.—Walter Majors is believed by police here once to have been a member of the Dale Jones-Lewis brothers gang.

The last encounter between the gang and police was Sept. 5, when three of the robbers robbed and "shot up" a gambling house run here by Harry Truesdell. As they were departing, policemen appeared, and a desperate battle in an alley followed, in which Raymond Majors and Edward Adams, of the gang, were wounded, and one policeman was shot. Detectives left here tonight for St. Louis to bring the prisoner to Kansas City.

COMPANY TO OFFER MILK AT 1 CENT UNDER DEALERS' PRICE

New Dairy Concern Proposes to Cut Down Operating Costs by "Bunched Distribution."

Milk will be sold by the Independent Dairy Co., newly organized in St. Louis, at 1 cent less for each quart or pint than is charged by other distributers, according to a statement given out yesterday by Charles J. Perrot of 3416 Arsenal street, manager of the concern. Deliveries will begin Oct. 15.

Perrot and Wilfred Rudicker of 4054 De Tonty street so far are the only members of the concern.

Perrot said yesterday that "bunched distribution" alone will be depended upon to cut the cost of operation enough to make the reduced price possible. Delivery routes will be extended as little as possible at first, cutting distribution costs. At present the Independent is campaigning for customers only in the neighborhood bounded by Jefferson avenue and King's highway and by Lafayette avenue and Utah street.

Milk will be collected from the Missouri and Southern Illinois producers and will be pasteurized, until a plant can be built here, by a dairy in Carondelet.

Any drop in prices of other distributers will be met by a corresponding drop by the Independent, Perrot says.

300 G. O. P. WOMEN AT UNION HEAR ST. LOUIS SPEAKER

Chairmen Appointed for School Districts of Franklin County in Organization Campaign.

Miss Alma Sasse of the Warwick Hotel, chairman of the Republican Women's State Committee, returned last night from Union, Mo., where she spoke before 300 women who had met to organize the Republican women of Franklin County. This was the best attended meeting that has been held under the auspices of the State Committee, although 250 women have attended the ward meetings in St. Louis.

The meeting at Union was one of the first planned for the rural districts by the State Committee, which intends to have all of the Republican women of the State organized by Jan. 1, 1920. A meeting will be held at Drake in Gasconade County tomorrow.

Chairmen were appointed for the school districts of Franklin County. These women will meet next week with Mrs. Lillian Lewis of St. Clair, county chairman and State Committeewoman, who presided at the meeting yesterday.

No policies were formulated at the meeting. The league of nations was the subject of one talk, but no action was taken on the question. Miss Sasse's topic was "Woman's Part in Politics." Mrs. Roscoe Kimball of Moberly spoke on "Organization."

PLUMB PLAN HAS 8500 ADVOCATES ENROLLED IN CITY

St. Louis Leads Nation on Lists of League Formed to Fight for Public Ownership of Railroads.

ORGANIZATION HAS 250,000 MEMBERS

Missouri Is Second State With 25,000—Leaders Say They Will Carry Issue Into Congressional Elections.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—What is beyond doubt the most extensive and best organized politics-propagandist organization in the United States, except one, now is engaged in an effort to bring about the adoption of the Plumb plan of railway control advocated by the railway brotherhoods and organized labor generally.

The one exception is the Anti-Saloon League, whose efficient and persistent methods enabled a highly organized minority to fasten prohibition on the country. It is an exception for the time being only. If the Plumb plan league carries out its far-reaching plans of organization, as there is every indication that it will, it will have no peer in the field of propaganda.

Lest there should be misunderstanding of their purposes, officials of the Plumb plan league at Washington headquarters do not like to compare their strategy with that of the Anti-Saloon League. They frankly admit, however, that they are going to take their fight into politics and endeavor to elect Congressmen favorable to the Plumb plan. They will seek to do exactly what the Anti-Saloon League did so successfully. And they expect to win. It may take two years, it may take 10, but they say they intend to keep everlastingly at it until a Congress is elected that will vote the Plumb plan into operation.

The league recognizes that it will get nothing from the present Congress. It has never expected to, for Congress, as now constituted, is hopelessly against the scheme. The league, officials say, has not even taken the trouble to count noses, contenting itself for the present with peppering the Congressmen with literature and with carrying on its organization work throughout the country. It is not the present Congress but future Congresses that the league is concerned with.

Build Up Organization.

The central idea of the league at present is to build up an organization throughout the country and crystalize public sentiment in favor of the league to the end that political pressure may be brought to bear when and where it is needed. Branches of the league will be formed in every large community of the United States and these will be linked up into State and Congressional district organizations.

Union labor will form the nucleus of most of the branches, but the league expects large accessions of members from all walks of life. Charles M. Kelley, assistant manager of the bureau here, said: "We intend to use every legitimate constitutional method. Openly and above board we shall play the political game. When a Congressional district is organized we shall be in a position to give trouble to a Congressman unfriendly to the league."

The league now has 250,000 members, 10 per cent of whom, according to Kelley, are from the general public outside the ranks of organized labor. Missouri, with 25,000 members, has a larger representation than any other State except Pennsylvania, in which concentrated organization work has been carried on. The city of St. Louis, with 8200 members, outranks all other cities without exception.

The response in Missouri, Kelley said, has been purely voluntary, no speakers having yet been sent to that State.

Plan Western Campaign.

Plans of the league call for early intensive organization of the tier of States from Pennsylvania west to Missouri. The league will then strike out into the Northwest. Glenn E. Plumb, author of the plan, who now is touring the country in its advocacy, will be in St. Louis again in October.

Funds for carrying on the propaganda, as was told exclusively in last Sunday's Post-Dispatch, are obtained from the membership fees which, for individuals, are $1 annually and for "lodges"—any organized group—$10. In return for his fee each member receives "Railway Democracy," a weekly newspaper published by the league, which goes also to legislators, newspapers and libraries throughout the country. A record of all memberships is kept at headquarters. This will be classified by committees and states and the result shown on a "war map," so that at any given time the league officials can view their strength at any place and adjust their campaign accordingly.

On occasion the call will go forth for political action. The league officials express confidence that members who are willing to pay a dollar to get the literature of the league can be aroused to "militancy" when the need demands. The league, say officials here, will remain a separate and distinct entity for the sole purpose of securing adoption of the Plumb plan. It will not interfere with the internal workings of the unions, but will only seek to utilize their existing machinery.

In other words, they disclaim any intention of seeking to form "one big union" or of promoting a separate labor party. They are interested in solidifying labor only in so far as advocacy of the Plumb plan is concerned. Efforts in this direction already have borne fruit, they say, in demonstrating to different labor groups their mutuality of interest.

For instance, the miners, heretofore an aloof body, have lined up with the railway workers. Not only all labor organizations, but the farmers, will be solicited to come in under a common banner. Plans are now maturing for a special women's organization.

The campaign is being directed from Washington headquarters. Here are 46 workers—clerks, typists and publicity experts—under the direction of Edward Keating, former Congressman from Colorado, and Assistant Manager Kelley. The treasurer of the national organization is W. P. Neville of St. Louis, formerly an official of the Railway Clerks' Union.

Plumb has his offices here and the chiefs of the railway brotherhoods gather at the headquarters for conferences when in Washington.

Press Agents Were Active.

A few weeks ago the Plumb plan was comparatively unknown. Suddenly it came forth on the front page of every newspaper in the United States and it has been there intermittently ever since. The credit is due the Washington organization. For weeks it had been laying its plans with the idea of starting its drive in October. When the House Interstate Commerce Committee started its hearings before the expected time, however, the publicity organization was ready with its blast.

It did the most effective job of press-agenting that Washington, which swarms with press agents, has ever seen.

What it did then is a sample of the efficiency with which it expects to "put across" the Plumb plan.

In addition to its press agents the league has a research bureau, a statistical bureau and a lecture bureau, which now has a corps of speakers and organizers at work throughout the country. All those branches will be increased. Another of the league's activities has been the organization of the National Council of Democratic Control of several hundred members, including former Gov. Joseph W. Folk of St. Louis and Frank P. Walsh of Kansas City, who, with former President Taft, was joint chairman of the War Labor Board.

The railroads are generally expected to go back to private control at the end of the year. By that time the league's organization will be in shape to give effective political battle to its opponents.

DOUMER FAVORS FRENCH PEACE TIME ARMY OF 350,000 MEN

Former Minister of State Makes Recommendation to Senate Committee—War Army of 4,000,000.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Sept. 20.—A peace time army of 350,000 men and reduction of the term of military service from three years to one, are recommended to the military committee of the senate in a report submitted yesterday by Paul Doumer, its president, former Minister of State. Under his plan, 200,000 men would be called to the colors annually by conscription and 150,000 others recruited through voluntary enlistment.

Asked to prepare a report with recommendations, Doumer's reply was that after the ratification of the peace treaty it will be safe for France to take two years off the term of obligatory military service. This would reduce the effective strength of the army below the point of prudence, he said, but the difference could easily be made up, in his opinion, by voluntary enlistments.

This system would make the French army on a war footing total 4,000,000 men, divided into an active army of 1,300,000 men, 700,000 reservists and 2,000,000 territorials.

2594 ARTICLES KNITTED BY WOMEN IN CITY SANITARIUM

Superintendent in Annual Report Says 1308 Inmates Are Engaged in Useful Work.

Superintendent Johns of the City Sanitarium states, in his annual report, that 1308 inmates are engaged in useful work, and that 2594 articles were knitted by the women patients for the Red Cross during this fiscal year. The cost per day for each patient is 55 cents, and the total cost for conducting the sanitarium with a daily average of 2440 patients was $395,198.78, which was $2791.22 less than the appropriation.

The report shows there were 113 more female than male inmates April 1, 1919. On that date 1134 were male and 1247 were female inmates. April 1, 1918, there were 1185 males and 1268 females.

During the last fiscal year 788 patients were admitted to the sanitarium, 404 men and 377 women, including two past 90 years of age.

Deaths reported were 456. Of the deaths 120 were caused by influenza. A total of 772 patients had influenza.

Thirteen Austrians, 55 Germans, 16 Irishmen, 12 Russians and 616 Americans were admitted to the institution this year.

$250,000,000 for Redemption Work.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Favorable report was today unanimously ordered by the Senate Irrigation Committee upon the bill by Senator Jones of Washington, to appropriate $250,000,000 for the completion of reclamation projects now under way as well as for the construction of such new ones as the reclamation service may think feasible.

WRECK OFF KEY WEST PROBABLY MISSING SHIP

No Survivors of 488 Passengers and Crew of Valbanera Have Been Found.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KEY WEST, Fla., Sept. 20.—Inspection of the vessel lost between this port and Havana in the recent hurricane today convinced Rear Admiral Decker, commanding this naval district, that she is the Spanish steamer Valbanera, which carried 400 passengers and a crew of 88. No survivors have been found.

The Valbanera, bound from Spanish ports to Havana, was last heard from on the night of Sept. 8, when she appeared off the entrance to Havana harbor. Yesterday a steamer bearing that name but reported by divers to be only half as large as the missing vessel was found sunk 40 miles from Key West.

There were no bodes in the vicinity of the wreck and nothing to indicate what had become of the 300 passengers and 150 members of the crew.

Further examination is expected to show whether those on board got away in small boats. Most of those on the ill-fated steamer were Spaniards or Cubans.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The Havana agents of Pinillos, Izquierdo & Co., owners of the missing steamer Valbanera, sent the following cable message here today: "Steamer Valbanera sunk near the Rebecca Shoals, 30 miles west of Key West. Neither ship nor passengers can be found."

Members of the firm said, however, that they were not satisfied that the ship was lost. They recalled that a year and a half ago the Valbanera disappeared during a severe storm and arrived safely at Havana 14 days later.

Steamer Missing Since Sept. 2.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The shipping board steamer Lake Conway, which sailed from Philadelphia Sept. 2 for Havana, coal laden, has not been heard from since her departure. Th Navy Department was requested today to make a search for her. The Lake Conway carried a crew of 31.

EAST ST. LOUIS & SUBURBAN RATES TO INCREASE TODAY

Three Cents a Mile, Except on Belleville Division, and Fares From St. Louis Are Unchanged.

The East St. Louis & Suburban electric railway system today begins to charge increased rates on all its interurban lines out of East St. Louis. Except in the case of the Belleville division, these rates are on a basis of 3 cents a mile.

The company has not increased rates from St. Louis to the various points on its lines. As this is interstate transportation, the company cannot change rates without the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Permission to do so has been asked for.

For the present the fare between St. Louis and the various towns reached by the East Side system is considerably less than from East St. Louis to those points. The rate from East St. Louis to Lebanon is 60 cents. From St. Louis to Lebanon it is still 35 cents. There are similar discrepancies between the rates from East St. Louis and from St. Louis to the other towns on the system.

The company has added 11 cents to the fare between East St. Louis and Belleville, making an additional 6-cent fare zone between East St. Louis and Edgemont, and an additional 5-cent zone between Edgemont and the Belleville public square.

HAYS SEEKS ACTION IN CONTEST

Republican Chairman Asks for Consideration of Attack on Bland.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—One of the missions which brought Chairman Will H. Hayes of the Republican National Committee to Washington this week was to urge that speedy action be taken on the contest to unseat Representative William T. Bland of the Fifth Missouri (Kansas City) district, in favor of his Republican opponent, Albert H. Reeves, who alleges that Bland profited by election frauds in Kansas City.

Republicans in the Missouri delegation, led by Representative Dyer of St. Louis, are asking the committee to report a resolution providing that a sub-committee be sent to Kansas City to investigate. Their hope is not so much to unseat Bland, who was elected by a large majority, as to uncover frauds which, it is alleged, have long been practiced by the Kansas City Democratic machines.

GENTRY URGED FOR CONFERENCE

Missouri Livestock Producers Want Him at Industrial Discussion.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 20.—The Missouri Livestock Producers' Association is urging the appointment of W. H. Gentry of Sedalia to the conference of wage earners and employers at Washington in October under the call by President Wilson.

Dean F. B. Mumford of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture is urging upon President Wilson and the Secretary of Agriculture the special need for adequate representation of livestock producers. Gentry was a member of the Agricultural Council which acted in an advisory capacity to the Food Administration and the Department of Agriculture during the war.

PETROGRAD SOVIET REPORTED TO HAVE ASKED FOR PEACE

Said to Have Empowered Commissaries to Begin Negotiations on Allies' Conditions.

By the Associated Press.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 20.—The city Soviet of Petrograd has empowered the people's commissaries to begin peace negotiations with the allies on the basis of conditions fixed by the allied Powers, according to reports received here from Petrograd.

No peace offer to the Allies has been reported from the central soviet government at Moscow, and an offer by the Petrograd city soviet would appear to be in the nature of a separate peace proposal by the Petrograd district.

The Petrograd section is the most important region of soviet Russia exposed to hostile attack, and it has been under threat for a considerable period through operations by the Esthonians, Letts, Lithuanians and Finns.

At one period a hostile attack was driven to within little more than fifty miles of the city on the east and for a time there seemed a possibility that the campaign against the Bolsheviki in North Russia might bear down upon the former Russian capital. The decision by the British, however, to withdraw their forces from north Russia apparently eliminated this latter possibility, although it was hinted in London that there might be a plan under way for the British to "withdraw" through Petrograd.

This suggestion was revived by a London dispatch summarizing a war office statement which reported a successful operation by British, Serbian and Russian troops on Lake Onega, about 250 miles northeast of Petrograd, adding that the Allied activity was regarded in some quarters as indicating a movement toward Petrograd and possibly confirming the suggestion that it was the intention to evacuate the Archangel district by that route.

PRESIDENT REFUSES OFFER OF VOTE FOR 1920 WITH A LAUGH

"I Am Not Hankering for Trouble," He Tells Republican Admirer at California Town.

By the Associated Press.

ON BOARD PRESILENT WILSON'S SPECIAL TRAIN, Sept. 20.—When the presidential special stopped for a few minutes at Oceanside yesterday an old man told Mr. Wilson that he was for the league of nations and added, "I am a Republican, but I voted for you last time and I will vote for you again."

"No, I am not hankering for trouble," replied the President with a laugh.

"Well, it looks like you are the only one who will stand for American principles and you have already borne more trouble than any other man," the old man persisted.

At his sally the President merely smiled and directed his attention to a group of boys on top of a freight car. "Hello, gallery," he called out.

The crowd cheered when the President appeared on the platform of his car "Mayflower" and men and women called for Mrs. Wilson, who came out and bowed.

The President was smiling at the reception accorded the "first lady of the land," when one man in the crowd said in an audible whisper: "I don't wonder he smiles."

HURRY CALL SENT TO REINSCH

Retiring Minister to China Instructed to Report at Washington.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—When Paul S. Reinsch, who recently resigned as American Minister to China, reached Tokio en route to the United States, he found instructions awaiting him to report here as soon as possible. The instructions were sent by the State Department. President Wilson is understood to have directed this action.

The retiring diplomat is fully informed regarding conditions in China, political and economic. It was he who suggested the organization of the proposed new consortium of bankers in the United States, England, France and Japan, for extending loans to China. Recent advices received here indicate that the national spirit is developing in China to a degree not known heretofore, due to trouble that is chiefly economic and financial.

TRUSTED BOYS STEAL $1,000,000

New York Stock Exchange Firms Seek to Check Thefts.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Members of the Stock Exchange firms and officials of surety companies conferred today on steps to check the epidemic of bond robberies within the last six months which has resulted in the loss of approximately $1,000,000 through trusted messenger boys.

PRINTERS' SALARIES GO TO ATTORNEY-GENERAL

Commission Asks Whether State Can Allow Extra Money for Work on Contract.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 20.—An effort to allow the State Printer extra money to increase the pay of his proofreaders and printers failed temporarily today when the State Printing Commission sidestepped the issue by referring the whole matter to Attorney-General McAllister.

Hugh Stephens, State printer, did not make the request for more money in person, but a committee of his employes waited on the commission, composed of Secretary of State Sullivan, Treasurer Middelkamp and Auditor Hackmann. They declared they had demanded an increase in wages of 10 per cent, and that Stephens had told them he could not increase their wages unless the State would pay him more than the contract rates.

Stephens obtained the contract on a bid, May 8, 1918, in competition with other bidders. The life of the contract is six years. Stephens has held the contract for many years, and has grown wealthy and built up a large printing establishment here.

The committee told the Printing Commission Stephens is said to have lost money last year on the State contract. Because the revised statutes will have to be printed next year, the committee said his loss next year will be still larger.

Auditor Hackmann called attention of the committee to the fact that the terms of the contract are the maximum which can be paid for State printing under the statute, except on two classes of work.

Sullivan said he was afraid a contract was a contract, for better or worse, and the Public Service Commission had no power to set this contract aside. The committee suggested that the commission increase the allowance for proof reading and certain kinds of press work so that Stephens might realize a profit on the contract, and also be able to pay the 10 per cent increase in wages.

Hackmann moved that the whole question be referred to the Attorney-General for an opinion, and the commission "passed the buck."

MAN WHO SAID ROBBER SHOT HIM ADMITS HE WOUNDED SELF

Tells Detectives at City Hospital That He Was Disgusted With Life; Wounded Twice.

Vere Byers, 21 years old, 1141 Park avenue, a clerk, who told the police that he was shot Friday night by a highwayman, in an alley on Ninth street, between Clark avenue and Spruce street, admitted to detectives at the city hospital yesterday afternoon that he had shot himself in an effort to end his life.

Byers was suffering from bullet wounds in the left thigh and shoulder when policemen saw him stagger from the alley at 11:30 p. m. He said he had resisted an order to throw up his hands, and that a highwayman had shot him. A revolver with two empty shells was found in the alley, but no trace of a highwayman.

At the hospital yesterday afternoon Byers said he had been working for the American Railway Express Co until Friday when he resigned. He said he was disgusted with life.

AMENDMENT TO ZONING LAW WOULD CHANGE YARD PROVISION

Director of Public Safety Would End Requirement Leaving 15 Per Cent of Lot Free.

Director of Public Safety McKelvey is drafting two new amendments to the zoning law which have been approved by Mayor Kiel and E. J. Russel, Chairman of the City Plan Commission, and will be submitted to the Board of Aldermen Oct. 17.

The most important amendment eliminates the provision in the existing ordinance requiring 15 per cent of the lot area upon which a building is erected to be used for a rear yard or courtways and provides that in the industrial and commercial districts 100 per cent of the lot can be built upon.

Another, which applies only to building on corner lots permits buildings to be erected of uniform height, governed by the width of the street which they face. The present ordinance, restricts the height of a building to the width of the street upon which it borders, though a portion of the building may be on a wider street.

NATION AT CROSS ROADS OF DESTINY, SAYS JOHNSON

Senator Argues at Minneapolis World Is Now Unable to See as Clearly as at Other Periods.

"WE HAVE NEVER BEEN ISOLATED"

In Address Against League He Charges Balfour, Viviani and Ishii Were Guilty of Duplicity.

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 20.—With three addresses in the Twin Cities today, Senator Hiram W. Johnson concluded his speaking trip through the Middle West opposing the ratification of the League of Nations' covenant in its present form. At noon he addressed a large gathering at the Metropolitan Opera House in St. Paul and at 4 p. m. he spoke to the Lincoln Club in Minneapolis.

Tonight the climax of a strenuous day of speech-making was reached when he addressed a mass meeting which packed the Armory in Minneapolis. Many were turned away unable to find standing room. Johnson's speech in part follows:

"I feel very keenly that our nation stands today at the cross roads of its destiny. The document that has been presented to us and which we are asked to make a part of our great nation comes to us at a time most peculiar in our history. We have a singular, physchological reflex from the world war, working on the lives of the people. With distorted intellects, nations are unable to see with the same clarity of vision as at other periods.

His Vote for War.

"I cast my first vote in the United States senate for the direct declaration of war.

"I remember sitting in my seat and seeing Balfour of England come from the side door and mount the rostrum of the Senate. For the first time—so tender is the Senate of its precedents—for the first time since Lafayette stood there, Balfour was the only foreign diplomat to address that body. I remember him telling how he and his people were fighting the war for the same things we were, for democracy of the world; I heard Viviani of France; I didn't understand him, but the musical eloquence of his words was apparent; he told us in like altruistic tenor how he and his countrymen were struggling that democracy might be made safe."

"I heard Ishii of Japan and Undine of Italy talk from this same rostrum. My heart throbbed and my eyes strained, during those fateful moments, while they were talking to us in idealistic phrases, and during the very time they were talking to us their pockets were bulging with secret treaties made before we had entered the war, traties which disposed of the peoples and territories of the earth, and which portioned the earth's surface; but they never mentioned them to Senator or Congressman, or to the President, or the Secretary of State, never lisped a syllable of their existence, and the President told us he never heard of those secret treaties until he reached Paris.

"That Sort of Duplicity."

"I wouldn't stop to characterize this sort of duplicity and double dealing, but I say that when we have had that sort of experience, with the men in whose power we are about to place ourselves under this treaty, we ought to know just what we are going to do before we undertake it.

I have no prejudice against our English brother. I admire him immensely, I admire the ability with which Lloyd George represented the British empire. I would that we could have hired somebody to represent America who could have served our interests as well.

"Fighting for Ideals."

"What a proud boast it was that he made to his Parliament the other day when he said he had added to the great British empire 800,000 square miles of territory. What a proud thing it was when he said to them, 'We have so arranged it now that whenever we are called into any war the United States enters automatically.'

"But as I look about the nations of the world who are profiteering from the war, I find one nation fought for its ideals. As Lloyd George, with his tremendous territorial gains, and Clemenceau, with his, looked about to find one great unprofiting nation of the world. They saw before them America, and they wrote into that pact that this nation should guarantee to England, to Italy, to France, to Japan, all their acquisitions from the war; and safeguard forever all these nations that profited so immensely in territories and peoples. We alone received burdens from the war; and while you may not care for the acquisition by these countries of the great territories and peoples they have received; while I may not care at all, and probably do not care, one thing I say to them: If you want to take the territories for which you have fought and which are your boast today of your power and greatness, and all the great things you have done; we join with you in the peans of praise; but my fellow citizens, my son and your son shall not guarantee those territories and those peoples to those nations for all time in the future.

"This is the issue, whether the nonprofiteering nation in the world, yours or mine, shall guarantee the profit and booty they have gained from the other nations of the earth.

"During the last two years, there was a favorite mode taken of preventing any man from standing on his feet with his head in the air, doing conscientiously and patriotically the right as he saw it, in opposition to entrenched power. If a man were independent to do as he dared he must withstand the epithet of pro-German and Bolshevist. It was the common thing; and today even the President is going about talking about pro-Germans in casting reflections upon men who are opposed to his pet measure; but I want to say to you that the time has gone by when epithets of pro-Germanism can longer intimidate American people.

"We are going to safeguard this instrument if we can. No other thought have we than our country, and I think I may say to you, my friends, that from a little start of three men in Washington, a majority of the United States Senate today stands for America."

Roosevelt's Position.

Answering President Wilson's statement that Theodore Roosevelt would favor the league of nations were he alive today, Senator Johnson said:

"Mr. Wilson, hard pressed, quoted yesterday Theodore Roosevelt. Oh, if Roosevelt were only here. The nation never needed him more. Roosevelt, when it was unpopular to do so, denounced wrong and aggression, broken national faith and ruthless militarism. Wilson, for three years before we got into the war, was unable to tell for what the nations of the earth were fighting, and told us each side was battling for the same hidden causes. Roosevelt clearly saw and he sounded his trumpet call to the American people of preparation for the inevitable, while Mr. Wilson in utter indifference or with unseeing eyes, again and again publicly stated that both sides were fighting for the same unknown reasons and that justice substantially rested with neither.

"Of course Mr. Roosevelt, like all the rest of us, would have gone far to have prevented war. But when any man says that he would for a single instant have accepted the pro-British document which would put the country he loved within the power or direction, command or recommendation, of foreign nations, that man affronts the revered memory of Theodore Roosevelt. None who knew Roosevelt, none who talked to him during his last days, but knows that his heart and soul revolted at Mr. Wilson's internationalism and Mr. Wilson's endeavor to subordinate to foreign nations the American republic."

Senator Johnson will leave for Washington tomorrow afternoon.

WOMAN ACCUSED OF SERIES OF SWINDLES

MRS MACKEY AUBREY

HOUSE ASKED TO ACT AT ONCE ON FOOD CONTROL AMENDMENTS

Department of Justice Says Profiteering Will Go on Until Criminal Penalty Is Provided.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Continued reports to the Department of Justice of profiteering in shoes and other wearing apparel and of increased prices for the new sugar crop caused the department today to call on Chairman Haugen of the House Agricultural Committee for early action on the administration amendments to the food control act.

The Government's hands, the committee was told, were tied in dealing with such cases until Congress provided the necessary legislation broadening the food control law to cover wearing apparel and to provide a criminal penalty for violations.

Assistant Attorney-General Ames wrote Chairman Haugen: "We are also just advised that the Holly Sugar Corporation of California is placing the new crop of beet sugar on the market at $11.50 per hundred pounds against $9.00 which is the prevailing price for the old crop. This being a case of individual action, and the new crop not being controlled by the Sugar Equalization Board, the department cannot take effective action in the matter until the amendments are passed."

The amendments asked are delayed by a dispute between House and Senate over legislation to control rents in the District of Columbia.

WOMAN HELD ON CHARGE OF SERIES OF CHECK SWINDLES

Arrested at Instance of Statler Hotel Clerk When She Endeavored to Have Check for $92.50 Cashed.

ALLEGED CRIMES IN OTHER CITIES

Husband Said to Have Designed Plan for Rapid Working of Several Hotels at Cities Visited.

Mrs. Mackey Aubrey, 23 years old, of Toledo, O., was arrested at Hotel Statler yesterday for a series of check swindles which she is alleged to have perpetrated in hotels in New York, Chicago and other cities, and which she is said by the police to have planned to repeat at the Statler, Jefferson, American and Majestic hotels here.

According to the police, she said her husband, Henry Aubrey, worked with her in the check-passing enterprise, and that he designed the plan after the termination of a lease had forced him out of the candy business in Toledo. She is also quoted as saying that the plan had been successful, and that they intended to quit check-passing after "just one more" attempt, which she came to St. Louis to make.

Detectives say they had learned that she had perpetrated a similar swindle in Philadelphia, Cleveland, Columbus and Rochester, and that a man, who they believe was Aubrey, obtained $87.20 at the Statler, and the same amount at the Maryland Hotel and at the Famous & Barr store by bogus checks last July.

The woman's method is said to have been to register at several hotels in each city she visited, representing herself at each one as a sales agent for a manufacturing firm. When she called for her mail a letter would be waiting for her at the hotel, her husband having forwarded it. The letter would be on stationery bearing the name of the company she had mentioned, and would contain a check. Her undertaking, it is said, was to get this check cashed quickly in each hotel, and then leave the city.

She registered at the four St. Louis hotels as Mrs. L. M. Bertrum of Toledo, and said at each place that she was a sales agent for the Devilbiss Manufacturing Co. of Toledo. She opened a letter which was given to her at the Statler, took out a check for $92.50, purporting to be signed by the company's cashier, and asked the clerk to cash it.

The clerk remembered that a circular, describing the woman and her method, had been sent out by a hotel clerks' association, and he caused her arrest.

In her valise detectives found blank checks and stationery of the kind used by her, the checks bearing the picture of a Toledo bank building. It was learned that she had represented herself, in different cities, as being connected with a half-dozn large manufacturing firms, including a large Detroit automobile concern.

She said her home was in Owensboro, Ky., and that her brother was a Methodist minister. She said also she was working as a clerk in a store to support her parents, her father being a paralytic. She said she met Aubrey, who was then a traveling man, and married him a year ago.

ST. JOSEPH'S CATHOLIC CHURCH SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS OLD

Three-Day Observance Will Be Conducted Beginning Thursday Evening, Oct. 16.

St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Eleventh and Biddle streets, will observe its diamond jubilee, or 75th anniversary, Oct. 16 to 19 inclusive.

St. Joseph's, a German-speaking congregation, was organized in 1844 by the Jesuit order, by which it has ever since been conducted. Its large brick structure, with tall twin towers in a Continental style of architecture, is a landmark of the section immediately north of the central business district. The opening of Columbus Square, a few years ago, gave the building a new and picturesque setting, and travelers have compared the square, with the church on its further side, to some of the plazas of Latin-American countries.

A three-day observance will be conducted beginning Thursday evening, Oct. 16, and continuing with services Friday and Saturday nights, and with high mass at 10 a. m. Sunday, Oct. 19, celebrated by the Rev. Father J. J. Tannrath, chancellor of the diocese. An entertainment will be given Sunday night in the parish school hall.

Bank Reserves Show Record-Breaking Decrease.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Actual reserves of clearing house banks and trust companies at the end of the current week, as disclosed by the weekly statement issued today, show a decrease of $98,867,420, leaving a deficit in excess reserves of $53,186,140 below requirements.

The decrease, the largest ever reported by the clearing house, is based on the condition of member institutions at the close of yesterday's business and applies only to that day.

Following the rule of the Federal Reserve Bank, the clearing house requires its members to show a monthly average of 13 per cent excess reserve over net demand deposits. The extraordinary contraction reported today will, it is believed, be fully offset in the clearings of the next few days.

OLD MAN TELLS OF KILLING DAUGHTER 23 YEARS AGO

Quietly Relates Story of Strangling Girl in Hickory County, Missouri, When She Threatened Him.

"AIN'T GOT LONG TO LIVE," HE EXPLAINS

"They Might Hang Me," He Explains, "but I'm Likely to Die Any Time and They Can't Do Much."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 20.—For 23 years Robert Hicks carried a secret in his breast, the secret that with his own hands and a short piece of heavy twine he strangled to death his daughter, Luellen, 19 years old.

It was on a lonesome part of the Hicks farm, in Hickory County, Missouri, the afternoon of Dec. 7, 1896, that the daughter, in a fit of rage, threatened to shoot him. He had told her mother the young woman had spent an afternoon buggy riding with the hotel keeper of Urbana, and the mother chastised the daughter as a result.

Hicks, old and feeble, his body wasted by age, his shoulders bent by toil, recounted his story as he sat in a car on the Frisco train with J. P. McCaslin, sheriff of Hickory county, who is taking Hicks from Chesalis, Wash., to Hickory County for trial. Hicks is 75 years old.

With Eyes Like Kicked Dog.

"I was afraid she would do as she threatened," he said, speaking calmly in a low voice. "I was mad. I seized her by the throat with my fingers and squeezed. She didn't call out. She didn't fight. Her eyes rolled up and looked as me just like the eyes of a dog when you kick him. Then I took a piece of heavy grass twine from my pocket—I had been using it to tie gunny sacks—wrapped it about her throat, pulled it tight and she dropped on the ground, dead. I left her there."

A brother, going to look at traps, found the body of his sister where Hicks had left it. The authorities were notified, of course, the girl buried in the little cemetery adjacent to the chapel, the neighbors talked, but soon it all was forgotten. Hicks was suspected, but never arrested.

Hicks sold his place and moved to Washington to farm, leaving the grave of his daughter and an infant son in Hickory County. A son-in-law was living in another city and he desired the old folks with him.

Conscience Never Bothered.

"Did your conscience ever bother you, did you ever see the face of your daughter in your dreams, did you never awake during the night and live over the scene?" Hicks was asked.

"Me? No," he answered. "I ain't never seen her since the day of the funeral. She was just dead, that's all. You see, I ain't never had no book learning and things like that never bothered me. I was bound out when my folks died and I was 2½ years old, and had to work all the time; that was down in Taney County on the White river, and I didn't never have no chance. So things like that didn't bother me."

"But didn't you ever desire to tell anyone that you murdered your own daughter?" he was asked.

"No, I never wanted to tell anybody," he said, speaking in the same low voice. "I didn't miss her no mor'n if she'd a just died. Of course her ma missed her some for a while, but she didn't know I did it, and I never felt called on to tell her.

"I raised seven other children, four boys and the rest girls, and that kept me pretty busy working on the farm all the time, and my health being not so good. That didn't bother me nearly so much as my other troubles. You see, I sold my property and gave it to my son-in-law, and he promised to keep me and ma the rest of our lives. It was all done in writing, and then he wanted to get rid of me. That's what bothered me.

Ain't Got Long to Live.

"Neither I or ma ain't got long to live, you know. Ma has fits, and I'm sick in my stomach and chest and head, and the doctors told us a long time ago we might go any day. So I fixed up the property so we could die in peace, and then got beat out of it.

"My son-in-law said I owed money in Missouri, and wrote the banker at Urbana, and had the police come after me, just to get rid of me. But me, I don't owe nobody. He just wanted to get rid of me after he got the $1200."

"How did you happen to confess this late in life when you knew you probably would die, and no one could find it out?" he was asked.

Hicks is slightly deaf, and the questions in a loud voice attracted the passengers in the chair car. They craned their necks looking with surprise at the little old man who so calmly was telling about murdering his daughter.

Can't Do Much to Him Now.

"They can't do much to me now," he said. "I'm likely to die any time. I just thought as they was taking me back to Missouri I'd tell 'em about it. Nothin' told me to. I just thought I might as well give 'em a real reason to take me back."

"Don't you know they may hang you or send you to the penitentiary for life for killing your girl?" he was asked.

"Yes, they might, but I'll die pretty soon any way," he answered. "Of course, if I had my say, I'd rather go to the old folks' home and die, but I guess they won't let me."

And he looked out of the window as the train began to move. His eyes were open, but he didn't appear to see the passing cars as the train rolled slowly out of the station.

MARKET AND FINANCIAL NEWS

CALL FOR STRIKE IS FACTOR IN GRAIN PIT

Corn and Oats Are Lower for the Week After an Early Bulge.

Uneasiness over the threatened steel strike and other disturbing industrial conditions did much to force down the corn market here last week, notwithstanding a farmers' movement to hold back grain and livestock so as to obtain higher prices. Compared with a week ago, corn was 2¾c to 5c lower at the close yesterday. Oats were 1⅜c to 2½c lower.

New crop deliveries of corn had fallen to the lowest prices yet this season, with bears putting all the emphasis possible on the fact that values were still far above a pre-war basis, when announcements appeared that Illinois and Indiana farmers' organizations proposed to fight for an upturn in the value of rural commodities.

For a short time, upturns did ensue, but later the attention of traders focused more and more on the possible injurious business results of the steel strike. Rainy weather which seemed likely to delay receipts of corn proved subsequently to be only a transient influence toward averting decline of values. Yesterday's market was weak.

Meagerness of arrivals here and some improvement of seaboard demand gave relative strength to oats. Yesterday's market was weak, however, in sympathy with corn.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

Cash corn was steady to 1c higher yesterday and in fairly good demand.

Cash oats ½c lower and in fair demand.

Quote: No. 1 red winter wheat, $2.21 $2.24½; No. 2 red $2.21@2.21½; No. 3 hard, $2.18@2.22; No. 2 corn, $1.49; No. 3, $1.48@1.49; No. 1 yellow, $1.50; No. 2 yellow, $1.49; No. 6 yellow, $1.48; No. 1 white, $1.49; No. 3 white, $1.48; No. 1 white oats, 69½c; No. 2, 69c; No. 3 white, 67½@68c; No. 3 63½c.

CORN AT CHICAGO DECLINES; STEEL SITUATION BIG FACTOR

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Apparent certainty that the steel workers' strike would not be averted put the corn market today under bearish control. Prices closed unsettled, ¼c to 1⅝c net lower, with December $1.22¼ to $1.22½ and May at $1.20⅜ to $1.20¾. Oats lost ⅝c to 1¼c. Provisions finished unchanged to $1.10 down.

Free selling of corn on the part of speculators and commission houses quickly developed, and values broke about 2½c before the market encountered any adequate support. The majority of traders took little notice of other factors than the impending giant disturbance of the steel industry. It was in vain that bull leaders pointed out the upward adjustment of wages in the Chicago building trades and strove to emphasize the strength of the hog market. Possible far-reaching consequences which the steel strike might exert on business in general continued throughout the day to dominate corn values, although in the last part of the session there were numerous moderate rallies on account of week-end covering by shorts.

Oats were depressed, in sympathy with corn. Only the labor situation was given much heed. Provisions tended sharply downward for the same reason as grain. Cutting of the Government price on frozen pork and mutton operated also as an evident weight on the market.

COTTON RALLIES AFTER EARLY DECLINE DUE TO LABOR UNREST

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Early declines in the cotton market reflected nervousness over unsettled labor conditions, but were followed by rallies on the continued bullish average of spot and corp advices. December sold up from 29.75 to 30.12 and closed to 30.07, with the general list closing strong at a net advance of 2 to 10 points.

The market opened at a decline of 6 to 22 points and sold about 18 to 29 points net lower during the early trading, with October touching 29.57 and January 29.82. There was some southern selling on this decline as well as liquidation for over the week end and scattering local pressure, but the fear of bullish crop reports next week, rather more favorable reports from the goods market and reports of a firmer spot situation, soon gave the market a firmer tone. Rumors that some eleventh hour plan would be devised for averting trouble in the steel trade may have promoted covering later in the morning when October sold up to 29.82 and January 30.13, or about 6 to 12 points above last night's closing figures. Except for the early pressure there was very little selling for southern account during the morning. On the other hand, trade buying was reported less active than yesterday, but there was a moderate demand for October from houses with Liverpool connections on the advance. Cotton yarns were reported easier, but sales of print cloths in the Fall River market showed a slight increase over last week, with prices generally sustained. A Southwestern trade publication estimates the crop at 10,230,000 bales and claims that 75 per cent of the farmers will hold for a price of 30 cents.

Cotton futures closed quiet: October, 29.80c; December, 30.09c; January, 30.10c; March, 30.22c; May, 30.20c. Cotton spot quiet; middling, 30.30c.

No. 2 alfalfa meal (in transit) at $32.50 and No. 1 (in s. h. sacks) at $36—latter offered at $37 in new sacks. Oat feed nominal at $25.

Oats sympathized with the weakness of corn. After opening ½c to ⅞c off, the market continued to descend.

Provisions gave way with cereals. Strength in the hog market virtually was ignored.

Coffee Market.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The market for coffee futures was narrow today and comparatively small orders caused irregular fluctuations. The opening was 23 to 29 points higher, owing to a rally in Santos futures and covering for over the week-end. But after selling at 15.00, December eased off to 14.65c, or within 7 points of last night's closing price, under scattering liquidation or local pressure. That delivery closed at 14.79c, with the general list showing a net advance of 21 to 23 points. Sentiment was unsettled by the labor situation in the steel trade, but the small volume off business was most largely attributed to a desire to wait for further developments in Brazil.

A black spot in last week's cattle trading here was brought about by the failure of stock cattle men, traders and speculators to operate from Monday until Thursday morning, when these interests engaged in a controversy with officials of the stockyards company over feed prices. The trouble was brought to a focus and agreeable settlement made, however, late Wednesday, and traders were back in the market as usual the last of the week.

With the competition of traders there was a plain class of steer cattle, along with some butcher stuff that suffered, and with the big killers looking for discounts, it was easy to take off $1 the first three days of the week. A better market developed late, and this was partly regained, with prices showing not more than a 50c decline at the most from a week ago.

A few choice fatted cattle were steady to a quarter lower and good to choice yearlings found best sale of all offering throughout the week, getting a good inquiry from St. Louis butchers, along with killers' demand. Top was $16.75, a price received for yearling steers, and the week's best figure on heavy beeves was $16.75. Bulk of best cattle sold from $18 to $18.50, while plainer grades, including Oklahoma and Kansas cattle, sold from $8.30 to $11.50.

Stock cattle were on a nominal basis the fore part of the week. After the entrance of buyers late the market righted itself and values were on a nearly steady level again. Only a few late transactions were reported, as receipts were meager. Vealers sold up to $19.50 this week, with the bulk of sales in a spread of $17 to $18.50. Market was $1.50 lower than high time the previous week. Common heavy calves and yearlings were $1 to $1.50 lower than a week ago also.

Wild price fluctuations that featured the trade in hogs a week ago were in striking contrast with the even trend of the market last week. A week ago there was a daily variation of $1.50 to $2, whereas the greatest change the week just closed was a dime advance yesterday, although there has been a gradual upward tendency and the close was about 25c higher.

Top for the week was $18.35, bulk selling from $17.50@18.10. Best butchers weighing 180 to 210 from $17.85 to the top; medium heavies, $17.65@18.10; extremely heavies, $17.25@17.65; and lights, $16.75@17.75. Pigs closed about where they left off a week ago, the best bringing $15.75@17; medium kinds, $14.50@15.50, and light common stuff, $13@14. Roughs mainly from $14.50@15, with choice stags up to $15.75.

General sheep and lamb market was $1 to $1.50 lower for the week just closed, excessive runs around the Western circuit being the principal factor contributing to the declines. Best ewe and wether lambs at this time bring $14.25 per cwt., whereas a week ago they are quotable from $15.25@15.50. Fat sheep sell from $7@7.50, as against $8.50 last week. Medium lambs very slow and $1.50@2 lower in spots. Culls, $6@7.50; canners, $2.50@3; choppers and bucks, $5, and breeding ewes, $8@11, all showing sharp depreciation.

Increased by the heavy run of bronchos from the Western ranges, receipts of horses and mules at the St. Louis market last week amounted to over 10,000, one of the largest single week's runs ever received at the local yards. Of the Western horses and mules alone, there were more than 6000 head offered for the special sales. Despite the liberal run of natives, market showed a fair degree of activity throughout the week, particularly on the better classes.

Offering of mules was moderate throughout the week and no material change in the market was noted.

SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH'S REVIEW OF MARKET CONDITIONS

WIDE LOSSES RECORDED FOR WEEK'S TRADING ON WALL STREET EXCHANGE

Market Is Adversely Influenced by Steel Strike Outlook and Professional Selling—Business Reports Are Good.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted weekly financial review, says:

"To a good many watchers of the Stock Exchange, the calmness with which, during nearly all of the present week, the market contemplated the approaching steel trade strike was puzzling. Wall Street explained it as a consequence of the belief that, somehow or other the strike would fail to happen. That expectation certainly just now seems altogether likely to be fulfilled. Two other theories of the market's composure—one, that the very peculiar circumstances of this strike would insure its speedy collapse because of inability to reach the Steel Corporation's mills, and the other that, since this particular battle would sooner or later have to be fought out, it was just as well to meet the issue now—are perhaps more plausible.

"The indications of the moment are undoubtedly strong to the effect that the outside unions cannot call out the Steel Corporation's personnel. This opinion is based not only on the company's estimate that hardly 14 per cent of the men are subject to the union, but on the attitude of the union leaders.

"Nothing has been more unmistakable in the public declarations of these leaders than the fact that they were washing their own hands of responsibility in advance; and deftly putting on the men the whole responsibility for the strike.

If Unions Are Confident.

"When union officials are confident of success in such an undertaking they are extremely apt to assume the most autocratic personal responsibility.

"In case of a successful strike the prestige of their organization will be enhanced by the very fact of that official statement of purpose and responsibility beforehand. But the contrary is equally true in case of a strike which fails. Whatever the actual present feeling of the union leaders is, anyone can see that their policy, in case they looked for failure, would be to get themselves into a position where they could say afterwards, "we told you so," and, "why didn't you take our advice?"

"All this is still more or less a matter of conjecture. But what is not at all a matter of conjecture is the part which the clash of factions within the union itself is playing—in this affair as in so many others. Everyone at all familiar with the recent history of organized labor knows that as between conservative action and ultra-radical action, the very committees which have figured in this matter, on the union side, are split in two. It is doubtful if even the most reactionary employer of labor dislikes the extremist faction of the unions more than the opposite faction in the union itself dislikes them.

Trade Is Very Active.

"Week-end reviews of trade in the United States reflect great activity, with labor troubles affecting supply, but not demand. Bradstreet's reports all markets complaining that 'merchandise is scarce and deliveries only partial,' yet that trade is in many directions 'of record volume;' finds expansion of business activities 'though smaller than it would have been but for the industrial unrest,' and remarks that in all the cirsumstances the magnitude of business done and the optimism manifested is remarkable.

"Preliminary computations of the week's exchange of bank checks in the United States strikes a new high record. The total is 4 per cent above the previous weekly maximum, and actually 45 per cent above the total of this week in 1918."

London Review.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York Evening Post.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—"Whatever the temporary causes may be, like delay in ratification of the peace treaty, in aggravating the decline in foreign exchange at New York, the truest view of the situation is obtained by a consideration of the perfectly natural conditions which have brought about the slump in the belligerent exchanges. The slump varies in degree according to the extent of the actual losses of individual countries, and the extent to which unsound methods were used in financing the war.

"Thus, apart from Russia and Austria, the maximum depreciation of the German mark is due not merely to Germany's loss of the war, with the consequent indemnity payments, but to the previous inflation of credit, watering of the currency and failure to exact taxation from the people. Moreover, it is now evident that immediately following the armistice the German Government, in order temporarily to maintain the national credit; created millions of marks, which were used to support Government loans.

"It is generally believed here that the mark will go much lower. The French franc has also been affected not only by the war losses and the devastation of great areas, but by inflation of the currency and by insufficient taxation. Unless fresh credits are forthcoming from America, French exchange will probably decline further.

Sterling May Decline.

"Sterling has been affected by similar conditions, but in minor degree. Nevertheless, the view here is that the dollar will appreciate still more, probably to the mutual embarassment of America and Europe.

"These conditions evidently hold the germs of acute trouble unless corrective steps are taken. These would naturally be first, the ratification of the peace treaty, and, second, the closest intelligent co-operation between America and Britain in financing Europe's reconstruction period.

"There is an acute controversy here as to whether our financial problems can be best solved along the lines of easy money and further expansion of credits pending increased production, or whether a gradual deflation should be quickly applied with inevitable discomforts resulting, however, in sounder conditions. Best opinion favors the latter policy, skillfully applied.

"The South African gold output is being steadily, though slowly absorbed for your account, the price being based entirely upon the rate for sterling at New York. The 'standard' quotation has given place to the 'fine gold' quotation, according to your requirements. Some £12,000,00 of German gold recently arriving here also belongs to you, representing accummulations in the banks of the Netherlands and Belgium, paid on German account to the American Grain Corporation for wheat. It was bought by the Federal Reserve Bank and shipped here."

DETAILED REPORT OF DAY'S TRADING IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Pressure against leading issues, especially steels and equipments, was resumed at the opening of today's short stock market session, the more acute labor situation causing further liquidation and short selling. U. S. Steel lost only a fraction at the outset, but soon extended its decline to more than a point. Among motors and allied stocks losses extended from 2 to 8 points, oils and tobaccos losing 1 to 3. The reaction made further progress on increased offerings before the end of the first half hour.

New York Curb Market

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—New issues were regarded with different degrees of favor in the past week in the trading on the Broad street curb. Among the weak features were: Vivadou, which started at 33 and declined to 28½; Union Oil, which ranged from 40¼ to 38⅜; United Retail Candy, which sold down from 24½ to 20⅛, and Indian Packing, which declined from 29 to 26.

In contrast with these stocks United Pictures, stated to represent the largest picture corporation in the world, was in good demand and moved up from its initial trading price of 12 to above 14. There were some dealings in Maxwell-Chalmers new stock at 60 and Chandler new stock, when issued, at 97 to 94.

Food products stocks showed weakness during the week, many of those issues being under steady pressure and some of them declining to material extent. The motor stocks were irregular, Peerless ranging from 44 to 40⅝, while Madison Tire moved up from 57¾ to the new high of 65⅞. Martin-Parry sold at 32 to 30.

The feature of the petroleum group was the continued strength in Brazos Oil, which moved up to 30¾. Buying was based to a great extent on authorized statements that the stock will soon be placed on a dividend basis and application will be made to list the stock on the Stock Exchange.

Cosden was another strong feature, advancing from 11 to above 12. The company declared the regular quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent in cash and an extra dividend of 2½ per cent in stock on the common stock. This action explains the recent persistent buying. Shell transports was heavy during the week, falling from 71 to 69⅝. Sinclair Gulf, after selling at 70, declined to 57¼.

Mining stocks were generally heavy, Tonopah Divide selling from 6¼ to 5⅝, and Mason Valley from 3¼ to 2½. El Salvador was exceptionally strong, advancing to 4⅛.

FINANCIAL.

OVERLAND TIRE

Dividends paid regularly since January, 1918.

Big new factory and ample financing indicate that OVERLAND TIRE will become one of the nation's GIANT industries.

Cincinnati Being the Home of the Yeast Industry, the Reds Know How to Raise the Dough

Gleason's "Ace" to Watch Redlegs in Concluding Series

Johnnie Evers Is Following the Sox on Behalf of Pat Moran.

MAYER GIVES SOX ADVICE

Former Phillie Hurler Is Coaching Hurlers on Cincy Reds' Weak Points.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Applications for world's series tickets have averaged a little better than 10,000 a day up to date with flocks of telegrams fluttering in momentarily. The first mail yesterday brought 3500 and there is no let-up. "It's a fright," said Comiskey. "I wish we had three times the room to take care of them all. The funny thing about it, nearly every one of these applicants is a brand-new one, as they all say they didn't see the series in 1917 and think they ought to have preference this time. We're doing the best we can, but there will have to be disappointments, as there are more applicants in sight now than there are seats in the park."

Announcement was made by Secretary Grabiner of the Sox that applications would be filled in order, as fast as possible, until the supply was exhausted. After that there would be reservations tabulated on the left-over applications for the fourth game, so that an entirely different lot of people will see the fourth game here, if one is played.

The Woodland Bards are busy arranging a special train service which is limited to 250 people and have opened downtown quarters. Comiskey will travel with the Bards and will have Sam Gompers of the Federation of Labor, as a guest. A number of American League magnates will also travel on the special.

Cicotte to Watch Reds Play.

Ed Cicotte is on the way to Chicago after a day at his Detroit home. It is now planned to send the "shine ball" star to Cincinnati to watch the Reds in their concluding series with the Cubs. Several other members of the Sox have watched the Reds. John Evers is following the Sox around on behalf of Pat Moran.

It has just transpired that one of the main reasons for the retention of Erskine Mayer, whose pitching days seem to be over, is to coach the Sox hurlers on the likes and dislikes of the Cincinnati batters. Mayer is an experienced hurler and knows most of Moran's players thoroughly. He is tipping the Sox heavers to all the kinks he knows about them and Gleason thinks he is well worth keeping for that purpose alone.

At Sox headquarters today it was said word had been received from the National League that it desired to start the series on Tuesday, Sept. 30. Comiskey had no direct confirmation of this report, but said he had no particular objections. Comiskey and Louis Comiskey expect to depart for Cincinnati tomorrow night to be present at the National Commission meeting.

'WIN TODAY'S GAME, DON'T WORRY ABOUT TOMORROW IS PAT MORAN'S POLICY

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 20.—"The real secret of the Reds' success for 1919, and the secret that ought to give us the victory in the big series," says Pat Moran, "was this: We were a today club, and not a tomorrow club.

"All through my baseball life, I have seen managers, some of them of great reputation, who always worried about what would happen tomorrow. They forgot about today's game to think about tomorrow, and were always laying the plans for the next performance, irrespective of what might be coming off under their very noses. They were always fretting about who'd pitch the next game. If you hinted that so and so would win this afternoon's game, they'd answer, 'Yes, but then what will I do for a pitcher tomorrow?' and thus while they prepared for tomorrow they got licked today.

"All through this season, our motto has been 'let tomorrow take care of itself—let's win today's game.' That motto has worked out splendidly. We never gave a thought to which pitcher we'd have to use next day. Just went in and gave our entire attention to the proceedings at hand. Maybe we might have to use up three pitchers. What of it? If we won that game, it was one move on the right side of the ledger. Next day, we'd put in anybody who felt like working, and, according to the percentage tables, we usually won next day's game the same way."

Friars Banquet Reds.

Just to show how the baseball bug has bitten all Cincinnati—the Franciscan Frairs, who have a numerous branch here, gave the Reds a banquet in their monastery Friday night. The cowled, long-robed Frairs proved glorious hosts, and showed keen knowledge of the national game.

The resourcefulness and ingenuity of Pat Moran must have been severely taxed all summer when it came to making good with his staff of pitchers. Pat had to shift and change them with kaleidoscopic rapidity. Just to show how Pat's mind and resources were taxed in this victorious season: In 135 games, up to date the Cincinnati pitchers had been derricked 73 times, and that's a record for a pennant winner.

JOHNNY KILBANE SHADES MORGAN IN SIX ROUNDS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20.—Johnny Kilbane, world's featherweight champion, defeated Eddie Morgan of this city in a six-round bout tonight. Kilbane was at his best in the third round when he dropped Morgan twice for a long count. Morgan came back strong in the fourth and kept Kilbane moving at a fast pace. The last two rounds were replete with action, with Kilbane leading by a slight margin.

Ed Cicotte, Prospective Hero of World's Series, Discusses Secrets of Pitching Craft

White Sox Hurler, Whose Prowess May Make Him Individual Star of Classic, Tells How He Throws His Curves, Fast Ball and Famous "Knuckle-Ball."

EDDIE CICOTTE, star right-hander of the White Sox who has a 1919 record of 29 victories, with only eight defeats and who is counted on to be Kid Gleason's mainstay in the coming world's series with the Cincinnati Reds, has assisted the Post-Dispatch in preparing the accompanying instructions to prospective pitchers on how to throw the curves and fast ball of baseball.

Cicotte has a great record as a twirler, and is more likely than any other player to be the individual hero of the big series. In the big ring for a dozen years, he has had only one year when his pitching percentage fell below the mark with which his club finished the season. And almost annually Eddie has finished with a figure better than .500. He attributes his success in large measure to dogged determination to be up among the leaders.

Arm and Ambition Make Hurlers.

"Great pitchers are only human beings," is the way Eddie summed up the situation, "and with a good arm, good condition and enough ambition and perseverance almost anybody has a chance of landing near the top. At least I found that it was easy to slip backward, to be satisfied to live on past reputation. But I awoke one time to find that I had to work or hit the skids and I made up my mind I was going to stick. I kept working and persevering, and I attribute my success this season to this realization that I had to work and try all the time."

Eddie believes the secret of control, after the arm and foot and body are working smoothly together, is to find the right point on the slab. He called attention to the habit pitchers have of moving along the pitching rubber in the early innings until they have "located their control for the day." He explained this by the fact that a pitcher's arm and wrist work differently on different days; and that, as a result, there is a difference from day to day in the sweep of the curve, the degree or time of the "break." Each day, he contends, it is up to the pitcher to find the point on the rubber from which he can slant 'em so they'll cut across the plate effectively.

"Myth Ball" Still a Secret.

Cicotte still is silent as to the method of delivering his freak pitch which for a time was called the "shine ball," or "myth ball."

"I don't do anything to the ball that anybody can discover, he said when asked about this delivery. "The umpires have taken enough balls out of the games I have pitched to put ball bearings under the Railway Exchange Building, but Ban Johnson never has found any of them tampered with. Of course when a ball breaks so a batter can't hit it he naturally will squawk to the umpire. But my ball has stood up under fire and nothing illegal has ever been found on it."

In addition to the fast ball and curve ball—the stock in trade of the majority of pitchers—Eddie also has a "knuckle ball" on which he places great reliance. He estimated that one of every five balls he would pitch against the Reds would be a "knuckle ball."

This ball leaves the hand without any spin and floats up to the batter looking as big as a balloon, the seams and trade mark visible. This tantalizes the batter. In addition the ball is liable to take any kind of a crazy shoot, being, as Eddie put it, at the mercy of the air currents it encounters on its journey to the catcher.

Won Bet on Knuckle Ball.

Eddie once won a $25 bet with one delivery of this ball. The club was training on the Pacific coast and a moving picture magnate, who also was a baseball fan, heard the story of Eddie's "knuckle" ball and couldn't believe that it could be thrown 60 feet without rotating. He was so skeptical that he offered to bet $25 it couldn't be done. Eddie took him up, told him to act as referee himself, but asked to be allowed to throw five balls, as sometimes the pitch misses. The bettor agreed and when Eddie knuckle-balled the first one into Schalk's hands without a tremor of rotation the movie magnate peeled off a twenty and a five and slipped them to Cicotte.

When a stiff breeze is against the pitcher it is almost impossible to catch the "knuckle ball," Cicotte asserts. In Comiskey Park, with the lake breeze blowing over the field, this is true, he says, and the best catchers will suffer all sorts of injuries trying to glove the leather. Eddie declares the ball will hit the edge of the glove, the wrist and the finger tips of the cleverest catchers.

Cicotte said anybody could pitch the freak ball which has caused so many delays in the big ring this year because of the protest of batters and examinations by umpires. The leather is scraped with the thumb nail or spike until a tiny wing is loosened, he said. By changing the position of ball with respect to the wing or abrasion, the curve can be controlled, he declared.

Cicotte Has Been to 1919 Sox What Alex Was to Phils in 1915

WHILE the Chicago White Sox roster includes many individual stars and the name of Eddie Collins probably would come first if a vote were taken, another man on the club is more liable to be the individual hero of the 1919 classic than Eddie or any other of the Sox or Reds.

Eddie Cicotte is to the White Sox what Grover Cleveland Alexander was to the Phillies of Pat Moran in 1915. Eddie has had a wonderful season and is counted on to bear the chief burden in the big series. Raising the number of games to nine increases the load on the Sox staff and is almost sure to result in Cicotte hurling three games, if the series goes the limit. Williams, Kerr and James complete the Sox "big four," but Williams has been the only one who has come near to sharing the pitching burden with Cicotte.

Mamaux Hurls Shutout Ball Except in First When Moranmen Count 2.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 20.—With several regulars out of the lineup, the National League champions played careless ball today and were defeated by Brooklyn, 3 to 2. The Reds scored two runs in the first inning on a pass to Smith, a long single by Daubert and two sacrifice flies. After this Mamaux was strong, allowing no further scoring.

Ring did not allow a hit in the first four innings. In the fifth a walk to Myers, a double by Schmandt and a sacrifice fly gave Brooklyn a run. Another was added in the sixth on Olson's single and Griffith's triple. In the eighth a wild throw to first by Kopf and singles by Olson and Johnston accounted for the winning run. Luque pitched the last inning without allowing a hit. Griffith made three sensational running catches of difficult flies in right field. The score:

White Sox Pitching "Ace" Tells How to Hurl Big League Curves

By Eddie Cicotte.

The Out-Curve—Grip the ball with the thumb and first two fingers. Deliver the ball with a side-arm or partly side-arm swing of the arm. Let the ball leave the hand in the position shown in Diagram 1. As the ball is leaving the hand give the wrist a twist or snap (Diagram 2) to start the sphere rotating, spinning as a hoop would rotate if rolled away from you, leaning to the right. The nearer the pitch is made with a side-arm sweep the nearer the curve will be to an outcurve, without a drop.

The Drop-Curve—Grip the ball the same as for the out-curve. Deliver it with a straight overhand but vertical downward sweep of the arm. Give the same twist of the wrist as in pitching an outcurve. The object is to send the ball toward the batter rotating as a hoop will spin if rolled away in a vertical position.

The In-Curve—Big leaguers don't speak of in-curves. What is known on the sand lots as an in-curve is a fast ball in major league parlance. Grip the ball with two fingers and thumb the same as for the in and out curve. Deliver with as nearly a side-arm sweep as possible, with as much speed as the arm will permit. There is no snap or twist to the delivery. Let the ball roll off the tips of the fingers. (Diagram 3.) The ball, leaving the fingers last, is starting to rotate, in just the opposite direction to the rotation of the out-curve. This rotation gives it the fast ball jump. It is important to have a good firm grip on the ball. If the leather is too smooth let the fingers rest on the seam, so the fingers will have firm contact with the ball until it rolls off the finger tips. When perfected this pitch will cause the ball to jump in and up or in and down. Mine jumps in and down; so does Alexander's. Johnson's shoots in and up.

The Knuckle-Ball — The grip shown in Diagram 4 is the best I have found. It does not give the batter any tip as to what is coming and that is an important point for pitchers to watch. The ball is delivered with an overhand or side-arm delivery, that is, with the pitcher's natural arm sweep. The object is to have the ball leave the upper and lower grips simultaneously so no rotary movement will be given to the ball. It will take a long time to perfect this pitch, but when perfected it is an invaluable asset. The accompanying picture shows the knuckle-ball just as it is leaving my hand.

Do not expect to curve a ball the first day or week you try. You can't execute a swimming teacher's instructions until you have practiced and mastered the stroke. The same goes for pitching. It is a long, hard road to control and good curves. But if you persevere you can make the grade. Get a friend with a catcher's glove to work with you this winter. Perseverance is the thing.

Wagners Oppose Screw Co. Today

Teams Battle at Fairground No. 1 in Second Game of City Title Series.

The second game of the title series between the Wagners of the Mercantile League and the St. Louis Screw Co., Independent League representatives, in the Municipal Baseball Association series, will be played this afternoon at Fairground No. 1. An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged for some of the seats to help defray expenses of bringing Kansas City, Minneapolis and Memphis nines here next week.

In the game played last Sunday, the Wagners were the winners, 4—3, in 10 innings and a victory today will give the aggregation the city honors. A defeat, however, will necessitate a third contest, which will be staged next Wednesday.

Without doubt, Seib, the right-hander, who stopped the Screw Co. batters last week, will again scale the peak for the Wagners, while either Radell or Pfyl will labor for the Screw Co. Willie Foley and Marty Byrne will be the umpires.

The probable lineups:

25-MILE BICYCLE RACE TO BE HELD NEXT WEEK

The rain which fell yesterday just as the riders were ready to start, made the Forest Park road course extremely dangerous to attempt a bicycle grind of 25 miles and for that reason Ollie Hassemer, referee, in charge of the clash between the Century and St. Louis cycling clubs, called off hostilities.

A meeting was held between the racing committees of the respective clubs, at which next Saturday, Sept. 27, was agreed upon as the date for the big classic. Any unattached riders caring to enter can do so up to Thursday evening, when the entries close.

Ruth's Bat Twice Beats White Sox

Slugger's 27th Homer and Double Keeps Chicago From Clinching A. L. Pennant.

BOSTON, Sept. 20.—Boston kept Chicago from clinching the American League championship today by taking both games of a double-header by 4 to 3, and 5 to 4 scores. It was "Babe" Ruth day at Fenway Park and the Boston player knocked his twenty-seventh home run of the season in the ninth inning of the first game. The ball sailed over the left field fence and Ruth circled the bases with the winning run. A double by Ruth in the fifth inning of the second game helped to work in the winning run. A capacity crowd attended and Ruth was presented with $600 in treasury savings certificates by the Knights of Columbus. Scores:

WORLD'S SERIES NOT OF GREAT VALUE TO CLUB OWNER—BAN JOHNSON

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The formal answer of Ban Johnson t othe suit brought against him by the New York American League club over his suspension of Carl Mays was filed in the County Clerk's office, yesterday. Except for one paragraph it contained little of interest that had not already been brought out in the lengthy arguments in court.

The one paragraph was in answer to the allegation by Cols. Ruppert and Huston that the suspension of Carl May would endanger its chance of playing in the world's series. "The defendant denies," read Johnson's answer, "that the privilege of playing in the world's series is of very great value to the club owner of the team winning the pennant, and denies that the plaintiff's team has a good chance of winning the pennant."

BAILEY, 195-POUND GUARD, REPORTS TO RUTHERFORD

Roger Bailey, a 195-pound guard from Sikeston, Mo., reported for practice to Coach Dick Rutherford at Francis Field, yesterday morning, and went through a workout with the Pikeway squad. Bailey last year was a member of the Washington S. A. T. C. eleven, and won all-star Missouri Valley mention.

The only members of the squad who have not yet reported are Fred Potthoff and Earl Salveter. The latter will be in uniform tomorrow, while Potthoff is expected later in the week.

Only one practice session was held yesterday, because of the afternoon rains. The drill consisted of passing, punting, place kicking and a lengthy signal practice. The varsity lined up as follows: Hausleden and Hafner, ends; Kreahe and Lippert, tackles; Bailey and Weindel, guards; Marquard, center; Whitley, quarterback; Conzelman and Berger, halves; Griesedieck, fullback.

For That All-America Rush-Line We Pick 7 Profiteers—They Can Out-Charge Anybody

Central Gridiron Squad Beaten by AlumniTeam, 20-9

MUD HELPS THE VICTORS

Stubborn Opposition Put Up by Red and Black Despite Weight Handicap.

Nine former Central High School football players, ably aided by Dean Leffler, a McKinley High graduate, and A. C. Callan, assistant coach at Central, defeated Coach Mike Walker's 1919 mid-city scholastic eleven, 20 to 9, at Public School Athletic Field, yesterday afternoon.

The makeshift squad assuming the title of Central alumni, however, met with stubborn opposition from the Central undergrads, despite the fact that it carried a considerable advantage in both weight and experience. Due to the heavy rains of the forenoon and early afternoon, the field was soaked; and the light "prep" players were hardly equal to the mud-plowing against the heavy opposition.

In the "alumni" lineup were such stellar figures of bygone seasons as "Hick" Wood, "Red" Hunt, Morris Shipper, 265-pound George Kalkman and Maffitt Minnegerode. No less than eight members of the team will play on the Washington University freshman team this season. Their conduct, yesterday, may be taken as an indicator of a strong first-year eleven on the Pikeway this season.

Minnegerode Goes Over.

The alumni scored first early in the second period, when Minnegerode bucked the line for a touchdown, after Leffler had scampered 35 yards around left end to the five-yard mark. Skipper then booted a goal for the additional point.

The score was knotted shortly later when Floun, halfback, made a 65-yard run for a touchdown. After Floun had started on his dash around right end, Referee Conzelman blew his whistle and only one or two of the "grads" gave pursuit, thinking the play dead. However, the defense had been offside, so the score counted. Wood kicked goal.

Walker's players went to the lead immediately after this when Minnegerode fumbled the kickoff behind his goal line and was tackled there, Central being awarded two points for the safety.

Consistent line plunging in the last period brought the "alumni" to the four-yard mark from midfield, whence Minnegerode smashed the center of the line for another score. The last touchdown was made when Leffler skinned right tackle and shook off four would-be tacklers, traveling 30 yards to the goal line. The goals after these two touchdowns were missed. The lineup:

WEBSTER HIGH ELEVEN WINNER OVER ALUMNI IN FIRST GAME, 14-0

Two touchdowns and a safety gave the Webster High School football eleven a 14-to-0 victory over the Webster alumni team, yesterday afternoon. The game ushered in the 1919 gridiron season in the county.

The "grads" outweighed Coach Roberts' 1919 clan, but the winners showed the benefit of two weeks' conditioning and teamplay. Webster has lost some punch through the graduation of last June, but still has an aggressive squad.

The touchdowns were scored in the first half, Vaughn going over in the initial period; while Phillips scored in the second. Both attempts at the subsequent goals were missed. The safety came in the third quarter. The score:

Webster High (4).	Positions.	Alumni (0).

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 20.—Thomas Kelley, the new line coach at the University of Missouri, arrived today and was on Rollins Field watching the Tigers work out this afternoon. Kelley had a short conference with Coach J. F. Miller this afternoon, and will confer with Miller and Assistant Coach Phelan again tomorrow. He will take charge of the Tiger line for the first time Monday afternoon.

Kelley, who tips the scales at 233, spent the afternoon getting acquainted with the members of the team and the work here. To Kelley will fall the task of building a strong Tiger line. Miller has an experienced lot of backfielders, and without addition of any new men, could build up a reliable set of ball carriers, but in the line, experience is lacking. Shroeder and Kolb are the only two letter men in the list.

The Tigers adjourned after a comparatively short practice today. Monday, with the coaching staff complete, will see the Tigers plunging into the real work of the season. They meet the freshman team next Saturday and a week later the first game of the intercollegiate schedule will be played with Drury College here.

Princeton Student Takes Honors as Champion Athlete

S. H. Thomson of Los Angeles Is A. A. U. Victor—Murchison Wins 220-Yard Run.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—S. Harrison Thomson of Los Angeles, a Princeton University student, won the all-around championship of the Amateur Athletic Union at Pershing Field, Jersey City, today, scoring 6133¼ points in the 10 events. Six men competed.

The winner is a brother of F. C. Thomson of Princeton, who won this event three times, and is champion of the American Expeditionary Forces.

Louis Krimo of the Young Men's Order, Detroit, was second with 5852¾ points, and A. P. Roberts, Boston A. A., third with 5039½ points.

Krimo's performance in winning five firsts was the feature of the contest, but he lost at least 706 points when he was disqualified for running in the last 20 yards of the one-half-mile walk, which was won by Thomson. He got 850 for winning the 150-yard high hurdles in 16 3-5 seconds, the highest individual credit awarded today by the judges. In addition the young Detroit athlete won the 16-pound shot put, the 56-pound weight throw, broad jump and pole vault.

Thomson scored three firsts, the one-half-mile walk, high jump and 16-pound hammer throw.

Dan Shea of the Pastime A. C. of this city won the 100-yard dash and Jack Fritts, N. Y. A. C., finished first in the one-mile run.

In a special 1000-yard run Joie Ray of Chicago was timed in 2:15 1-5, which is just one-fifth of a second better than his best indoor time. He covered the first quarter in :59 1-5 and the "half" in 1:56 4-5, but he set too fast a pace early in his attempt to break the record of 2:12 2-5 made by Melvin W. Sheppard 10 years ago.

Loren Murchison, formerly of St. Louis, running for the N. Y. A. C., won the 220-yard run in 22 3-5 seconds.

PIKERS MOVE UP GAME WITH "GRADS"; PLAY FRESHMEN ON OCT. 4

Coach Dick Rutherford announced yesterday that the Washington University Varsity-Alumni football game will be played next Saturday instead of on Oct. 4, as was originally planned. The Pikeway eleven will meet Eber Simpson's freshmen team on Oct. 4.

Among those who watched practice, yesterday, was "Puff" Martin, the famous "disappearing ghost" of Bill Edmunds' last elevens. "Puff" was the man who scored touchdowns against St. Louis University two years straight by snaring forwards passes that weren't intended for him. He announced that he would start training for the varsity-alumni clash.

A scrimmage session was held yesterday morning, so the rough stuff was not included in the afternoon workout. Rutherford announced that scrimmage would be abandoned until Monday.

Fred Peters, last season a tackle on the Westminster College team, is enrolled at the Pikeway institution, and will report for the squad immediately. Peters is ineligible for varsity competition because of the one-year rule. He is a former captain of the Soldan High School team.

ALGONQUIN TOURNEY MATCHES POSTPONED

Yesterday's rain torrents caused the postponement of golf play at two local clubs. The qualifying round of the Algonquin Golf Club championship tournament had been scheduled, but will be held today instead.

Gaston Chevrolet Sets New Record Taking Auto Race

Breaks Standard by Almost Four Minutes in 150-Mile Event in East.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Gaston Chevrolet won the 150-mile automobile race at Sheepshead Bay today. He led nearly all the way with his brother, Louis, running second until the 110th mile, when an accident put Louis out of the contest. The time for the distance, 1 hour 22 minutes 34 1-5 seconds, is a new American record. The former record was 1 hour 25 minutes 14.91 seconds, made by Ralph Mulford at Chicago, June 16, 1917.

Louis Chevrolet won the 10-mile race prior to the start of the main event. It was decided in three heats. He finished first twice and second once, for 14 points. Gaston was second with 10 points, with Boyer and Ralph Mulford tied for third with seven each.

In the final lap of the third heat, Mulford and his mechanician, James Lee, had a narrow escape from serious injury when their car shot up the embankment after a tie-rod had broken. The two front wheels hung over the top for a moment, but the men regained control and backed the car safely to the center of the track. The accident happened at the turn into the stretch when Mulford was attempting to get the lead.

Thirteen cars started in the 150-mile event. Dave Lewis, after leading from the second mile, dropped out at the twelfth, with a cracked cylinder. Bennett Hill withdrew at the fortieth mile on account of a broken crank case. Louis Chevrolet was put out at the 110th mile, coming into the home stretch, when flames began to burst from beneath his car. The plucky driver sent his car past the stands to the end of the pits near the first turn, where he and his mechanician, Kenneth Goodson, jumped from the car. Both men suffered from slight burns on the hands and arms. Louis had been running within a few yards of his brother, Gaston, up to the moment his car went on fire, both of them being a little more than two laps ahead of the field.

Lieut. Art Klein was fourth; Toland Nicholson, fifth; Denney Hickey, sixth; Ralph Mulford, seventh, and William Vetere, eighth. The other starters did not complete the race.

OUT-OF-TOWN BASEBALL NINES HERE NEXT WEEK

Champion Municipal baseball teams and golf and tennis players from Memphis, Minneapolis and Kansas City will be the guests of the city next Saturday and Sunday to play against the winners of the Municipal Athletic Association's games.

The visitors, to the number of 60, will be housed at the Missouri Athletic Association. The baseball games will be played at Fairground, and the tennis and golf matches at Forest Park.

The plan, according to Park Commissioner Cunliff, is to spread the Municipal Athletic Association idea to other cities.

SOCCER LEAGUE HEADS WILL MEET NEXT WEEK

A special meeting of the officials of the St. Louis Socer League will be held early next week, when final details for the opening of the season Oct. 5 will be made. A 24-game schedule has been arranged with the campaign coming to a close March 16.

At the meeting next week, a referee will be named, while President Barker also announces that managers must turn in all their contracts at that time so they can be forwarded to U. S. F. A. headquarters at New York.

Jim Barnes Beats McLeod and Keeps "Pro" Golf Crown

Sunset Hill Instructor Defeats Former National Champion, 6 Up and 5 to Play.

LOSER HAD EARLY LEAD

Runner-Up Made Great Start, Leading by 2 Up at Eleventh Hole in Morning.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—James Barnes of St. Louis won the championship of the professional Golfers' Association at the Engineers' Country Club today and once again demonstrated the all-around soundness of his game. He defeated Fred McLeod of Columbia 6 up and 5 to play in the thirty-six hole final round.

Three years ago in the first championship meeting under the direction of the professional body, Barnes won chief honors, although on that occasion he had a harder task in removing Jock Hutchison, the fiery Scot, in the decisive match. Today he played the better golf. Incidentally, those who maintain a good big man should defeat a good little chap scored decisively. Jim stands six feet three inches, so there is a foot more of him than in the McLeod make up.

They may say what they like about strength counting for little in golf. It helps mightily anywhere, but especially over that Engineers' course. As the match progressed it was apparent even to the casual observer that Barnes, possessing abundance of reserve energy, was better able to last than his opponent, even though McLeod's strokes were smoother.

Barnes Wins $500.

Barnes earned $500 and a diamond medal, while the silver trophy, emblematic of the championship, will be held for one year by the Sunset Hill Golf Club. McLeod won $250 and a gold medal, while Bob MacDonald of Chicago and George McLean, the Great Neck homebred who were put out by Barnes and McLeod respectively on Friday, got $125 each and a silver medal.

Emmet French, Jack Hutchinson, Douglas Edgar and James West, defeated in the third round, came in for $75 each and bronze medals, while Oto Hackbarth, Tom Kerrigan, George Fotheringham, Tom McNamara, Larry Hampton, George Gordon, Wilfrid Reid and Mike Brady each won $60 and bronze medals.

In this manner everyone of the 32 contestants who qualified for the championship, won prizes, $2580 in all being presented by Rodman Wanamaker.

Great Difference in Style.

McLeod and Barnes were dissimilar in style as in size today. Barnes, long and angular, hit the ball harder than the other; that is, there was more apparent effort. Considering his slight stature, one naturallly expected to see McLeod put "his back" into the wooden club in an endeavor to get distance, yet the reverse was often the case as he flicked the ball away with a full, even swing that, on an average, kept his drives only a little shorter than his opponent. Throughout the day both found plenty of trouble. They would not be human to escape the pitfalls on that rugged course.

The vagaries of golf were illustrated at different times during the match. It seemed reasonable to suppose that Barnes, because of greater steadiness, would gradually draw away, but McLeod more than held his own in the early stages, reaching the turn one up in the morning.

Then the tide suddenly turned, as Barnes after losing the next hole, won seven of the next eight, so that he was able to walk to the club house with a 5 up margin as an appetizer for luncheon. He completed the inward half in 37, getting a 77 for the round as against 79 for McLeod.

McLeod Makes Spurt.

When Barnes had increased his advantage to 7 up at the fifth hole in the afternoon it looked like a speedy termination for Freddy, but just when the gallery was beginning to figure on the next train to town, McLeod took a hand by winning three holes in a row—the seventh, eighth and ninth.

The way he captured the 213 yard eighth will probably never be forgotten by the hundreds of onlookers. The little Scot pulled his drive to a trap, hole high, but found his ball in an almost impossible lie. Giving it "all he had" with a niblick, McLeod tore the rubber core out of the sand too well in fact, for it never stopped until it found a resting place in the tall rough 50 yards beyond the green. It almost looked like a waste of time to go and play another shot, as Barnes had driven the green. McLeod, however, had a try at it and to the amazement of everyone the ball flew out like a rocket, striking the green a few yards from the flag and then rolling gently into the cup for a 3.

The gallery let out a roar and Barnes joined in the laughter. He then took three putts and lost the hole which caused his smile to vanish.

Later Barnes made amends by holing long putts at the tenth and thirteenth greens and ending the match. To that point on the homeward journey his golf was more brilliant than in the earlier hours, as he made the four holes in one under 4s.

DOUBLES TO BE STAGED

First Clash at 2:30 O'Clock Will Be Against Ted Drewes and Fred Josties.

Ronald Thomas and Randolph Lycett, the Australian tennis stars, who were unable to show their skill here yesterday because of rain, will appear in six exhibition matches on the Triple A courts today and tomorrow, weather permitting, it was announced last night by the committee in charge. The Australians were held over a day owing to yesterday's postponement.

Fred Josties and Ted Drewes, Central States champions, will get first chance at the visitors, this clash being scheduled to start at 2:30 o'clock. After this battle, Thomas will pair with Hoerr and Lycett with Jones, while in the final of the day the Australians will play Arthur Reppert and Elmer Schwarz.

Tomorrow Walter Haase and Wray Brown, two of St. Louis' leading youngsters, and another local team still to be named will play the visitors, while Lycett will oppose Thomas in a singles match.

The complete schedule is as follows:

TODAY.

2:30 o'clock—Lycett and Thomas vs. Josties and Drewes.

MRS. GEORGE WIGHTMAN AND R. N. WILLIAMS II WIN MIXED DOUBLES

BOSTON, Sept. 20.—Mrs. George Wightman and R. Norris Williams, II., won the final round in the mixed doubles tennis tournament at the Longwood Club today from Miss Marion Zinderstein and Edward H. Whitney, 6-1; 6-3.

The victory was the third in the Longwood tournament to be won by Mrs. Wightman, who is the national champion.

EDDIE ROUSH PRIZES 2 BATS 22 YEARS OLD

It is said that Eddie Roush, the Cincinnati outfielder, has two baseball bats that are 22 years old. The two hickory sticks were bought by Roush when he played on amateur teams during his youthful days. Whenever the Reds needed a timely hit and it is Roush's good fortune to be at bat he always relies upon one of his cherished weapons. Roush prizes these bats so highly that he declines to loan them to his clubmates.

Mrs. Schenk Is Leader.

Mrs. Schenk, with a total of 480, for an average of 160, which included games of 156, 143 and 181, was high in the weekly round of the Compton-Shenandoah Ladies' Bowling League last week. Despite her high total, her team, the Universities, lost the odd game of the Elzees. Mrs. Mustine, 442, was high for the winners. In the other match, the Comptons took two of three from the Shenandoahs.

Ruth.

BABE RUTH upon a summer's day,
For the pesky pill did lay.

The pitcher hurled it through the air
And offered up a silent prayer.

The pesky pill and willow met;
The pesky pill is going yet.

And of all sad words of rarest truth
The saddest are: "Along came Ruth."

Next Year.

The major leagues will in all probability return to the old 154-game schedule next year. Thereby giving the Browns and Cards a chance to finish higher up or lower down in the race, as the case may be.

Dope.

Bill Larue, who licked Willie Meehan, who is alleged to have whipped Jack Dempsey, was knocked out and into the press seats in the second round by Carl Morris, who was knocked galley west not to mention east, north and south, by Jack Dempsey. All of which would indicate that scrambled eggs are not worth 60 cents a portion in any man's restaurant.

The Cincinnati Reds, in their recent swing around the Eastern circuit, played to 144,889 paid admissions. Indicating that the Reds are great drawing cards or the well and favorably known press gate is not doing so well.

See where Congress has decided not to present Gen. Persing with a sword. We didn't think they would take our little joke that seriously.

In order to buy a ticket to the world's series games in Cincinnati you have to file an application card. The w. s. is going to be a big society event in Cincy. Admission by card only.

College Football To Open Saturday

Harvard and Other Elevens Scheduled to Open Fiftieth Anniversary.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The college football season, relieved at last from the depressing influence of the world war, which cut into the sport so deeply for three or four years, is at hand.

Harvard, Dartmouth, Brown, Rutgers and West Point among others will take the gridiron for their first games next Saturday, while on Oct. 14, practically every team in the East will go into action.

Harvard has been at work for two weeks in preliminary practice, while Yale, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Columbia and all the rest are now busy getting ready for the opening games, either one or two weeks off.

Indications point to the teams at Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Cornell and, in fact, at all the colleges being well up to the standard of the best years.

This season marks the fiftieth anniversary of the game as played in this country. It was first recognized in 1869, and since then has grown to such girth and prominence that it stands today as the most popular of all college sports.

New Zealand Has Expert Hurdler.

New Zealand has a hurdler of uncommon ability in H. E. Wilson, who won the 120-yard title in recent English track and field sports. He traveled the course on wet grass in 0:15 4-5.

Mound City's One Ring Champion to Box Here Tuesday

"Babe" Asher, A. E. F. Bantamweight Titleholder, Meets Bobby Hughes.

VISITOR'S RECORD GOOD

Owns Victories Over Zulu Kid, Earl Puryear, Young Sandow, and Others.

Johnny "Babe" Asher, St. Louis' only ring champion, holder of the bantamweight championship of the American Expeditionary Forces, will make his first appearance in St. Louis next Tuesday night at the South Broadway Athletic Club, where he boxes Bobby Hughes, a New Orleans product, with a rather pretentious record.

Asher, prior to the war, was known as Harry Kabakoff's sparring partner. He appeared in amateur and professional boxing contests of minor importance. Later he was one of Uncle Sam's victorious army in France. It was under the army boxing rules that Asher came to the front. He represented the United States in the Interallied championships and worked his way to the final round, where he lost a 10-round decision to "Digger" Evans, the Australian veteran.

In this contest Asher shows a newspaper reproduction of a photograph in which Evans has just been knocked to the canvas. "Babe" says he lost the verdict, notwithstanding he twice upset his opponent. Evans once gained a 10-round decision over Jimmy Wilde, he states.

Asher has been working here for several weeks, and is in top condition, thanks to fine workouts with Harry Kabakoff, the rejuvenated featherweight.

Hughes Spoiled Puryear's Chance.

Hughes is not known to St. Louisans save for a few fights of later note. The most important among these was the 15-round draw with Earl Puryear at Tulsa, July 4. Puryear was matched with Pete Herman for the title, at this time, but the affair was called off following his showing against Hughes.

Hughes' record for the past four years shows only three defeats. Four years ago Henry Gormly beat him in six rounds. This year he lost a 15-round verdict to K. O. Brown, the hard-hitting bantam, and recently to Frankie Mason in 15 rounds at Tulsa.

Among his victims at various times may be mentioned Young Zulu Kid, Nate Jackson, Earl Puryear, K. O. Brown, Young Sandow, Jimmy Curtis (knockout in nine rounds), Johnny Coulon and others.

COOMBS ONLY SLIGHTLY INJURED WHEN SHOT

PALESTINE, Tex., Sept. 20.—Jack Coombs, former famous baseball player, who was shot in the leg while engaged in a dispute over the right-of-way on a country road near here last night, sustained a flesh wound and was only slightly hurt. Dan Laroe, a road contractor, the other party to the dispute, said today the wounding of Coombs was accidental.

Coombs was driving his car along a narrow road, closely followed by Laroe, who, according to Coombs, tried to pass him. Coombs says he stopped his car when a suitable spot was reached and the quarrel followed.

Laroe asserted today his gun was accidentally discharged when he struck at Coombs as the latter attempted to leave his car.

Both men expressed regret over the accident.

RECEIPTS OF FUR SALES IN 10 DAYS TOTAL $15,334,548

Auction Just Finished Here Believed by Officials of Exchange to Have Set World Record.

NUMBER OF PELTS HIGH IN MILLIONS

Buyers Were Present From Many Countries — Large Orders for German Houses Reported.

The fall sale of the International Fur Exchange, the largest of its series of raw fur sales in progress for 10 days past, ended yesterday afternoon with an announced total of $15,334,548 in receipts.

This auction in money and in the quantity of the offerings, is believed by the officers of the Exchange to have been the largest that has ever taken place in the world. The number of pelts ran high in the millions, the number of Australian and New Zealand rabbits alone being estimated at 6,000,000, at an estimate of 10 pelts to the pound.

The sum paid was divided about equally between American and foreign buyers. The goods, as well as the more than 600 buyers, came from all regions. The auction catalogues showed sealskins from Alaska, and rabbits from New Zealand, white fox from Yukon territory and red fox from Australia; foxes from Japan, Patagonia, the Balkan territories, from Texas and Siberia, from Macedonia and New York, all met in the same selling event. House cats and mountain lion appeared side by side. Moles and monkeys consorted on the sales sheets. Tigers from the tropics and Polar bears from beyond the Arctic Circle hung in adjoining avenues in the sample warehouses. Sables and chipmunk, the one representing hundreds of dollars the pelt and the other a few cents, each found appreciative buyers.

Buyers From Many Countries.

The buyers were from Australia, New Zealand, the Argentine, Japan, Siberia, London, Paris, Amsterdam, Lodz (Poland), Russia, Sweden and Italy. It was said that an appreciable number of foreign orders, executed by local brokers, were for German houses. France, Sweden, London and Switzerland sent substantial buying orders, in addition to those placed by representatives from European markets.

The raw fur sales here begún on a large scale three years ago, with a fall sale amounting to $1,300,000, continued uninterrupted through the war period. These sales have established St. Louis as the dominating factor in the fur market.

Originally dealing in the peltries of nearby territories, such as mink, skunk, marten, civet, fox and wolf, the St. Louis market branched out to take in the northern furs. Connections were made in Alaska, the far Northwest of Canada, and the Northwest of the United States. Then came the opoprtunity to handle the valuable fur possessions of the United States Government and to such effect was this done that today a new and valuable industry—the dressing and dyeing of United States Government Alaska sealskins—formerly a foreign trade—has become a St. Louis industry, and a magnet that draws the dealers in the finest furs to the St. Louis market.

Market Lowers Price.

Today there are established permanent foreign branches in London, Moscow, New Zealand, Australia, in Vladivostok, Siberia; and in Harbin, Northern Manchuria; in Buenos Aires, in Canada and from New York to San Francisco.

Formerly American dealers in foreign peltries had to buy at third, fourth and even fifth hand. Today, in St. Louis, they buy direct at first hand, and thereby save intermediate profits.

Russian and Siberian peltries were formerly gathered at Yurtisk, then sent to Nijni-Novgorod, thence to Moscow, thence to Leipzig, eventually to London, and thence to this side of the Atlantic. Today, the American woman can buy the choicest Russian sables, Russian ermine, squirrel, etc., at prices far cheaper than European women ever purchased them for. Coming in at San Francisco, Seattle or New York, entered as raw furs, the customs duty is relatively small. Purchased raw at first hand direct, dressed and dyed, when necessary, in this country, made up by American workmen, the American woman can have her choice of the world's furs, at a price that formerly the markets of Europe could not offer.

Russian Sables Offered.

In place of the American woman going abroad for her furs and fur fashions, the European woman is coming to the United States for both. The large number of foreign buyers at the sale just ended proved this.

These foreign buyers paid high prices for choice United States Government Alaska sealskins and blue fox, silver fox, dark mink, beaver and otter, as well as for furs of lesser values.

A notable factor in the sale was contributed by the presence of 7600 Russian sables, many of them Imperial Crown Russian sables of the quality formerly reserved for the then Imperial family of all the Russians. Today the American woman can buy these furs in any important city. Sold raw, the choicest brought $1200 cash, and a collection of 90 sables sold for an average of more than $500 each.

One little canvas-covered and sewed box, from Irkutsk, Siberia, a box about 2 feet long by 2 feet high and a foot wide, was insured for $90,000. It was filled with Russian sables, and not a great number of them.

Australia alone got more than $1,500,000 returns from her furs sold at this sale. The United States Government profited about $1,000.000. One Siberian agricultural association sold furs to the amount of nearly $1,000,000, and invested the resulting profits in agricultural machinery, shoes, clothing and other manufactured goods, for shipment to Siberia. Canadian fur shippers found most profitable transactions, and shippers from all parts of the United States declared themselves well satisfied with their returns.

1919 Red Book Shows 198,580,746 Dozens of Eggs Had Farm Worth of $61,553,131—Live and Dressed Fowls Brought $40,161,100.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY — Missouri, the Poultry Queen of the Union, added further laurels to her "lay of the hen" in 1917 when the total value of all farm-yard products, 114 counties considered, reached the enormous sum of $101,844,782, announces advance information from the 1919 Missouri Red Book, given publicity today by Commissioner William H. Lewis. Included in this vast worth are all chickens, pullets, roosters, capons, turkeys, geese, ducks, squabs, pigeons and guinea fowls and eggs and feathers marketed that year by Missouri farmers and poultry raisers.

While there were substantial gains in the number of pounds of poultry and dozens of eggs hauled or sent to consuming points, a heavy increase in unit value of the commodities considered, due chiefly to war conditions, brought about the high total value.

Comparisons With Other Years.

In comparison, the 1916 products marketed from Missouri's 114 counties had a worth of $72,399,310; the output of 1915, $63,486,618, the output of 1914, $58,708,484, and that of 1913, $53,225,113.

With Missouri's surplus farmyard products in 1917 worth $101,844,782, it will be interesting to know that over 60 per cent came from sales that year of 198,580,746 dozens of eggs, which, at an average of 31 cents had a farm worth of $61,563,131. This sum is nearly $10,000,000 more than all of the States' poultry products sold for in 1914, regardless of the fact that the sum realized that year was $53,225,113, of which $29,026,584 came from the sale of 193,510,560 dozens, and of eggs at an average farm worth of 15 cents a dozen.

Live Poultry Statistics.

According to the calculations of Supervisor of Statistics A. T. Edmonston, Missouri farmers and poultry raisers in 1917, through marketing 240,350,522 pounds of live and dressed poultry gathered in $40,161,100. The quantity of live poultry sold was 172,333,017 pounds which, at 16.2 cents a pound, had a total farm worth of $27,917,949. The 88,017,505 pounds dressed poultry sold had a total farm worth of $12,243,151.

For a total of 1,174,181 pounds of feathers which were marketed by poultry farmers and poultry packers, at an average of 26 cents a pound, $320,551 was realized.

The portion of farmyard products sold directly to consumers includes poultry and eggs hauled in vehicles by farmers into cities such as St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Joesph, Moberly, Mexico, Sedalia, Carthage, Cape Girardeau, Webb City, Springfield, Louisiana, Hannibal, Jefferson City and other cities, and into many towns and villages and retailed there from wagons or else sold outright to merchants, hotels or cafes.

"PETE" STARTS BARGAIN SALE, "SEVEN CENTS, TWO FOR 15"

Vendor of Sweetmeats Smilingly Announces New Price for His Wares.

The newest Fall style in profiteering was introduced yesterday by Pietro Areno, veteran vendor of fruits and sweetmeats, known as "Pete, the apple man" to many workers in downtown office buildings, where he and his basket have long been a familiar sight.

"Pete" elevated the price of five-cent articles to six cents some time ago. Yesterday he cheerfully announced that he would "maka da beeg bargain." The new price, he smilingly said, was seven cents, two for 15. The multiplication table was vainly hurled at him. Sums in division and subtraction left him cold. Argument was futile, and imprecation only found him urbane—and determined.

"Seven cent,'" he said, proffering his wares; "taka togeth— fifteen."

"Why don't you make it three for a quarter?" inquired one despairing cynic. Pietro thought seriously about that, and then asked an old and trustworthy client if he would lose anything on such a deal.

"Nothing but trade," he was told, upon which he declared he would accept the proposal, but the bidder had thrown up his hands and fled.

AIR TANKS TO BE NOISELESS

U. R. Will Equip Covers With Rubber Strip to Deaden Sound.

E. D. Smith, chief engineer of the United Railways Co., told Director of Streets and Sewers Talbert yesterday that the company would equip all the air filling stations of the company with a rubber strip or wooden top in order to deaden the noise when the iron cover of the tanks is closed by the motorman.

Talbert said he called to Smith's attention the numerous complaints he was getting from persons living near air stations of the noise made by the car crews in slamming the iron covers of the air tanks. The residents of an apartment house at DeBaliviere and Pershing avenues complained to Talbert that it was impossible to sleep because of noise from an air station in the rear of their apartment.

JUDGE LANDIS HOLDS 16 MEN IN BEER CASES AT CHICAGO

Number, Whose Bonds Are Fixed at $15,000 Each, Includes "Jim" O'Leary, Saloonkeeper.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20. — Federal Judge Landis started the first wholesale drive against the saloons of Chicago today when he held 16 men to the grand jury on bonds of $15,000 each in the beer smuggling cases which arose from the transportation of beer across the Wisconsin and Illinois line. The drive was the first sweeping effort to stop the sale of liquor in Chicago since the supposed closing of saloons on July 1.

Included in the list of men held to the grand jury was "Jim" O'Leary, Chicago saloonkeeper and bookmaker, who was held principally because he refused to answer questions in regard to the purchase of beer at Kenosha, Wis., for a representative of the Miller Brewing Co. at Milwaukee. The other men were drivers of trucks and car tenders.

The truck drivers were charged with conspiracy to violate the federal law forbidding interstate transportation of alcoholic drinks.

ST. LOUISAN PATENTS A PLOW

S. T. Ingram Says His Invention Will Revolutionize Farm Work.

Patents have been granted by the United States Patent Office to S. T. Ingram, a machinist living at 5944 Theodosia avenue, for a rotary plow and cultivator of new design, according to information received by Ingram yesterday. Plans for the manufacture of the implement have not been developed.

Ingram declares the plow will revolutionize farming methods and greatly reduce the farmer's labor. Ground treated by his plow, the inventor declares, is completely pulverized and retains moisture more readily than under the present treatment. In addition to plowing, the implement will cultivate wheat and corn, cut and shock corn and wheat, bore post holes, bore out stumps and dig ditches, Ingram says.

OFFICERS OF BANKERS TO ARRIVE THIS WEEK

4000 Delegates Expected to Attend Convention of American Association.

With the arrival in St. Louis Friday afternoon of a special train containing officers and employes of the American Bankers' Association and delegates from Eastern cities, final plans will be made for the four-day program of the Fifty-fifth Annual convention of the association, which opens Sept. 29.

J. L. Johnston, general chairman of the Arrangements Committee, and Mrs. N. A. McMillan, general chairman of the various women's committees, will meet Thursday afternoon with members of all local committees to discuss final arrangements for handling the convention.

Many important topics, including foreign credits, the labor question and the railroad problem, will come up for discussion by prominent financiers and business men. The general convention sessions will be held at the Shubert-Jefferson Theater. The Jefferson, Statler and Planters Hotels have been designated as headquarters hotels, and various committee and section meetings will be held at these places during the week.

Men of Prominence to Speak.

The convention will be formally opened at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, Sept. 30. F. O. Watts, president of the First National Bank and of the St. Louis Clearing House Association, will deliver the address of welcome. Robert M. Maddox of Atlanta, Ga., president of the association, will deliver the president's annual address. Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma and Henry P. Davison of J. P. Morgan & Co., New York, will also address the convention on this date.

Other speakers of prominence include Senator Albert B. Cummins, Dr. Irving Fisher of Yale University, David R. Francis of St. Louis, Ambassador to Russia, John Barrett, director-general of the Pan-American Union, and P. P. Claxton, Commissioner of Education, Washington, D. C.

It is expected that more than 4000 delegates and about 1000 wives and daughters of the bankers will be in attendance. An elaborate entertainment program has been prepared so as not to interfere with the business sessions of the convention. An indoor circus, hippodrome and dansant, which is scheduled for the Coliseum, Tuesday night, Sept. 30, will be the principal entertainment feature. There will be a smoker at Hotel Statler on Monday night and a dance at the Planters Hotel Wednesday night.

Entertainment for Women.

The women's committees have also provided the following additional program for the women visitors:

Automobile drive, Monday afternoon, ending at the Art Museum, where refreshments will be served: a theater party to see "A Tailor-made Man" at the American Theater, that night. Tuesday afternoon will be left open for the women to shop and visit places of interest as they choose. They will attend the circus at the Coliseum that night. On Wednesday afternoon there will be a musicale at the St. Louis Country Club for the women. Tea will be served each afternoon at Hotel Statler.

Seven Boys, 11 to 14, Arrested.

Railroad detectives last night arrested seven boys, 11 to 14 years old, and placed them in the Children's Home for trial before the Juvenile Court for stealing shoes, canned food and meat from Missouri Pacific freight cars in the Iron Mountain yards near Chouteau avenue and Gratiot street. The police say that this is the "Spruce street gang," and that they have been pilfering from the cars for several weeks. Two other boys were implicated.

TOWN NAMES REVEAL MUCH STATE HISTORY

Nature of Country, Whims and Ambitions Found in Missouri Designations.

Names of Missouri towns give an interesting insight of the State's history of the nature of the county, its interests, whims and, in some cases, the personal and political ambitions of the founders.

The French and Indians gave towns their most descriptive and imaginative names. Towns along the Mississippi and Missouri rivers, settled by the French, reflect in their names the deep religious feeling of the early settlers.

When the pioneers from Virginia and Kentucky named their settlements here they were prompted by the political agitation throughout the Territory, and later the State, to select the names of statesmen and politicians. It is for this reason, perhaps, that almost all of Missouri's 114 counties bear the names of persons.

Obscurity in Names.

Obscurity and contention surround the names of many cities and towns. For instance, not all persons are absolutely certain for whom St. Louis was named. Some contend that it was for Louis XV, who was reigning at the time that Pierre Laclede Liguest started the settlement, while others maintain that Louis XV was no saint in a great many respects and that the city was named after Louis IX, a patron saint, on whose birthday, Aug. 25, the people held the fete of St. Louis.

The cities of the State were usually named after persons. Kansas City is an exception as it derives its name from the Kansas Indians who were found in Western Missouri and Eastern Kansas. St. Joseph got its name much like St. Louis. Moberly, Hannibal, Joplin, Jefferson City, were all named for persons.

Spanish intrigue is found in the naming of New Madrid, which is also the name of the county it is in. The town was founded in 178[illegible] by a Col. Morgan, who was to bring a large number of settlers there and rule them under a grant from the King of Spain, who wanted to gain a foothold in this Western empire. The settlers came, but disease drove all but a few Frenchmen and trading Americans away.

The name Portage des Sioux, in St. Charles County, recalls a clever ruse of the Sioux Indians. At this point the Missouri and Mississippi rivers are only five miles apart. The Missouri tribe heard that the Sioux were coming down the Mississippi river to pillage them so they ambushed themselves at the mouth of the Missouri to give battle. The Sioux were even more clever. They landed at the portage, carried their canoes the five miles to the Missouri river, paddled to the home of the Missouri tribe, pillaged the village and returned the same way they came, while the Missouri tribe was still waiting at the junction of the rivers. Frequent councils were held here with the Indians, the Western tribes signing a peace treaty in 1815 at this place.

Boone Found Cure.

Mineola, in Montgomery County, means "healing waters." There is a mineral spring there at which Daniel Boone, the pioneer, is said to have been cured of kidney trouble. Until a few years ago it was more talked of by St. Louis motorists because of the ungraded hills on the Old Trails Road than because of the springs.

Knobnoster, in Johnson County, was given its name because of two adjacent hills from which ancient skeletons have been taken. Indian tradition relates that a great battle was fought on this site.

Nodaway County derives its name from a tranquil river which flows through it.

Boone County was named shortly after the Missouri pioneer died. Most of the county's earliest settlers came from Kentucky as did Boone.

A lone black jack tree is responsible for the name of the town Lone Jack in Jackson County, A monument now stands in place of this tree which was a landmark for hunters and travelers.

Potosi is named after the Bolivian Potosi mines. It is a Portuguese word meaning "an eruption of silver." It was settled by the French under the Spanish regime. They expected to find silver but were content when they discovered large amounts of lead and galena. It was also called Mine a' Breton and Mine a' Burton by the French. It was renamed Potosi in 1800. De Soto explored this place.

Traders Brought Name

When traders asked for credit in Southwest Missouri, when lead was the medium of exchange, the proverbial reply was, "Ore-or-no-go." Thus Oronogo in Jasper County received its name. This town was first known as Minersville and was the first to bring notice to the mineral wealth of that part of the state.

Peirce, or Pierce City, in Lawrence County nearby, has had a different history. To this day the name is not definitely established. Residents say the town was named after President Pierce of the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad and that it was renamed Peirce later on to oust a postmaster from office. The name, they say, has been changed by Congress to give political favorites the postmastership. The postal directory gives the name as Pierce, while the railroads and the town itself use Peirce.

The postal directory shows that many of the early settlers wished to perpetuate some fond memory. Feminine names such as Agnes, Anabel, Florence, Daisy and Emma are quite frequent. There are few masculine names.

Perhaps the best known town in Missouri to be named after a woman is Sedalia. Sarah Smith, the youngest daughter of George R. Smith, the founder, was known by the pet name of "Sed." When the Missouri Pacific Railroad refused to run its tracks through Georgetown, then the metropolis of Pettis County, Smith laid out the town of "Sedville," about eight miles south of Georgetown. In 1860 the plat was filed under the name of Sedalia, and the explanation for the change of name is that Sedalia is more euphonious than Sedville.

Many of the smaller villages have odd names which represent the whims of the founders. Gammett's "Origin of Names of Places in the United States" says that Liberal, Mo., was named so in an attempt to characterize the residents. It makes no mention of how towns like Peculiar, Amity, Competition, Aid, Eminence and Frankenstein got their names. One town in Laclede County is Fate. Success is the name of a town in Texas County. Thus are two points of view expressed.

STRIKING WRITERS STAND FIRM

Their Newspaper Has 8000 Circulation in New Haven.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 20.—Both sides remain firm, with not a sign of weakening as yet, in the strike of the news writers of the local newspapers, who have organized the Newspaper Writers' Association.

The newspapers continue to print with improvised forces. The publishers have not imported any editorial workers from other cities and apparently have not made any effort to do so. The strikers, whose association the employers continue to refuse to recognize even to the extent of a conference, are making a vigorous bid for public sympathy, mainly through the medium of their newspaper, the Reporter, which they began issuing Wednesday. More than 8000 copies of this newspaper have been sold daily. Robert Buckley, the solitary reporter who stayed on his job, refusing to go out wtih his coworkers, has been stricken with appendicitis. He is in the general hospital and his condition is reported to be critical. Ever since the strike began he has been working day and night, getting along with about three hours' sleep in the 24 hours.

REHEARSAL FOR SONG FESTIVAL FRIDAY NIGHT

Concert Will Be Given Saturday by 3000 From City's Sunday Schools.

The rehearsal for the St. Louis Sunday School song festival and contest to be held at the Municipal Theater next Saturday evening, which was to have been held at the theater yesterday afternoon, was postponed because of the threatening weather until Friday at 8 p. m.

The concert, under the joint auspices of the St. Louis Sunday School Association and the Sunday School Athletic Association, will be given by 3000 pupils. In case of inclement weather, it will be given at a future date at the Coliseum, it was announced yesterday by Victor C. Brooks, in charge of the arrangements.

The city has been divided into 19 groups. Fifteen of these groups have organized singing choruses and will participate. These choruses include from five to 10 Sunday Schools each and number from 150 to 300 singers.

Each group has its own chairman and chorus leader and has selected its own song and is rehearsing it for competition. Rehearsals are being held weekly and next week each group will have several. Each group will appear on the stage in turn, in the order determined by choice, will sing its song to the accompaniment of two pianos, and then will move off the stage, the time allowed being five minutes.

In Two Divisions.

The groups have been separated into two divisions, one to be designated by a blue button and the other by a white one, the group number being printed on the button. The blue division will sing first, assembling by groups in the rear of the stage, while the white division will be given seats in the audience. An intermission will then be held during which the white division will vacate the seats and assemble by groups back of the stage and the blue division will take the seats.

At the end of the group contest singing all the white division will be reassembled on the stage and the blue division will be massed on the left as near to the stage as possible, and the whole 3000 voices will join in massed choral singing, accompanied by an orchestra of 70 to 80 pieces composed of the combined sunday school orchestras. Three chorals will be sung, concluding with the Star Spangled Banner.

Winners Will Be Announced.

Before the massed singing begins the winners of the fifth and third prizes will be announced, and the chorus leader of the group winning the third prize will lead the first chorus, which is "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name." The winners of the fourth and second prizes will then be announced, and the leader of the second prize group will lead the massed choral in "America, the Beautiful." Then the winner of the first prize will be announced and the chorus leader of that group will lead in "God of Our Fathers." Shirley V. Brooks, the general director, will lead in "The Star Spangled Banner" for the conclusion as well as in "America" by the audience for the opening.

The prizes will be a percentage division of half the receipts, the remainder being used to pay expenses and for the support of the two associations. It is specified that the money must be devoted by the winning groups to some religious or benevolent purpose. Tickets are being sold by the Sunday schools.

FORMALDEHYDE IN BEVERAGES

U. S. Agents Seize Liquor Containing Poison, Sold as Drinks.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Fifty samples of liquids sold as nonbeverage, chief among which was alcohol adulterated with 1.250 part of formaldehyde, have been sent for analysis to Washington by internal revenue inspectors who have gone on the trail of a new kind of moonshiner.

Under the prohibition status, alcohol must be denatured by introduction of any one of 11 chemicals specified by the Government. Many of the drinks are said to be poisonous. Agents reported that they found 200 men in line buying alcohol containing formaldehyde at $1.25 a pint. The Government tax on denatured alcohol is $2.20 a gallon, but the revenue agents say they will attempt to collect the tax of $6.60 a gallon required on alcoholic beverages because the seller knew that the adulterated liquids were to be used as beverages.

Service vs. Service

Much is said about service now-a-days. The simplicity of the Traffic's construction—its ease of operation—its strength and staunchness—its efficient performance—its specifications which stand as indisputable proof of service on the job bears evidence that the Traffic is not a first cousin to repair shops, but a stranger to the much-touted friend "service station" through infrequent calls for adjustment.

Accidents are liable to happen to any truck, in which event St. Louis users of Traffics have the advantage of the supervision of the men at the factory where their truck was built. That means something.

The Traffic saves you hundreds of dollars in first cost—hundreds of dollars in maintenance cost, and cuts the cost of hauling with teams in half. It is the lowest priced 4000-pound-capacity truck in the world, because of quantity production on one model of the accepted standard size.

DEALS FOR LARGE TRACTS REPORTED VIRTUALLY CLOSED

Realty Activities Said to Foreshadow Important Movement Toward Homes and Industrial Development.

By Berry Moore.

Activity in real estate in St. Louis and in the suburban area, which for some time has been confined chiefly to homes, is extending to other classes of property. There is now a well defined demand for factory sites as well as for homes, sought by both speculators and prospective builders.

While details are not available, it is known that negotiations have been virtually concluded for two large tracts. One of these is to be platted and restricted for residential purposes of a high type, while the other, which is essentially a factory proposition, has been acquired as a speculation. The purchasers in each instance represent professional interests whose operations are regarded as forerunners of awakening in the localities in which they have been launched.

Negotiations have also been concluded involving the control of a commanding site in downtown St. Louis which is destined for improvement with a handsome modern structure, according to realty circles.

Interest in Bank Building.

Speculation is being indulged in as to what disposition will be made of the former quarters of the Third National Bank, at the southwest corner of Broadway and Olive street, and the adjoining property in Broadway that was acquired as a site for an annex to that financial establishment, before its absorption by the recently formed First National Bank.

Owners of property in that locality have been making heroic efforts to induce the First National Bank to forego its plans to build at the northwest corner of Seventh and Locust streets, and to occupy instead the former quarters of the Third National Bank, which, with the additional ground on Broadway, could be made adequate to the requirements, it is declared by a large stockholder of the bank. This stockholder showed how the former Third National Bank quarters, which now embrace the entire ground floor of the Third National Bank building at the southwest corner of Broadway and Olive street, could be extended through to Pine street, thereby giving it the entire Broadway frontage from Olive street to Pine street, with entrances from the three streets.

In the event that the orginal plans of the First National Bank to build at the northwest corner of Seventh and Locust streets are carried through, the Third National Bank building, which now is the property of the First National Bank, will perforce have to be disposed of by virtue of a provision in the banking laws which prohibits a national bank from owning real estate other than its homestead.

Supply of Homes Scant.

The demand for homes has been on such a scale that the supply has been fairly well depleted, while building has not been resumed to an extent that will provide for the present demand, to say nothing of that of the future, which, with the advent of many new big plants for which sites have been secured and on which construction in a number of instances has been launched, will bring to St. Louis within the next year, it is estimated, not less than 100,000 residents.

N. S. Wood advises owners to sell now if they can get what they have been asking since 1910. He likewise advises prospective purchasers not to delay in making their purchases.

R. King Kauffman, vice president of the Mercantile Trust Co., has returned to the city from a vacation with Mrs. Kauffman on the Atlantic Coast, in time to attend a special directors' meeting of the Best-Clymer Manufacturing Co., of which he is vice president and which was reorganized a year ago with a largely increased capital. The company has been enjoying great prosperity. This has been reflected in the price of the common stock, which has advanced within the last 60 days from $45 to $73 a share. At the beginning of the year it could have been bought at $25 a share.

Country Club Tract Lot Sold.

Cornet & Zeibig announced the sale of a lot in the new Country Club subdivision to William Bagnell, who is having plans drawn for a home to be erected soon.

MERCANTILE CLUB BUILDING TO HAVE AN EXTRA FLOOR

Labeaume & Klein, architects, have completed plans for an additional story to the Mercantile Club Building at the southwest corner of Seventh and Locust streets, which will increase its height to seven stories, and for other expenditures which will make this structure absolutely fireproof and one of the finest of its type in the city.

The additional story will replace the high peaked roof, and a flat roof will surmount it, thus sacrificing picturesqueness for common utility.

The basement, first and second floor are being altered and remodeled for quarters for the W. R. Compton Co., which recently purchased the building through Cornet & Zeibig, from a syndicate of which former Congressman Nathan Frank was president. The upper floors will be rented out.

The total cost of the alterations and new equipment, which will be of the highest type, will be about $250,000. The agency of the bunting has been placed with Cornet & Zeibig.

THE BRANSCOME APARTMENT HOTEL

5370 Pershing Avenue

The above building is now nearing completion and the remaining suites are rapidly being taken. The furnished apartment which is on exhibition has been crowded with visitors and we feel very gratified at the many complimentary expressions that have been made in reference to the floor plans and interior arrangement and the elegance of the furnishings. By the way, while on the subject of furnishing—will say this building was furnished throughout by a St. Louis firm, Stix, Baer & Fuller, in competition with Marshall Field and Mandell Bros. of Chicago, and some of the best-known Eastern decorators.

For the information of the public and those who have not as yet visited the building, will say we are erecting one of the finest buildings of its type in the country. One wing of the building is given over entirely to furnished hotel suites, one and two rooms, including dressing room, living-room and outside bathroom. The balance of the building given over to kitchenette apartments, furnished or unfurnished. These include living-room, dressing room, outside bath, breakfast room and kitchenette. Fans on the roof are used by direct ventilation to exhaust all fumes and odors in the kitchen. Other apartments have additional sun rooms or bedrooms.

The building will have a high-class cafe on the first floor, together with spacious lobby, ladies' parlor and gentlemen's smoking room.

No money has been spared to give the people of St. Louis a building that will rank among the first for convenience and comfort.

Those wishing suites should make application without delay.

FINANCIAL

WE differ from all others in conducting our oil investments both for ourselves and clientele. Large capital and acreage is misleading and does not produce returns that investors seek in this line of business. By search and visit we get land in the very heart of the largest producing fields from land owners not being strong enough financially to drill. We finance them and supervise the drilling only of land where the largest wells are located; only a limited number of clients are with us, hence a producing well of 1000 barrels means wealth for each investor. We have at present a very attractive deal to close, requiring an investor with $10,000 or two with $5000 cash, that will bring by Christmas very interesting profits. Interviews only through our attorney, Mr. R. T. Stillwell, 318 Central National Bank Bldg. Exclusive high-class clientele only.

Lies the one we love so dearly,
In her lonely, silent grave.
Those who saw her in her casket,
Pure and white, and, O, so fair,
Thought she was the light of heaven,
As she lay so sweetly there.
Just a year ago she left us—
How we miss you, baby, dear;
And remember all your kindness,
As we drop a silent tear.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Query for Sunday must be mailed a week beforehand.

J. S.—Unless married before then the marriage license should be returned within 90 days. Failure to do so is misdemeanor.

MRS. W. W. H.—The notice is not according to law, and you may ignore the same; should have been served prior to rent day.

READER.—The facts you state in reference to salesman and collections not sufficient upon which to conclude the firm's liability.

MAJ.—Canada has a Parliament of its own which makes the laws for the Dominion. She does not pay any direct taxes to England.

WORRIED.—Chickens are privileged to roam at will and scratch where they please; our lawmakers have given them no attention.

PALMS.—Palm street is not to be altered that we know of; however, to make certain inquire at Special Tax Office, 5th floor, city hall.

MRS. M. S.—If you have missed some of your payments, unless you pay up, the piano may be taken and sold to satisfy the balance due, provided same is secured by chattel mortgage.

CONSTANT READER.—Tenant is liable for the mirror in cabinet mantel accidentally broken through any cause; besides, the cause you state was not accidental, it was carelessness on your part.

READER.—Whether the husband acquired the real estate prior to or after marriage, is all the same; anyone buying the same without wife joining in the deed, takes the same, subject to all the rights wife may have in same at her husband's death; if she predeceases him purchaser's title to same would in such case be perfect.

BRENNAN.—You cannot enlist in the Merchant Marine, if a soldier, unless you have received your permanent discharge from the army. If you were put on the reserve list because of dependency and the dependency has been removed you can re-enlist in the army.

LAW.—Where there is business trickery as you charge there must be some trade organization in your line through which you can reach the offenders. Publishing them might lead to considerable trouble. Settle the case the best way possible and cease business relations.

A. L.—There is no such thing as a joint snake as described in nature fake stories. What probably gave rise to these joint-snake stories is the fact that there is a reptile, the blind-worm or slow-worm, which looks like a snake, but is a legless lizard. This creature is so timid that, when caught, it becomes rigid, and in this condition is easily broken.

LANDLORD.—Taking rent day to be Sep. 20, notice to vacate must be delivered prior to that day; must be in writing; date and address to the tenant and say: Take notice, that you will be required to yield up and deliver to me, possession of the premises you now occupy, being lower flat known as No. 13 Doe street, City of St. Louis, Mo., on the 19th day of October, 1919, the intention being to terminate your tenancy at that time. John Smith, landlord. The tenant has all of the 19th day of October in which to vacate and if still in after that day remedy is in an action for unlawful detainer. The law is not 30 days, but one month, and some months have less and some more than 30 days.

Sales Executives

From the higher type of salesman—the business-getter with a successful record—who feels that his present connection limits his opportunity for development and future growth, we desire replies to this ad.

We are not interested in real estate, stock or specialty salesmen, but only in the man who can refer us to several years of road-selling success calling on the jobber and retailer.

Applicants must be more than mediocre salesmen; must be in their thirties and have good health and business poise; possess a strong personality indicative of ability and enthusiasm and be willing to accept assignments in any part of the United States east of the Rocky Mountains.

If you measure up to our requirements you have an opportunity to make a permanent connection with one of the largest and best-known manufacturers in the country. Your future is limited only by your own shortcomings and inability to grasp opportunities.

For obvious reasons this "ad" must be run "blind." We will hold your replies in confidence and for those who sell themselves in their letter we will arrange a personal interview.

"OUR HELPING HANDS are calling you." "Where your dollars will bring the limit for clothes." We are helping you to lower the "high cost of living." If there ever was a "time" when a man should make every "dollar" bring the "limit," time is now. We sure will make your dollars bring the limit here. "What the Drummers' Sample Clothes Shop means to you:" These fine garments are made by the manufacturers for display or modeling purposes for traveling salesmen; they are made much better than the regular goods; after they show them off we buy them at a big discount; we give you the benefit of our immense buying capacity; this policy enables us to save you $5.00 to $7.50. We're "lowering" the "high" cost of "living;" we're in a "class" by ourselves; we claim with our "5 big stores" and "our policy of close-to-the-shore profits" "out-of-the-high-rent-district," eliminating all unnecessary expense. "Oh Boy!" our place to "Spend your dough." We have the goods now on hand at the old prices; buy now and "save yourself" 25 to 50 per cent. Never in the "history" of these "United States" will you "see prices" as "high" as this fall. Don't "tread the old beaten path," where you have spent your money for "friendship" and not for "clothes." We'll sell you clothes "at the price, not friendship." Play the "new game." At our "close-to-the-shore profits" policy; if your "dough counts," all we ask of you, "go shopping around" first and come here last, and we will certainly get your "dough." We are the only store in St. Louis showing "real" plain and silk-lined $30 and $35 blue, green, brown flannel waist-line suits at these prices: $19.98, $21.98, $22.98, $24.98 and $27.98. Don't spend "a dollar for clothes" until you see our "fall line." "Pay less; buy more." To the "Drummers' Sample Clothes Shop." Five big stores in one; 7c fare saves you $5 to $7.50; Vandeventer, Market, Sarah, Manchester, Chouteau and all other lines transfer to our door. "We've got the place, the goods at the price." A "price concession to our returning soldiers." "Sample suits," $14.44, $16.66, $18.39, $19.45, $21.89. Sample pants, $2.48, $2.58, $3.46, $4.98; tailor-made suits cost up to $35; our price, $19.50, $22.50, $26.75. We again announce our "Trade-in-Sale" Department. We will make you a liberal allowance on your old clothes for new ones. "The place to buy clothes." 926 S. Vandeventer av., near Chouteau. Liberty Bonds accepted. (c)

OUR big un-called-for-garment sale is now on. We have "released" hundreds of fine suits that will "dress you up." There is no time in life that you get so "down and out" that you can't get into the "Land of Beginning Again;" "Start anew;" we "Are Calling You" with our 5 large stores, 120 feet, filled with "bargains galore." If we don't get your "money for clothes here you don't spend your "dough" right. What you "save when you spend your dough is your profit." "Install the Abrams' System" of clothes-buying and save. Dress up, look prosperous. Don't go around looking "down and out." For 10 years we have saved thousands of dollars for the clothes-buying public. Be "awake" to the "fact" your personal appearance "must count." We have "placed on sale" hundreds of suits, pants, coats and vests, which means a big saving to you. We have in "store" for you high-class suits; you can afford to wear two or three suits a season for the price of the customary one by purchasing our uncalled-for garments from our cleaning department; garments are tailor-made and from the best manufacturers. Can you wear 34, 36, 38, 43, 40, 46 to 50 sizes? Also English and plain models, $7.50 to $15. Vests, 25c; pants, $2 to $3.95; coats, $3 to $6.50; uncalled-for Stetson hats, 95c. Open Sundays until 6 p. m. Abrams Cleaners and Dyers, 926 S. Vandeventer, near Chouteau. Mail orders filled. Both phones. Liberty Bonds accepted.

Free Proof that I Can Raise Your Pay

No matter how much you are earning now, I can show you how to increase it. I have even taken failures and shown them how to make $100—$200, and in one case as high as $2000 weekly. I am willing to prove this entirely at my risk and expense.

LET'S have a little chat about getting ahead—you and I. My name is Pelton. Lots of people call me "The Man Who Makes Men Rich." I don't deny it. I've done it for thousands of people—lifted them up from poverty to riches.

I'm no genius—far from it. I'm just a plain everyday, unassuming sort of man. I know what proverty is. I've looked black despair in the eye—had failure stalk me around and hoodoo everything I did. I've known the bitterest kind of want.

But today all is different. I have money and all of the things that money will buy. I am rich also in the things that money won't buy—health, happiness and friendship. Few people have more of the blessings of the world than I.

IT was a simple thing that jumped me up from poverty to riches. As I've said, I'm no genius. But I had the good fortune to know a genius. One day this man told me a "secret." It had to do with getting ahead. and growing rich. He had used it himself with remarkable results. He said that every wealthy man knew this "secret"—that is why he was rich.

I used the "secret." It surely had a great test. At that time I was flat broke. Worse than that, for I was several thousand dollars in the hole. I had about given up hope when I put the "secret" to work.

At first I couldn't believe my sudden change in fortune. Money actually flowed in on me. I was thrilled with a new sense of power. Things I couldn't do before became as easy for me to do as opening a door. My business boomed and continued to leap ahead at a rate that startled me. Prosperity became my partner. Since that day I've never known what it is to want for money, friendship, happiness, health or any of the good things of life.

That "secret" surely made me rich in every sense of the word.

MY sudden rise to riches naturally surprised others. One by one people came to me and asked me how I did it. I told them. And it worked for them as well as it did for me.

Some of the things this "secret" has done for people are astounding. I would hardly believe them if I hadn't seen them with my own eyes. Adding ten, twenty, thirty or forty dollars a week to a man's income is a mere nothing. That's merely playing at it. In one case I took a rank failure and in a few weeks had him earning as high as $2,000.00 a week. Listen to this:

A young man in the East had an article for which there was a nation-wide demand. For twelve years he "puttered around" with it, barely eking out a living. Today this young man is worth $200,000. He is building a $25,000 home—and paying cash for it. He has three automobiles. His children go to private schools. He goes hunting, fishing, traveling whenever the mood strikes him. His income is over a thousand dollars a week.

In a little town in New York lives a man who two years ago was pitied by all who knew him. From the time he was 14 he had worked and slaved—and at sixty he was looked upon as a failure. Without work—in debt to his charitable friends, with an invalid son to support, the outlook was pitchy black.

Then he learned the "secret." In two weeks he was in business for himself. In three months his plant was working night and day to fill orders. During 1916 the profits were $20,000. During 1917 the profits ran close to $40,000. And this genial 64-year-young man is enjoying pleasures and comforts he little dreamed would ever be his.

I COULD tell you thousands of similar instances. But there's no need to do this as I'm willing to tell you the "secret" itself. Then you can put it to work and see what it will do for you.

I don't claim I can make you rich over night. Maybe I can—maybe I can't. Sometimes I have failures—everyone has. But I do claim that I can help 90 out of every 100 people if they will let me.

A Few Examples

Personal Experiences

Among the 350,000 users of "Power of Will" are such men as Judge Ben B. Lindsey; Supreme Court Justice Parker; Wu Ting Fang, Ex. U. S. Chinese Ambassador; Assistant Postmaster-General Britt; Lieut. Gov. McKelvie of Nebraska; General Manager Christeson of Wells-Fargo Express Co.; E. St. Elmo Lewis, former Vice-Pres. Art Metal Construction Co.; Gov. Ferris of Michigan, and many others of equal prominence.

$300 Profit From One Day's Reading

"The result from one day's study netted me $300 in cash. I think it a great book and would not be without it for ten times the cost."—A. W. Wilke, Falkton, S. Dakota.

Worth $15,000 and More

"The book has been worth more than $15,000 to me."—Oscar B. Sheppard, 1117 E. Locust St., Decatur, Ill.

Would Be Worth $100,000

"If I only had it when I was 20 years old, I would be worth $100,000 today. It is worth a hundred times the price."—S. W. Taylor, The Santa Fe Ry., Milans, Tex.

Salary Jumped From $150 to $800

"Since I read Power of Will my salary has jumped from $150 to $800 a month."—J. F. Gibson, San Diego, Cal.

From $100 to $3000 a Month

"One of our boys who read Power of Will before he came over here jumped from $100 a month to $3000 the first month, and won a $250 prize for the best salesmanship in the state."—Private Leslie A. Still, A. E. F., France.

The point of it all, my friend, is that you are using only about one-tenth of that wonderful brain of yours. That's why you haven't won greater success. Throw the unusued nine-tenths of your brain into action and you'll be amazed at the almost instantaneous results.

The Will is the motive power of the brain. Without a highly trained, inflexible will, a man has about as much chance of attaining success in life as a railway engine has of crossing the continent without steam. The biggest ideas have no value without will-power to "put them over." Yet the will, altho heretofore entirely neglected, can be trained into wonderful power like the brain or memory and by the very same method—intelligent exercise and use.

If you held your arm in a sling for two years, it would become powerless to lift a feather, from lack of use. The same is true of the Will—it becomes useless from lack of practice. Because we don't use our Wills—because we continually bow to circumstances—we become unable to assert ourselves. What our wills need is practice.

Develop your will-power and money will flow in on you. Rich opportunities will open up for you. Driving energy you never dreamed you had will manifest itself. You will thrill with a new power—a power that nothing can resist. You'll have an influence over people that you never thought possible. Success—in whatever form you want it—will come as easy as failure came before. And those are only a few of the things the "secret" will do for you. The "secret" is fully explained in the wonderful book "Power of Will."

How You Can Prove This at My Expense

I KNOW you'll think that I've claimed a lot. Perhaps you think there must be a catch somewhere. But here is my offer. You can easily make thousands—you can't lose a penny.

Send no money—no, not a cent. Merely clip the coupon and mail it to me. By return mail you'll receive not a pamphlet, but the whole "secret" told in this wonderful book, "POWER OF WILL."

Keep it five days. Look it over in your home. Apply some of its simple teachings. If it doesn't show you how you can increase your income many times over—just as it has for thousands of others—mail the book back. You will be out nothing.

But if you do feel that "POWER OF WILL" will do for you what it has done for over a quarter of a million others—if you feel as they do that it's the next greatest book to the Bible—send me only $3.50 and you and I'll be square.

If you pass this offer by, I'll be out only the small profit on a $3.50 sale. But you—you may easily be out the difference between what you're making now and an income several times as great. So you see you've a lot—a whole lot—more to lose than I.

Mail the coupon or write a letter now—you may never read this offer again.

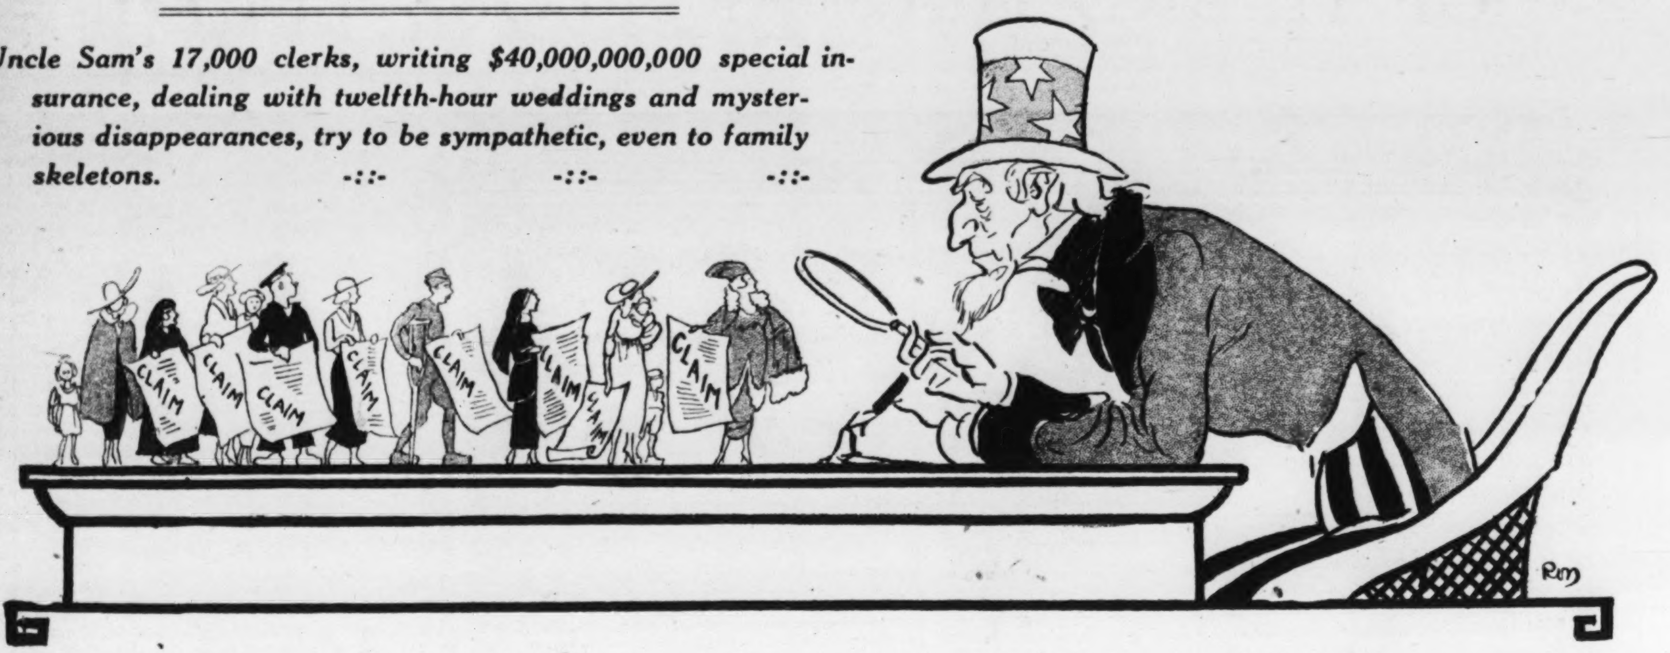
Romance and Business of the War Risk Bureau

Uncle Sam's 17,000 clerks, writing $40,000,000,000 special insurance, dealing with twelfth-hour weddings and mysterious disappearances, try to be sympathetic, even to family skeletons. -::- -::- -::-



FOR a little less than two years the United States Government has maintained a service through which it enters closely into the domestic affairs of the nation. As a counselor and friend it has reached out to the families of 4,000,000 soldiers, gathering data and, wherever necessary, offering aid. In the process of collecting facts concerning persons in every walk of life it has unavoidably catalogued many a family skeleton; but the remarkable thing concerning the exposure of the skeletons is their scarcity in proportion to the number of American families whose secrets are now carefully tabulated in official files.

Through the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, romances, tragedies and everyday human interest stories have been gathered by the thousand. Not all the tragedies are numbered in the records relating to the 125,000 (including the permanently injured) young men who gave their lives in the service of their country. There are other tragedies in which the woman left at home or the men who could not obtain the coveted chance to go overseas play the principal parts.

But not less interesting than the tragedies are the real life problem plays in which Uncle Sam must sustain an important role. These dramas of the people involve many motives beside the cupidity that now and then has lured allottees and beneficiaries into fraudulent proceedings, and they show strange contrasts in American character.

The real life problem plays are taken care of in the Investigation Section of the Bureau, which is conducted primarily to assist the bureau and soldiers, their families and dependents in straightening out all irregularities. The Investigation Section helps men to complete evidence in cases of disability, and instructs them how to convert war risk term insurance into standard policies. It maintains offices in New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago, and has 70 representatives in the field.

The 70 investigators are men thoroughly trained and of wide experience. They must be, first of all, good judges of character. Then they must be sympathetic and sincere; they must command confidence. They must know when a family skeleton is in hiding, but they must be always kindly and charitable—even to family skeletons.

Most of the family skeletons have assumed form owing to American impulsiveness, the tendency to act hastily even in matters involving life and death. This national impetuosity, with its blend of the happy-go-lucky spirit, is responsible for many of the complications that cause the Government to send out trusted men to homes of every sort, from the humblest cottage to the most imposing mansion; for no class has escaped certain penalties due to lack of caution in marrying. The war naturally increased the number of hasty marriages a thousandfold. Soldiers about to go forth to the great adventure wooed and won in record time.

Perhaps one of the most astonishing facts brought out by the official examinations of the family skeleton is that, even among persons of education and intelligence, daughters have been permitted to marry without any effort to discover the previous status or reputation of the young soldiers who had proved themselves successful suitors. In the South girls married soldiers from the West, in the West girls married soldiers from the South, in New England girls married soldiers from both the West and the South, oftentimes without a preliminary letter or inquiry regarding the would-be bridegroom.

One day a pretty girl, modishly attired, appeared at one of the offices of the bureau. She brought a check that had been sent to her as the wife of a soldier stationed at a distant camp, to which he had been recently ordered. She explained tearfully that she had heard that her husband had another wife.

The case was investigated. The report showed that the soldier had four wives, and that two divorce cases, both then pending, had been brought against him. When the evidence was presented to the soldier he insisted that the girl had married his brother, who had used his name. Again the investigator went in search of the truth, but all the facts led him back to the camp, where the guilty soldier finally made a confession.

This is an exaggerated case of a type too common to cause surprise in the bureau. Many a girl has discovered a flaw in her title as wife. Sometimes incomplete divorce proceedings have annulled a marriage entered into in good faith. Then the bride had found herself without any chance of procuring an allotment.

Much embarrassment and trouble have been caused by the "twelfth-hour weddings," those that took place just before a transport sailed away. Romance takes so little account of the sordid realities that usually no attention was paid to financial problems until long after the bridegroom had reached France. Insurance policies had been made out and allottees designated before chaplain or priest was called in. Thus, when men were fighting and dying on foreign batttlefields mothers and newly made wives found their interests conflicting.

Although selfish human nature sometimes has manifested itself among women, the finest generosity often has been displayed. One mother who was not aware that her son had married took quick action when informed of the hasty ceremony.

"What is the name of my daughter-in-law?" she inquired.

When the investigator told her she indorsed the check she had just received to the unknown, and she turned over each succeeding check as it came to her.

In a small community a family skeleton closeted so long that its existence was almost forgotten by those whom it menaced, stalked forth to bring want and suffering to a little woman and her 3-year-old son. The woman had shared the home of a young mechanic who made good wages. The two attended a nearby church, and enjoyed the respect of all who knew them. The man volunteered. When he had been sent overseas and an allotment was due his wife, a counter claim was made. Another woman declared that she was the lawful wife, and an investigator was sent out to ascertain the facts.

It was true that the little woman had no right to any Government allowance. When he was only a boy the soldier had made an unhappy marriage and he and his wife had separated; but, although he tried to procure a divorce, the wife maintained her legal rights. Then he fell in love, and when it appeared hopeless to wait for his freedom, he and the litle woman had established a home. The soldier went away believing that he had the right to assign the allotment to the mother of his child. But the law could not make exceptions, and she was left without support during the period of the war.

In following clews investigators must be resourceful. A soldier made an allotment, claiming exemption on the ground that he was separated from his wife. The address he gave in a city of 300,000 was found to be fictitious. This put the investigator on his mettle. He searched the marriage records covering a period of seven years, and finally was able to obtain the maiden name of the soldier's wife. Next he looked through the directory and made a list of addresses of persons bearing the family name of the woman. Then he started out to call on each one. At the third address he met a flashily dressed woman who asserted that she was not separated from the soldier—she had received a letter from him the day before. Convinced that something was wrong, the investigator continued to work on the case. He discovered that the woman had six aliases, and that with a partner she was conducting several questionable resorts, a fact that disqualified her for an allotment, even though she was legally married to the soldier.

In most cases where women are implicated in frauds the culprits have been found to transgress through ignorance, or their obliquities are so transparent as to be absurd.

For instance, two women in collusion filed the same marriage certificate, and the same certificate testifying to the birth of a child.

A young mountaineer from the South came home from France to discover that, although he had never been married, a woman had collected regularly an allotment as his wife. With the $500 that she had thus obtained she had invested in a victrola, and had given generous presents to relatives and friends—baby carriages—a coveted luxury in the region—being her choicest gifts. She had bought, also, marvelous attire that was the envy of her neighbors. As the fraud was likely to cause serious trouble when he met his best girl, the soldier entered complaint. If the woman refunds the money the case probably will be dismissed, but $500 is a practically unobtainable amount of money to a person not accustomed to the possession of 500 cents, and the woman faces a grave situation.

As a rule women are persistent when they have any claim on the Government. They are diligent collectors. This is shown in the case of a thrice-married claimant, who, after becoming entitled to $30,000 in installments on the policies of three deceased soldier-husbands, has applied for $75 a month as her rightful pension.. Since the widow of an enlisted man is entitled to $25 a month, which lapsed on the remarriage of the pensioner, the much-bereaved woman must be satisfied with one-third of the income she claims.

An example of the extraordinary perplexities that may assail officials of the bureau is to be found in the case of the woman accused of contributory carelessness in attaining her present state of widowhood. Her deceased husband, a private, had enlisted at the beginning of the war and had served 17 months in France. He had escaped submarines, shells, bullets and influenza, and he went to his home in the South on a well-earned 10 days' furlough. While discussing economic questions at his own fireside, his wife emphasized her point of view by striking him a blow. The soldier died a few hours later, and a chivalrous Coroner's jury exonerated the widow.

Immediately after the funeral the woman applied for the $10,000 which she declared was due her on the policy taken out by her husband when he entered the army. The bureau held that the soldier did not die of disease or injury contracted while in the service. In response to an official reminder that he had succumbed shortly after a blow delivered by her, the widow filed a tart reply. She contended that it was not her fault if her husband could not endure the sort of beating to which he had been accustomed before he went to war, and that his demise proved how much army service had injured him physically. The courts probably will be called on to decide the delicate questions involved in the fatal visit home.

"He said there was something very effective about black to men—especially to men who know nothing about clothes."

"I must ask you something," he continued, speaking in troubled tone. "This man Hebler—does he know"——

She stopped playing.

"He knows me as you know me, as the thief, and he knows—something else about me."

Her fingers again found their way to the keys.

Reluctantly he found himself succumbing to the witchery of her plaintive tone and her quivering lips. Then he rallied and said relentlessly.

"Something worse?"

"Is there anything worse than stealing?" she asked artlessly. "His acquaintance with me is not exactly of a personal nature. He admits but one of my shortcomings—that he never knows where to find me—literally. He'd think so more than ever if he could see me now."

"Does he love you?"

She stopped playing, rose from the piano bench and, with an odd little laugh, crossed the room to the window seat. He followed.

"Hebby love me? Well, no! There have been times when I think he positively hated me. But I wish he hadn't come. He brings up—unpleasant memories."

"Then let's talk of something pleasant—very pleasant. About Marta, Joe's Marta. I met them together yesterday. I had my answer to the question I asked you."

"They are very happy," she said, wistfully. "I am so glad."

"Pen, why did you make me think, that first day I met you, that it was you Jo met and loved in Chicago?"

"Did I make you think so? You assumed I was the one and I—well, I wouldn't have presumed to dispute the assertion of anyone in a Sheriff line. It's safer not."

"You asked me not to be hard on little Marta. Who could be? Not even the man you seem to think me to be. I'll do all in my power to help them to build a little home in the hills. And she does love him."

"Yes," she said, softly. "She does."

He looked at her with a little ache in his throat. The moonlight was full on her partly averted face; her profile, clear-cut, delicate, was like a medallion.

"Pen—could you love me?"

The words seemed wrung from him in spite of an apparent determination not to utter them.

She turned and looked straight into his eyes.

"That isn't what you should ask me, unless you"——

"I do," he said, passionately.

"You didn't—want to."

"No; frankly, I didn't want to to, but I did—I do."

"Why?" she asked curiously, watching the fine little lines about his eyes deepen.

"I've been fighting it since I met you—because"——

"Because I am a thief," she finished, unconcernedly. "Do you remember that night when we were here alone—you started to tell me you loved me, didn't you?"

"Yes," he admitted, slowly.

"Then you remembered what I was, and your love wasn't big enough to let you finish."

"That wasn't the reason I hesitated," he said, quickly, "then or—other times. The reason I didn't yield to my desire was because I knew it wouldn't be fair to Jo. Remember, I thought until Marta came that you were his."

She looked her discomfiture.

"I forgot that," she said in a low, sympathetic tone.

"No," he resumed meditatively. "You don't know what a man's love is."

"A man's love," she replied, a slight catch in her voice, "is infinitesimal compared to a woman's."

"Let me show you, Pen. You shall love me! We'll go far away from here"——

"You're ashamed of me! Jo wouldn't ask Marta to go far away. Yours is a little love—a love that doesn't dare venture on an uncharted sea."

"Pen," he said, tensely, "I tell you that I love you! Don't you understand?"

He put his arm about her—bent down.

There was a quiet reproach in her star-like eyes as she drew away.

"Pen, will you be my wife?"

She put her hand to her forehead with an odd little motion. Her paleness became a pallor.

"You ask me that—you would"——

"Yes, I would. I did fight it. I didn't really know you until tonight. You've been unreadable. Now I feel you are your real self. Not the daredevil who defied me and mocked me. Not the little meek mouse on the hearth. I love the woman you are tonight."

"Am I like her—the best woman in the world?" she whispered.

"Yes," he cried, triumphantly. "And you will grow more and more like her—the type of woman I want you to be. Don't you care for me—a little, Pen?"

Again his arm was about her. She turned to meet his eyes, deep-set—intense—burning.

"Kurt—"——

A little wave of doubt, of contrition, stole over her. "I don't love you," she said, uncomfortably.

"Don't you want to love me, Pen?"

"No!"

She rose impulsively and there were tears in her eyes, though there was a half-wistful smile on her lips, as she passed him swiftly and fled toward the stairway.

He followed.

"You mustn't leave me this way. Pen"——

For a shining second she leaned against him.

"I must. I can't tell you now. I'll think it over. You surely want me to be honest with you!"

In the upper hall she passed the open door of Hebler's room. There were no inner lights, but the shafts of a moonbeam shone straight upon an article lying on a small table near the door, finding response in glimmering gleams.

She stopped, electrified.

"Oh!"

Fascinated by the sparkle, she lingered for a moment, and then went quickly to her room and straight to the window that looked on the moonlit hills. She stayed there awhile, her hands clenched, thinking intensely and rapidly—of Larry soaring like an eagle, proud and secure in his conquering of the air—of Marta's sudden severance from the habit of a lifetime—of Jo's faith in her—of Kurt wrestling with his conflict between love and conventions. "Does he care, really, as much as he thinks he does," she wondered, "or is it just the lure of—propinquity? How shall I find out? Oh, there is too much on my mind! How careless and how like Hebby to leave his priceless ring about. What would he think if he knew the thief was next door to it?"

She left the window and went to the door.

The ring still sent forth shafts of sparkles.

A figure came stealthily out into the hall, paused near the open door. A hand reached quickly out and closed over the ring.

CHAPTER XII.

"HAVE we a new maid, Kurt?" asked Kingdon at the breakfast table next morning. "I had a glimpse of a pretty little girl talking to Agatha."

"Mrs. Kingdon sent her here to do the sewing and look after the children," explained Kurt.

"And she's got a funny name," said Francis. "Her name is Bobbie Burr."

Hebler's fork fell with a clatter.

"Bobbie Burr!" he exclaimed in amazement.

"Bobbie Burr!" echoed Kingdon.

"Where is she? Let me see her at once. She's the very person I am looking for!"

"I'll go and get her," offered Billy, running from the room.

He returned in a few moments, followed by Marta.

"Oh, you aren't Bobbie Burr!" said Hebler, visibly disappointed.

"No, sir," said Marta. "I just took the name because I liked it. My name is really Marta Sills."

"But it won't be that long," reminded Betty. "You're going to have another name soon. Jo Gary told me so."

"Oh, ho!" laughed Kingdon, comprehendingly, while Marta fled in confusion.

"Jo's going to take her with him to Westcott's this morning," said Francis. "They're going to drive over in the buckboard. I think they are engaged."

"He hasn't given her a diamond ring," said Betty. "Every girl who is engaged wears a diamond ring. Doris told me so."

"Speaking of diamond rings," said Hebler, as they all rose from the table, "reminds me that I very carelessly left mine on a table yesterday and I forgot to put it away, or to even see if it were there this morning."

"It will be all right," assured Kingdon. "Everyone in the hill country is honest."

"Still, you'd better put it away," cautioned Kurt anxiously.

"All right," said Hebler, leaving the room.

"Don't forget, we want an early start for town," Kingdon called after him. "I'll go out and look over my car."

Kurt followed him, but lingered on the veranda to light his pipe. While he stood there, Jo and Marta drove past at a smart pace. A few moments later Hebler came to him in great consternation.

"Walters, that ring I was speaking of is gone! I've made a thorough search for it."

When he had assured Kurt that there could be no mistake as to having left it on his table before he started for Westcott's, the foreman said, earnestly:

"I am quite sure that I can secure your ring for you, Mr. Hebler. I should like to settle this matter quietly, though; so please say nothing about it to anyone until I have investigated."

"Certainly," agreed Hebler. "I'll go on to town with Kingdon now, and you can be looking about for it."

Kurt hastened upstairs and knocked at Pen's door.

"Hebler has missed his ring—a very valuable diamond, he tells me," he said, abruptly, as she came out.

"Oh!" she gasped, turning pale and trembling slightly.

"He left it on his table near the door and just thought of looking for it. I told him not to mention it for the present and I'd deliver the goods. Marta has gone away with Jo; evidently she intends to skip. She'll not get away with this. I am going after them in the car. I shall turn her over to the authorities. You can pack her things and send them after her."

"Oh, wait!" she cried, as he started to go downstairs. "It wasn't Marta. It was I."

"What!" he cried, incredulously. "You!"

"Yes."

"When did you take it?"

"On my way to bed last night after I left you. His door was open—the ring on a table near by—in easy reach. He shouldn't have left anything like that around loose."

"I never dreamed of your taking it," he said, bitterly. "I thought you had reformed."

She laughed, a little reckless laugh, that had a sound like silver bells.

"I don't like that ring, either. It's gaudy."

He looked at her with a new thought and hope.

"Are you a kleptomaniac?"

"I should think not! I never take anything unless it is some value or use."

"Didn't it occur to you that you might be caught with the goods?"

"No; I thought I knew Hebby and that he was too much of a good fellow to report a loss at first blink. Sort of banal, you know. You don't know much of human nature to suppose a thief could undergo such a sudden reformation. There are no modern miracles like that. Marta is the only one I know who could change. But she isn't a born thief. I really was trying to be good; but I suppose I will slip and fall countless times—like a drunkard."

"This is the first time since you came here?"

"Absolutely; but to be honest, thieves don't always lie—I've not been so strongly tempted before."

"And you could do it then—right after"——

"After you had done me the great and regretted honor? Well, I didn't yield all at once. I walked right past it with the 'Get thee behind me' pose and closed my door and went to the window and—looked up at the hills and then—something stronger than all my resolutions carried me back to look at it once more. It was all off."

Anger and something else battled in his face.

"Why," she asked, curiously, "did you suspect Marta instead of me?"

"I don't know," he said, spiritlessly.

"You see, Marta has an incentive to keep her straight—an incentive that I lack."

He winced.

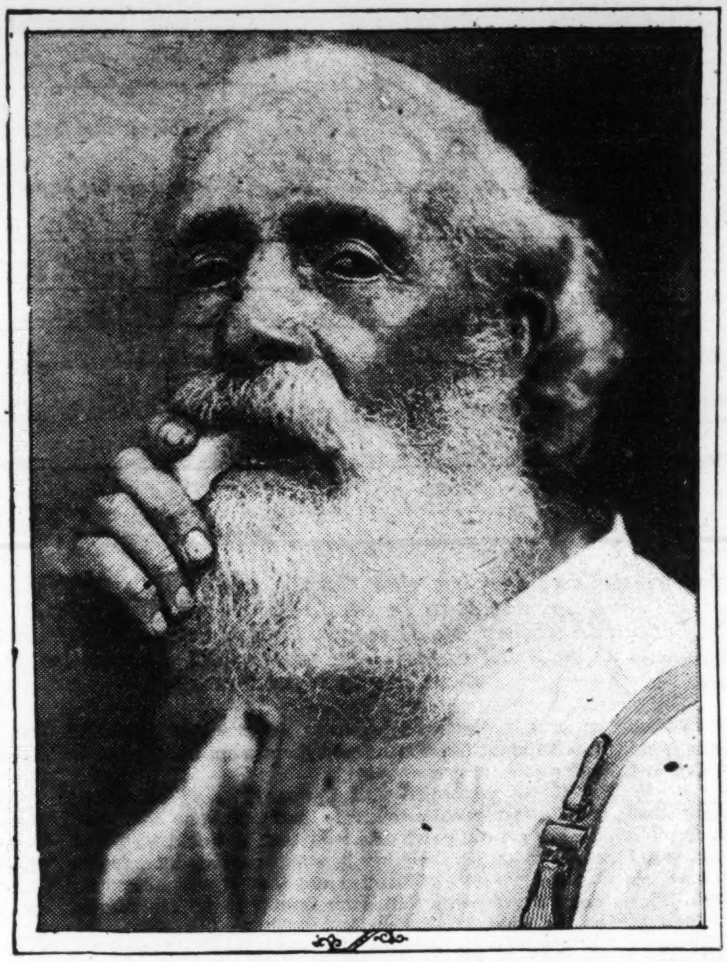
"OLD DAD" MERTON A CHEERFUL NOMAD -- OF 71, AND HIS MARVELOUS TEETH --

St. Louis wanderer who has served in the armies of two countries, has never used a toothbrush or mouth wash in his life and has never lost a tooth or had an ache—Can bite through plates, thick glass, boards and nails and does so every day just to keep in trim—Opposed to sleeping in beds or living like other people — Never been sick though he defies all health requirements—A singularly odd nomad who makes his headquarters near Forest Park :-: :-:



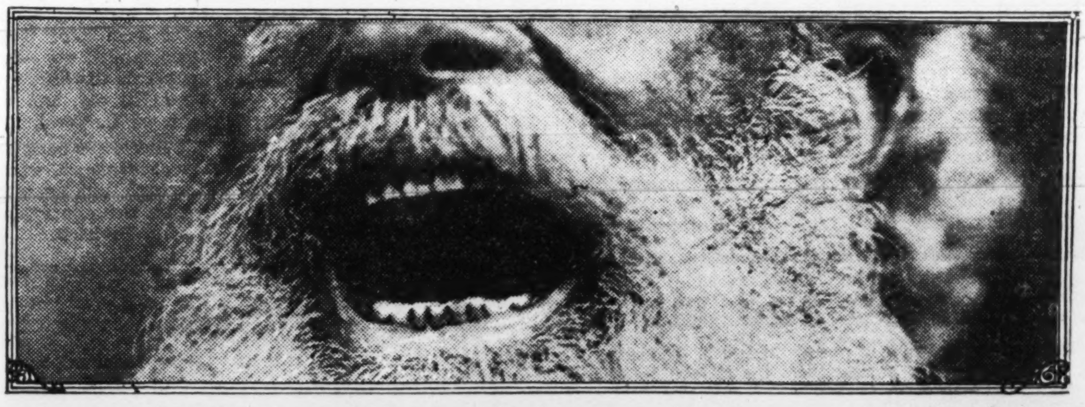
"Dad" in the act of biting through the bottom of a heavy china cup.

NEARLY every householder between the western limits of Forest Park and Kirkwood knows or has heard of "Old Dad" Merton and his marvelous teeth. Small boys have regaled their parents with tales of his daily custom of biting through chunks of limestone, pieces of plates and saucers, broken bottles and thick pieces of wood. He does these things just to show that he has the most perfect teeth, for any man of his age, anywhere on earth.

When he performs these feats he tells his youthful audiences that the dentists who talk about toothbrushes, mouth washes and other precautions for the care and preservation of the teeth, may talk their heads off and never get rise from him. He is an exception to all their rules and regulations and is very proud of his unique position.

He boasts of many other accomplishments not expected from a man of 71 years, but these he reserves for audiences more advanced in years and worldly experience. One of these is that he can drink more whisky and stand more bardship than any man, young or old, and that he will get and consume strong drink in liberal allowances, despite the hostile plans of the Anti-Saloon League and the most thoroughly trained booze hounds that ever essayed to make the prohibition law a real, enforceable institution.

"Dad," as he is called by thousands who never discovered that he had any other name, possesses, at the age of 71, the most perfect natural teeth and declares that he never had an ache from any part of his dental formation since he was born. Though he has never used his own or anyone else's toothbrush, his front, and, in fact, all of his teeth are as pearl-like as one would expect to find in the mouth of the most beautiful and fortune-favored debutante.



"See for yourself," he says, "every tooth is clean and sound and not one is missing. Never used a toothbrush in my life."

Due to his daily exhibitions of munching on broken chinaware, bottles, nails and pieces of plank, the molars show some signs of wear and tear, but they remain white, with not the slightest suggestion of pyorrhea or any of the other ills that teeth are heir to. Not a dark spot is to be seen anywhere in an exploration of "Old Dad's" cavernous mouth, and even though his gums are often cut in the glass-chewing performances, he rubs the lacerated places with his fingers, and then declares that the blood letting only toughens the skin and muscle.

He not only rejects the commands of the "conserve the teeth" propaganda, but he ridicules all the germ theories associated with the propagation of disease in so far as they apply to himself. In explanation of this marvelous isolation, he sometimes thinks that he is a cave man, who has preserved the strongest traits of the primeval species of the homo genus, which he retains despite his admitted fondness for strong drink with the accent on the quantity rather than the quality.

Another peculiarity of "Old Dad's" is that he goes his way smilingly and scorns the weakness of the rest of the human race in seeking rest in comfortable beds He prefers to commune with nature, as he puts it, and when the outdoor tang gets too severe for this case-hardened old boy, he seeks repose in garages, sheds or any other sort of building that offers protection from the weather extremes.

People who have studied Frank Merton, or rather who have attempted to analyze him, have about abandoned the attempt to reach a solution. He is just a living exception to all rules that apply to the human family, and he enjoys life probably better than those who sleep in beds and scrub their teeth as faithfully as they eat their meals every day. Merton does not eat regularly, as he scorns the arbitrary command that there be a breakfast, dinner and collation, or supper. When he feels like eating, he just eats. He will not touch sugar, cream, milk or fresh bread. He eats the hardest crusts he can pick up, and when he finds himself unable to buy food of this kind, he is not too proud to seek such sustenance from what some housewife has discarded. He admits that he has done this thing very often and that he has never been sick a day in his life. Winter and summer alike he refuses to wear underwear, probably because the cave men indulged in no such extravagances. The very mention of the high cost of living causes him to laugh raucously. He does find it a bit inconvenient to pay so much for the quality of liquor he regards as necessary to his sustenance, but otherwise he is not seriously affected, as his wants are few, since his system calls for no extensive wardrobe in his daily journeys through the green fields of the country districts. He cuts grass, trims hedges and is handy with such tools as are needed to make minor repairs on fences and outbuildings. Thus he earns enough to pay for all his simple requirements.

In his biography sketched for a Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine writer, Merton said that the only time in his life that he required the skill of doctors was in Canada, years ago, when he was struck by a Canadian Pacific train which happened to be moving in his direction while he was doing some track work.

"Then," he says, "they took advantage of me and carried me to a hospital when I was not myself. I was badly smashed up and everybody was amazed that I was not killed. Though my head was cracked, my teeth were all there, as sound as ever. I cut that hospital the first chance I got and I have never had a pain or an ache from that day to this. But, while I am on this subject, I am going to let you know the whole truth. Just before that accident happened I had taken just a few more drinks than was good for me, so it was all my own fault, and even then the company acted very decently with me."

During the past summer Merton spent most of his nights either in or close to Forest Park. He made his bed on leaves and, following his custom of a lifetime, rose about 4 o'clock every morning. Then he picked up his basket and made his coffee, near the Jefferson Memorial. This formality completed, he went to his bath out on Clayton road, near its intersection with the North and South road. It is a clear, running creek, and there he also washed his clothing. It is an ideal place for his daily ablutions, he says, but when the water is low he has to seek other streams. He has never missed his daily bath, and he tells those who question him about his cleanly appearance, despite his manner of living, that in his earliest childhood, back in India, where he was reared, he was taught that "cleanliness" and "Godliness" were very closely related.

"Dad" has served in the armies of two countries and proves his Americanism by carrying his small flag everywhere he goes. These excursions often carry him to remote places, which he always negotiates on foot. He never tries to steal rides on trains or other conveyances, and even though he has passed the three-score-and-ten allotment, he still takes very long walks. One of his latest was to Peoria, Ill., and return. At one of his haunts, near Delmar and De Baliviere, it was said that he hastened to Peoria when he happened to notice in some newspaper that the Government was planning to seize the distillery stocks there and throw them in the river. This, however, was denied by Merton, who said that he took the jaunt just because be needed a good walk.

After the first light frosts he expects to make his annual excursion to the Ozarks, where there will be an abundance of employment picking and storing the supply of winter apples. He is so well known in the districts he traverses in his regular season, that he never has any trouble finding all the small chores he may need for his upkeep. He invariably wears a smile, and when people engage him in conversation he is generally able to give a good account of himself. With his other accomplishments he is a musician of no mean caliber and for years was a member, he says, of the Jefferson Barracks Band in the days of Conductor Frederick W. Lewis, who was a noted leader. He played the clarinet in this aggregation, which was made up entirely of enlisted men chap Blenkinsop is too blame stiff-necked for me.

Juror Number Twelve --

The 15 men filed in, supporting the twelfth juror as they went. The three Constables cleared a space and kept their little coterie from the pushing crowd about them. Then Dr. Blenkinsop strode gently over.

"Where is the patient, Constable?" he asked.

At that instant one man sprang from among the 12, past Blenkinsop, past Goldstein, past the two other Constables.

"There he is," yelled Mackerley, "there goes No. 12, Stop him."

He dashed after him. But just as he reached the disabled sergeant at arms, that worthy, sick and sore though he were, rose and blocked the path of the flying Constables.

"Not so fast, boys," he said. "I'm a State officer. It was one o' your county men that did me up tonight. Yes, sir, I saw him and I know him." He grabbed Mackerley by the arm. "Do you want to be sent up, too?" he asked. Mackerley paused.

"But look at John Henry Whitehead, juror No. 12," gasped Goldstein.

For Juror No. 12 had cut his way through the crowd and was now moving swiftly down the aisle. He reached a seat, glanced at the name upon the desk and flung himself upon a chair.

Up at the Speaker's desk the President of the Senate was calling the roll.

"Lambertson," he called.

"Here."

"Lanning."

"Here."

"Lorraine."

There was a rustle in the audience; many smiles on many lips. Then a young man, still wearing a fur-lined overcoat, arose and looked the House and the Senate in the eyes.

"Lorraine."

"Here!" thundered Lorraine.

Pandemonium reigned. The House and the Senate rose as one man.

"Where is Lorraine?" they asked. "Let's look at him."

They looked at Lorraine, $10,000 Lorraine; Lorraine the missing; Lorraine the corrupt; Lorraine with the brand of the bribe upon him. Up in the gallery a big man groaned. The big man was Peter Wortendyke, a man who owned many things and could buy many things, but who never yet had bought Lorraine of River.

"That's a blamed shame, too,' muttered the Judge of the County Court when it was all over. "I thought Pete Wortendyke had swung that thing for sure."

"Jove," said Bob Lorraine, a week later, to Blenkinsop, "but it worked like a charm. Lucky, too, you had something to take you to the State House on that night."

"What about your murder case?" asked Blenkinsop. "Did they let you sit under your real name?"

Lorraine laughed. "Sure," he answered, "they were game to the backbone. Both lawyers were afraid of me and didn't dare to raise objections, though it may be good ground on appeal. I just got through a quarter of an hour ago."

"What's the verdict? Guilty or not guilty?"

Lorraine of River County scratched his head. "I'm dodgasted if I know," he answered, dolefully.

such a heroic struggle to aid the couple, was so badly injured that it was necessary for the Coroner conducting the inquest to defer the proceedings until next month, as the witness was in no condition to give his testimony. He was unconscious most of the time after he was picked up near the bodies of the Tanners, and during his lucid intervals he could only say that Mrs. Tanner's foot had wedged between the rail and the plank sidewalk, and that despite the efforts made by himself and the husband, they could not dislodge it from the place, it was so securely held. He was still struggling when the locomotive bore down upon them and he was thrown far to the side of the track by the pilot. He will, it is feared, be crippled for the balance of his life, as one of his feet was badly crushed by the wheel of the engine.

Tanner was employed in the Chicago offices of the B. & O. Railroad and was in his late thirties. His wife was a few years younger, and though they were of limited means, they were considered a most contented, happy couple. The maintained a modest home at Hubbard's Woods and found most of their recreation with their children. On the evening of the tragedy they started out to see a popular feature at a moving picture theater and left the babies in charge of Tanner's mother. They had been gone only a short while when they met their death at the crossing, only a few blocks from the home they had just left.

pursued and dissected by the couple who get so much enjoyment out of this character of recreation. Thus they nave at hand all the proofs that the female of the species is the more deadly of the two, since nature has equipped her with the biting apparatus while withholding it from the male. The male does not allow this handicap to worry him a particle, since he watches the female closely, and when she bites her victim he drives her away and gets the particle of food thus uncovered. The female tongue has two scratching sides and a licking surface, whereas the male can lick without difficulty while being unable to make the preliminary puncture. Any person who would take a look at the fly section of the Brown collection would become a swatter for the balance of his days, for this pest is probably better qualified than any other insect to disseminate disease germs. The mosquito is another potential factor for evil and here there is also an interesting group in the boxes gathered by the Browns. The fly that buzzes about the garbage receptacle in the back yard before attacking his victim is probably the worst, according to the imposing indictment of the whole species to be found in this collection, as this specimen usually carries a wholesale stock of ambitious germs seeking new fields for their dangerous activities.

Honey bees, wasps, spiders and fleas and their various components, including their means of offense and defense, are also well represented, and the evidence is at hand to show why it is that the bee strikes his own death blow when he brings his stinging apparatus into play against man or beast. His stinger was given for use on his own species, but the bee overlooks this fact very often, and the death penalty follows, as the weapon is so closely associated with his backbone that this member gives way when the bee seeks to withdraw the poinard it thrusts within its quarry. The wasp, however, has no such punishment in store when he attacks. He can charge and withdraw the stinger without the slightest chance of dislocating any part of his system. This is why he can attack and keep on attacking as long as there is material at hand for his malice and venom. The wasp has no barbs on his stinger to fasten it in his victim, like the bee. He has, in fact, two complete stingers always ready for action, and a common reservoir of poison, and this supplies the fluid which makes the sting effective. To give this weapon greater force, it is 20 times larger at the base than it is at the point, which gives his waspship a good driving force once he decides to rout the enemy, and those who have had such close-range relations with this merciless creature will admit there is no lack of punch in the thrust without calling upon the microscope for confirmation.

Spiders' feet and their webs fill a good-sized collection in the classified groups in the Brown laboratory. People who watch the spider weaving his web often wonder why he does not get caught in its meshes like the flies and fleas for whom he makes the trap, but the microscope furnishes the explanation. All spiders have three toes on each foot, shaped like cones, and they are designed to avoid getting caught. Another thing, the spider is not given credit for his esthetic tastes in his architecture by most people who watch him at work making his fly traps. Brown's slides and pictures show nearly all the colors of the spectrum in these web formations. Very often when the sun's glare is particularly emphatic, these colors can be discerned with the naked eyes as the ray strikes the web, but the views arranged by Brown and his wife bring out these color designs boldly and fully vindicate the spider as a patron of the arts.

The Texas fever tick, which has destroyed more cattle than most forms of animal epidemics, is also given distinguished consideration. The formation of this parasite is shown in many slides and views, and the active germ that sets up the disease in the animals is also located.

There is scarcely a known germ of any propensity for mischief that is not given its place in the laboratory, and Brown, who is always looking for something new, says he has only got a good start in his researches. The trench cooties, which played such havoc with the soldiers in the late war and which occasioned thousands of skin diseases among the troops, was also given preferential treatment by the Browns, and they are still compiling data on the havoc worked by this intruder of the trenches.

What he will do with his great collection when the lure of the sport loses its attraction, if it ever does, Brown is not prepared to say. He says he has only got a real good start in his research work, Birth certificate, showing that Corp. James E. L. Willerton, of the Second Division, was born in St. Louis April 20, 1902, and therefore had not quite reached his fifteenth birthday when the United States declared war on April 6, 1917, just after which he enrolled for enlistment in the regular army.

IT WAS at immortal Chateau-Thierry, and a young American artilleryman was undergoing his terrific baptism of fire. The tales which British veterans told him and his comrades while they were in England had helped little to nerve him for the ordeal. He had a deep inner conviction that if the shells rained as densely as the Tommies had described, the chance for his emerging alive was nil. Now the most lurid narratives of the Britishers seemed tame in comparison with the reality. The Germans were sending over a veritable deluge of high explosive and shrapnel.

The American is not ashamed today to admit that he was terribly frightened. His knees would tremble in spite of him, his face grew blanched, cold sweat stood on his forehead, and his lips were white. But through his chattering teeth he muttered over and over to himself: "You are playing a man's part, so be a man. If they find out you're not a man, out you go."

He did play a man's part, and yet at the same time he was not a man. The fine and touching thing about this heroic resolve, enforced rigorously upon his shrinking nerves by a youth standing for the first time within the sweep of the scythe of death, was that he was a boy only 16 years of age. He had enlisted more than a year earlier, a few days before his fifteenth birthday, and thus became one of the youngest soldiers in the American expeditionary force—quite likely THE youngest.

James E. L. Willerton was born in St. Louis on April 20, 1902, and lived in this city until shortly before the United States entered the war. Then his family removed to Hannibal, Mo., Mark Twain's town, and took up their residence at 520 Sumner street. The father of the family was born in England, and James, with a determination precocious for his years, had felt from the first that the United States should join in the battle to vanquish the Huns. He was tall and well-developed, and often remarked to his relatives that if his years matched his stature he would not wait for Old Glory, but would follow the flag his father was born under.

Then came America's declaration of war, April 6, 1917. James was one of the first to present himself at the recruiting station in Hannibal. The Government at that time was enlisting boys as young as 14, with the consent of their parents or guardian, but James was taking no chances. He gave the name of his brother, Edward J. Willerton, who was several years his senior. He passed the physical examination easily, but in the meantime the Government raised the age limit and the Adjutant-General refused permission for the lad to enter the service.

"When we broke with Germany," says his sister, Miss Bertha Willerton, "he had only one big idea: To get across, now! He said that it would be better for him to go than his brother, who would have to leave his wife and babies, and that it was absolutely necessary for the Willerton family to be represented at the front.

"We tried to dissuade him, and spoke to him of his education in high school. His reply was: 'If I get back I will have an education that money can't buy.' "

A few days rolled past, and then one morning James once more presented himself at the recruiting office.

"I told you a week ago that the Adjutant-General wouldn't permit you to enlist," growled the Sergeant.

"I don't know what you are talking about," replied the applicant. "I'm going to join the army, and if you won't take me I will go somewhere else. But I want to enlist in Hannibal because I live here."

"You say you were never here before?" asked the Sergeant, dubiously.

"Oh, I guess you are thinking about my brother Edward," the other assured him, with easy mendacity. "I am 19, and if you don't believe me you can ask my relatives."

The Sergeant shook his head, but proceeded to make out the papers. Willerton once more passed the physical examination, and was assigned to the coast artillery, for training at Fort Banks. A little later he was transferred to the Twelfth Field Artillery, encamped at Fort Meyer, Va.

"His letters from the camps," says his sister, "were very determined, but we fancied we could read much homesickness between the lines."

Willerton started across the sea in December, 1917, and arrived in France during January. His relatives received a cable, "Arrived safely. James." He was again transferred, this time to the glorious Second Division, and served a gun behind the infantry during the deathless stand by which the Americans stemmed the German flood on its rush to Paris and world triumph, and started the armies of the Hohenzollerns recoiling backwards towards downfall and ruin.

It was here that the 15-year-old lad mastered himself and played the man. A sudden reflection that comforted him considerably while the shells rained down was that a number of shells had passed him by, so probably a number more world. "That thought brought courage," he says, "and after that I was never bothered much by shell fire."

Then came the second battle of the Marne, and Willerton was by this time so hardened to danger that, when word came back that all the gunners up front had been killed, he volunteered and was sent forward. "We fired 1400 rounds in 48 hours," he relates, "so I know I put some of them to sleep." On this occasion he was recommended for the Croix de Guerre, but for some reason did not receive it.

Battles now came fast upon him. He took part at St. Mihiel, Soissons and in the Champagne fighting. Here he was wounded, on Oct. 4, 1918. His relatives now heard from him for the first time since the cable announcing his safe arrival. He was in a hospital, he wrote in a few lines, and his family was not to worry, as he would soon be back "to get another crack at the Huns." There were no other particulars. "He was never boastful," says his sister, "and he never uttered a word of complaint in any of his letters. He was always cheerful, assuring us that he would be home by and by."

His wound was not serious, and he was back with the guns in time to help in the gruelling Argonne campaign and the drive to Sedan. He cared nothing now for shell fire, but confesses that he could never overcome his dread of bombing airplanes.

"I never grew to love those Hun bombing machines," he wrote. "They came at night, and would swoop down over our gun positions so close that we could distinguish their huge outlines. They seemed to me the biggest things in the world. You never knew where the next bomb would fall. So we would crawl in a hole and pray that we wouldn't be called out for a barrage. But for all of them they never did me any harm."

After the armistice came the march through Belgium and Luxemburg to the Rhine, concerning which Willerton wrote home: "This hike was far from being a pleasant trip, but I wouldn't have missed it for millions. To see the joy of these people! (French and Belgian.) After all, it isn't the soldiers who know war. It is these people. Old men and women, young girls and little children, with their devastated homes, some of them four years within the German lines!" Then, on reaching the Rhine, he wrote home: "I feel that we have reached our final objective, but Oh! you Mississippi."

On Aug. 6 of this year the boyish crusader once more landed on American soil. At the time of his honorable discharge from service he was 17 years and 6 months old, and was a first-class gunner with the rank of Corporal.

Willerton is back home in Hannibal, with three service chevrons, a wound stripe and the chevron of a Corporal, but he is proudest of the star and Indian head which adorn his left shoulder—the insignia of the Second Division.

"Old Dad" Merton and His Marvelous Teeth

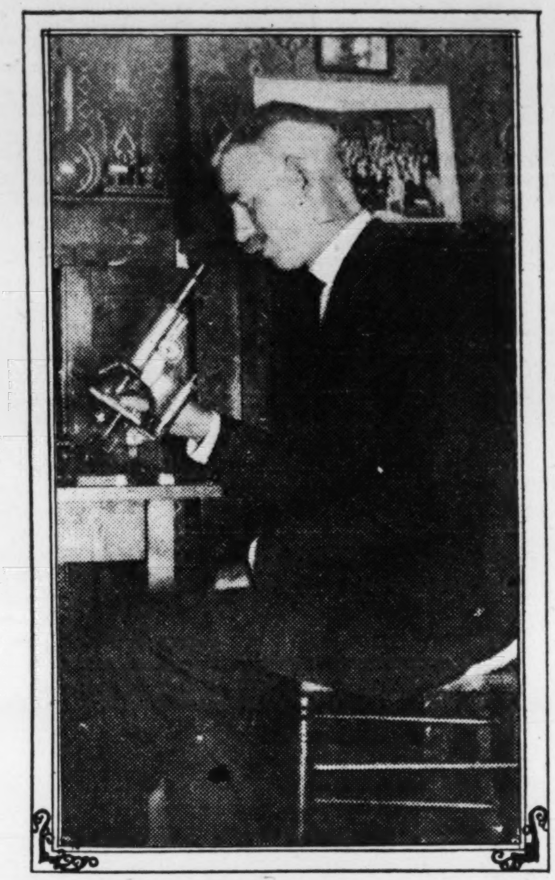
Merton's sketch of his life prepared by himself, under the shade of a big tree at Webster Groves during the recent heated spell, shows that he was born in Manchester, England, in June, 1848, of English-Irish parentage. His father enlisted in the British army, when the boy was a baby and later fought in the Crimea. While he was thus engaged his wife, Frank and an older sister, were left in India, within a comparatively short distance of Lucknow, where they remained during the terror incident to the uprising of the Sepoys in 1857. They were expecting to be massacred at any time when the reports were coming in daily of the atrocities at Cawnpore and Lucknow, but the arrival of the relief expedition soon abated all fear. "Old Dad" enlisted in the British army in 1866, and spent most of his service in India. He came to the United states in 1881, and enlisted in the army the same year at a recruiting office in Boston. He was assigned to the Sixth Cavalry and in time came to St. Louis to play in the Cavalry Depot Band at Jefferson Barracks. He saw active service in the expedition against Geronimo and his band of Indian raiders and was mustered out at Fort Bayard, N. M., in 1886, at the completion of his five-year term.

"If I had stayed in the army just a year longer while I was at Fort Bayard, which is now a large hospital," he says, "I would have met Gen. Pershing, whom everybody is fairly worshiping these days. When he was graduated from West Point he went to Fort Bayard with his Lieutenant's bars, but he got there a year after I left. I then went to Canada and stayed there a long time, until I was smashed up on the Canadian Pacific. I guess I am a wanderer all right, but I don't think I ever wronged anyone in my life. Every person I have ever met noticed my teeth, and even as a boy, when I would pick up a piece of hard stone and bite off a bit of it, they would predict that I would soon be without teeth. But I only laughed at them. My teeth became stronger as I grew older and I kept right at it, trying them out once and a while on chunks of glass and pieces of plates and saucers. I never at any time used any wash or brush. I think I can truthfully say that in my 71 years I never held a toothbrush in my hand."

In addition to his rock-breaking teeth and oddly selected foods, "Old Dad" furnished his visitor with an illustration of how he kept himself in such perfect physical condition. His exhibition included all of the "setting-up" exercises of the military training, followed next by a series of acrobatic feats that looked very strange for a man of his years. Then, by way of a closing act, he asked for a piece of glass and added, "The thicker the better." A bottom of a soda-water bottle, fully half an inch thick was produced and this he broke into many fragments at a single bite. Then he chewed some of the particles, just to show that the ostrich had nothing on him, and wound up by biting through a thick saucer.

Germs Are the Hobby in This St. Louis Home

Rolla Brown, examiner for the Interstate Commerce Commission, with the help of his wife, has made some rare finds in his quest for data and subjects — Passion for research formed in his college days has remained with this investigator ::



Rolla Brown, railroad rate expert, whose recreation is found in bacteriological research.

Mrs. Brown also finds much to interest her in the pursuit of bugs and germs and has a big collection of her own.

PURSUIT and classification of bacteria, insects and germ agencies of every known variety, is the favorite diversion of Rolla Brown, a special examiner of the Interstate Commerce Commission, who resides at 3245 South Jefferson avenue, and in his research work, covering a period of some 10 or more years, he has had enthusiastic aid and co-operation from Mrs. Brown, who has her own microscopes and facilities for this delicate field of exploration. The bacteriological collection resultant from their combined investigations and studies is one of the largest in the city, and scarcely a day passes that there is not some substantial addition made to the trove, which fills a dozen or more large boxes containing some 1500 slides and specimens. They are proud of their showing of the isolated germs that have made such havoc with the human race, and are constantly seeking new discoveries along this line. No professional works with any greater degree of enthusiasm than does this couple, whose only aim is the pleasure this work affords them, and anyone who sees them in their improvised laboratory, will readily gather the fact that they find it a real delight to handle things that most people would approach with more or less trepidation.

Fancy picking up a bunch of typhoid, tubercular, sleeping sickness or other active bacteria, capable of almost unlimited propagation, and handling them with apparently little caution until finally getting the cultures in such shape as to permit close-range study under microscopes of varying degrees of magnification, which show these living, though infinitesimal agencies of death in full action. Imagine, also, the tedious operation of catching a fly and taking out its tongue for a study of that organ, which is far removed from the visual power of the naked eye, and one gets an idea of the delicate character of the investigations that afford this couple more enjoyment than others derive from theaters, dinner dances and other popular divertisements.

Brown's fondness for this character of investigation grew out of the years he spent at the Missouri State University, which he attended years ago with the idea, at first, of following the profession of doctor. After taking two years of the course, he changed his plans and quitted the university without taking the medical degree. During his two years with the medical classes he developed his fondness for microscopic investigation which has remained with him ever since, and, in his own words, he finds as much recreation in chasing and labeling his materials, as many people find in a game of tennis or golf. If he had his choice between attending a double-header at the baseball park or uncovering some new bacteria for his powerful lenses, it would not take him long to reach a decision. He would let the others go out and do the rooting while his tastes would carry him in the direction of the promising specimen and his quest would be successful, even though he had to root for it. Thus do human tastes in the pursuit of happiness differ widely and present strange contrasts.

Leaving the State University, Brown went as a teacher to Carlisle University in Pennsylvania, where the Government specializes the training of Indians, and there he used to delight the pupils from the reservations with his illustrated lectures on the dangerous disease-spreading tendencies of the house fly and his enlarged views of the poisonous tongues and stingers of snakes and other denizens of the dank and noisome places of the woods and swamps. The Indians were rapt listeners to these lectures, and they never hesitated to accept his invitation to step up and peer through the glass that enlarged these exhibits from 400 to 1600 times. Somehow, the descendants of Sitting Bull, Geronimo, American Horse and the other braves, preferred these forays into the realm of science and nature to the capture and classification of nouns, pronouns, verbs and the why and wherefore of squares, triangles and other painful exactions of modern educational methods.

Since entering the service of the Government as an examiner for the Interstate Commerce Commission, Brown has been busy all the time. When he wasn't looking into complaints against the carriers or assembling data on rates or transportation practices, he was collecting more material for his constantly increasing collection. His spare time on all his trips, which were necessary at very frequent intervals, was thus employed and the great collection he has assembled at his home bears mute though substantial testimony that he is a most thorough collector. He allows nothing to escape, once he gets started after his prey, and if necessary he will take a long chance for a rare acquisition to his laboratory store. On one occasion, while he was in Oklahoma, he learned that some boys had run across a giant centipede and had beat a hasty retreat with a cry of alarm. He went to the place indicated and with the aid of a forked stick captured the poisonous "thousand-legger" without even injuring his specimen. This he brought back to St. Louis alive, but it did not thrive in captivity and went where people who know centipedes are willing to consign the balance of the tribe. This is now preserved in alcohol, and the find measures six and a half inches in length. He has many other specimens of the more dangerous members of the snake and lizard families similarly preserved. He fears, though, that he will have difficulty in the future getting his captives preserved, as it is almost impossible to get alcohol while on the road, even for such scientific purposes.

Scums from stagnant ponds have claimed much special study from these enthusiasts and some valuable data and slides are indexed and stored away. The silicate skeletons of these tiny creatures are shown plainly under the microscope and a wide variety of shapes are disclosed. One of the exhibits closely resembles a collection of anchors, while another tallies almost completely with the common pneumonia germ. All of the drops were very much alive when taken from the ponds and assumed the odd shapes when the animalculae passed into skeleton formation. The silicate is so prolific in stagnant water, according to Brown's investigation, that manufacturers of scouring powders find it worth while to employ the sharp skeletons as a basis for their products. When the pond germs reach this stage, they are no longer a menace and can be used without hesitation for cleansing and scouring purposes.

The fly of the household, who bites with more venom every time it threatens rain, has also been intensively

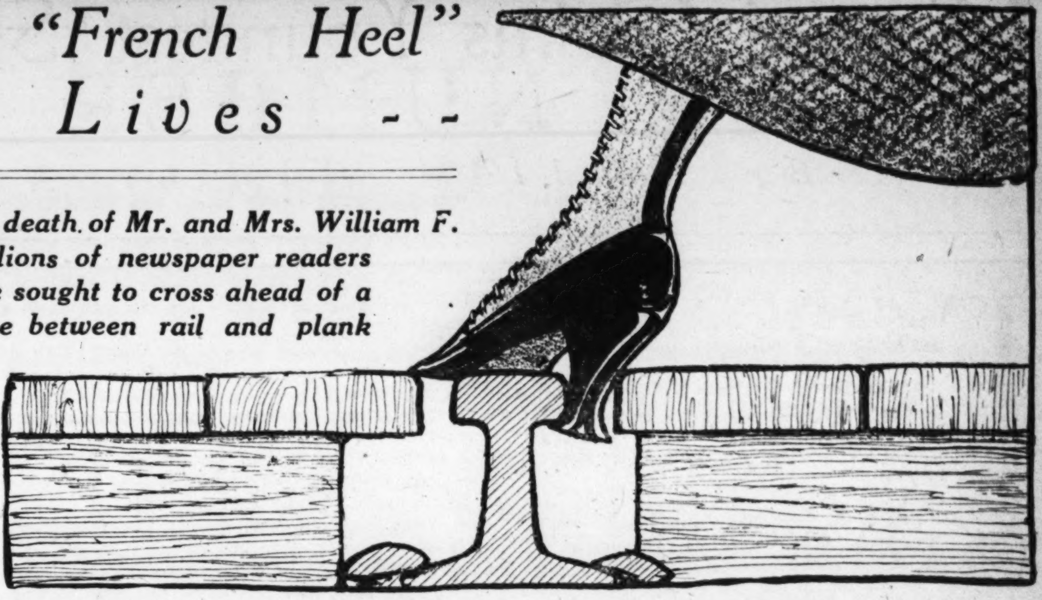
How a Fashionable "French Heel" -- Cost Two Lives --

Accident near Chicago which resulted in the death of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Tanner and aroused the sympathy of millions of newspaper readers traced to popular French design—Couple sought to cross ahead of a fast approaching train, and an open space between rail and plank sidewalk served as a trap -o-



The feminine heel is a real menace when the wearer ventures among railroad tracks, frogs and switches. Once it slips into an opening the weight of the body will drive it in deeper wedge-like and make its removal a difficult operation when quick action is essential.

MILLIONS of newspaper readers throughout the country were deeply moved a few weeks ago by the tragedy which befell Mr. and Mrs. William F. Tanner at the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad grade crossing at Hubbard's Woods, a Chicago residential suburb. The heroic conduct of the husband, who chose to die rather than desert his wife, whose heel and foot were caught between the rail and the sidewalk in front of the station, with no chance of avoiding the speeding express train, caused many a warm-hearted throb among those who read the grewsome story. He had less than a half-minute to decide his course, and seeing that his wife could not be rescued, he threw his arms about her and the embrace was too strong for the efforts of the crossing watchman, who sought to break it and was thus engaged when the giant locomotive, with brakes set and the wheels locked, skidded over the rails upon them. The watchman survived the impact, but was carried to the hospital, maimed for life, while the couple he labored to save were instantly killed.

The exact part the feminine shoe played in this agonizing tragedy will probably never appear in the record, as there was no person present when Mrs. Tanner's left heel caught between the rail and the planking, save her husband, and he, with the courage of a Spartan, elected to remain when he could have stepped back two feet and saved his own life. But no construction of the law of self-preservation that would have his wife perish before his eyes, while he escaped, ever occurred to Tanner. He was not made of that sort of material. Even though there were three practically helpless little children at their home, and despite the pleading of the doomed wife and mother, his decision to remain with her to the end was beyond the power of any human agency to alter. When he seized her in his arms, deaf alike to her pleadings and the sharp command of the watchman, the locomotive was almost upon them and the engineer, looking out of his cab window, with horror depicted in his countenance, was still struggling with his mechanism in a vain effort to avert what was inevitable.

The formation of the heel made for most types of women's footwear is well calculated to promote such accidents as that which produced the peculiarly sad affair at the Hubbard's Woods crossing. The heel, with its wedge shape, will quickly lock itself in the spaces that are usually found between the rails and the station platforms. Once it gets into an opening sufficiently large to admit the smaller end, the weight of the body will drive it deeper, just as a wedge is driven.

In seeking to withdraw her foot, Mrs. Tanner only made the grip tighter, and even though her husband and the watchman struggled, they could not make the slightest progress at rescue. They had only about 30 seconds' time for their frantic undertaking, as the locomotive had whistled for the crossing just before the couple, who were on their way to a moving picture theater, undertook to get on the other side in advance of the train. Mrs. Tanner was at her husband's side and both were moving rapidly when her heel and part of her foot suddenly caught, throwing her on her knees to the ground. In her struggle to withdraw her shoe, made desperate by the glare of the headlight of the fast-coming locomotive, she succeeded only in making the hold firmer. Had there been sufficient time to enable the watchman to get an ax, he could easily have chopped away enough of the planking to release the imprisoned foot, but with the flash of the headlight upon them it was a hopeless task from the start.

William Fitch Tanner and wife who died together and the Tanner orphans. Thousands of dollars have been raised to secure the future of these little victims.

Railroads have for fully a half-century or longer striven to avoid such accidents as that which occurred at the Northwestern crossing. Most of the tragic happenings due to getting shoe heels caught right in front of approaching trains were invariably due to frogs, and as the public is not permitted to roam at will on such properties, the victims were usually switchmen or other employes. Every safety suggestion made in the manufacture of frogs and switches was given consideration and the improvements were adopted as fast as presented. Then workmen were always admonished to beware the frogs and other open spaces in moving back and forth in the performance of their duties. They also aimed to wear shoes of a kind that would not readily get imprisoned in these traps of death. The wide heels are not easily caught in such places, and these are the kind seen in the yards, where such dangers lurk, even with the most approved designs of frogs and the most effective safety-first regulations in force.

A railroad superintendent, speaking of the Tanner case, remarked that it was one of the distressing things that will happen where there are fast trains and grade crossings. He said the lesson to be drawn from the tragedy should restrain people from trying to get across ahead of a fast-moving train, just to save a minute or two. He was surprised that Tanner, who was in the railroad service himself, should allow his wife to make the attempt, even though they did not think there was any danger. It may have been, he continues, that a hundred or more other women with French or Cuban heels had passed over that very same place without getting trapped; still, that did not furnish a good reason for taking any sort of a chance with a train that was due and moving at a rapid speed. People should stop and consider just how difficult it is to stop a train that is in motion. Even the reversal and the immediate application of the air, he explained, cannot overcome the momentum in time.

The north shore of Chicago was deeply moved by the pathetic story unfolded by the accident at Hubbard's Woods. The conduct of the husband who sacrificed himself rather than turn away from his doomed wife and the fact that the couple left three little children, all under 6 years of age, started various movements under way to offer sympathy in a practical and substantial way. Many well-to-do families asked to adopt the children, and Tanner's fellow clerks in the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad offices immediately raised a fund of $100 to take care of the more pressing wants of the orphans. Then it was that the Chicago actors, even though there was a strike in progress, quickly arranged a benefit which netted something like $7000 for the doubly bereaved little ones. Help also came in the shape of checks from many cities, indicating the deep and widespread sympathy evoked by the calamity of the crossing. The oldest child, Helena, is 5 1-2 years old and William and Lyman, who are twins, are not yet 4. Tanner's aged mother, Mrs. W. D. Chatley, has taken charge of the little orphans, and with her daughter, Mrs. Frances Cassidy of Albany, N. Y., will see to their upbringing. The generous contributions of the many people affected by the tragedy, which were turned over to Mrs. Chatley and her daughter, made the future of the children secure against want.

Suburban railroad crossing at Hubbard's Woods near Chicago where was enacted one of the saddest tragedies of years. Rather than turn from his wife in her hopeless struggle to free her foot, Tanner chose to die with her.

"Yes, Miss Lamont. I try not to think of him."

"Marta, why did you tell him that you stole? You could have married him. He'd never have known. And you and he could both have been happy."

In the girl's wondering eyes, Pen read mute rebuke.

"I'd rather lose him forever than deceive him!"

"Marta," said Pen, impressively, "Diogenes should have known you."

"Who is he, Miss Lamont?"

"Never mind, Marta. I thought I knew what love meant, but I see I didn't until now. If I loved a man as you do yours, I would stop stealing if I had to cut my hands off to do it."

"I have stopped. I know now that I could have stopped long ago, if anyone had given me the right boost, or made me want to stop."

Just then Pen's eyes caught sight of a trunk in the corner of her room.

"What's that here for?" she asked.

"Oh, please, Miss Lamont, I brought it to you. I never touched anything in it. I earned enough to buy what I am wearing and a few things in my suit case, besides what I had on that day"——

"Marta, that's sweet in you. I am beginning to feel I'd like to tog once more. I shall reward you. But first, will you do something for me?"

"You know I will be glad to do anything."

"I want a note delivered. I'll write it now."

Hastily she wrote a few lines at her desk.

"Come with me, Marta. We'll have to go to a certain vine-clad pergola by devious routes to avoid three wise children and one suspicious and formidable foreman."

By much circumambulation the two girls reached the pergola unseen.

"You sit here for a few moments, Marta, and the person to whom you are to give the note will come to you."

Pen walked on to the barracks, where she met Jo.

"Will you do something for me, Jo? Right away, quick?"

"Sure thing, Miss Penny Ante. What did his nibs want?"

"Never mind, now. Go to the pergola and receive a note from me. Now don't be stupid. Do as you are told—like a good soldier does."

With a laugh Jo started in swinging gait for the place indicated, but he was halted several times by some of the men, who wanted directions for their work.

After waiting patiently, Marta concluded Pen's plans had miscarried, so she started for the house, but becoming confused as to turns, she went toward the barracks.

To a little girl whose life had been spent in slums and reformatories, the big spaces and silences were more appalling than the wildest hours of traffic on misguided State street. She had a strange inclination to walk down hill backward, that she might not see what other ascension must be made.

"If I'd only been born as high up as this, maybe I'd never have got down so low," she philosophized.

She came around a bend in the road. A man was approaching. He looked up.

"Marta, oh, Marta!"

"Jo," she cried, wildly, looking about for retreat.

Another second, in his arms, she thought no longer of flight.

"Marta, how did you ever get here?" Wild astonishment was visible in Jo's eyes.

"Mrs. Kingdon sent for me. I've been killed with kindness ever since that night I saw you, Jo. I didn't know you were here. Miss Lamont told me to stay in that place where the vines are until a man came, and to give him this note; but that was long ago. I came out and lost my way. Are you the man she meant?"

"I must be."

"Does she know that you—that we"——

"Sure she knows. Give me the note."

He removed the little folded paper from the envelope and read it aloud:

"Dear Jo: Here is your heartease. Don't let doubt kill your love. Just take Marta. A woman loves an audacious lover. Yours, Penny Ante."

"I feel sort of crazy. Gee, Marta, but it's great to be crazy! Let's sit down here and talk about it. You don't need to tell me much. She told me. Why didn't you let me hear from you?"

"I wanted to be sure, Jo. I'm not going to make excuses for myself, but I had it handed to me hard. Whenever I thought I'd like to be like other folks someone would give me a shoveback, and then I felt cornered and that it was no use. Sometimes—most always—I was down and out. Then I'd hit a little lucky wave and go up. It was one of those times I saw you in that dancehall."

"That was my lucky wave. I can see you now as you sat away from the rest—so little and so different looking from those tough ones."

"And I can see you—alone, by yourself; you looked different from anyone I'd ever seen, so healthy and jolly and kind. I saw you looking at me and knew right off what you thought—that I was straight and had got in the wrong place by mistake. And I let you think so and let you get to know me. And we danced and talked till near sunrise. That lovely day over at St. Joe! I thought I was in heaven until we were in that little park and you asked me to marry you. First time a real man ever asked me that. I wasn't low enough to fool you then. When you said it made no difference, I knew you were too good for me, and it made me love you so much that I had to run away."

"It was sure great in you to tell me, Marta.."

"You know how I got help and hope; but I'm not Marta now, Jo. Not any more. I'm Bobbie Burr."

"You'll always be Marta. But it makes no difference; you'll soon be changing your name for keeps. You can't ever lose me, now, and love has Mrs. Kingdon and all the rest of them beat for what you call reforming."

"If I had only known long ago that there were folks like you and Mrs. Kingdon and"——

"Never mind long ago. There's nothing to it. Let's talk about the little shack we are going to put up in these hills somewhere. Like it?"

"It seems like a beautiful dream up here, Jo. Too good for me."

He looked down into the kitten face, with its eyes of Irish blue.

"Nothing in the world is too good for you, my Marta."

"Miss Lamont said I could play I had died and been born again. She said it was a good way to turn over a new leaf."

"You will be born again as Mrs. Jo Gary."

Time went very swiftly then, and it was Marta who realized Pen might be expecting to see her.

"Please start me in the right direction, Jo."

"I'll take you to the house myself," said Jo, protectingly.

As they came around a curve in the road that wound its way upward and downward, they encountered Kurt.

"This is Miss Sills, Mr. Walters," introduced Jo proudly—"the little girl I told you about when I came from Chicago. We are engaged."

She looked up a little fearfully at the stern-looking young foreman. She was surprised and relieved at the kindly look in the steel-gray eyes. He took one of her little hands in his strong brown ones. He was ashamed that his instinct told him it was the typical hand of a thief, slim, smooth and deft-fingered.

"Let me congratulate you, Jo, and you, too, Marta. Jo is my friend."

Tears came into her eyes and her little mouth puckered pathetically.

"Say, Kurt, you're a brick!" exclaimed Jo heartily. "I was afraid—you know, you said"——

He stopped in confusion.

"Forget everything I said, old man. I was a grouch then and I didn't know—anything. I know better now. But, Marta, why did you tell me your name was Bobbie Burr?"

"Mrs. Kingdon told me to use that name until"——

"Until she has her right name, Marta Gary," finished Jo.

Kurt smiled condoningly.

"Mrs. Kingdon always knows what is best."

"That is what Miss Lamont said. She said that with Jo to love me and Mrs. Kingdon to advise me I couldn't help but be—what I want to be."

"Did she say that?" he asked, eagerly, a light in his eyes. "She was right."

"She left out her help. It was Jo that first made me want to be straight, but it was Miss Lamont who gave me the chance. Isn't she grand, Mr. Walters? She has such a kind heart."

"Will you tell me something about her, Marta? Is"——

He stopped abruptly. It wouldn't be just the right thing to cross-examine this little girl about her "particular pal."

"I'll see you again soon," he said, and went on to the garage.

The sound of Jo's jolly laugh, with the little added tender note, made him turn and look after them. They had stopped on their way and were looking into each other's eyes, oblivious to all else but the happiness to be found in the kingdom of love and youth.

Silhouetted on the crest of the hill they stood—Jo, lean, long and picturesque in his rough clothes; Marta, neat and natty, from her little pumps to her shining yellow hair, smoothed back over her forehead.

With the feeling that he also was initiated into the great brotherhood and had recognized the tokens of membership, he went about his tasks, seeing a vision of a girl with a sweetness in her eyes that often belied the bantering of her tone.

When he came up to dinner, Pen's place was vacant.

"Bobbie won't eat with us," explained Francis. "Nora didn't, you know. Aunt Pen thought she might be lonesome eating her first meal all alone, so they are having their dinner together."

Marta's words, "she has such a kind heart," came back to him.

"She is right," he said. "Marta knows."

And suddenly there was born in him a deep compassion for all women of her kind. In vain he waited for Pen in the library that night. But, feeling she was in deep water, Pen had resolved to stay in her room.

CHAPTER XI.

OUTSIDE her door Pen found Betty waiting expectantly.

"Bobbie gave us a nickel apiece not to disturb you," she began, glibly. "She said you had a headache last night. And father's come home and brought a man with him. And mother's coming soon."

Pen found herself only languidly interested in these announcements. She listened distraitly to the prattle of the children, who surrounded her while she was served with toast and coffee.

"Father and the man are motoring around the ranch," said Francis, "but they will be back to lunch."

This roused her to the extent of making a more elaborate toliet than usual. She came into the library shortly before the luncheon hour, clad in one of the gowns she had taken from the trunk Marta had brought, her hair done with exquisite care.

"Why, Aunty Pen!" cried Betty. "You look so different. You look grown up."

"I am, Betty," she said, gravely.

"Miss Pen!" exclaimed Kingdon, coming forward. "Our hills have gotten in their curative powers speedily. I was afraid you were of the lily family, but I see you are a bud of the rose."

While she was replying to his banter, Kurt came into the room. She felt a little feminine thrill of pleasure in his look of unspoken admiration.

"I left my guest, Mr. Hebler, down at the stables," continued Kingdon. "Billy, run down and tell him it is nearly time for luncheon. I made a new acquaintance while I was away," he explained to Pen. "Bruce Hebler. I persuaded him to stop off on his way out to California."

Pen's eyes dilated slightly, and the color left her face, as she made some excuse for leaving the room. Kurt followed, intercepting her in the hallway.

"This Hebler is someone you have met before?" he asked, looking at her keenly.

"Yes; did I show it so plainly? I don't want to see him, or let him know I am here."

"You are afraid of him?"

"Y-e-s."

"He has some power over you—the power to take you away?"

"Yes; a power prior to yours."

"A legal one?" "Yes."

"You can keep to your room," he said reassuringly. "That is, for the afternoon. Westcott has invited Mr. Kingdon and this man to dinner and for cards afterward. You can easily stay away from the breakfast room in the morning. I think he is going to leave in a day or so. I'll think up some excuse for your not appearing."

"Oh!" she said, whimsically. "You will—lie for me?"

He flushed.

"I want Mrs. Kingdon to be your custodian—not this man."

"So do I," she said. "But I forget I am in custody up here."

"I am wondering," he said, in a troubled tone, "how we can prevent the children from speaking of you before this man? And Kingdon, too, is sure to mention your name."

"Oh, that will do no harm. He won't know whom they mean. He doesn't know me by my own name. I told you I had a great many convenient aliases. Remember?"

"Yes," he replied shortly. "I remember."

She went to her room, and presently Marta came in with her luncheon, some books and a message of sympathy from Kingdon. In spite of the distractions, time dragged and it was with a sigh of relief that she saw Kingdon and his guest motoring toward Westcott's.

"Poor old Hebby! Just as hawk-nosed and lynx-eyed as ever. The last place he'd think of looking for me would be behind these curtains. It's worth being a prisoner for an afternoon to know I have eluded him once more."

When she came down to dinner, Kurt was again visibly impressed by her appearance. She wore another of her recently acquired gowns, a black one of sheer filmy material. Her hair, rippling back from her brows, was coiled low. Her face was pale and yet young and flowerlike. There was a new touch of wistfulness about her—a charm of repose, almost of dignity.

Later, when the children had gone upstairs, she went into the dimly lighted sitting room and sat down at the piano, touching softly and lightly the notes of a minor melody, an erratic little air rising and falling in a succession of harmonies.

"Pen!"

She turned exquisite eyes to Kurt's ardent gaze.

"I like you in this dress. I didn't know dress could so alter a person." There was the tone of unrepressed admiration in his voice.

"Hebby is right," she thought with a fleeting smile.

JUROR NUMBER TWELVE

By WILLIAM HAMILTON OSBORNE

THE young man with the fur-lined overcoat took in hand a pen and nervously scribbled off a signature upon the hotel register of the Motel Monroe.

"John Henry Whitehead, City."

The clerk scribbled down the number of a room opposite the signature, noted the hour of arrival and pressed a button. The young man waved his hand.

"You can send my bag and umbrella upstairs," he said, "I'm going up to the"—— He stopped and looked about him. "I'm going down the street," he added.

He strode out to the corner, looked once more about him and then he started up the street, not down. He did not notice that a bustling, burly individual had followed him. This hustling, burly individual reached him at the end of the next block and touched him on the arm. The young man in the fur-lined coat slightly shuddered. Ahead of him, up Main street, was the gilded dome of the State House; that and safety. But now——

"You're John Henry Whitehead of this town?" queried the bustling, burly individual.

Once more the young man shivered. Again he hesitated. The burly individual helped him out.

"I saw you register your name, bo," he suggested.

The young man nodded swiftly. "Yes," he answered, dropping all uncertainty from him. "I am John Henry Whitehead of this town. And what of that?"

The other man spat into the street and grinned. "You don't know me," he said. "I'm a Sheriff's special officer here—only one of 'em. The whole gang of us has had a bench warrant in our pockets looking for you for the last six months. The Sheriff's most particular about these here things. Monroe County expects that every man'll do his duty, bo. You know that. So does Judge Terwilliger." He squinted genially at the fur-lined overcoat and seized it firmly by its astrackan lapel. "John Henry Whitehead," he said, "I guess you'll have to come along."

The young man gasped. "What for?" he inquired.

Once more the special officer grinned. "Now, none o' that, bo," he commented. "I ain't the Sheriff and I ain't the Judge. You can make your excuses to them there, but not to me. You can talk all you want to before them."

The young man thought for an instant. Again his glance sought the gilded dome of the Capitol building in the distance.

"Are you going to take me up there?" he queried

"I'm going to take you," replied the deputy, "to the county courthouse." He jerked his hand over his shoulder in an opposite direction. "You know blame well where it is," he added.

"How did you know," asked the prisoner, slowly, "that I was John Henry Whitehead of Monroe?"

"Ain't you told me, and didn't I see you register? Come on. What's the use?"

But his captive insisted. "Were you looking for me, then, at the hotel?"

"It was just by accident," grinned the officer. "I was there on some private business * * * I was watching out for some other parties"—his captive started and glanced attentively upon him—"and I seen you register, and I says business first, pleasure afterwards, and that's the whole game."

"Come on," said his prisoner, "we'll take this car and get it over with at once, whatever it is. Come on."

Fifteen minutes later at the county courthouse, his deputy handed him over to another deputy, whispering to the latter the history of the case.

"I got to get back to the Monroe House, Jawn," said his captor, "whisper—Wortendyke—Assemblyman—cash—aw, say, wads of it. Just wads of it and nothin' else—an, Jawn, you take this here chap before Judge Terwilliger. It'll be good for sore eyes for the Judge to see him. Say!"

Jawn and the man with the fur-lined overcoat entered the courtroom together. It was crowded to suffocation. A trial was on. The jury box was filled with jurors. But no—not filled. There were 11 men in the box. The twelfth seat was vacant.

The Judge leaned over and addressed two lawyers. "Gentlemen," he said, "it's your own fault. You've challenged now for two days. We've exhausted the whole panel. We've brought in talesmen by the dozen. And I've sent out now to get some more."

One of the lawyers smiled. "If Your Honor would send a few deputies up to the State House I think you could corral the entire population of the town."

His Honor smiled. "Shouldn't wonder," he answered.

Then he saw, Jawn, the special deputy, with his prisoner. Jawn was respectfully making motions. So the Judge beckoned him during the lull, and Jawn and his charge went up.

"We've got him," said Jawn to the Court. "It's John Henry Whitehead," he exclaimed, "the man the Sheriff was so particular about. He's been called on 15 panels or more in the last three years and never showed up to serve. He's the man Your Honor issued this here bench warrant for a deal of a while ago."

The Court frowned. "What have you to say for yourself, Whitehead?" he inquired, severely.

The young man stepped forward. He was about to speak, when one of the counsel in the case at bar lounged forward with an extra edition in his hand.

"Judge," he said, in a low voice, "it looks as though Peter Wortendyke would be the next United States Senator, after all."

"Hope so," returned the Judge, genially, "it'll help me to stay here for 10 years more."

"It seems to hang now on Lorraine of River County—a new Assemblyman." The lawyer laughed silently. "And Lorraine," he went on, "left home last night for here, and he isn't here and nobody knows where he is, and I guess he's got Peter Wortendyke's ten thousand in his inside pocket, all right, all right."

"I hope Wortendyke swings it," returned the Judge.

The lawyer nodded and went back to his place at the table. The Judge frowned once more and looked at the deputy and his now pallid prisoner.

"I am not John Henry Whitehead," exclaimed the young man in the fur-lined coat. He stopped again, flushing, for he recalled sharply Trelawney's final injunction. Trelawney had said: "Don't tell anybody who you are. You understand? Not anybody. If they know, they'll mob you as quick as lightning and a good deal quicker."

For the young man in the fur-lined coat was not John Henry Whitehead. He was Lorraine, the new Assemblyman from River County. He was in the enemy's country and he knew it. Trelawney of River County had never ceased to impress the danger on his mind. And he and Trelawney had leafed over the Monroe directory in secret until they found a name Trelawney didn't know.

"That'll do," Trelawney had told him. "You register as John Henry Whitehead; some nobody of the town itself. That's the safest; it's the only way."

He had followed instructions so far, but involuntarily found himself disobeying them.

"I am not John Henry Whitehead," he repeated.

His speech and his confusion were unnoticed for the time being, for a third deputy had entered with a lively bunch of talesmen, gathered in from the gutter; made up of the flotsam and jetsam of existence. The Judge drew a long sigh.

"You gentlemen," he said to the two counsel, "can never agree on any of these bums."

They shook their heads wearily. For the third time the Judge's eye lighted on John Henry Whitehead.

"Here, Whitehead," he said, "you've been a bad man. You're guilty of contempt of court and a whole lot of other things besides. I could jail you, but I'm going to be lenient just this once." He pointed to the vacant seat in the jury box. You take the twelfth man's place," he said.

Judge: "Here, Whitehead," he said, "you've been a bad man. You're guilty of contempt of court and a whole lot of other things besides."

He of the fur-lined overcoat obeyed. He was glad to do so. He had been afraid of being kept in jail and he had been afraid to reveal his true identity. For even the very deputies, nay, even the Court itself, was tainted with the insidious influence, the underground mephitis of Peter Wortendyke, the owner of the State, proprietor of people's utilities, controller of franchises and privileges, corrupter of souls. Yes, Lorraine was afraid—physically, morally, mentally afraid—to reveal his own true name; afraid to let anybody know that he was Lorraine, Assemblyman from River County, up the State.

But now all was well. The court would adjourn at 4. The joint ballot of the Assembly and the Senate in joint session would take place at 8 o'clock that night. As John Henry Whitehead he would leave the courtroom, as John Henry Whitehead he would wend his way in safety to the State House; under that name would enter the State House—and when the hour struck he would cast his vote, as Frederick V. Lorraine, Assemblyman from River.

"Counsel may ask the twelfth juror the usual questions," said the Court.

The twelfth juror answered the questions without knowing what they were about. He found it easiest to answer in the affirmative. He found after a confused quarter of an hour that both counsel had nodded to the Court.

"Satisfactory, if the Court please," they acknowledged.

The jury was sworn. When they resumed their seats the twelfth juror leaned over and whispered to the eleventh juror.

"What's this case about?" he queried.

"Thunder, man," returned juror 11, "where you been all this time. This is the famous Boadastl murder case. What's the matter with you, anyhow?"

By 4 o'clock in the afternoon the prosecution had only just begun, but the court adjourned on time.

"Let Constables Andrews, Mackerley and Goldstein step this way," cried the clerk.

The three stepped forward.

"Hold up your right hands," said the Court, "and take the oath."

They did so. The jury rose and stretched its arms. Lorraine of River County, juror No. 12, yawned in a satisfied way.

"Well, old man," he said to the eleventh juror, "I'll see you at 10 sharp tomorrow morning."

"What!" gasped the eleventh man. "What's that?"

Juror No. 12 did not answer. He stepped down from the jury box and started for the door. Constable Goldstein ran after him, seized him roughly by the arm and brought him back.

"Where do you think you're goin', No. 12?" he asked.

Lorraine shook himself free. "The court's adjourned," he answered.

"Sure," answered Goldstein with a grin, "sure it's adjourned, and so is the jury, in a body, by its lonesome, altogether. What you thinking about, No. 12. This here is a murder trial, you see. An' naturally, we got to stick together closer than brothers, don't you see?"

Slowly the truth filtered into the mind of Lorraine, the Assemblyman from River. The jury were compelled of the day in all his being. Vividly he recalled their ride in the early dawn and the brief moment she had lain unconscious in his arms. Ever since that moment he had barricaded himself against her appeal and charm. He felt himself yielding and knew that the yielding was bringing him happiness.

"I am in a fool's paradise," he thought, "but still a paradise. She doesn't care for me any more than she cares for Jo. I wonder does he know it, or is she deceiving him? I fear so, for he seems absurdly happy."

He was still lost in the dreams of the lotus eater when he heard something that resembled the rattling of his own noisy car. Looking down the hill road from town, he saw a vehicle approaching which he recognized as the "town taxi." It turned into the ranch grounds and he quickly went to the front of the house, supposing that Kingdon or his wife must have returned.

A strange young girl was alighting. As he went wonderingly to meet her, he saw that she was city bred. She seemed to be dazed by the illimitable spaces and was blinking from the sunshine. His observant eye noted the smart suitcase and the wardrobe trunk the man was depositing on the porch. There was city shrewdness in having had the amount of the fare fixed before leaving town.

She was a little slip of a girl, with a small-featured face and a certain pale prettiness. There was an appealing tinge of melancholy in her eyes, notwithstanding they were eager and alert. Her dress was plain, but natty and citified.

"Is this Top Hill—where Mrs. Kingdon lives?" she asked in a low, softly-pitched voice.

"Yes," he replied, "but Mrs. Kingdon is away"——

"I know—but she wrote me to come here; that she would be home very soon."

"I am glad to hear that. Come in," he urged hospitably, as he picked up her suitcase. "The housekeeper will make you comfortable."

She hesitated.

"Is Miss Lamont in?"

"Miss Lamont—Miss Pen Lamont?" he asked, in surprise. "She is a friend of yours?"

"Yes," she replied, composedly.

"She has gone for a drive, but she will be back soon."

She followed him within and stood gazing at the pleasant interior—books, pictures, piano and fireplace, while he went to summon the housekeeper.

"Mrs. Merlin, this is a friend of Mrs. Kingdon's," he said on his return. "Will you show her to one of the guest rooms?"

"Oh!" exclaimed the girl in expostulatory tone, "I am not a guest. My name is—Bobbie Burr. Mrs. Kingdon hired me to do plain sewing for the children and to care for the linen."

There was no trace of a seamstress in the plain but elegant garb and appointments of the young girl, and Mrs. Merlin was at a loss as to the proper establishment of the newcomer.

"Maybe," she said to Kurt, hesitatingly, "the room the last nursery governess had"——

"Any room will do," said the girl hurriedly, as she followed Mrs. Merlin.

Kurt went down the road which Jo and Pen had taken. He felt the need of a pipe and solitude to help him figure out this puzzling problem, and soon he was sending a jet of smoke up to the branches of the tree which he had selected for a resting place.

Who was this girl whose belongings betokened money, and yet who said she had come to do plain sewing? Enlightenment came with the recollection that she had been sent by Mrs. Kingdon and was doubtless one of her protegees. The name she had given sounded demimondish, and she was a friend of Pen's! The thought made him wince. She had seemed to him some way isolated from her kind, with naught in common with them save her profession. To find he was mistaken brought him an unpleasant shock.

A sound of wheels around the curve; the clatter of hoofs. In a momen they came into his vision—the prancing team, the merry driver and—the thief. Delicate as a drop of dew, as lovely as a forest blossom, her voice, bird-like and rippling, wafted to him from the clear, aromatic air, she inverted again all his theories and resolutions.

He walked toward them, his hand raised.

Jo reined in.

"Will you get out and walk up to the house with me?" Kurt asked her, the question given in the form and tone of command.

"A friend of yours is at the house," he said abruptly, when Jo had driven on and was outside of hearing.

"A friend of mine!" she repeated, losing a little of the wild rose tint in her fear that Hebler might have arrived.

"So she says. Mrs. Kingdon sent her here to sew for the children."

"How you relieve me! I was fearing it might be a man."

"Her name," he said, "is Bobbie Burr."

"What!" Her voice had a startled note. "Bobbie Burr! Oh, yes; I remember her."

"Is she a particular friend of yours?"

"I am more attracted by her than by any girl I ever knew. Let's sit down in the shade of one of the few-and-far-between trees you have up here. You were interested in my welfare when you took me from Bender, but you will be doubly interested in Bobbie when you hear her story. She is a convert far more worthy of your efforts and those of Mrs. Kingdon than I have proved to be.

"She is the type you thought I was before you snatched me from the burning—I mean from Bender. Let me see if I can quote you correctly: 'One of the many young city girls who go wrong because they have no chance; bred in the slums, ill-treated, ill-fed.' Poor Bobbie had no chance until—you'll be skeptical when I tell you how she first received her moral uplift—she had some nice clothes. Stealing was her only vice! At that, she only took enough to meet her needs; but one day she found some money; quite a lot, it seemed to her. Down in her little fluttering fancy she had always had longings for a white dress—a nice white dress. She had the inherent instinct for judging rightly 'what she should wear.' So, for the first time in her life she was able to be correctly and elegantly clad. The white dress she bought was simple, one of the plain but effective and expensive kind. With the wearing of this new gown there naturally came the feminine desire to be seen and admired. She didn't know where to go. She had never been a frequenter of dance halls. She knew, of course, there were few open sesames for her. She went to one where no questions are asked before admittance. Things didn't look good to her at this Hurricane Hall, and she thought her doll was filled with sawdust until the inevitable man appeared and changed her angle of vision. He was that most unusual apparition, a nice, honest man. He saw her; she saw him; after that there were no others visible in their little world.

"Within 24 hours he had told her of his love and asked her to marry him. Then—I tried to convince you thieves could be honest—she was brave enough to tell him what she was. He was a true knight and lover. Her confession didn't alter his feelings or his intentions; in fact, his determination to marry her was strengthened. Because she loved him very much she ran away from him, leaving him in a strange city without even her name for a clew. But now she had a hope, a real incentive—the biggest one there is. She pawned all the coveted clothes she had bought and went to a place far away, where she could begin a new life—the life of an honest working girl.

"In her little game with destiny, she lost out, and was apprehended for a theft of which she was entirely innocent, but her past record barred acquittal. A man was instrumental in gaining a reprieve for her, however, and she was sent away to new environment, where she found friends, health and, best of all, a job.

"So the desire was born in her to turn the proverbial new leaf, not for the sake of winning her 'man,' but from the simple wish to be 'good.' I interested Mrs. Kingdon in her and told her where she was, but did not dream of such good luck for—Bobbie as to be sent up here. I know she will find happiness up here in these hills. You'll be kind to the little girl, won't you? she pleaded. "You know, you haven't much mercy for sinners, but you will see she is serious about reforming; not flippant like me. She will never yield to temptation again."

"How do you know?" he asked, looking at her keenly.

"Because," she answered softly. "She loves, and—the man she loves is worthy of her."

"And you think love is powerful enough to cure?"

"I think so."

"Would it cure—you?"

"I don't know," she said, ingenuously. "You see, I have never loved."

A fervid light smoldered in his eyes.

"Aunty Pen!"

Francis came running around the curve.

"There is a nice girl at the house. Mother sent her. She's got a boy's name—Bobbie. I like her. She does anything I tell her to."

"That's the masculine measure," she said, taking his hand and running on with him.

"Come back!" was the strident summons from Kurt.

"Stay here a moment," Pen hurriedly bade Francis.

"I want to ask you how this girl is able to have such expensive looking things—if she has only a job?"

"They were given to her."

"By the man who was instrumental in getting her reprieved? You said she was virtuous."

"Don't do the man an injustice, even if you doubt poor little Bobbie. He acted from charitable motives. He has never seen her, or tried to see her."

"Look at me, Pen!"

"I'm looking. You have the true Western eye—the eye of a sharpshooter and a—Sheriff."

"The story you just told me is the story of Marta Sills. Is that her name or yours?"

"It belongs to us both. Being 'particular pals,' we shared alike. Interchange of names often comes handy with us."

"Was it you or Bobbie Burr—the girl who just came—whom Jo met in a dance hall, and took to St.—some place on Lake Michigan?"

"Dear me! You cattlemen are such gay birds when you come to a city! How can I tell how many girls Jo Gary took to a dance hall? If that St. Something was St. Joe, he must have gone there to get married. It's what most people go there for, and probably he's no more saintly than the place is. Maybe it was named after him."

"Tell me! Was it Bobbie Burr?"

"She never mentioned Jo Gary's name to me, so how do I know? Yes, Francis; coming."

She ran fleetly on to join the boy who was impatiently calling to her.

"Marta! How the plot does thicken!" she thought as she ran a race with Francis to the house. "Now we're all here but Hebby. What next? Curtain soon, I expect. No need longer for understudies. I must start things before Kurt succumbs to her charms. That little subdued, clinging-vine air she has is most appealing to his type. He'll come to forgive her anything."

"Marta," she said quickly, as she met the young girl, "come upstairs with me."

She locked the door as soon as they were in her room.

"Now tell me all about yourself and everything that has happened since I last saw you."

Beaming with the excitement that comes from narrative of self, the newcomer talked animatedly for some time.

"And," she concluded, "Mrs. Kingdon said you told her all about me, and she sent me a ticket to come here. And it's lovely up here, isn't it? She told me I'd better keep to the name of Bobbie Burr for the present, until she came, anyway."

"I should say!" agreed Pen. "Marta Sills might land you in most unpleasant places. But, Marta, that man you told me about, whose name you didn't mention?"

She sat down at the piano, striking softly the notes of a minor melody.

Juror Number Twelve (Continued)

to stay together from the beginning to the end of the trial. Twelve men and three Constables. They would sleep together, eat together, walk together, talk together.

"Where are you going to take us," groaned Lorraine, "to the Hotel Monroe?"

"Not on your life," answered the Constables. "There's too many politicians up there. We're going to take you round to Jimmy Farrell's Tenth street house—just a nice, quiet place, where there's nothing to do but argue about this here important case and go to sleep."

"But I've got to get away," wailed Lorraine.

The Constable smiled. It was an old story to him. "So has your 11 companions, my friend," he said; "they all got to, but they all don't. That's all."

On the way to Jimmy Farrell's Tenth street house, juror No. 12 tried to buy an evening paper. Mackerley, one of the Constables, almost knocked him down.

"My heaven, man," cried Mackerley, "that's one of the most important things that you can't do. What's the matter with you. Ain't you got your buttons, No. 12?"

But if No. 12 could not buy a paper, he could read the mail bulletin with its small crowd about it, and he did. "Lorraine still missing. Probably bought up by Wortendyke."

That's what it said. The Monroe Mail was the organ of his own party. The Monroe Mail was a very plain talker. It never minced matters. It knew well that three of the River County Assemblymen had been paid $10,000 apiece; knew it with a knowledge that was certain. Lorraine knew it. Lorraine knew that the news that he was missing, that in all probability he, too, had been bought up, had already traveled from one end of the State to the other. He clutched Constable Mackerley by the arm.

"I am," he began. He stopped once more. For Trelawney, one of the few honest men in River, had told him that he must not. He held his peace. No one must know. He could work things out in a safer way as Whitehead than he could as Lorraine.

Even then Constable Mackerley caught him by the arm. "I tell you, No. 12," he said, "did you read that bulletin? I want to tell you that our man will go to the United States Senate all o k."

"Your man?"

"Ah," returned Mackerley, "big Pete Wortendyke of Monroe. Watch out."

At the supper table that night in the big jury bedroom at Jimmy Farrell's Tenth street house, juror No. 3 rose suddenly, let out a yell and placed a huge hand against his jaw.

"What's the row?" demanded Andrews of the constabulary.

It was a toothache, an infernal toothache, howled No. 3. He didn't stop howling, either. He kept it up all through the meal.

"Let me see your tooth," demanded Andrews. He saw it. No. 3 was right. And if the tooth was as bad as it looked, Andrews admitted to himself, it must be pretty bad.

"Would you let me have it out?" wailed No. 3. The Constables held a consultation.

"He's Tim Ward, of the same district as I'm from," suggested Goldstein, "maybe"——

They told No. 3 he could have it out. He started off. They brought him back. "Hold on," they exclaimed, "not quite so fast. We'll go along."

They went—not only the three Constables—the whole 12 jurors went. They didn't go far—just around the corner to the nearest dentist.

"He wants a tooth out," the Constable informed the dentist, "but don't you say a word to him. Just do it nice and quiet."

The dentist did it nice, but he didn't do it quiet. The remaining 11 of the jury and the three Constables, all crowded as they were, in the small operating room, were witnesses to that. Tim Ward saw to it that it wasn't too quiet; he took care of that. Then they went back to Farrell's.

It was 6:45 when juror No. 12 was found huddled in a corner, groaning, half unconscious. Mackerley discovered him.

"What in time's the matter with him?" he asked. Goldstein and Andrews shook their heads.

"He's fakin'," they suggested. They applied the tests. He didn't seem to be. Goldstein and Mackerley looked at Constable Andrews.

"Dare we give him whisky?" they queried, anxiously.

Andrews rubbed his chin. "You might order up some," he suggested, "not too much an' not too little, an' if he can't take or won't take it, why"——

The other two nodded. "We'd better give him whisky," they assented, "an' if he can't take it, why"——

The stimulant was brought and juror No. 12 not only took it, but revived.

"Blenkinsop," he cried, feebly, "I've had another stroke."

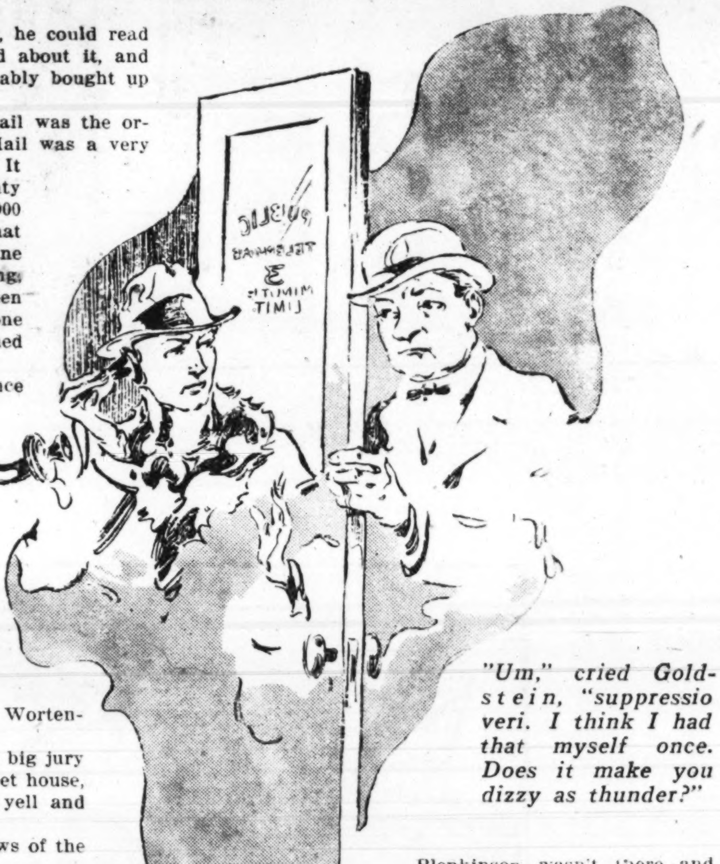
He looked wildly about him. "Where's Blenkinsop?" he cried. "Tell him I've had another stroke. Tell him to come back—he was here just now—tell him to come back."

"No. 12," said Andrews, solemnly, the spokesman of a group of 14 men, "say—what ails you, man?"

"Tell Blenkinsop not to go—not to go," wailed the twelfth juror, sinking back into a half stupor on the floor. They shook him and he roused himself.

"Who's Blenkinsop?" they queried.

"Dr. Blenkinsop—the specialist. We were in Yale together"—which was true, for Blenkinsop was the only man in Monroe whom Lorraine of River County knew—"we were in Yale together, he and I—sure"—— He rose to his feet and looked about wildly. "Where's Blenkinsop?" he wailed.



"Um," cried Goldstein, "suppressio veri. I think I had that myself once. Does it make you dizzy as thunder?"

Blenkinsop wasn't there and they told him so. Upon him then there settled down a terrific calm; the calmness of despair. His already pallid brow seemed to break forth with whiter pallor.

"I've got to talk to Dr. Blenkinsop—through the phone. He's the only man who understands my case."

The three guards held another consultation. "Blenkinsop's at the other end of town," they told him. "Won't any other doctor do?"

They spoke with an air of some respect, for juror No. 12 not only seemed to be extremely ill, but he was, furthermore, the only man in the crowd with a fur-lined astrakan overcoat. For all they knew, John Henry Whitehead might be a millionaire.

"You can get any doctor you want," returned Lorraine, "but there isn't a doctor in town will take the case. It's Blenkinsop's case, I tell you. I've got to phone—got to, do you hear?"

The 12 filed down into the hotel office, where the telephone was—two of the Constables supporting the stricken man.

"Get me Blenkinsop," said the invalid, feebly.

They got him. They let No. 12 talk to him. But Goldstein, the Constable, sat with his ear within six inches of the telephone.

"Hello, Blenkinsop," said Lorraine, with a quickening hope in his voice.

"Who is this?" asked the voice at the other end.

"Lor"—— began No. 12. Then he stopped. He glanced appealingly at Goldstein, the only man in earshot.

"Constable," he said, "this is my physician. You know what the law says—that this is a confidential communication. I don't want to talk to him before you about this case, in all its ghastliness. Honestly, I don't."

"What's the trouble with you?" queried Goldstein.

Lorraine nodded. "It's a complication," he answered, "of nom de guerre mixed with suggestic falsi, and on top of the whole thing is a case of suppressio veri. There—that's what it is."

"Um," cried Goldstein, "suppressio veri. I think I had that myself once. Does it make you dizzy as thunder?"

"Does it?" exclaimed Lorraine. "I should think it did. Let me finish. This doctor—Blenkinsop—is the only American who can test for it, who knows it when he sees it, and who can keep it under control. But there are some things. Let me talk to him just for a moment, will you?"

Goldstein moved away. With him moved a $5 bill that clung tenaciously to his palm.

"Hello, Doc," said juror No. 12. "This is Lorraine—Bob Lorraine of River. Listen, Doc. Listen, for the sake of heaven."

Two minutes later juror No. 12 had slumped down onto the floor. "He won't come up," he wailed, "he won't, he won't, he won't." Gradually he sank into a coma. Out of this coma he came suddenly, waving his arms wildly in the air. "We've got to go to him," he cried.

The three Constables looked at each other. "We know Blenkinsop," they told each other. "Get him again. We'll talk to him."

They talked to him. "I know that case," Blenkinsop informed them, in Blenkinsop's professional way, "and I know the symptoms. I should call it, from a political standpoint"——

"A—what?" asked Mackerley.

"From a professional standpoint," answered Blenkinsop, "it's almost a case of life and death. But I can't come up there. You've got to bring that man to me. You needn't be afraid. Give him a cup of hot coffee and he'll stand it till he get here. But—listen! he must see me before an hour goes by. You come here. By that time I'll be through. But—come. Delay is dangerous."

They gave juror No. 12 some coffee and he straightened up. Then Andrews called up the Judge's house on the telephone. He stated the case.

"It's all right," said the Judge. "You can take him down there and let the doctor treat him. You can't help it, Constable. I'll stand by you. All right. Don't keep me talking. I'm going to the State House now."

Andrews laughed. "I guess all the town'll be there," he responded as the Judge rang off.

It was 20 minutes before 8 when the 15 men drew up before the house of Dr. Blenkinsop. They rang the bell and filed in.

The doctor was not in. Mrs. Blenkinsop came down and saw them.

"This here is a case of life and death," explained Constable Mackerley, "the doctor told us we had to come down here and come down right away."

"I know," answered Mrs. Blenkinsop, "but the doctor had a serious case on early in the evening; somebody from the State House was knocked on the head and his skull almost fractured"——

Goldstein stared. "I wonder was it Lorraine of River County?" he queried. Juror No. 12 could see in the face of Goldstein the hope that it had been he.

"I believe," answered Mrs. Blenkinsop "that it was the sergeant at arms. They brought him in here—a man in a fur-lined overcoat—I believe—something was said—he was mistaken, I think for some Assemblyman."

Goldstein turned to juror No. 12. "Lucky for you, Mr. Whitehead," he exclaimed, "that you wasn't out, if they're knocking men with fur-lined overcoats."

John Henry Whitehead, juror No. 12, did not answer. He had slumped down to the floor.

"Can you give us coffee, missus?" queried Goldstein. "We got to get him to the doctor, no matter where he is. If this here juror should die on our hands His Honor wouldn't do a thing but give us rats—why, he'd have to start this here murder case all over again."

"Will the Doc be back by 8 o'clock?" asked Mackerley.

He would not. He had accompanied the sergeant at arms up to the State House and would care for him there.

"We'll have to go up there and find him then," said Andrews. "We don't want no corpse on our hands. Not we."

It was after 8 o'clock when they reached the State House.

"Have you seen Doc Blenkinsop?" they asked of all who passed.

None had. So they kept right on to the Assembly chamber, where all the world and his wife had assembled to see Peter Wortendyke, the great and only, get a way with the United States senatorship.

The doctor was there. Mackerley went in and found him there and called him out. But the doctor would not be called out. He was standing at the side of a much-battered gentleman who was nursing a sore head—the sergeant at arms.

"And they took me for Lorraine," wailed the injured man. "Don't leave me, Doc."

Mackerley went out. "There's no help for it," he said. "We'll clear a ringside and take the gang. This

"Let's talk about the little shack we are going to put up in these hills somewhere"—

CHAPTER IX (Continued).

"IT WAS wonderful, Larry," said Pen, as they were motoring to town. "I seem to see you from such a new angle now. I have always thought of you as a lovable, happy-go-lucky boy, but when I saw you take the air, I knew you had come to be something far different. You have the hawk-sense of balance, the sixth sense—the sense woman was supposed to have a monopoly of till the day of airplanes arrived. You had nerve to go up there, and yet you were not nervous."

"A fellow has to be without nerve and yet nervy," explained Larry. "If he loses his sense of equilibrium up there, it's all off; yet he has to be always ready to take a chance and to find one."

"And, Larry—when you fly to the colors"——

"To the tri-colors," he interrupted.

"It will bring out the biggest and bravest and best there is in you, Larry. I am so glad! Don't go out of my life again. Let me hear from you when you get over.

"I was sore, Pen, when you handed me such a lecture, though it was coming to me all right. But it stuck, and the time came when I was grateful. When I found I could make good, I couldn't find you. I wrote every one of the crowd, or went to see them, but you had mysteriously disappeared. Hebby said you must have been run in."

"Was; but luck was with me again. I will give you an address that will always reach me."

"I shall never go up, Pen, without thinking of you, and today. But you have told me very little of yourself. Are you still"——

"The thief? Not at present. I am enjoying an interlude; but there are times when virtue palls, but I mean to keep out of Hebler's clutches. Larry, I believe I will let you out here—on the edge of the town—the main street. I have a long ride before me. It's lonesome to say good-by."

"I expect to be in two or three days yet—waiting for some mail."

"I wish I might see you again, Larry, but I don't know how I can manage it. If anyone knew I were in town today, it might lead to—developments. Send me your address at the port you are to sail from, and I'll have things there for you."

"Good-by, Pen. You're the best little scout I ever knew."

He kissed her and got out of the car. There were tears in her eyes as she motored on up through the hills land. The air grew cold and brisk. She felt the sense of silence and strength. She recalled her first ride up these hills in the early morning, and that turned her thoughts to Kurt. She wondered if he were of the stuff that birdmen are made of. How much more sphinxlike he was, and how different from the keen, alert, businesslike flier, Larry, had shown himself to be! They were types as remote as the eagle and the lark. Larry, of course, was the lark. She had a feeling of loneliness in her knowledge of his going so far away. He knew more about her than anyone else. She never had to play a part with him.

Soon, all too soon, she found herself at the ranch. Dinner was over and the children had gone upstairs with Mrs. Merlin.

Kurt returned a few moments later and came into the library where she sat alone by the open fire, pensive and distrait, still thinking of Larry and of his going into service.

He looked at her oddly. This was not the pert, saucy, little girl he had taken from Bender, nor the little playmate of the children, nor yet the quiet, domestic woman who had served him that night in the kitchen.

There was an indefinable charm about her that defied definition or analysis—a rapt, exquisite look that lifted her up—up to his primitive ideal.

"Pen!"

He started toward her, seemed to remember, hesitated and then asked lamely:

"What have you been doing all day?"

Her former little air of raillery crept back momentarily at his change of tone.

"A narrow escape," she thought, as she said aloud, reckless of consequences: "I motored into town by myself; bought some new clothes; had dinner with an old friend; saw an airplane go up and"——

He smiled in a bored way and asked her some irrelevant question.

"The easiest way to deceive, as Hebby always said, is to tell the truth," she thought.

"Pen!" He spoke with a return of his first manner. "I"——

"I am very tired," she quickly interrupted. "I think I will say good-night, now."

"Don't go yet," he urged, "I"——

"I want to be alone," she replied, wearily.

"There is something I want to say to you. Jo Gary comes tomorrow!"

"Yes," she answered indifferently. "Mr. Westcott found another manager, did he?"

"You knew Jo was at Westcott's?" he gasped.

"Certainly. I've seen Jo a number of times."

"When, where?" he demanded in displeased tone.

"Let me think. Why, he came back from Westcott's the day after my arrival. Their manager postponed departure. So Jo was here for the dance, and on field day—and—I think he went back to Westcott's the day you came back. Wasn't it all right to see him?" she asked guilelessly. "Mrs. Kingdon didn't object."

"What other times did you see him?"

"I heard him whistle one night, and I slid down the big tree near my window. Then he came one morning to bring me flowers. I am glad he is coming for keeps. He livens things up, Jo does."

"Why did neither you nor he speak of your having met?"

"I begged him not to, because I felt that you wouldn't approve."

An intense silence followed.

"Do you think," he asked bitterly, "that you are fair to Jo"——

"To Jo?" she asked in surprise. "I don't understand."

"You do understand. Jo told me what he asked you in Chicago and how you left him—to reform—to be worthy of his love."

"I haven't deceived Jo," she replied, slowly. "I told him where you found me and why. He doesn't care. He understands. Jo loves"——

The pause that followed was so prolonged that she stole another side glance. She had a sudden, swift insight into the power and vigor of the man—the inner man.

"That the girl he loves," she continued, softly, "is a thief, makes no difference to Jo."

"Remember, Jo is only a boy—younger than you in all but years."

"Only a boy, it is true, but with the faith and love of a man."

He started from his chair and came up close to her.

"Answer me," he said, his eyes narrowing to slits. "Do you love Jo Gary?"

A sort of paralysis seem to grip her, and she felt helpless to move her eyes from his. Her lips were slightly parted and he could feel the pull of her nerves. For a moment she looked like a startled deer, quivering at the approach of man, with no place to run.

Then she recovered.

"Ask Jo," she said, defiantly, and sped from the room.

"Jo didn't tell me how much he had confided in Kurt," she thought. "What a wee world it is! I can't see how, with all the shuffling billions of people, the same two, once parted, should ever meet. I believe I was wrong about Kurt. For a moment I was almost afraid of him."

Kurt gazed into the fire, his gray eyes alert and a soft smile on his lips. He had not been misled. He had clearly read an answer in the young eyes looking into his own.

"She doesn't love Jo," he thought, and the knowledge was quickly darkened by the remembrance of what it would mean to the boy lover.

CHAPTER X.

"JO!" called Pen, running down the road as she spied him driving away in a light-weight mountain wagon.

Quickly he reined in the pair of prancing horses.

"What 'tis, Miss Penny Ante? Isn't it great that I am back to stay?"

"Indeed it is. Where are you going and may I go, too?"

"Over to Westcott's, and I'd love to have you go with me."

"I'll have to get a furlough and a hat. Just wait a moment."

She found Kurt and asked his permission, with all the pretty pleading of a child in her voice. Her face was singularly young; her eyes like a mirror.

"I've never ridden in a wagon," she said breathlessly, seeing that his expression wasn't as forbidding as usual. "And I'll come back. Can't you see I want to come back?"

Something sweet dawned in his eyes.

"Yes," he said, a note of exultation sounding in his voice with the knowledge that his last stand of resistance to long-held theories was giving away before some new force, powerful and overwhelming. "You may go. I wish I were driving instead of Jo, but"——

He stood watching her as she sped back to where Jo was waiting, and his gaze still followed as the horses tore over the road to Westcott's. There was a faraway look in his eye and a faint smile about the curves of his mouth. Subconsciously, as though he were the one beside her, he followed in fancy after the wagon was lost to sight around the hills. He could see the point where the road would disappear into a plain covered with soft grass, over which the sleek horses would bound. He knew Jo's irresistible bubbling gayety, and the sparkle she would add to it. He wondered why he had never thought to take her for a drive. There had been no chance to talk to her in their rides. She always put spurs to her horse when he tried to talk to her.

All sense of time left him. The symphony of the hill winds from the south was in his ears; the beauty

Mrs. Dora Tuttle is on the wrong train and Mr. Meiggs, the conductor, shows no inclination to turn the train around and go back, which is what Mrs. Tuttle feels vaguely to be the least the railroad should do for her.

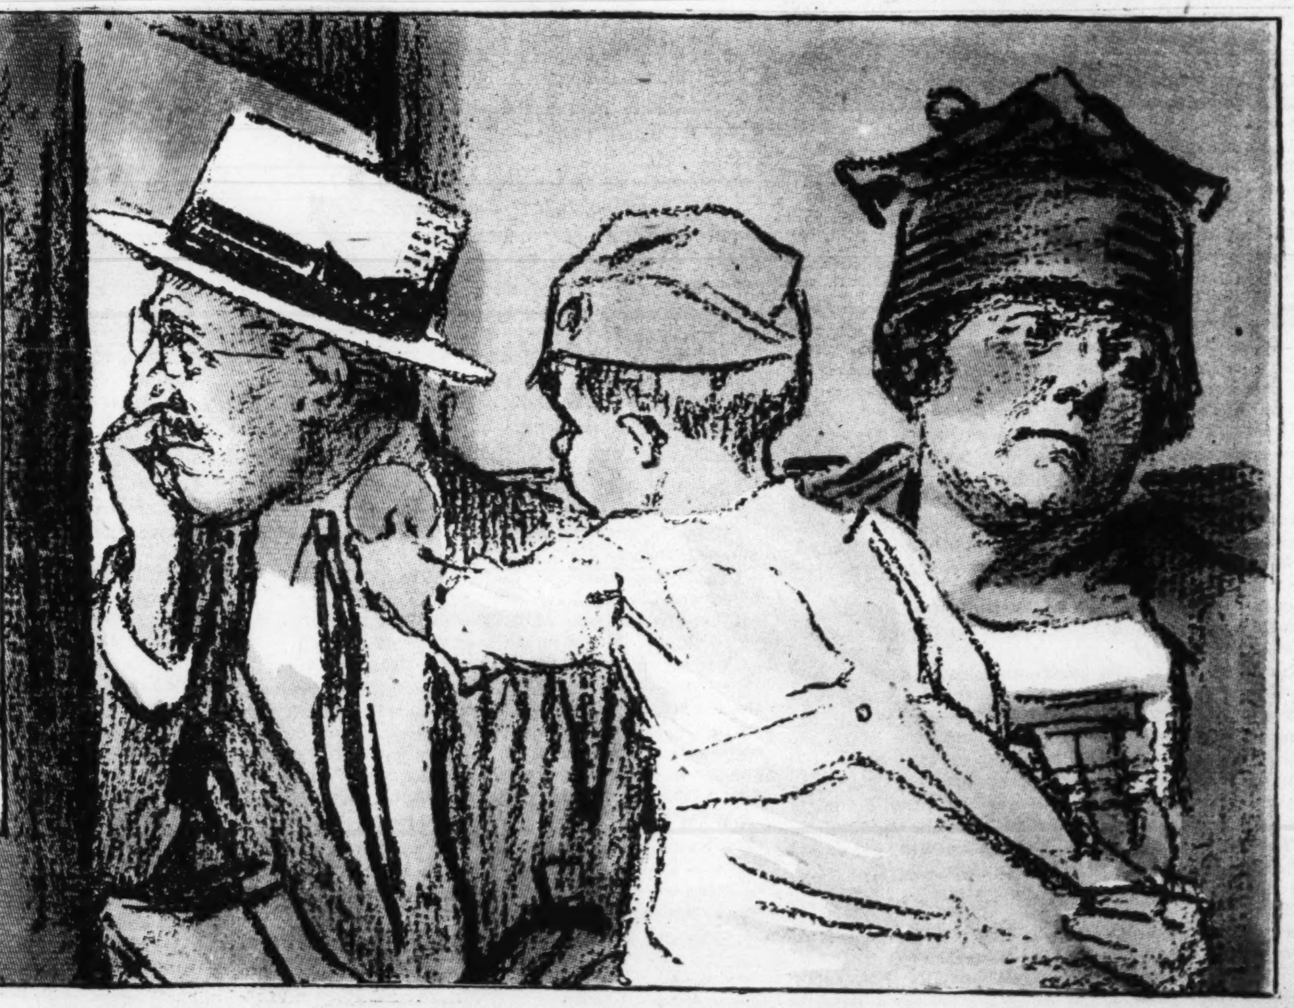
Just what there is in Joe Kenney that should attract a woman and a baby has often puzzled Joe. It may be something lovable and then again it may be just fate that makes a trip in a day coach impossible without having to give up half the seat to a woman and a baby. Joe has piled up his belongings alongside, hoping thus to keep intruders away.



And here we see Joe, as usual, sharing his seat with a woman and a baby, a very friendly baby, who is going to see that Joe takes a bite of the ginger snap or know the reason why.

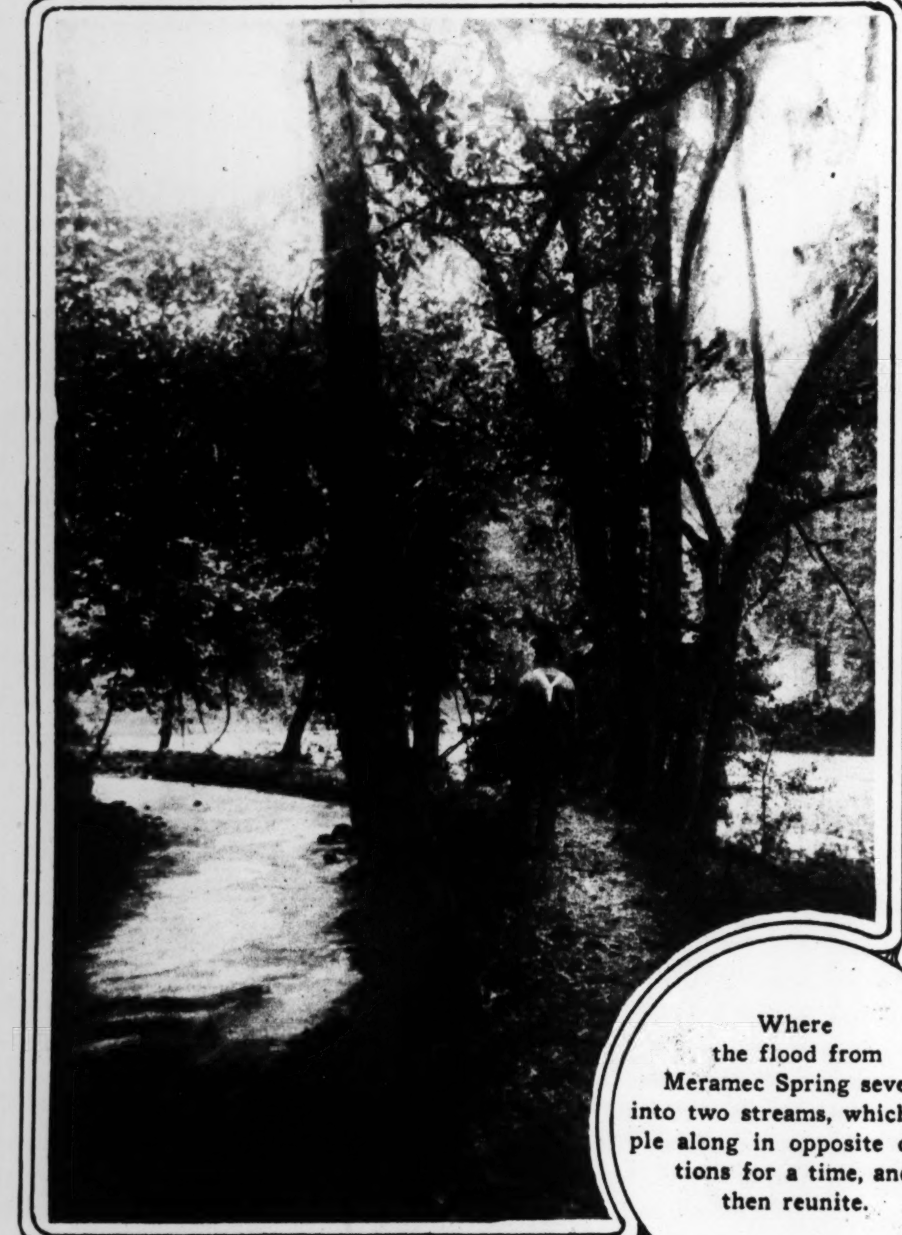
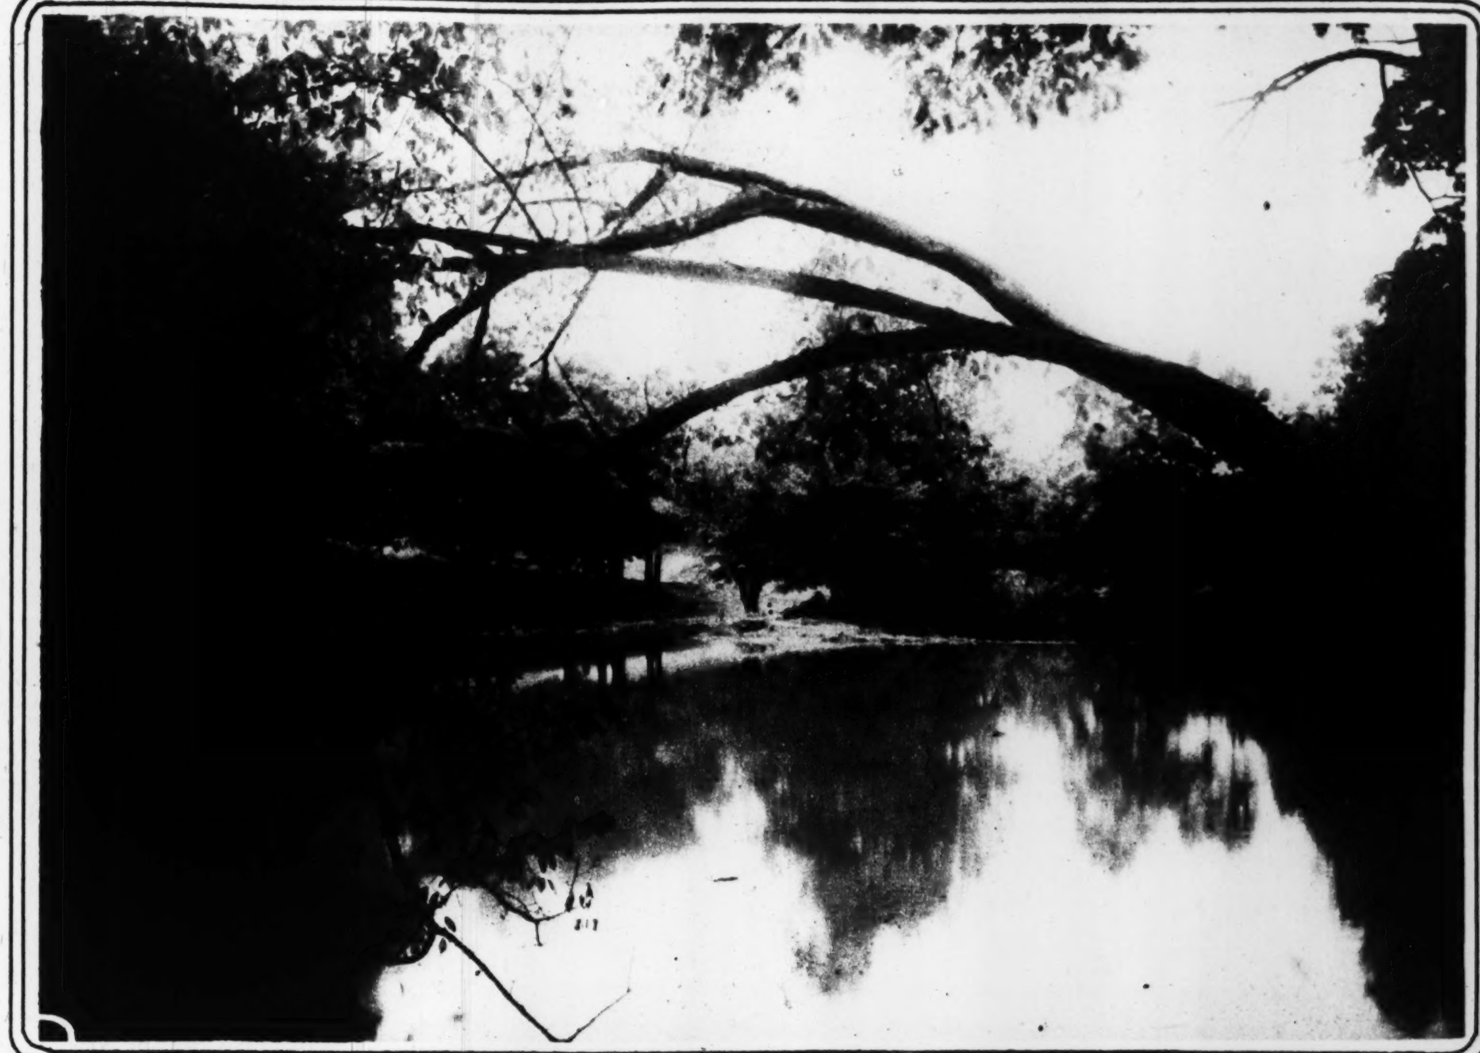
Views in Proposed Missouri State Park

MERAMEC SPRING, a beauty spot in the Ozarks, 105 miles from St. Louis, has been officially recommended as the site of a State Park. It gains its name from a great natural spring, one of the sources of the Meramec River, from which gush 6,250,000 gallons of crystalline water every hour.

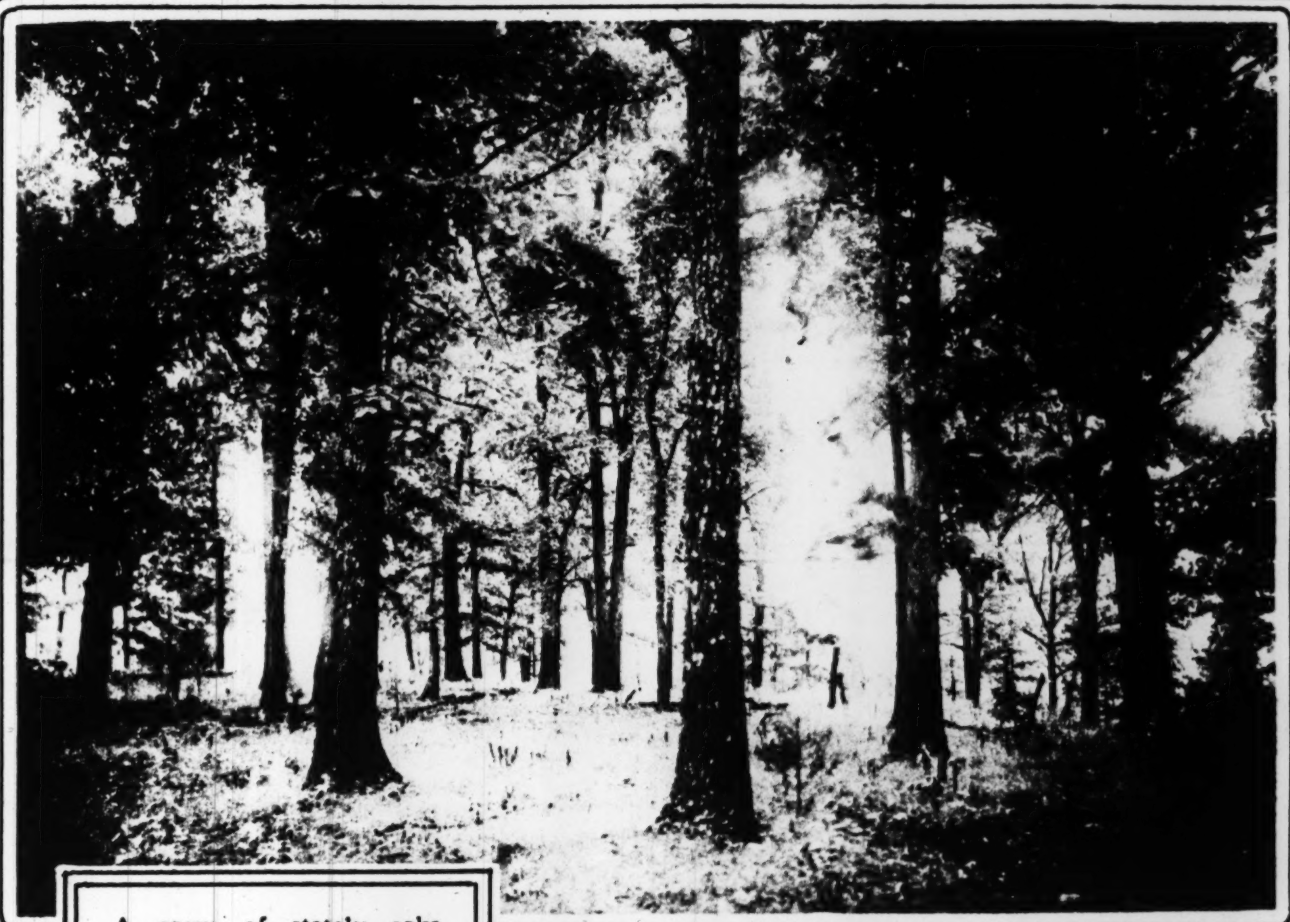
The tract, lying in Crawford and Phelps Counties, is three miles long and two-and-a-half miles wide, covering 3080 acres. The altitude is 1087 feet above sea level. The nearest town, St. James, is five miles distant by wagon road. Much of the area is heavily timbered, abounding in quail, squirrels and wild turkeys. The pool formed by the spring's overflow and the streams emerging from the pool are alive with rainbow trout. The Little Meramec runs through the property for three miles, affording many fine bathing beaches. Canoeists often start in these headwaters to make the float down the Meramec to Valley Park.



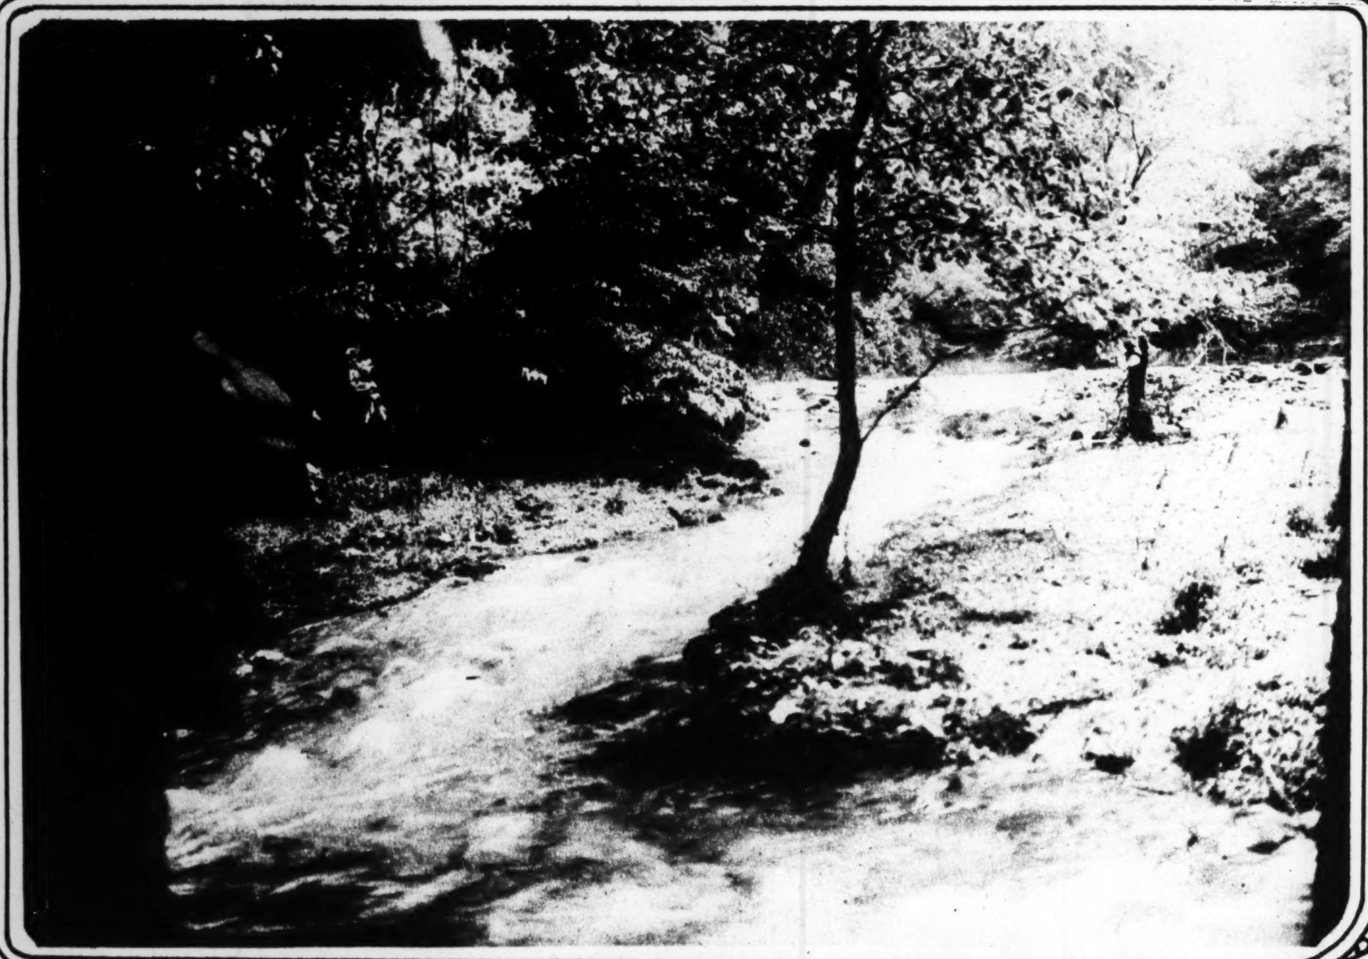
Where the flood from Meramec Spring severs into two streams, which ripple along in opposite directions for a time, and then reunite.



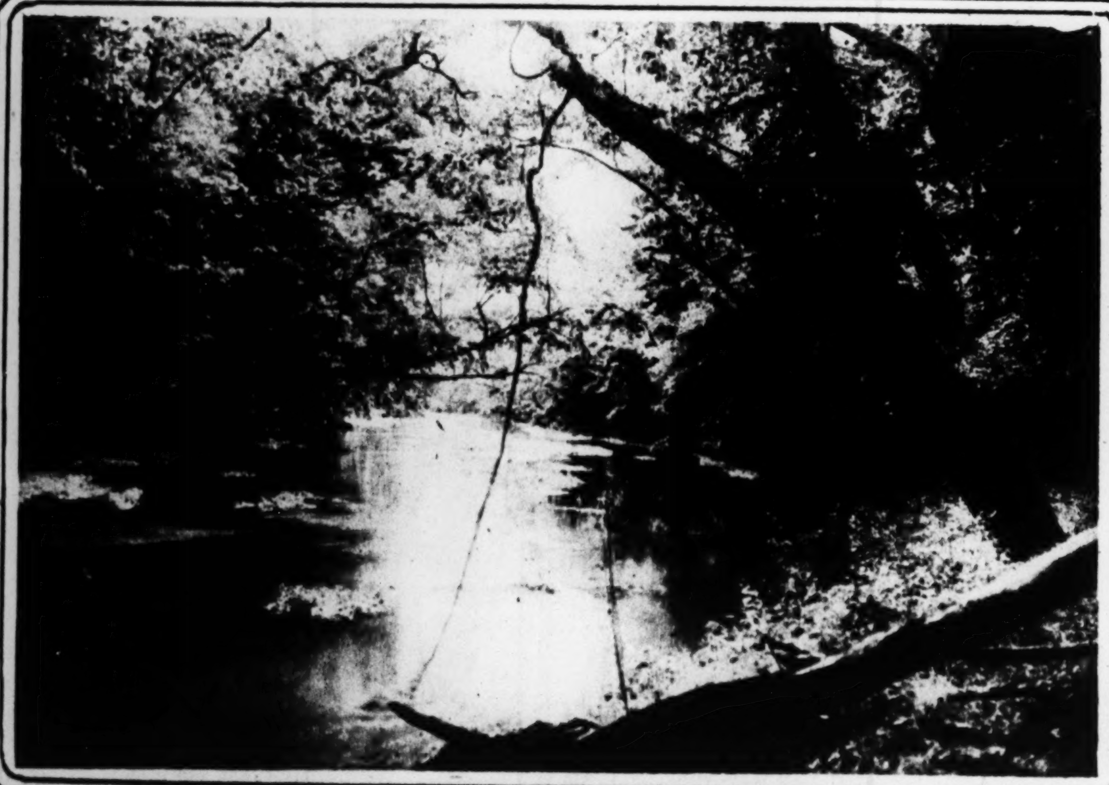
A magic pool of azure, darkened by sylvan shadows. In the cool, translucent depths rainbow trout disport themselves.



A grove of stately oaks crowns the hill overlooking Meramec Spring.



The spring waters, rejoicing in their release, rush into foaming rapids.



Nature herself is the painter of this lovely landscape, where Spring Branch curves to its junction with Wet Fork.

A picturesque human touch is furnished by the decrepit water wheel of an ancient iron foundry that stood on the tract.

Washing after every wearing saves Silk Underthings

IF only your silk undergarments would not go so fast!

It is perspiration that makes your things wear out so, and discolors them so horribly—perspiration that is allowed to dry on the fibre and weaken it.

But dip your garments into delicate Lux suds every time you wear them, and they will keep whole and new through dozens of wearings! For Lux cleanses wonderfully, without rubbing—and it will not injure anything that pure water alone will not injure.

Don't have even one more silk garment ruined by perspiration. Order Lux today from your grocer, druggist or department store.—Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

How to wash silk underthings

Whisk a tablespoonful of Lux into a thick lather in half a bowlful of boiling or very hot water. Add cold water till lukewarm. Dip your things through the foamy lather many times—squeeze the suds through them—do not rub. Rinse in three waters the same temperature as the water in which you washed them. Squeeze the water out—do not wring. Roll in a towel. When nearly dry, press with a warm iron—never a hot one. Glove silk should be gently shaped as you iron.

THERE IS NOTHING LIKE LUX FOR DELICATE FABRICS!

Wish Every Boy Had One

Received the Moving Picture Machine. I wouldn't sell it for $10.00. I wish every boy in the country had one. The first night I had it I entertained my family highly by it. When I showed it to my friends they would say, "Oh! what a beauty." I am going to have a show soon. I showed the picture so plainly that my little sister cried out: "Oh! see the man diving," and when I wanted to put it away she cried and said, "I want to see more pictures," and I had it going for an hour. (Signed) Ernest Banks, 337 Main St., Medford, Mass.

Would Not Take $25.00 For It

I guess you think I was slow in writing but I have just returned from the West. To my great delight I found my machine awaiting me as soon as I returned. I found your machine to be what it is recommended. How delightful it is to own your own machine. We have had barrels of fun with it and it shows large, clear pictures. I wish every boy had one. I would not take $25.00 for it. I thank you a thousand times for it. (Signed) Benjamin Dozier, 2491 East Thirty-seventh street, Cleveland, Ohio.

Pleased with Machine

I received the Moving Picture Machine yesterday and it is the same as you said it would be. As soon as I received the machine I showed the films and found that the machine was in good order and O. K. I am well pleased with the machine and wish that more boys would send off for your offer. I thank you for quick work. I am, (Signed) Richard Geiser, 22 Gable street, Mt. Oliver Station, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Had $25.00 Worth of Fun

I have one of your wonderful Moving Picture Machines and it is certainly a dandy. It is all you recommended it to be and more.
